This is the third conflict between the British and Ashantis in which Kumasi has been captured or relieved. On February 4, 1874, it was captured by the British under General Sir Garnet Wolsely, and on the morning of the 6th the town was destroyed by fire, and the place blown up, but it was soon reoccupied by the natives, who immediately began to rebuild. Before its destruction it had a population of 15,000. Within the town and extending nearly into its centre, was the grove into which were thrown the bodies of the victims of the annual sacrifices, numbering frequently hundreds at a time.

Only five years ago the British again had to fight the Ashantis and stop the awful massacres which were being committed. Once more the capital was captured, and the king, Perempeh, was dethroned.

CHINA AND THE WORLD.

It may be concluded from the appointment of a new German Minister to China to succeed the murdered Barron Von Ketteler that the Kaiser's battle-cry speeches to the German marines and naval forces on their departure for the Far East did not represent the policy of the German Empire. While the Kaiser vowed vengeance and spoke of planting his standard on the battlements of Pekin, the purpose of the Foreign Office was (and apparently still is) to maintain peace between Germany and China; for nations do not send envoys to other nations with which they are or momentarily expect to be at war. The manifesto of June 29 from the Grand Council of China to the world shows that the Pekin Government also deems its amicable relations with the Powers to remain unbroken, inasmuch as the Chinese Ministers abroad were advised to remain at their posts. In view of the happenings at Pekin and Tienstin the theory that China is at peace with the world could not be exceeded in topsyturviness by the confused thoughts of a congress of Bedlamites.

JOINT BUNGLING.

European jealousies are responsible for the slaughter of foreigners at Pekin. The danger was apparent weeks ago. It was to be met either by peaceful persuasion or overwhelming force. Neither was employed.

Japan could have sent an army adequate to deal with the situation, but she could not be allowed to do so for fear of offending Russia. Russia had large forces at hand, but she could not have consent to send them for fear she would keep them there. As no power must land more troops than any other, only the minimum force was employed, a mere handful that was enough to stir all China to resistance, but incapable of even protecting itself.

This worse than futile experiment has now endured for several weeks. Matters have gone from bad to worse, and not one effective thing has been done by anybody. It is a question now whether it is worth while to attempt anything more till an international army can be assembled large enough to overawe the millions upon millions of angry Chinese.

In all the long history of international bungling, in Asia, Africa and Southern Europe, there never has been anything worse than this. From first to last the "joint action of the powers" has been stupid and ineffectual, and it is humiliating that Great Britain has allowed itself to become involved in it. For the way out is harder than the way in.

LING CHEE.

Executing is a favorite amusement in China, and the ceremony of Ling is the height of the executioner's art. First, the criminal is bound to a cross and, as the wretch with bulging eyeballs looks upon the scene in horor the gentleman upon whom devolves the principal work advances with drawn sword. Possibly the offence was a light one, or it may be that the wretch has obtained partial remission, in which case he will have the felicity of being killed in eight strokes instead of 24—or possibly 72. At the first stroke the executioner nimbly whisks off one of the eyebrows—so neatly as scarcely to draw blood. Hey Presto! off comes the other. With a light horizontal sweep he slashes a shoulder clean from the body, performing a like operation on the other side a moment later. Then the breasts are similarly treated, and with a lunge forward quick as lubricated lightning the executioner plunges his weapon into the victim's heart. After that all remains is to decapitate the lifeless and maybe still quivering body, and the execution is complete.

This is the lightest form of Ling Chee. When, however, full Ling Chee is performed it is a lengthened business, and the various operations of the executioner are watched as keenly by the onlookers as is a great actor in a new part on a first night. He rises to the occasion feeling that much is required of him. When he was removed the breasts as in the first method has still a long and expert carving operation befor him till the moment when he shall dispatch the wretch; each forearm, then each upper arm, then a slash from each thigh, followed by dexterous slashes at each calf, and finally after the heart has been pierced, the hands, feet and other parts all comes under distinct operations.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Any joint management of China by the powers is displeasing to that country. They have their own views on joint affairs.

Kruger with his capital in a traveling car is not so much. American patriots at times have carried theirs in a carpet-bag.

Considering that it has got various folks into that Chinese open door has some of the qualities of a trap-door.

When it comes to walking the streets these days, the man who is bold enough to carry a sun umbrella has a shade the best of it.

And now the yellow man has been added to the red man, the black man and the brown man to make the "white man's burden" heavier.

The Health Problem

is much simpler than is sometimes supposed. Health depends chiefly upon perfect digestion and pure blood, and the problem is solved very readily by Hood's Sarsaparilla. You may keep well by taking it promptly for any stomach or blood disorder. It cures scrofula, salt rheum, catarrh, dyspepsia, rheumatism and other diseases are numbered by the thousands.

The favorite family cathartic is Hood's Pills.

TAKING THE REINS.

During the past winter 19 horses without records have sold for $42,375, or an average of $2,232 each.

Peter Truax, Major Douglas and Frank Blaisdell are going to equip a racing plant on Half Moon island, Eau Claire, Wis.

Mr. William C. Whitney's unnamed 2,000 guinea colt, by Miguel-Aurora, has been entered for the West Derby stakes (England) as a 2-year-old.

At the late Bonner sale five of the get of Ansel, 2:20, none of which had a record, sold for an average of $738, while the sire brought only $150.

The Morristown (N. J.) track, which Barney Demarest has leased, is the track where Ethan Allen and running mate defeated Dexter more than 30 years ago.

Horses at matinee races are not handicapped according to their records, and this season the club handicappers will take into consideration the weight of their owners.

Genius receives tribute in divers ways. Recently Mme. Rejane, the famous French actress, was presented with a handsome pair of driving mules by the King of Portugal.

There is a Baron Wilkes mare in "Doug" Thomas' stable that has been priced at $5,500. On a three-quarter mile track she stepped a half in 1:04 and a quarter in 31 seconds.

Farmers and Furrows

A farmer is known by his furrow as "the carpenter is known by his chips." It takes a firm hand and a true eye to turn a straight furrow. No wonder the farmer wears out, spite of exercise and fresh air. One day's work on the farm would tire many a trained athlete. And the farmer works hardest of all. The first up and the last to bed, feeding his team before he feeds himself, his work is practically never done. Why does not the farmer treat his own body as he treats the land he cultivates? He puts back in phosphate what he takes out in crops, or the land would grow poor. The farmer should put back into his body the vital elements exhausted by labor. If he does not, he will soon complain of "poor health." The great value of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is in its vitalizing power. It gives strength to the stomach, life to the lungs, purity to the blood. It supplies Nature with the substances by which she builds up the body, just as the farmer supplies Nature with the substances that build up the crops.

"I write to tell you of the great benefit I received from the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mr. G. B. Bird, of Byrnside, Putnam Co., W. Va. "It cured me of a very bad case of indigestion associated with torpid liver. Before I began the use of 'Golden Medical Discovery' I had no appetite; could not sleep nor work but very little. The little that I ate did not agree with me, bowels constipated, and life was a misery to me. I wrote to Dr. Pierce giving the symptoms, and asked for advice. He advised me to try the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' so I began the use of it and after taking four bottles I felt so well that I went to work but soon got worse, so I again began the use of it and used it about eight weeks longer, when I was permanently cured."

Short Story of the Day

Fate and the Lady.

It was a cold, raw day. Everything outside was wet and melancholy, a fact which only served to heighten the comfort of the little sitting room, done in rose and ivory, where the bride and her friend were sitting.

"Never stand up when you can sit down. Never sit down when you can lie down," chatted her friend, stacking up a pile of gorgeous pillows behind her dusky head and stretching herself at full length upon the room divan. "That's the secret of keeping one's beauty, Elinor. It's the Oriental version of 'Let Jones do the walking', and by following it I expect to preserve my beauty intact until the prince arrives. Heaven speed him," she added, under her breath.

For a few moments both girls were silent, each staring dreamily into the fire and thinking her own thoughts. Then a light sigh escaped from the occupant of the divan.

"Doll stuffed with sawdust?" queried the young wife, teasingly.

"Sh-s-sh!" protested the other, with a smile in her eyes. "She may be, but I don't believe it yet. Life is queer, though," she went on, with a touch of earnestness. "I was just thinking that some people seem to have a pull with Fate, they have 'infloonce' with her apparently, and things fall into shape for them, all through life. For instance, you met The Man and The Man fell in love with you. You are one of the lucky ones and when you're born lucky life's as easy as loafing. Now, with me— Do you know what would happen if the prince should come wandering through West Thirty—— street, knowing that in one of those inscrutable looking brown stones the princess awaited him? Well, I'll tell you. While he was gazing in a puzzled way from No. 1 to No. 3, trying to decide at which of the two doors he ought to present himself, the girl in No. 3—the one with the sunny brown hair and the ultra-marine blue eyes — would happen by a mere chance to appear at the window. He would see her, and in a moment the dark-eyes princess—c'est a dire, moi—would be forgotten."

"Oh, you goose!" she said at last. "Luck! Why, luck is nothing on earth but just making up your mind what you want and then—getting it. 'Everything comes to him who waits' is a saying which ought to be tabooed. If you just sit down, and fold those nice, slender hands of yours and wait for that mink turban to come to you, it may do so—only by the time it arrives, you'll probably be more in need of a bathing suit."

"A very Daniel," mocked Christine.

"What you call luck," pursued the little woman, calmly ignoring the jeer and speaking with the authority of two months of matrimony, "I call reaching out. 'Heaven helps him who helps himself' is my motto."

"Who'd ever have thought, to look at her infantile profile with its cunning dab of a nose and babyish curves for lips, that she could evolve these great, big, massive thinks!" came in a wondering voice from the divan. "She should have had an iron jaw and a long upper lip, just to give the public a tip. 'Tisn't fair."

Elinor smiled demurely.

"Christine, I'm going to tell you something. It's rather dreadful and I can't tell Fred and this is my penance," she said, looking flushed and conscious. "You must promise never to tell—not anyone—not even your husband, or"——

"Cross my heart," said Christine, tersely, "the Prince shall never know."

After a pause Elinor began hesitatingly—"You've seen children who would absolutely refuse to play with anything you could give them except the toy some other child was using, haven't you? Well, some men are that way. Very nice men, too," she explained carefully.

"They aren't sure of their own taste, but want to know that some other man is backing them up by admiring the same thing. I sometimes think," she continued, musingly, "that this partly accounts for the popularity of widows. The 'Mrs.' is like the blue ribbon at the Horse Show. It's worn by the prize-takers, and the timid men, who never dare to pick a winner on their own judgement, gladly follow the leader," she ended, laughingly.

"You know how I met Fred. I'd come up to New York with my head chock full of dreams of being a great prime donna, and the 'fourth-floor-half-back' and the rest of it were just the necessary steps leading up to my brilliant future. My 'early privations' were a standing joke to me. I was Cinderella, with the difference that my fairy godmother was fully and anxiously expected. I never questioned my ability to bring the world to my feet until one day, when I happened to hear Lucile O'Hara taking her lesson. She had the voice of an archangel, and I came away with a lump in my throat and a black doubt in my heart. I tried to practice, but—well, I made up my mind to become a singer of ballads and give up dazzling the world. I felt exactly like one of those poor little red balloons that the children blow up and which grow quite surprisingly big—and then suddenly collapse into small wrinkled wads of rubber. I noticed two new facts that night—that here was a good looking young man at the next table, and that the meat was uncommonly toug. Fred had been staying at the house for several days, but we did not meet until later, when a friend wrote me that a college chum of her brother's was living at the same place.

"After that we saw a good deal of each other, walking, talking and reading together and having nice chummy times generally. Then, all at once, and without any earthly reason that I could discern, his manner changed. He was friendly and kind, but not eager. He didn't spend whole evenings with me now. At first I was surprised, then angry and then unhappy. You would have called this bad luck; but I did some hard thinking, and after a while I began to get a little light upon the perversity of man. Fred liked me—that he still showed—but I was too 'dead easy,' (Mummy's hair would stand on end if she could hear that slang!) He could talk and walk with me at any time, and you know how it is yourself with anything that you can always have when you want it. He was pleasant and patronizing and bored. Some way my taste for a career had vanished, and when I thought of Mummy, living in that dull little country town and pinching and saving that I might study music, I tell you, Chrisabel, I felt mean. I was hurt in my feelings and in my pride, too, and I felt pretty miserable. Then I had an inspiration."

"You see," she went on shyly, "I had grown so—so used to Fred and I knew that he liked me, but he needed — what do they call it in business?—competition! He must know that some other boy wanted the toy before he would value it properly.

"I was awfully hard up, but I didn't stop to think about that. I just sailed in. If I hadn't, you and I wouldn't be sitting here and Fred and I wouldn't be the hap——"

"Never mind the raptures; proceed!" advised her listener.

"While I was at dinner that night the bell rang and the servant brought in a note for me and a large box from a well-known florist. The box, of course, I directed to be sent to my room, but Fred had seen it—and the note I read at once. I blushed, but not for the reason that he supposed. It was stage fright. Once or twice during dinner I caught his eyes fixed upon me interrogatively, and, being new to my role, I became so embarrassed that I left the table before dessert. I was not, however, too confused to see that Fred was taking notice in a most gratifying manner. He'd been present at a first night, but he didn't know it!

"From that time violets came for me regularly, and my place was often vacant at dinner. I contracted a happy little habit of humming as I passed through the halls. The moral effect upon Fred was excellent, when I happened to come upon unexpectedly, to say nothing of its effect upon me. I became so used to playing at being happy and having a million-dollar admirer in the background that I half believed it myself, and grew quite agitated when my flowers came."

But Elinor was not to be interrupted. "Within 10 days Fred was trying to drop back into the old habit of lingering for a chat after dinner; he even timidly suggested that we hadn't read anything together for ages. I was sweet and pleasant, but I had a covert there-are-others sort of an air, though all the time I felt like a perfect villain.

"Things reached a climax when I failed to appear at dinner three successive nights. I was eating Neufchatel cheese and rolls in my room, but Fred thought I was mingling with the happy and the gay. The next morning he asked in a determined way whether I had an engagement for that evening. I replied, politely suppressing a yawn, that I must go to bed early that night, but would go for a walk in the park next day. We were standing at the foot of the stairs, and just then the bell rang and a boy from the florist handed in my usual box of violets. Fred looked savage, and I turned a furious red, for by this time I was awfully ashamed of myself.

"Well, we went for the walk next day. Upon my return I telephoned to the florist to countermand my standing order for violets."

A moment later a young woman with a very red face dropped down beside the divan, putting the face quite out of sight.

"It was horrid of me, Chris, wasn't it?" she said appealingly. Christabel looked somewhat bewildered.

"You certainly did 'reach out,'" she admitted slowly, her eyes filled with wonder. "But how did the flowers happen to arrive at the right time of day?" she continued in a puzzled tone.

"I attended to that," answered a meek voice. Then, looking out from between her fingers at her friend, she added tentatively—"Flowers are awfully expensive." No answer.

Then, remorsefully—"Sometimes I think I'll have to tell Fred."

"Don't!" ejaculated Chrisable, energetically.—Frances Harris Wilson, in New York Commercial Advertiser.

INVESTIGATION SHOWS WISDOM

I make the absolute claim that Rob Roy Mining Shares are one of the least risky things you can invest in!

Strong language, as mining is usually classed as a speculation, and rightly so—if a lot of good common isn't used!

Still I fearlessly say that these shares are safer than nine tenths of the monetary risks you daily run—in horses or cattle, for instance!

I have seen the properties, know the men at the head of affairs (well known London men they are too!), have my own money up, and am prepared to give you the benefit of my experience if you want it!

You have $100, say, that you want to invest if you can find a safe and profitable place for it. Well there's nothing going that I know of better than Rob Roy stock at .15 per share!

If this interests you and you mean business, drop me a line, and I'll gladly tell you what I know.

In any event you don't HAVE to buy.

Altogether likely these shares will be taken off the market inside of a few weeks.

The Times met with a serious mishap during the electric storm last Wednesday evening, in having the motor destroyed by lightening. It was so badly burned, that we were forced to send for a new armature, which has not yet reached us. In the meantime through the kindness of Mr. H. P. Kennedy, who loaned us a small motor, we are enabled to get out the paper. We hope to be in running shape again to-day. Our friends will we know, overlook the paper being late under the circumstances.

News in "Ads."

To attain public prominence is not the only purpose of the intelligent advertiser. All large establishments aim to save themselves and the people time and trouble by making their newspaper announcements specific. From the news advertisements learn that it is difficult to find just in crowded salesrooms. "Ads" should contain news. Everybody reads the Times.

An Unpleasant Experience.

Read here the frightful experience of three boys, who on Monday, after dinner went aswimming in the river near Inverlea in a nude condition. They were having a delightful time, when they saw what looked like the Chief of Police approaching, and they hid in a pier in the centre of the river. The policeman, or whoever he was, approached the edge of the water, looked around in a calm sort of way, packed up their clothes, shouldered the pack and strolled off. The modest boys disliked the thought of going home nude, so they decided to stay in the water until some kind help arrived. They stayed there till dark, but no help came. In the darkness they worked their way down the river, swimming sometimes, again scurrying modestly over the open, like Billy Bunton running to catch a train. At Dalhousie street, below the Bridge Works, they caught the eye of some of their friends, and clothing was brought to them. The friends had to dress them, for they were so weak from their stay in the water and hunger, as to be quite helpless. When the boys reached their respective homes, their hides, red and blistered from the sun, were tenderly anointed by their several mothers, while a dose of forget-me-not was administered lower down on their bodies.

Belleville Sun.—"The sad news was received to-day of the death in Denver, Colorado, of Mrs. Mary Dixton, wife of Mr. Wm. C. Dixon, and daughter of Mr. J. T. Burns, instructor of printing at the Deaf and Dumb Institution. The deceased was well known here and was married last year and removed with her husband to live in Colorado. She was a most amiable young woman who had many friends. In church circles she was active and she was very prominent in Epworth League work in connection with Bridge-st church. Her husband and a three weeks' old daughter survive her. Mr. Burns and his family and the bereaved husband have the heartfelt sympathy of all their affliction." Mrs. Dixon formerly lived in Peterborough.

Duster Found.

While out wheeling on Saturday evening, in Smith, a linen buggy duster was found. Owner can have same by applying at Times Bookstore and paying for this notice.

CAN SLEEP NOW

Since Leaving off Coffee.

"Up to five years ago, I had used coffee all my life, but was finally forced to give it up on account of the way it acted on me. Right after drinking it, I would be taken with a dizzy headache and sour stomach and have to make a cup of strong tea before I could go about my work.

Two years ago, I started on Postum Food Coffee and since finding how to make it properly, I would not change it for the best coffee I ever saw. My old troubles have disappeared entirely. I have gained considerable flesh and what is still better, sleep perfectly at night, which was not the case while using coffee.

When I first used Postum, my husband complained of it's being tasteless so I tried to use more of it but as that did not help matters, I tried more boiling, which proved to be the right thing and now it is delicious." Mrs. W. A. Eckels, Sigma, Calif.

Altered the Keys.

What is considered an excellent joke was played in a lawyer's office on a young clerk, who was learning to manipulate a typewriter. The keys of this machine can be unscrewed, and the joke lies in sneaking into the young man's room when he is out and transposing seven or eight letters slightly. He is not familiar enough with the typewriter to notice anything wrong if a letter here and there is moved one place to the right or left on the keyboard, and the jokers find it very amusing to muster in when he sits down and starts to rattle off a brief on the doctored machine. He pegs away for half a page or so and then lifts the carriage to read what he has done. The dreadful nonsense that meets his eye—the confusion of capitals, stars, interrogation points and numbers—enrages and mystifies him. He takes the typewriter apart and swears and rages at a great rate. It is very interesting to watch him, the jokers think.

Sir,—Would you please tell me, through the Times what church Lord Roberts belongs?

Ans—Julian Ralph is the authority for the statement that he is a Baptist.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Why, O why, dear Editor, is it that the council built an entirely new band stand on Central Park, when five dollars would have moved the larger one of the two, standing in Victoria Park and which would be quite as good as the new one? It appears to me that the council are not trying to do the the urgent thing this year for the people.

DISGUSTED RATEPAYERS

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Is it due that the outfall sewer is altogether too small to do its work? I was creditably informed that this is so overloaded when a rainstorm takes place that the water cannot get though and it backs up and floods the closets of the Stanley Piano Works and other down town connections. If this is true it is a very serious matter and will more than ever demonstrate the necessity that exists for a better council.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, I remain

SPORTS AND PASTIMES.

Golf.

Mr. R. C. McHarrie the general manager, of the Bank of Commerce, last a peculiar wager the other day. He wagered a chair for the Golf Club that Mr. Napier could win with Mr. G. W. Garvin for an opponent, and it apbet. The way Mr Garvin scored the territory as he counted hole after hole, made Mr. Napiner an easy mark for him Mr Mc Harrie will therefore have the honor of presenting the chair.

Baseball.

Lindsay Post;—Peterboro sports are going to bring some coin to burn during the baseball match Thursday. It won't take the Lindsay enthusiasts very long to put out the fire, they will make, as Peterboro has a lot of second-handed sports who howl and blow hard when at home, but when they reach the fighting grounds they soon dry up But if their intentions are good to burn up their coin they will find a number here to supply the lucifers. Lindsay will put a cracker jack nine in the field, and will make the Otonabee nine think they are up against the real thing Thursday next.

Fountain Pens.

We have received an importation of fountain pens, direct from the makers in England. They are the largest and best assortment of fountain pens ever shown in Peterborough. Will be sold at greatly reduced prices. Times Bookstore.

HAVE DECLARED WAR AGAINST RUSSIA

EIGHT RUSSIANS COMPELLED TO WORK THE CHINESE GUNS

The First Boxer Proclamation has Made Its Appearance at Shanghai

TUAN HAS NEARLY A MILLION MEN UNDER HIM

Leader of the Boxers is Directing and Organizing a Great Anti-Foreign Rising—Pekin Massacre Story Were Gossip—Shanghai Threatened

St. Petersburg, July 18.

Reports have been received by the Russian general staff from the Amur district showing that the Chinese have made serious preparations there and are now concentrated on the railway line from Soghaljen. They are well supplied with artillery and have large quantities ofmunition. Russian troops are being hurried to the district.

London, July 19.

While evidence accumulates daily that China has long been preparing a formidable military organization in anticipation of the present conflict and that the area of rebellion is continually extending harmony among the allies which is necessary to meet such a grave situation is still deplorably looking. The Russians have refused Admiral Seymours request to hand over the restored taken Tien Tsin railway to the English company, and it is rumored the Germans purpose taking a serious independent step, nkely to patrol the Yang-Tse Kiang with German men of war. Such a step would be greatly resented by England. Still more alarming news has been conveyed to the Daily Express from Tokio to the effect that the apparent reluctance of Germany and Russia to consent to a Japanese commander for the army corps has led the Japanese government to delay the forwarding of the division.

A special despatch from Tien Tsin distributes the number of those killed at the capture of the native City as follows,—Russians 100, Japanese 57, British 40, and Americains 27. With reference to the rumours that Europeans were seen working the Chinese guns at TienTsin the standard learns that eight Russian military instructors forceibly detained by the Chinese were compelled to work the guns, one escaped and reached the Russian lines with his hands bound. The first Boxer proclomation has made its appearance in Shanghai it declares that Kwan the war god desires the blood of foreigners. The Governors of the provinces of human, Pupi and Honan have now openly joined Princ Tuan and are marching overland with their armies to Pekin. A genral relief column sent into the Interior of the province of standing to endeavor to rescue a party of 30 missioners, German, American and English has returned without having obtained anytidings of their whereabouts, and it is feared that all have been slain.

LEGATIONS YET SAFE

No Substantial Evidence of the Reported Massacre at Pekin.

London, July 18.—Though sensational news agencies are still endeavoring to emphasize the death of the ambassadors and missionaries in Pekin, there is yet no substantial evidence upon which to base the statements of the past few days. The evidence tending to prove the safety of the legations is quite as strong as that in the opposite direction, and it will be well for people to suspend judgment until the actual state of affairs is known, which, judging from the slowness of the allied operations around Tien Tsin, will be a long time. Discussing is going on as to the details of the great war which the powers have now on, their hands. Rumors says that Japan and Russia will each furnish 100,000 men, and that England, France and Germany will send 20,000 apiece, the minor powers acting in proportion to their strength. It is doubtful, however, whether Russia has the power to send the number of men referred to for some months to come. For the crisis appears to have arrived at a moment when the Russian Bear was not prepared for it. Upon the Chinese borders the Czar has about 90,000 men but a greater part of this army will be needed to defend the posts among which it is scattered, especially considering the fact that the Boxers are making a move toward those posts. It is scarcely likely that Russia can place more that 50,000 men in the field within the next two months. Japan, however, can certainly land 100-000 men in short order, and these joined to the contingents of other powers should make, a body of over 200,000 quite capable of marching to Pekin, if not able to conquer and partition China. Two weeks must pass, however, before any forward movement is likely to be made.

AN ARMY OF 950,000 MEN

Prince Tuan Said to be Conducting Operations on a Large Scale.

St. Petersburg, July 18.—A despatch from Che Foo says;

"Prince Taun has mobilized 950,0000 men and divided them into differnet corps. The northern corps as been ordreed to expel foreigners from Arthur.

The Pekin army is divided into four corps, the first to operate against Mukden and occupy the roads between Pekin and Shan Hai Kuan; the second to concentrate at Tien Tsin, and the third at Pekin, from whence a column numbering 40,000 will be sent to Wei Hai Wei and Tien Tsin while the fourth corps will concentrate at Nankin.

There are now 23,000 Japanese troops in China.

The Chinese fleet is concentrating in China sea, and hostilities are expected.

SKIRMISH ON JULY 14

Russian Troops Come in Contact With the Chinese on the Pei-Ho River.

London, July 18.—Admiral Alexieff reports a skirmish July 14 on the PeiHo River 25 versts from Taku between a reconnoitring body of Russians and Chinese, in which several uRssians were killed.

A despatch from Shanghai received here to-day reports that cruisers of the allied fleet reconnoitred at Shan Ha Kaun July 17, and found the harbor lights and forts intact and but few Chinese visible. The despatch adds that it was intended to bombard the forts, but that the fleet refrained and stood by ready for action in case the forts showed signs of acitivity.

The same despatch adds that eight warships arel ying off the native city of Shanghai, and that nine others are between Shanghai and Woo Sung.

LI HUNG STARTS OUT

Grand Old Humbug Leaves Canton for the Chinese Capital.

Hong Kong, July 17. (Tuesday.—Li Hung Chang, disregarding all attempts of Europeans and Chinese to persuade him to remain, left Canton this morning for Pekin. Prior to his departure Chinese merchants and gentry of Canton strongly appealed to the Viceroy not to leave, and presented a petition setting forth that Canton so long the prey to the depredations of robbers and pirates had become peaceful during Li Hung Chang's Viceroyalty; that disturbances had been repressed with a strong hand and the people enabled to live without being panic stricken when dogs barked. The petitioners this morning continued, learned with trembling that their protector was proceeding north and they wept as at the loss of a parent. The absence of rebellion and piracy being solely due to the presence of Li Hung Chang, the merchants were ready to cast themselves before the wheels of his chariot to prevent his departure.

BASED ON WILD GOSSIP

New York, July 18,—Pritchard Morgan, M. P., who yesterday received a despatch saying the Pekin legations were standin July 9, is quoted to-day by the London correspondent of The World;

"My information is absolutely straight but it would be fatal to my getting any further news if I divulged the source of my information. I am convinced the legations were standing on the 9th, despite the circumstantial accounts of the massacre. The whole situation has been grossly exaggerated, and Li Hung Chang's intervention will have a most salutary effect.

"An exhaustive enquiry by my agents in Shanghai has established the fact that all the stories already published have been based on wild gossip and are impossible of enthentication. Everyone anticipated a massavre and seized upon the first rumor that seemed to justify their prescience.

ANOTHER POINT OF DANGER

Reinforcements are Urgently Needed to Defend Shanghai.

London, July 18,—If the news of a Chinese invasion of Siberia prove true it will of course immensely complicate the situation from the international point of view. As stated in the Associated Press. St. Petersburg despatch of July 13, the Chinese had already peremptorily ordered all Russians to quite Manchuria, but no one imagined they would be audacious enough to break out of their own country and attack the Russian territory. Such an attack, if it has been made, of course constitutes in itself a declaration of war rendering formal notification needless.

A separate attack by the Chinese on Russia means giving Russia, according to the views expressed in Europe, additional claim to assert greater influence than the other powers, and obtain greater compensation when the day of settlement arrives. Hence extrme unaisness has been created in th chancellories by this latest development.

The associated press correspondent at Shanghai wires under date of July 16, that there is hardly a doubt that Sheng, the Chines administrator of telegraphs is withholding information in his possession. The despatch adds that there is evidence that the Woo Sung forts at the mouth of the Woo Sung river and ten miles north of Shangai are being strengthened, and supplied with large quantities of ammunition. It is hoped in London that the landing of 22,000 Japanese troops which it is expected will be effected to-day and the arrival of Indian troops will enable the allies to reinforce Shanghai.

WAR DECLARED AGAINST RUSSIA

China Said to Have Invaded the Czar's Territory and Seized a Transport —Startling News From St, Petersburg.

London, July 18.—The most startling news of to-day is unquestionably that which is contained in a despatch from St. Petersburg.

China is represented by the Times and the London Daily Mail correspondents as having actually delared war against Russia. The declaration is stated to have been made at Aigun, the largest Chinese town on the right bank of the Amur. The Chinese troops seized a Russian transport boat, laden with munitions near this point, and then they fired on and killed almost of the entire Russian escort. The next made a sudden attack upon Blagovechensk, the Russian town on the other side of the Amur. The garrison fought bravely, but, according to the London Daily Mail's acrount, The were overwhelmed by numbers and nearly all perished. The town was subsequently occupied by two thousand Chinese with eight guns and has since been attacked by Russians.

The Times telgram, however, states that the Russians are still in possession of the town. In any case, the situation could not well be more serious.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Mr. Matthew Johnston is Instantly Killed

WHILE OUT HUCKLEBERRYING

In Burleigh, a Well Known Resident of North Monaghan is Instantly Killed

Mr. Matthews Johnston a well known resident of North Monaghan was instantly killed by lightning on Wednesday.

It appears that Mr. Johnson, who had gone north to puchase cattle, having finished his business, joined a berrying party and when the storm came on the party took shelter under a large tree. The party was composed of Messrs James Mathews Joseph Mathews and Robert Little. The electric bolt struck about ten feet from the ground and took a strip about three inches wide down the tree. Mr. Jonhston was lying closest to it. The current artuck him on the left side of the head and ran down the left side of the body, killing him instantly. Its course was marked on the body. A small hole was bored by it through a watch Mr. Johnston carried in his pocket.

Mr. Joseph Mathews was also struck and was stunned. For a few minutes he lay unconscious, and then he partially recovered and was assisted by his brother and Little to the shore of Stony lake, about a mile distant, where two men named Hamilton, who were on the lake in a boat, took him to Crowe's store, further down the lake. He was in a dangerous condition when the party come away. The accident happened near Jack's and Eels creek, in Burleigh township about 4 p.m. JamesMathews who is a farmer living in Dummer, after getting his brother to a place of safety, hastened back for the body of Mr. Johnston, and drove it to town, driving all night and reaching town about nine o'clock yesterday morning.

Mathew Johnston the deceased, was one of the oldest and most respected residents of north Monaghan. He took an active interest in township affairs and was for a number of years a member of the Township council and had served as Treasurer of the municipality. A few years ago he opened a butcher shop in the south end of the town, and later had charge of the H. P. Kennedy meat market on George-st. In all his relations with his fellow citizens he was scrupulously honest and straightforward, and was highly respected throughout the district. His sudden death will arouse the deepest regret his many friends and acqutances, and the sincerest sympathy will be extended to his bereaved relatives. He was twice married. His first wife was Miss Mary Cow, of Ashburnham, and his second wife, who with several children survive him, was Miss Sarah Donnelly of North Monaghan. He was a member of Court Peterborough, Canadian Order of Foresters.

The funeral will take place this afternoon at four o'clock from the family residence, lot 10 North Monaghan.

LOST HIS LIFE.

In Hurrying to His Dying Wife he is Killed.

Philadelphia, July 18.—John McMackin, aged 48, of 2066 Stella avenue, had a race with death yesterday morning, and as a result of his effort to outpace his grim opponent feel victim to a shocking mishap that cost him his own life. It was a sad instance of a husband's devotion proving his own undoing.

McMackin, who is employed at the Welbikan Iron Works, on Frankford avenue, below Huntingdon street, went to the mill yesterday morning with a heavy heart and a weary body, having passed the previous night at the sick bed of his invalid wife, who for several weeks had been gradually sinking in spite of his constant and faithful ministrations. Night after night the devoted husband had sat by the bedside where death was hovering striving to ward off the approach of the pale messenger.

The Summons of Death.

He had not been long engaged at his work yesterday morning when a hurry message came telling him to return home at once, as his wife was dying. McMackin started at once on his sad errand, hoping against hope to reach his home before death claimed his loved one, but when he reached the Reading Railroad crossing at Frankford avenue, north of Lehigh, he found his way barred by a long train of loaded coal cars.

Fell Between Cars.

McMackin waited impatiently for a few moments, and then in his anxiety to reach the bedside of the dying woman he started to climb across the obstruction. As he stood poised upon a bumper and prepared cautiously to make his way across the coal car, the train gave a sudden start, jolting McMackin to the track, and in a trice several cars had passed over his legs, frightfully mangling both members and one of his arms.

Died in the Hospital.

The accident was witnessed by Policeman Robert Henry and others, but by the time the train could be stopped and the moment he saw the accident, and before the injured man could be dragged from under the car wheels. It was quickly upon the scene, and McMackin was taken to the Episcopal Hospital, where it was found that beside the loss of his legs and an arm the man had sustained serious internal injuries.

He died about two hours after his admission to the hospital.

THREATENED TO TAKE LIFE FOR LIFE

Li Hunfi Warned of Cost of Injuring or Insulting Ministers—Promised Protection—Boasts of His Power—Says He's the Viceroy of a'l Vi eroys

London, July 18.—A Canton despatch says that in repling to the British, French, American, German and Portuguese consuls, who offically visited him, Li Hung Chang insisted upon his departure north on Tuesday. He has a two-fold object, namely, to save the lives of the ministers in Pekin and to arrange the best terms of peace possible with the powers.

The consuls, while congratulating him for these commendable purposes, reminded him of his pledges to maintain law and safeguard the lives of all foreigners, and to take measures to preserve the peace in Southern and Centeral China.

Li Hung Chang replied that the recently-arrived edict commanded his presence in Pekin, and he must not disobey it. He assured the consuls that he had taken all precautions against any uprising. He added that he had received important cable messages from Lord Salisbury and M. Delcasse which were identical in tone. They demanded full protection for the ministers in Pekin from injury or insult, and threatened to take life for life, the victims to be the high officials responsible, if the ministers were murdered.

Li Hung Chang informed the consuls that he was the only viceroy or dignitary in all China who dared to transmit such a message to the Empress. He had sent them varbatim, and she had received them. He had no doubt whatever that they had exerted as powerful an influence in saving the ministers lives as a dozen Chinese viceroys. He added that he had induced all the viceroys except two to join in a memorail to the throne to secure the safety of all foreigners in Pekin, to suppress the Boxers, to end the present conflect, and to make full and thorough reparation for the damage due and the lives lost.

As an instance of the power he possesses, he said that he was viceroy of alll the viceroys. They must obey him. His power was greater than that of the viceroy of India.

MEMBER OF TRANSVAAL EXECUTIVE IS ARRESTED

Six Thousand Pounds of Gold and a Quantity of Arms Found in His House

THE BOERS HAVE PIERCED THE BRITISH CORDON

The Canadians Fight Gallantly—They Defeated With Heavy Loss a Fierce Boer Attack Which Was Pressed With the Greatest of Vigor—Hamilton's Force Moving

A member of the Transvaal executive council has been arrested at his house within the British lines near Badfterberg. British Gold worth six thousand pounds and a quantity of arms were found concealed in the house.

BOERS ESCAPE NORTHWARD

Fifteen Hundred Men Escape With Cavalry in Hot Pursuit.

London, July 18.—The War Office has received the following despatch from Lord Roberts.

"Pretoria, July 18.— Yesterday the enemy made a determined attack on the left of Pole Carew's position, and along our left flank, commanded by Hutton. The posts held by the Irish Fusiliers and the Canadian Mounted Infantry, ander Lieutenant Colonel Alderson, were most gallantly defended. ThTe enemy made repeated attempts to assault the position coming in close range and calling to the Fusiliers to surrender. The enemy suffered severely. They had fifteen killed and fifty wounded, and four were taken prisoners. The British casualaties were seven killed (including the Canadian Lieutenants Borden and Birch), thirty wounded and twenty one missing.

"Ian Hamilton's column advanced to Waterval yesterday unopposed and to-day proceeded to Haman's Kraal.

"Fifteen hundred Boers with five guns, managed to break through the cordon formed by Hunter's and Rundle's divisions between Bethlehem and Fickburg. They were making towards Lindley, closely followed by Paget's and Bradwoood's brigades."

BOERS BROKE BRITISH LINES

Doubtless Trying to Affect a Junction With General Botha.

London, July 18.—The pursuit of Cronje is being re-enacted on a small scale in the Orange River Colony, and it is to be hoped will end likewise. A large body of the Boers, under De Wet, whom the British have been so carefully surrounded in the neighborhood of Bethlehem, have by a display of skill and mobiltiy broken through the narrowing cordon which surrounded them, and are making their way in the hope doubtless of effecting a junction with Botha north of the Vaal. The fierce attack upon his own force which Lord Roberts reports, and which the Canadian Rifles so gallantly sustained, was undoubtedly an attempt on Botha's part to assist their escape by making a division which might weaken the British line now guarding the Vaal crossings. The result cannot long remain in doubt. De Wet's band, which apparently came from the neighborhood of Fouriesburg, where the Boer guerilla leader was last heard of can scarcely insinuate itself through the many British columns in its path, and must be captured. Two famous cavalry leaders—Paget and Broadwood— are in hot pursuit, and the end of De Wet's famous raid, which has been one of the most salient features of the war, is in sight, and will in all likelihood becharacterized by a minor edition of Paardeburg.

LIEUT. BORDEN KILLED

Only Son of the Minister of Militia Slain in Africa.

Ottawa, July 18,—Lord Minto received the following cablegram to-day.

"Pretoria, July 18.—Regret to report Lieut. Borden killed in action yesterday. (Signed) Roberts."

Lieut. H. L. Borden, only son of the Minister of Militia, was among the first to volunteer for service in the Canadian Mounted Rifles, though at the time taking his third year in medicine at McGill University. All his life fond of the militia, at the early age of 23 he was major commanding the King's Canadian Hussars, Canning, N. S., and went out as second senior lieutenant in the 1st Battalion of Canadian Mounted Rifles, under Col. Lessard, Lieut. Borden had been educated at Mount Allison University, Sackville, stood six feet and three and weighed 108 pounds. In 1897 he was on the staff of the Premier at the diamond jubilee. The news of the death of Lieut. Borden came as a great shock to the House of Commons, and was broken to the Minister of Militia by the Premier. Dr. Borden and his wife wil. leav eto-morrow to join their two daughters at their home in [illegible].

HE TRICKED DE WET

Corporal Who Was Captured Posed as a Doctor.

London. July 18Corporal Action, 54th Company Imperial Yeomary, in a letter to a Newcastle, County Down, resident, says he was twice captured by the Boers and each time managed to escape. The Yeomen, says Corporal Action, were actually enjoying a pipe in Lindley when the shot was raised. "TThe Boers are upon us!" It was nearly sunset when they surrendered. They were hurried away on hearing Methuen's guns five miles off. The Boers stole Acton's boots, but he was allowed to ride on the last Boer transport wagon, and when Lord Chesham's scouts rushed up he rolled off as if wounded, and, waiting till the last Boer had galloped past, took to his heels and ran for the British lines, and warned the scouts that they were in a tight place.

A trooper took him up beside him, but the horse could not carry both, so he hid till morning. Coming upon two of Chesham's scouts severly wounded, he rendered first aid, and was making them some beef-tea from a piece of raw meat the Boers had given him, when he was again collared. He said he was a doctor, and indignantly demanded to see an officer. He was brought before General De Wet, and that officer asked him the meaning of his corporal's stripes and the absence of a Red Cross badge. Action expinined that his medicine chest and instruments had gone astray, and his uniform being in tatters he borrowed a corporal's tunic.

De Wet was not yet satisfied, however, and demanded his papers, Fortunately Action had the card of a medical friend in Bournemouth Hydropathic Establishment, and upon its presentation he was supplied with a bottle of hot tea and three slices of bread, and orderet to make for Lindley and send out the ambulance. When subsequently brought before Lords Methuen and Chesham, the former laughed heartily at the manner in which De Wet had been tricked. Corporal Action is of opinion that the total surrender of the Boers is not far off.

GENERAL ADVANCE IMMINENT

Boers Driven From Pyramid Hill by Hamilton's Column.

Montreal, July 18.—The correspondent of The Montreal Star at Pretoria says that a general movement of the troops is in contemplation.

Thie column under General Hamilton advanced to Donderboom, west of Pretoria, this morning, and drove the Boers from Pyramid Hill. The column bivuacked at Watervaal.

"D" Battery of the second Canadian contingent, is with the force. General French's cavalry advanced from the camp at Derdepoort, north of the town and engaged the Boers, who retired. The enemy had several pieces of artillery.

Gen. Hutton's mounted infantry divison is at Bronchoest Sprnit, some distance to the east of Pretoria.

Ottawa, July 17. — Major Hurdman of "D" Battery writing to Major R. Brown of the Dragoons from De Aar, June 12, reports that Lieut Morrison had been sent to the hospital suffering from a severe attack of dysentry. He adds the following interesting criticism;

CHINA AS A POWER.

Hitherto the nations have not looked upon China as a power—only as a weakness. She will receive her punishment in time, for all the powers are against her now, but her ability to stand off the allied forces, while the massacre and looting are going on, is a surprising revelation of strength. It was supposed that when several thousand well organized troops, provided with modern weapons, confronted what has been called a rabble of Mongolians, the rabble would disperse in flight for the hills, and that the outrages of the Boxers would be ended. To the surprise of many the Chinese likewise are armed with modern weapons; they have an artillery that exceeds in weight and effectiveness that of the allies; they are intelligently officered, which makes it appear that white men who are traitors to their country and civilization are leading them, or else that they have taught the trade of war to yellow people who have a natural aptitude for it; moreover, the people are courageous and hurl themselves against their enemies with a vigor and constancy that will undoubtedly force them back from their present places of vantage and compel a plan of campaign which shall be that of a slowly entering and ever-widening wedge, driven from Taku to Pekin, and a tedious file worming its way through a region of populous and unanimously hostile towns toward a capital that has a guard of half a million men and a battery of rifled canon to train against every gun in possession of the allies.

It is not merely men, but conditions that must be conquered in China. The yellow people thoroughly believe in themselves. They have believed in peace, but in the fear that peace is impossible, now that Europeans are entering their country in such numbers and demanding pieces of it, they have turned with undiscriminating fury on all strangers with white faces and have begun a war of murder. In previous battles they have lacked the appliances they now possess, and even so late as the fighting with Japan they were sadly hampered by obsolete armaments and by ignorance of what steel ships and rifled guns could do, some of the poor creatures going to battle with spears and bows and arrows. Yet even in these wars they evinced a determination hardly to be suspected from so drowsy and tranquil a people. Now that they have hundreds of thousands of rifles, which they are training on the men who sold them, the situation is not reassuring. It may be that, like the Boers, they have been quietly amassing material during a period of peace, and will develop a strength that shall lift China to a place of consideration as a power. The war of subjugation must be cruel, for it will be waged with cruelty by the Chinese; but it must be fought, nevertheless, and the allies will be none the less willing because they confront foemen whose numbers and armament make them, in a military sense, respectable.

IS MARS PEOPLED?

Such a Claim Advanced by a German Scientist.

"Is Mars inhabited?" has been asked very often during recent years and has engaged the serious attention of many astronomers and especially of M. Camille Flammarion, a noted French scientist and author.

Some new light is now thrown on this subject by Professor Ernst Haeckel, an eminent German philosopher, in a book entitled "World Problems. After pointing out that men have been studying the heavens for more than 4,500 years and have only been studying themselves for the last half century he says we may safely assume that the many fixed stars whose light requires thousands of years to reach us are suns and are surrounded by planets and worlds similar to those we know. We may also assume, he holds, that thousands of these planets have arrived at the same stage of development as our world, and it naturally follows that on them the same conditions of life prevail as on this earth, and there is no valid reason why human beings should not live there as they do here.

Professor Haeckel takes care to explain that there are doubtless many planets the temperature of which is such that life, as we understand the term, cannot be sustained on them. He thinks it very probable that there are types of animals and plants on some planets which are not to be found on the earth. According to him it is very likely that the biogenetic process exists on Mars, Venus and possibly some other planets of our system, as well as on planets of other solar systems, but plants on these planets have reached a higher stage of development than has been reached by animals and plants of this earth.

If we assume that Mars is inhabited—and Professor Haeckel seems pretty well satisfied that it is—we must assume, he holds, that the men and women whose home is on the planet are not such as we, but of a far higher type. They may resemble us exteriorly, but they are free from our physical defects and excel us in strength and gracefulness. It is in the intellectual sphere, however, that their superiority is most clearly shown. If there are human beings on these planets, says Prof. Haeckel, it is extremely probable that they far surpass ordinary men and women in intelligence.

Slow Suicide.

A source of great evil among all workers is the widespread habit of eating a hearty meal hurriedly when the body is in a state of exhaustion. Too often, alas, the evil is enhanced by the fact that the food is innutritious, badly cooked and clogging in itself. This is one species of slow suicide, causing a long train of evils which are usually attributed to overwork. Now, it were better to go without food than to take it under these conditions. Your dog knows better than to eat when he is tired, and if you will watch him you will notice that he is always reluctant to be enticed into play after eating. Left to himself he will take a nap, or at least drop care for awhile and rest. Humanity might raise its standard of health by following the example set by the instincts of the brute creatures.—Health Culture.

DON'T FORGET!

Don't forget that over half a million women have been cured of women's ailments by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Don't forget that "Favorite Prescription" cures diseases of women in their advanced and chronic forms; cures often when all else has failed.

Don't forget that you can consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. Tell your story frankly. All correspondence is private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Don't forget to write to Dr. Pierce to-day, if you are sick from diseases which afflict women.

"I wrote for advice February 4, 1896," writes Mrs. Lena Halstead, of Claremore, Cherokee Nat., Ind. Ty. "I was racking with pain from the back of my head down to my heels. Had hemorrhage for weeks at a time, and was unable to sit for ten minutes at a time. You answered my letter, advised me to use your valuable medicines, viz.: Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and 'Pleasant Pellets,' also gave advice about injections, baths and diet. To my surprise, in four months from the time I began your treatment I was a well woman and have not had the backache since, and now I put in sixteen hours a day hard work."

Paper-bound edition of Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of customs and mailing only. Address as above.

SOUTH AMERICAN GIANTS.

They Used to Attain the Height of Seven or Eight Feet.

The Fuegians have been reported from time to time since the country was first sighted and named by Magellan in 1520, but to-day they still remain almost unknown. In connection with the voyage of the Belgica we had unusual opportunities of studying their wild life and their weather-beaten land. They are not, as is generally supposed, one homogeneous but three distinct races, with different languages, different appearances, different habits and homes. . . . The Onas have thus far evaded all efforts at civilization, have refused missionaries and have, to the present time, with good reason, mistrusted white men. They have, in consequence, remained absolutely unknown.

The Onas, as a tribe, have never been united in a common interest, nor have they ever been led by any one great chief. They have always been divided into small clans under a leader with limited powers, and these chiefs have waged constant warfare amongst themselves. To the present day they have had their worst enemies among their own people, but now that sheep-farmers and gold-diggers want their country, they are uniting to fight their common enemy.

Physically the Onas are giants. They are not, however, seven or eight feet in height, as the early explorers reported their neighbors and nearest relatives, the Patagonians, to be. Their average height is close to six feet, a few attain six feet and six inches and a few are under six feet. The women are so tall, but they are more corpulent. There is perhaps no race in the world with a more perfect physical development than the Ona men. This unique development is partly due to the topography of their country and to the distribution of game, which makes long marches constantly necessary. The Ona men are certainly the greatest cross-country runners on the American continent.

The mental equipment of the Ona is by no means equal to his splendid physical development. He understands very well the few arts of the chase which he finds necessary to maintain a food supply. His game in the past have been easily gotten; his needs have been few, which fact accounts for the lack of inventive skill portrayed in the instruments of the chase. The home life, the house, the clothing—everything portrays this lack of progressive skill. Instead of the children being well dressed and well cared for, as is the rule among savage races, they are almost naked, poorly fed, badly trained and altogether neglected; not because of a lack of paternal love, but because of the mental lethargy of the people. It is the same as to their shelter and garments. They have abundant material to make good tents and warm, storm-proof houses; but they simply bunch of a few branches and throw to the windward a few skins and then shiver, complaining of their miserable existence.

LORD ROBERTS.

The Friend of the Canadian Soldier

Lord Roberts has on more than one occasion expressed his admiration for the Canadian boys who are taking such an active part in the South African war. In all the correspondence from the front it is also pleasing to note the esteem in which the boys hold their friend "Bobs." Lord Roberts has the Canadian boys with him all the time. This is a great compliment to Canada. There are thousands of Canadians who have friends or relatives in the Canadian Contingent and who would be glad to have a portrait of the great general under whom they are fighting and fighting successfully. The Family Herald and Weekly Star has published a really handsome colored portrait of Lord Roberts and we have completed arrangements with them by which all our readers and residents of this vicinity can secure a copy. It is a true picture of the famous general. It is 17x22 inches, an exact reproduction of a painting by one of the best European artists.

We will send the Weekly Times and the Family Herald and Weekly Star from now until December 31st, 1900, including Lord Roberts' portrait 17x22 for the small sum of 90 cents, and if any person feels that the picture alone is not worth more he can have his money refunded. Is that not fair?

To any subscribers whose subscriptions are already paid we offer the Family Herald and Weekly Star, until December 31st, 1900, including the Lord Roberts' picture for 60c. The above offers are open for a limited time only.

OZONE

THE NEW SYSTEM OF TREATMENT

Successful in Curing Obstinate Cases of Female Diseases.

Eighty women in every hundred have some form of female weakness, and how many of them suffer from day to day in silence rather than submit to professional treatment and distasteful examinations, until disease arrives at the incurable stage. But there is a "Balm in Gilead." Ozone is proving womens' good angel to nurse her back from sickly delicacy to the robustness of noble womanhood, and its a home treatment; it checks disease and cures the most chronic cases. Ozone is Heaven's proclamation to women to get well and stay well.

An Operation Avoided by the New Treatment

Toronto, Ont.

The Ozone Co.—

Dear Sirs,—I have been a sufferer from distressing female diseases for the past few years. I went to the General Hospital, Toronto. My physician said I had a tumor of the ovaries and would have to undergo an operation. I dreaded this operation. My husband came to the hospital and said from what he could learn from the wonderful cures Ozone was making it would cure me, so I decided to go home, and at once commenced taking Ozone, and to my own husband's great joy I began to get better. To-day I am a cured woman. I can truthfully say now that I never felt better, have not a pain or ache. Would strongly advise all who have female disease to try Ozone before submitting to the knife.

CURTAIN RAISERS.

Marie Tempest denies the report that she intends to sing in the music halls in London.

Charles Frohman is having a play, based on Peg Woffington, written for Maude Adams.

Wilson Barrett's "Sign of the Cross" has been translated into Polish and has made quite a success in Warsaw.

Mrs. Campbell is to revive some of the Maeterlinck plays in London and produce others never seen there before.

Robert Loraine, Julie Opp's former husband, who was to have acted with Ada Rehan in England, has gone to South Africa.

Marie Wainwright has engaged Payton Gibbs to play Napoleon to her Josephine in her vaudeville sketch, "Napoleon Versus Josephine."

Wilson Barrett has added Robert Hichens to his dramatization of his novel, "The Londoners," and will act in the play in all probability.

Henrik Ibsen's "When the Dead Awake" has been acted in three German cities with success, although without giving the impression that it was likely to enjoy lasting popularity on the stage.

It seems that the new theater in St. Martin's lane, London, will not be owned by Charles Frohman after all, though that energetic American impresario will hold the lease of it and will establish there his London comedy troupe, headed by Seymour Hicks and Ellaline Terriss.

INVESTIGATION SHOWS WISDOM

I make the absolute claim that Rob Roy Mining Shares are one of the least risky things you can invest in!

Strong language, as mining is usually classed as a speculation, and rightly so—if a lot of good common isn't used!

Still I fearlessly say that these shares are safer than nine tenths of the monetary risks you daily run—in horses or cattle, for instance!

I have seen the properties, know the men at the head of affairs (well known London men they are too!), have my own money up, and am prepared to give you the benefit of my experience if you want it!

You have $100, say, that you want to invest if you can find a safe and profitable place for it. Well there's nothing going that I know of better than Rob Roy stock at .15 per share!

If this interests you and you mean business, drop me a line, and I'll gladly tell you what I know.

In any event you don't HAVE to buy.

Altogether likely these shares will be taken off the market inside of a few weeks.

THE COLORADO COPPER MINING COMPANY

LOCATION OF OUR MINES

THE COLORADO COPPER MINING COMPANY is fortunate in being the possessor of five splendid showing properties in the great Salida copper belt, the principal copper producing region of this portion of the Rockies. All of our claims have been more or less developed, and it is our purpose to put the same on a paying basis at once.

Our company owns, clear of incumbrances, the following claims: The Sedalia Extension, the Sedalia Extension No. 2, which property adjoins the great Sedalia mine, which has been a big producer for upwards of seventeen years; the Copper King of Colorado, which immediately adjoins the above; the Copper Queen of Salida, a very promising property, only a few steps from the depot in Salida. This claim occupies an imposing position on a mountain just north of the city; and last, but by no means least, the Sunshine, located two miles east of Salida at Cleora Station, on the main trunk line of the great Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, and also on the Arkansas river, which is one of America's greatest streams.

A BRUTAL ASSAULT

Pat Lavery Almost Killed Yesterday by a Tramp.

A brutal assault took place last night, at 7 o'clock, at the Oxford Hotel, kept by Mrs. Bowman. Pat Lavery, who is well known in town, was assaulted and beaten by a tramp.

It appears from Lavery's story, he was asked for money by the tramp, who calls himself Thos. Martin, and who says he belongs to Port Perry. Upon Lavery refusing, Martin, who sports a peg leg, dealt him a terrific blow with a hardwood walking stick, knocking Lavery down, and inflicting a terrible gash in his forehead and across his nose. As soon as Lavery fell Martin struck him time after time with the stick and with his wooden leg, inflicting fearful injuries.

Police officer Stewart happened to be in the neighborhood and was quickly on hand. As soon as he appeared, Martin made at him with a cudgel, and after tussle, the scoundrel was secured and lodged in the cells.

Lavery presented a sickening sight at the police station his face being covered with blood and wounds.

Martin and a chum who calls himself Kelly, were before the Police Magistrate yesterday morning, charged with vagrancy. The magistrate gave Kelly 6 months at hard labor, but let Martin go on account of having but one leg. He was ordered to leave town within two hours, but of course did not do so.

He deserves and doubtless, will receive the severest punishment that can be given him.

Dr. [illegible] was summoned, for to attend to Lavery's wounds, and put in about about a dozen stitches.

DROWNED IN INDIAN RIVER

Sad Drowning Accident by which Fred Cameron Lost His Life.

Fred Cameron, a young man 18 years of age, was drowned in the Indian River on Monday.

It appears that Cameron wheeled to Jermyn Post Office and while waiting for the mail to arrive, went in bathing. He was alone, and not returning, a search was made, when his clothes were found on the bank of the stream, and his body was soon after discovered on the bottom of the river. The deceased was a son of of the late Donald Cameron, of Otonabee and resided with his uncle, Mr. I. Fife, of Otonabee.

BASS FISHING.

Has Been a Little Slow, But is Gradually Becoming Better.

Fishing of all kinds has been just a little slow up to the present week, but it is expected that the next few days will brighten things up to a very considerable extent. Bass fishing has picked up considerably in the last two weeks.

At Jubilee Point and Chemong the fishing is reported good, and fine sport is reported.

In the river there is a lot of fishing done, especially up stream.

Bass will not bite when the weather is excessively warm. They become lazy and shiftless as do human beings when they feel the effect of humidity or anything of that kind. During the middle hours of the day, when the sun is making things lively, the shallow waters get quite warm, much too heated for such cold-blooded fish as the energetic black bass. Consequently the game fighters keep away from the shallow waters and take long rests in the deepest pools they can find. They delight to hide away under big stones and absolutely nothing will tempt them from their retreats. With most anglers from the city the middle of the day is about the only time they can get in which to fish, so special advice has to be given to them. Seek the deepest pools you can find and look especially for those pools in which you have reason to suppose ther are plenty of rocks. Get on that side of the river which is the shadiest. Put on a float and steer your boat so it will gently pass the edges of the rocks. Find out how deep the water is and allow the bait to go within less than a foot of the bottom. If at first you have no bites do it again and keep it up. It is your only chance in the middle of the day, for you won't catch a fish in the shallow waters unless you get there early in the morning and stay late in the evening.

OLDEST INCANADA

Death of a Former Peterborough Methodist Pastor.

On Tuesday morning the oldest Methodist minister in Canada, and in all possibility the oldest minister in America, passed away in the person of Rev. James Brock at his residence, 231 Queen street Kingston. He had been ailing for some time, and at his extreme age, ninetysix years, the end was not unexpected.

Born in the county of Longford, Ireland, in 1804, he came to this country when about 20 years of age. He was ordained and entered the Methodist ministery in 1830, his first station being at Perth. In 1837 and 1838 he was stationed at Ottawa, then called Bytown. Later he went to Gananoque, Quebec, Stanstead, St. John, Huntingdon, Ottawa, Brockville, Guelph. Peterborough, Prescott, St. Catharines, and lately at Lindsay. At sevreal of these places he spent the full term of three years. This list by no means includes all the localities at which he was stationed.

Mr. Brock was one of the delegates to the Canadian Wesleyan Conference meeting in the 1853, with a view of obtaining a union with the Canada Eastern District, which then belonged to the Methodist Church of the United States. He was also delegate to the first general conference of the Methodist Church held in Toronto in 1874. He was chairman of the Ottawa district from 1852 to 1858, of the Brockville on from 1858 to 1861, at Guelph from 1864 to 1866, at St. Catharines from 1866 to 1871, and at Lindsay from 1871 to 1875. In the year last named while at Lindsay, and after being on the list of active ministers for fortyfive years, Mr. Brock was superannuated.

With his death passes away the last of the old British missionaries in America.

Deceased married a daughter of Major Beach, who at one time had charge of Tete du Pont barracks.

One brother, Mr. A. Brock, of Missouri, and one son, Mr. Arthur M. Brock, Kingston, are the survivors.

At the time of the memorable battle of the Windmill Mr. Brock was the clergyman that acted as chaplain to a number of the prisoners that were hanged shortly after the battle.

The team will go up on the 8.05 train. It is expected that quite a number of supporters will take in the trip, as great interest attaches to the match. Return fare for all who wish to go is reduced to fare and a third. A second train via Millbrook leaves at 11.30. The team returns at 9 p.m.

Lacrosse.

There was a brutal exhibition at a lacrosse match at Toronto junction in the city league service, between the Junction Shamrocks and the Tecumsehs. The game finished 3-3 and was awarded to the Shamrocks because they remained on the field.

The Tecumsehs protested saying that they were playing under city league rules, which permit of this.

The Tecumsehs quit because Angus, home field, a noted player in their senior team, had his head so cut open that eleven stitches had to be put in it and his collar bone broken. Burgess, the gole keeper of the Tecumsehs, was also badly handled and had his nose broken.

RUSSIANS HAVE DEFEATED CHINESE

ALL THE FOREIGNERS IN PEKIN REPORTED MASSACRED ON JULY 6

Chinese Dead Piled Breast High in the Native City of Tien Tsin

IS RUSSIA NOW AN ALLY OF PRINCE TUAN ?

Rumors of Secret Negotiations Between Russia and Boxer Leader With Li Hung Chang as the Mediator—General Grenfell Will go to China—The Trouble Spreading

London, July 20—4a.m

The Washington idea of sending Mr. Brockhill to hCina says the standard editorially this morning, is an excellent one and might advantageously be imitated by the British and other Governments. The Standard then proceeds to comment upon the great igorance prevalent in Europe not only of recent event, but the Chinese affairs generally. The cabinet Council convened by Lord Salisbury yesterday came a day earlier than usual, and it is expected that it will be followed by a statement in parliament throwing light upon the situation. The Chinese assertion that the members of the foreign legations are still safe have been so often repeated that they are again beginning to raise hope in some quarters. According to the the daily Telegraphs St Petersburg correspondent, how ever the Russian government is already in possession of definite news that all the foreigners in Pekin were massacred on July 6. M. Delcasse's circular only goes to prove that so far the powers have failed to arrive at any concerted plan of action. Very little further news is available this morning. Yokohome correspondent of the daily mail, who repeats his statements regarding the jealousy felt among the allies on the subject of a Japanese Commander in Chief and the general lack of unity among them adds the Japanese correspondents charge the Russian soldiers with appalting barbarity towards the Chinese. They declare that the Peiko is full of corpses of women and children and that the Russians loaded 300 bodies in a Junk and burned them. Shanghai reports that three mission stations on Payang Lake have been destroyed but it is believed the missioners at Ashebe Kerin and from Chang Tseu in Chinese Manchura have arrived in safety at Vladivostock. It is rumoured that Yuiu, the missing Vice-Roy fo the province of Chili has committed suicide.

Very conflicting stories are published of the manner of General Niches death. It is said that when the allies entered the native city of Tien Tsin they found the Chinese dead, piled breast high and it was feared that this would result in an outbreak of pestilence. Sixteen of the captured guns are quite modern weapons.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Times expresses doubt that the southern Viceroys will be able to withstand the pressure of the provincial officials to join the anti-foreign move. He thinks that already there are signs of wavering on the part of the Viceroy of Nankin Piu Kun Yihand, and says the Russians according to the latest news from St. Petersburg, have now completely defeated the Chinese and have occupied Blafovitil, Chinese capitol of the Amur government, with a large force. Since General Gribgis, not Gubonil chief of staff at Port Arthur has taken over the supreme command in Manchura reinforcements have been rapidly pushed up and the general situation has been greatly improved

The Russian minister of Trans-Siberian railway is closed to private traffic. There is little doubt that the Russian authorities were not prepared for such an organized Chinese movements in Manchura but they have taken brisk measure and they believe that China will soon be too much pre-occupied with military operations around Pekin to conduct serious operators in the north.

The Daily Mail's Shanghai correspondent says advices from Vladivosck state that the Chinese invasion of eastern Siberia has stopped the Russian advance from the north in Pekin The Russians have burned the Chinese town of Belampo and are adopting very vigorous means. General Sir Arthur power palmer, commander in chief in India, said in the course of an interview in Simlayes today that no more British troops could be sent from India to China unless they could be replaced from South Africa.

RUSSIA WITH CHINA?

A Shanghai Despatch Reports Secret Negotiations With Prince Tuan.

London, July 19.—The action of Count von Buelow, the German Minister of Foreign Affairs in informing the Chinese Legation at Berlin that all telegraphic messages must be in plain language, and submitted for approval by the censor and the suggestion of M. Delcasse, the French Minister of orFeign Affairs that the exportation of arms to China be prohibited, which are generally regarded here as long steps in the direction as treating China as a state engaged in war, have been supplemented this morning by the official announcement from St. Petersburg that certain portions of the Amur territory, including parts of the Khabarovski district and the coast territory, as well as the towns of Blagoveschensk, Khabarovsk and Nikolskussuri, have been declared in a state of war since July 17th.

Russia's announcement is regarded in London as at least foreshadowing a speedy, unconditional recognition of the fact that a condition of war exists between China, and the civilized world, general opinion seems to favor such recognition as the best means of meeting the barbarion upheavel, while at the same time endeavoring to isolate the independent Viceroys from the general conflagration.

The revelation of the ability of the Chinese forces in the north to stand their ground against the internationals is producing the inevitable results in the south.

At Shanghai it is announced officially that foreign women, and children have been requested toleave the posts along the river.

Serious rioting has occurred at Po Yang Lake near Hiu Kiang. Several missionaries have been killed and chapels burned. The telegraph between Kiu Kiang and Hankow is interrupted.

In connection with the story that Prince Taun's forces have been ordered to march to Wei Hai Wei, it is considered as significant that Indian troops arriving at Hong Kong have Wei.

A Shanghai despatch also reports that Russia has been in secret negotiationms with Prince Taun's Government with the connivance of Li Hung Chang.

In a despatch from St. Petersburg it is stated that Russia's anxiety to minimize the alarming nature of the news from Manchuria is dictated by fears of the injury the confirmation of such news might cause in the matter of arrangments alleged to have been made in the United States for money with which to complete the Manchuria Railroad.

A despatch from Shanghai, received here to-day, reports that the losses of the Chinese in the fighting at Tien Tsin was upwards of 3,000.

It is understood that Lieutenant-General Sir Francis Grenfell, at present Governor of Malta, will have command of the British forces in China.

STIRRING UP MAGISTRATES

High Legal Officer Issues an Anti-Christian Letter Designed to Cause Trouble.

New York, July 19.—A Herald cable from Chee Foo says the Fantai of Shan Tung, the highest legal officer, and next in rank to governor, has issued to his subordinates, the magistrates, an anti-Christian letter, exhorting the governor to authorize all magistrates to compel native Christian church.

RUSSIA'S VAST ARMY

Said to Have Conveyed Nearly 300,000 Men Across Siberia Toward Manchuria.

New York, July 19.—A cable says; Burn Murdoch, agent of Pritchard Morgan, M. P., in Corea, who has just reached London after a sixty days journey, by way of Vladivostock, over the Trans-Siberian Railway to Moscow, says that Russia, even before he left, was actively mobilizing troops in Central, East and West Siberia. The Trans-Siberian Railway was conveying close on 300,000 men toward Manchuria.

FOREIGNERS STILL SAFE AT PEKIN

The Governor of Shan Tung Declares Again That the Foreigners in Pekin Have Not Been Massacred But Danger is Still Very Great

Paris, July 19.—An official telegram from Shanghai, dated Wednesday, July 18, states that according to the Governor of Shan Tung, the Foreign Ministers and their families at Pekin are safe and sound, but that the danger is still very great. The Viceroy, according to this despatch, informed the consular corps that he had telegraphed to Pekin urging the protection of the Foreign legations.

Rome, July 19.—Pope Leo has addressed a letter to the Vicar-Cardinal, in the course of which he says the sorrowful events in China, besides filling his soul with sadness on account of the spilling of so much Christian blood, inspire him with the deepest fear as to the situation of the Apostolique Vicars, and the dangers to which Christians and missionaries are exposed, in serious trials as well as sacrifice of lives. His Holiness therefore asks that all communicants pray ardently that God inspire thoughts of concord and peace, and that he will end destruction and massacres.

Washington, July 19.—The commission of Brigadier-eGneral A. R. Chaffee as Major-General in command of the Chinese expeditionary force, was made out at the War Department this morning, and sent to the White House for the President's signature. Cable notice of the appointment was sent to Nagasaki, Japan, where it will meet General Chaffee on his arrival there.

CHINESE UNEASY.

The New York Residents Have Asked Washington for Protection.

New York, July 19.—Chinatown Chinese have framed a petition and forwarded it to Washinton, asking the authorities for protection in case of a sudden popular outbreak. The policemen doing duty in the neighborhood on Saturday night were congnizant of the meetings for this purpose, and at its close learned of the proceedings through two Chinese youths of their acquaintance. A week ago last Thursday night, according to a trustworth source, another meeting was held for the purpose of considering the raising of a fund to help the Boxers. When the question came to a vote it was defeated.

A trip to Chinatown will convince an observer that despite their assertions to the contrary there is unrest among the denizens. Every shop along Pell and Mott streets is filled with Chinese, some one reading aloud to the others, or the group discussing the contents of the sheets in their hands.

LYNCHERS AT BAY.

Had Made a Desperate Attack on His Father With a Knife.

Newark, July 19.—After assaulting his father last night with a carving knife, Robert Ebert, 19 years old, of Belleville, held at bay a crowd of citizens who threatened to lynch him if they got him in their power.

William Ebert, the father, had a bicycle and he found fault last evening with his son for using it. There were heated words, but the trouble appeared to be patched up and they sat down to dinner. Suddenly and without warning, it is alleged, the youth seized the carving knife and sprang at his father, inflicting two ugly gashes on the head. In the attempt to shield face the elder Ebert got bad slashes on the hands. After a desperate battle he managed to disarm the boy, who ran out of the house and threw a horseshoe through the window.

An excited crowd collected around the house, which is in the most populous section of the village, and made repeated attempts to seize the infuriated youth. He drove them back with stones and sticks and after holding them at bay for some time he dashed into the rear of the house and locked the door. Officers entered by stealth and surprised and captured him.

RETIRED UNDER TERRIFIC FIRE

British Sailors Covered the Retreat of the United States Infantry by Firing Volleys—140 Americans Killed

Shanghai, July 19.—The following additional details of the allied forces' attack on the native city of Tien Tsin reached here to-day from the Associated Press correspondent with the allies.

"Tien Tsin, Friday July 13, midnight, via Che Fu, July 16.—After a day of hard fighting and having lain four hours in shallow, hastily-dug trenches full of water, and suffering from hunger and thirst, two battalions of the 9th United States Infantry that participated in the attack on Tien Tsin moved back under cover of darkness, British sailors assisting them to withdraw by firing volleys to cover their retirement. The Americans brought out all their wounded, under a etrrible fire.

"The total loss of the Americans was 140."

MORE TROOPS FOR PHILIPPINES

The Assertions of the Dead General Lawton Are Proven True.

MORE FIGHTING TO COME.

Manila, June 19.—"More soldiers" is the demand which is coming to General MacArthur from every department of the islands.

Recent events have worked to vindicate General Lawton's judgement that 100,000 troops will be needed to establish American sovereignty over the Philippines. Until they attempted to hold provinces of two or three hundred thousand hostile people with a regiment or two the American commanders hardly realized the size of the Philippine Islands.

The present force is not large enough to garrison more than half the important islands, among them Cebu, Panay, Samar, Leyte and the great Mohammedan Empire of Mindanao, only the commercial ports are occupied. The Moros are a cloud on the horizon.

Officers best acquainted with conditions in Mindanao and the Sulu Islands tell the Associated Press correspondent that they consider serious fighting there inevitable If it comes the two regiments which are scattered in small garrisons, some of them hundreds of miles apart along the coast of Mindanao, an island nearly as large as Luzon, may have serious work.

Moros Are Fighters.

The Moros are fighters by nature, do not fear death, have many guns, though of antiquated makes, but do the best execution by lying in the thick jungles and cutting down soldiers who pass through with terrible knives and spears.

General S. B. M. Young, who is holding seven of the most mountainous provinces of Luzon with four regiments, expects severe work during the rainy season.

For some two months, after his bewildering invasion of the north in December, the insurgents were paralyzed. With few troops to keep an eye on the villages and prevent reconcentration, the paralysis, the general believes, would have been made permanent, finding ample opportunity to reorganize, the insurgents have availed themselves thereof.

Troops Are Worn Out.

Many troops have worn themselves and horses down to the limit of endurance in marching about the mountain trails striking the Filipinos wherever they could get track of an organized band. Hundreds have been slain, but most of the work has been like brushing away mosquitoes which swarm down upon a new spot.

General Tinio has a nomadic command, whose warriors can hide their guns and become "amigos" if it suits their interests. As few of them wear uniforms and the people combine to shield them from detection, the Americans are greatly handicapped.

The church has become a troublesome factor in General Young's territory.

Priest as a General.

Aglipay, the priest who has proclaimed himself as Archbishop of the Philippines, is in the field as a general.

His forces attacked Captain George A. Dodd, of the Third Cavalry, at Batoc. than two hundred Filipinos were slain. Aglipay commanded in person and there is an unconfirmed rumor that he was among the killed. His followers fought with the recklessness of Mohammedan fanatics.

They approached the Americans in three lines, with an advance guard of women arranged with the expectation that the Americans would not fire upon them. Behind the women were a line of bolomen and others armed with only wooden swords, no more dangerous than policemen's clubs, and behind the bolomen the riflemen.

Happily the women threw themselves flat upon the ground and sought shelter at the first fire, so that few of them were killed.

HUMAN FOX HUNT AT ORANGE RIVER

Boers Start Across Country With British in Hot Pursuit—Ian Hamilton Chases Them Out of the Bush North of Pretoria

Pretoria July 19.—General Ian Hamilton entered the bush veldt north of Pretoria yeserdau and drove the Boers before him. Some of the burghers scattered to the east, while others went to the west. They will probably join the commandoes which are threatening Pretoria and the springs.

Women whose husbands are absent, and who are unable to support themselves, are being sent away from the capital.

The fox-hunt has begun in Orange River Colony, where Generals Hunter and Rundle are slowly but surely closing [illegible] around General De Wet's commandos. The fox has suddenly started across country towards Lindley, with the mounted forces of General Broadwood and Colonel Ridley in hot pursuit. The Boer force does not exceed 1,500 men, with five guns, and the pursuers, if their horses are still in good condition, may succeed in running it down. If this can be done the pacification of Orange River Colony ought to be rapidly effected, as the remaining commandos cannot keep up the fight in the mountains if Van Reenen's Pass and Harrismith have been taken from Ladysmith.

LORD ROBERTS AGAIN ACTIVELY ON THE MOVE

Gen. Hamilton Attacked and Defeated the Boers North of Pretoria

BRITISH CAVALRY ARE HAVING A LONG CHASE

They Have Not Yet Overtaken The Fleeing Boers—Lord Roberts Sends Out Columns to the North and West and Will Probably go East Himself

ACTIVITY AT PRETORIA

Lord Roberts Has Re-commenced Operations in Earnest Against Boers.

London, July 19.—Lord Roberts has evidently rgcommended operations in earnest against the Boers surrounding him on three sides at Pretoria. General Hamilton's column, moving northward, has by this time reached Haman's Kraal, twenty-eight miles north of Pretoria, on the railway to Pietersburg. Methuen and Smith-Dorrien are advancing westward to clear away the Boers who not long ago surprised the Lincolns and the Scots Greys with such dire results, and who are still in force around Rustenburg and among the hills of the Magaliesburg range. The commander in chief himself, it is to be supposed, will move to the east along the Delagoa Bay line, and endeavors to bring Genreal Botha to terms. South of the Vaal, the stern base of Broadwood's cavalry and Ridley's mounted infantry after the so long maintained British cordon south of Bethlehem, marched round that place and escaped northwards still continues. On Tuesday the fleeind enemy was half way between Bethlehem and Lindley, evidently following the main road to that place and Heilborn, and making for the Vaal. During the two days which have elapsed since this became the position of affairs many things have happened, and it is quite possible that the Boers with their four guns have been overtaken and captured, or that they may have succeeded in eluding their pursuers. In the latter case, however, it would be little short of a miracle were they to escape the columns which separate them from safety. The effect of this breaking away of the game which the British thought they eld so securely, will now be watched with interest, and if General De Wet and President Steyn do not advantage of the division to escape in another direction it will be a subject for congratulation.

GALLANTLY LEADING THEIR MEN

Lord Roberts Has Words of Praise for Borden and Birch.

London, July 19.—A despatch from Lord Roberts says. The two younog Canadians mentioned in yesterday's telegram were killed while gallantly leading the men in a counter attack on the enemy's flank at a critical juncture in their assault on our position.

"Borden had been twice before brought to my notice in despatches for gallant and interprid conduct.

"The 1,500 Boers were about half way between Bethlehem and Lindley yesterday, and were being closely followed by Broadwood's cavalry and Ridley's Mounted Infantry.

"Methuen left Krugersdrop this morning with Smith-Dorrien to clear the country to Rustenburg."

Lieut. Birch, who, with Lieut Borden, was killed in the engagement near Pretoria, belonged to the 2nd Dragoons, St Catharines. He went with the second contingent, as an attached officer for duty.

DROVE THE BOERS BEFORE HIM

Gen. Ian Hamilton Attacks the Enemy North of Pretoria.

Pretoria, July 19.—Gen. Ian Hamilton entered the bush veldt north of Pretoria yesterday and drove the Boers before him. Some of the burghers scattered to the east, while others went to the west. They will probably joine the commandoes which are threatening Pretoria and the springs.

Women whose husbands are absent, and who are unable to support themselves, are being sent away from the capital.

TRAITORS ARE DISFRANCHISED

Perpetual Disfranchisement for Rebels in Cape Colony Decreed.

Cape Town, July 19.—The bill for the trial of rebels impose no penalties outside the present law, which prepetually disfranchas those convicted ot treason if they condemned by the higher tribunal, while those convicted by the lower tribunal are only disfranchised for five years. The Attorney-General will decide upon the tribunals before which the accused will be prosecuted. He enjoys the confidence of the people, and everyone believes that he will use his discretion fairely.

MAJOR BORDEN WAS POPULAR

Tributes Paid by McGill University to the Deceased Officer.

Montreal, July 19.—The flag at McGill University was placed at half-mast to-day out of respect to the late Major Borden, who was killed in action near Pretoria on Monday last. The deceased was a student in the third year medicine, and gave promise of a brilliant career. Dr Ruttan, registrar of the faculty, stated that Major Borden was one of the most regret to every student in the university, for the deceased was an allround athlete, and as such was brought into contact with all the studnets. Dr Ruttan added that the Major Borden completed his studies he would have probably taken very high honors, for he was a particularly promising student, Major Borden is the first student of McGill University to be killed in action during the present war. Pte. O'Reilly, of the first contingent, who was also a student in the faculty of medicine, died some time ago of enteric fever. He was a student in the final year. Five students from McGill left for the front with the various contingents, and death has taken away two of them.

OPPOSED TO OUTRAGES.

Cablegrams Sent Daily Begging Viceroys to Stop the Slaughter of Foreigners.

San Francisco, July 19.—The members of the Chinese Empire Reform Association of this city are endeavoring to prevent the persecution of foreigners residing in China. Cablegrams are being sent daily to the vice-roys of the different provinces praying them to use all their influence to prevent further slaughter of innocent persons of other nations. To Li Hung Chang the following was sent—

"Reports received here that Boxers are massacreing foreigners. This is in violation of treaty rights. We pray your excellency to instruct all viceroys to protect all foreigners even as we are protected by them here. We beg of you to suppress these barbarous outrages that peace and resumption of commerce may follow."

Los Angeles, Cal., July 19.—Wong Yo Chow presided over an interesting meeting of 150 of the Chinese merchants and residents of this city, held at their Board of Trade rooms, to give expression to their views of the present crisis in China. Resolutions were passed pledging themselves to do all in their power to uphold and assist in upholding the laws of the United States so long as they are residents of this country. They heartily disapprove of the words and speeches tending to produce animosity and misunderstanding between them and the citizens of this country.

A copy of the resolutions was sent to Li Hung Chang, he being the viceroy of the province from which the Chinese of this country came. A copy was also sent to Secretary of State Hay.

PRETORIA AND PEKIN—AND AFTER.

More people than the denizens of the stock market are dabbling in "futures" just now. Britain has two wars on her hands at the present moment, which present as their most imperious problem—even now when we know nothing of the fate of the legations at Pekin—the query as to what will follow the success of the military operations immediately in hand. The more deliberate of British publications—such as the reviews and weeklies—are full of discussion of both problems presented, the Boer and the Chinese. Since ex-Premier Schreiner has abandoned the cause of Boer independence, it may as well be taken for granted that we are shut up there to a policy of a temporary military occupation, the duration of which is to be determined by the readiness of the Boers themselves to loyally accept the "fait accompli." No British Ministry, and certainly not the present one, dare propose giving the Boer oligarchy back its old mastery. Mr. Webster Davis might word it differently, and talk about returning to the Boers their independence; but that is simply a juggle with sacred words.

In China, the situation is more complicated. Our American neighbors are totally opposed to any dismemberment of the Empire, and naturally so. Their interest in China is a trade interest; and they can do more with an "open door" into a uniform China, under one government, than with a series of Chinas, some under control which will shut out all foreign trade. British interest is well-nigh identical, though Britain is undoubtedly better prepared to take up a broadened "white man's burden" and undertake the development of a section of the Celestial Empire. If China is to be divided, and it is merely a question of who shall participate, plainly Britain cannot permit the whole of such excellent military raw material as the millions of China to pass under the control of possibly hostile powers. She must take up her share of the task, or retire from the foremost rank of European leadership of the world. In case of a division, there are voices heard in the United States as well, demanding participation.

But British and American influence will very likely be thrown together against dismemberment. This settled, the eye turns to St. Petersburg. Some writers tell us that Russia is in favor of preserving Chinese integrity, too, on the two grounds that her Siberian railway is not yet completed, and that she feels so certain of her slice as to be in no hurry. If this be true, there will be no dismemberment. Britain, Russia, the United States and Japan—which latter openly favours an unbroken China—can have their way in the matter. The German Emperor is naturally tremendously incensed at the atrocious murder of his ambassador; and, if his representative has suffered alone, will be one of the most determined of the allies to wreak vengeance on the Chinese. But this can be done without dismemberment. The policy of "never again" can be applied here by establishing a new capital on the sea-coast; and the anti-foreign movement can be utterly crushed.

There is one feature of the programme of dismemberment which should not be forgotten. Each power will have to establish its authority to the uttermost confines of its portion, thus bringing to the knowledge of millions of Chinamen who know nothing about it now, the [illegible] presence of the foreign invader. The Boxer movement, ugly as it is, is practically a sea-coast affair, drawing little or no strength from inland China. This is largely because inland China has not felt the pressure of outside interference. Cut China up, and send Europeans to rule over the innermost sections of the country; and all China will know the foreigner as now do the sea-coasts. Of course, knowing him, they should love him, but unfortunately they don't. And a dismembered China may mean the beginning of a great struggle between Europe and four hundred millions of people who can live on a handful of rice and sleep where night finds them. This will be no holiday task. There is probably more truth than humor in the statement that Japan won her easy victory over China because the vast majority of the Chinese did not know that there was a war going on, and many of those who did, did not care. But if it be a giant which is sleeping, dismemberment will wake him; and it will be just as well to have the furniture moved back out of the way.

MATRON AND MAID.

Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fiske has joined the antivivisection society in New York.

The widow of Benjamin Wood and her sister and daughter have assumed entire control of the New York Daily News and will hereafter edit and publish it.

Mrs. Frances M. Wolcott has secured an absolute divorce from Senator Edward O. Wolcott on the ground of desertion. No evidence was introduced for the defense.

Mrs. A. L. Vrooman Wood of Minneapolis has been appointed judge of the decorated china to be exhibited at the Paris exposition by the National League of Mineral Painters. The selection of Mrs. Wood was made by Commissioner General Peck.

Miss Eva Hooper of London is now on her way to Australia, where she is to organise the kindergarten work in the public schools of Victoria and to give kindergarten training. Miss Hooper recently spent about a year in this country studying the schools.

Mrs. Humphry Ward suggests the establishment in every town of Great Britain of an organization to study Christian dogma and Christian history with the aid of such books as Harnack's "History of Dogma" and Schurer's "The Jewish People in the Time of Christ."

Mrs. Alexander Capperton, who died in Kirkhill, Scotland, the other day, was one of the few links connecting the present with the time of Sir Walter Scott. She entered his service when 16 and was with him when he died and received a lock of his hair from Mrs. Lockhart.

A woman has been appointed assignee of the savings bank at Hinsdale, N. H., by the supreme court. She is Miss Cora A. Wellman, who has occupied the position of treasurer of the institution, having succeeded her father. She was recommended for appointment by the incorporators of the bank.

The Duchesse d'Orleans, who is now making a cruise in the Mediterranean on her fine yacht Maroussia, is a very clever draftswoman, and a daily amusement of hers is the designing and execution of dainty little menu cards for the day's use. She never fails to produce these cards, whether at home or on the sea.

A new aspirant for legal honors is Mrs. Catherine V. Waite, a western woman, 71 years old, who will soon go to Denver and establish a law office there, with her husband as a partner. Mrs. Waite is the owner of large tracts of land, many horses and a block of real estate in Chicago. Her husband was at one time a judge in Idaho.

Lady Dundonald, whose husband, the earl, has been distinguishing himself with Buller in Natal, got into a quarrel with the town authorities of Abergele, Wales, recently over land needed to widen a road passing through the chief attraction of the place, an avenue of old sycamores on her land. On the town council's threatening to acquire the land needed by condemnation the countess had all the old trees cut down.

"Hunger is the Best Sauce."

Yet some people are never hungry. Whatever they eat has to be "forced down." There is, of course, something wrong with these people. By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla a short time they are given an appetite and then they enjoy eating and food nourishes them. If you find your appetite failing, just try a bottle of Hood's It is a true stomach tonic and every dose does good.

The best family cathartic is Hood's Pills.

If the man does not stop the cough the cough stops the man; stops his appetite, his sleep, his pleasure and his work. So called "cough remedies" sometimes relieve but they don't go deep enough to cure. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures coughs and diseases of the respiratory organs perfectly and permanently. It stops the cough. It heals the lungs, stops the hemorrhage, if the lungs are bleeding, and by purifying the blood and increasing the action of the blood-making glands enriches every organ with the good blood which alone will make a good body.

"My husband had been coughing for years and people frankly told me that he would go into consumption," writes Mrs. John Shireman, of No. 205 29th Place, Chicago, Ill. "He had such terrible coughing spells, we not only grew much alarmed, but looked for the bursting of a blood vessel or a hemorrhage at almost any time. After three days' coughing he was too weak to cross the room. The doctor did him no good. I stated the case to a druggist, who handed me a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. My husband's recovery was remarkable. In three days after he began using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery he was up and around, and in two more days he went to work. Two bottles cured him."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure biliousness. They produce permanent benefit and do not re-act on the system. One is a gentle laxative, two a cathartic dose.

Short Story of the Day

Beth.

Beth Finley worked in a large department store. What, with the weary round of taking down and putting back on the shelves the large rolls of calico and muslin, trying to please customers, answering the hundred and one questions put to her, to say nothing of standing until her feet ached, she was glad enough when the day's work was over and she could take her place in the open car and ride out to the second-rate boarding house, which was all she could call home in a large city. But now vacation time was drawing near, and she anticipated with delight the good time she was going to have with the small crowd of girls going to Chautauqua.

She was thinking so intently of the pleasant time to come that she almost went past the street where she should get off the car.

As she went up the stairs to her small room on the third floor she thought she heard something like a smothered sob coming from the room next hers, which was occupied by poor little Miss Russell, who did small jobs of sewing for the large stores, for which she was paid merely enough to keep body and soul together. Large-hearted Beth could not go on with that sound in her ears, so, on the impulse of the moment, she stopped and knocked at the door, but receiving no answer, she turned the knob and went in. She found Miss Russell with her head buried in the bed clothes, the heavy sobs shaking her small frame from head to foot.

By degrees Beth gleaned the cause of her trouble. She had been trying for a long time to save enough money to take a small trip down to the pretty home in the country, but she had been sick, had lost part of her usual work, was behind with her rent and so had to abandon all thought of her pleasant little trip.

That evening Beth's friends noticed she was not the light-hearted, merry girl she usually was. She seemed to be very serious and thoughtful.

"Who is he, Beth?" asked one.

"When is it coming off?"

"Will you have me for bridesmaid?" asked pretty Jean Carter.

But to all their joking Beth made no reply, and excused herself from them early in the evening on a plea of headache. Alone in her room she tried to think how she could help poor Miss Russell.

Next morning at the store Beth seemed very impatient and nervous until the noon hour came. Then she burst in on the little group of girls with the announcement, "Girls, I'm very sorry, but I can't go with you to Chautauqua."

The girls could not have been much more astonished or dismayed, for was not Beth the very ring-leader of their party, the very life of all?

"Why, Beth, say you don't mean it?" pleaded Nell Smith.

"Oh, Beth, and you promised all along to go," cried Annie Brown, with tears in her blue eyes.

"Well, girls, I am sorry that I can say to disappoint you all, but I find that I can't afford the trip this year," and Beth made her escape before the girls could expostulate further with her.

"Girls, what can have come over Beth?" asked Jean Carter. "She told me only last Monday that she had enough saved up to go."

"Say, girls, let us ferrit this out, and see what is at the bottom of it," suggested Margaret Marshal.

That night Beth went home and gradually laid her plans before Miss Russell, whom she found about as down-hearted as ever.

At first she would not listen to Beth's plan at all. She knew how hard the girl had to work for her money, also how her heart was set on the trip to Chautauqua, but finally when Beth showed her how thoroughly determined she was about the matter she yielded to the pleasant plan which Beth had mapped out.

By putting this and that together the other girls got a slight inking of what was going on between Beth and Miss Russell.

The Saturday before vacation time came round, Beth, though trying to put a cheerful face on the matter, could not quite stifle a sigh for the good times she would miss at Chautauqua, and the girls, (pretty hypocrites that they were) bid her good-bye with very long faces.

Beth could not help feeling sad as she went home that evening, but at the bright look on the face of the little seamstress her spirits rose, and they were soon packing up and chatting merrily.

Monday morning saw them at the depot getting tickets for Melrose, Miss Russell's little country home. They did not notice the row of bright faces watching them behind the waiting room door, nor know that no sooner were they on the train than the owners of the bright faces marched up to the ticket window and also demanded tickets for Melrose.

On reaching Miss Russell's pretty little home, Beth was received very kindly, but when the little seamstress explained all to her friends, their gratitude to Beth knew no bounds, and they could not do enough for her.

The day after their arrival at Melrose Miss Russell received a note from a girl friend of hers, asking her to come to a small picnic in the woods near Melrose.

When Miss Russell broached the subject to Beth, she said she didn't think she cared to go, but seeing how disappointed the seamstress looked, Beth gave in. They left home at the time mentioned in the note, but when they reached the woods there was no other person in sight.

"Are you sure this is the right place?" Beth asked Miss Russell.

"Yes, this is Little's woods, the place the note mentioned," answered Miss Russell.

They waited some time and then, finding no signs of the picnic, were just about thinking of returning home, when Beth's eyes, and a voice that tried to be tragic demanded, "Guess who it is."

Beth at once recognized the sweet voice of Jean Carter, and what was her surprise, on finding her eyes released, to see all her friends' faces beaming on her. She could have cried for very joy when she saw them there.

"But, girls," she said, "what is the meaning of this? I thought you were all at Chautauqua by this time."

"You didn't think we would let you desert us that way, did you?" demanded Mary Thorn, with a merry twinkle in her eye.

Beth was so overcome with their display of friendship for her that she was almost reduced to tears.

Seeing this, Margaret Marshall said, "Oh, say, girls, we must not forget the most important part. Beth, when we reached Little's boarding house just over the ridge yonder, we met a crowd of the nicest boys you ever saw. They are college students, but instead of going to the mountains this year, as they had thought of doing, they decided to come to this beautiful country and spend most of their vacation here. They are very friendly and nice, and after having been introduced to us and hearing that we were coming to the woods to-day, they asked if they might come also. We said, 'Yes, certainly, if they cared to come, the more the merrier.' So hurry up, Beth, and get ready for them, for they promised to come in just half an hour after we started."

Margaret had hardly ceased talking, when they heard a merry laugh, and looking round, they saw a group of young men coming towards them. Any one watching Miss Russell would have noticed that her face paled considerably when she was introduced to Ross Wallace.

"Miss Russell and I have met before," he said quietly.

The young people then moved off in groups, and it so happened that Mr. Wallace and Miss Russell were left alone.

"Well, Mr. Wallace," she began.

"And why Mr. Wallace?" he interrupted.

"Well, Ross, then," she said, "you know my objection of old. I don't look as though I was blessed with much more of this world's goods now than I was then, do I?"

"Now, Ann, I will not hear another word of such nonsense. I have let you have your way too long about that."

So after much pleading, he succeeded in bringing the smiles back to her face, and the two became good friends again. Ann told of Beth's goodness to her as they strolled off in the woods.

Now, it happened that Charlie McClure was Ross Wallace's best chum and roommate. He fell in love with Beth at first sight and when Ross in a burst of confidence told him of Beth's self-denial his admiration for her knew no bounds.

What times those young people did have! A picnic one day, an exploring expedition the next and a boating party the next. Then what romantic strolls they had in the evening! And so the time passed, and it was with regret that the girls realized that their last day of vacation had come.

There were some tender leave takings that evening. Ross Wallace begged Ann to name the day, saying that he had already waited long enough. Charlie McClure begged Beth to let him call on her in the city, and there was a half-hidden twinkle of triumph in Jean Carter's eyes when handsome Ned Wilson asked her to go to the theatre the week he returned to the city.

And so they parted and the weary work in the big store began again, but not with so much weariness as before, for had they not the memory of those pleasant days to carry with them?

About a week after their return Beth and Miss Russell both received notes asking them if they would go to the theatre. They accepted the invitation, and, when in the evening Charlie brought Beth a large bouquet of white roses, she thought her happiness was complete.

On the next Sunday evening the four young people went to church, and after church strolled through the park on their way home. It was a lovely evening the stars twinkling, the moon shining down on them, and all nature seemed at peace.

"Miss Finley, Elizabeth dear, for I may call you that, mayn't I, I have only known you for a short time, but during that time I have found out that I love you. Can I hope for any encouragement, dear Beth?"

"Oh, Mr. McClure, I—I really don't know how to answer you," said Beth with a flush on her face.

And so it came to pass in the fall of the year the two friends were quietly married in a little church in the heart of the city, the only other persons present being Beth's girl friends and some of the boys whom they met at Melrose.

That night Beth said to Miss Russell, or Mrs. Wallace, as we must now call her, "Ann dear, just think of what we would have missed had I gone to Chautauqua."

"Yes, dear," replied Ann, "but you didn't know that, when you generously cancelled all your plans to give pleasure to poor little me," and she kissed Beth tenderly.—Pittsburg Sunday Press Prize Story.

INVESTIGATION SHOWS WISDOM

I make the absolute claim that Rob Roy Mining Shares are one of the least risky things you can invest in!

Strong language, as mining is usually classed as a speculation, and rightly so—if a lot of good common isn't used!

Still I fearlessly say that these shares are safer than nine tenths of the monetary risks you daily run—in horses or cattle, for instance!

I have seen the properties, know the men at the head of affairs (well known London men they are too!), have my own money up, and am prepared to give you the benefit of my experience if you want it!

You have $100, say, that you want to invest if you can find a safe and profitable place for it. Well there's nothing going that I know of better than Rob Roy stock at .15 per share!

If this interests you and you mean business, drop me a line, and I'll gladly tell you what I know.

In any event you don't HAVE to buy.

Altogether likely these shares will be taken off the market inside of a few weeks.

Intending Campers, Read This.

Chief Game Warden Tinsley is trying to lesson the number of outbreaks of forest fires by sending out the following rules for campers on the public domain; "Never, build a fire where its flames can communicate to grass or brush or branches. Never build a fire where the sparks can be carried to brush, trees, leaves or grass. Never build a fire without first noticing the lay of the laud with respect to controlling it after it is kindled. Never leave camp for the day with the fire to burn unattended. Extinguish it thoroughly. Under no circumstance when moving camp leave the fire to burn or to smoulder. Put it out. To extinguish a fire upon the ground, where there is turf or the roots of trees in the soil, pour water upon it until the fire is thoroughly soaked; then dig around about and well outside the circumference, throwing the earth in toward the centre, and then wet it down again.

The Omemee Excursion to Lakefield.

The Omemee Mirror says.—"Though the weather did not seem to be very inviting for an outing, yet a goodly number of people availed themselves of the Union churches' excursion to Lakefield on Tuesday. The G. T. R. had provided a special train to be at the disposal of the excursionists, and, it is estimated that about 300 people boarded the train. Lakefield, is a beautiful village of about 1,100 inhabitants and the surrounding scenery is very picturesque. On the arrival of the train the people went to a grove the train the people went to a grove near the river, where tables and seats were provided for the accommodation of the guests. Quite a number went sightseeing, visiting the various churches, factories and stores. The train left Lakefield about 5.45 and arrived at Omemee at 7. All were united in the opinion of having spent a happy day. The Omemee band was in attendance and made the outing the most pleasant. Indeed, Omemee can justly be proud of its band.

This may be taken as a warning to fishermen in this locality. Maskinonge cannot be sold for three years, or more than four in one day be taken without the risk of the above fine, it being the lowest that can be imposed along with the costs.—Hastings Star.

"Ads" That Mean Business.

The experienced newspaper advertiser has discovered that the people want a plain statement of what he has to sell. They have as much interest in reading such a statement as the merchant has in making it. Trick "ads" and grotesque illustrations are not needed to catch public attention. Everybody reads the Times.

That First-Class Summer Hotel.

Lindsay Post:- Last aSturday a rich gentleman connected with the Pennsylvania aRilway took his family and some friends to Bobcaygeon, looking for a good summer hotel, and finding none, departed, shaking the dust off his feet. What he wanted was an hotel with shade trees and green grass, where they might enjoy our cool refreshing breezes with pleasure and benefit. It is a pity to have such people go away, bringing discredit to our beautiful lakes. As there are no hotels at Sturgeon Point, we hope Mr. Boyd will not censure us for making a suggestion that would be of permanent benefit to his town — and what would seem to us likely a financial benefit to himself. The west end of the hill just past the old cemetery at Bobcaygeon, near the steamer wharf, is a beautiful spot, with plenty of level land below for tennis court and all such pastimes, and the land being of small value at present could be turned into a very profitable use. There are very few graves to be moved, and then the hill would be an ideal situation. Mr. Boyd has plenty of lumber and much that is not merchantable could be used in constructing the hotel. The place is admirably suited for all needed sanitary appliances, and could be made into one of the choicest places in Canada. If we cannot have an hotel erected at the Point, the next best thing is to erect one at Bobcaygeon.

TITLES FOR SALE.

Created in Order To Collect Funds For an Orphan Asylum.

The small republic of San Marino, in the hills near Rimini, on the Adriatic, is said to do a flourishing trade in titles for the purpose of raising funds to maintain its foundling asylum. The price charged is a sum equal to $5,000, and for that amount any one can buy the title of "Duke" or Baron," and have it to descend to the owner's entire posterity, or merely to his male heirs, according to fancy. The republic of Brazil is said to make similar grants at prices ranging from $500 to $250,000. There are indirect means of buying titles in other countries. In Italy, for instance, the title of "Duke" or "Marquis" is often attached to or connected with a large estate in land. According to the latest list of prices the tariff for Indian titles is as follows—That of "Prince" costs $8,000; of "Duke," $6,000, and of "Marquis," $5,000. "Counts" are cheap at $4,500. "Barons" are literally thrown away at $2,400, while the ordinary "noble" is only worth $1,000. The above prices refer to titles conferred by the King. At the Vatican prices are being tremendously "cut." The title of "Count" only costs $2,400 and of "Marquis" but $800 more.

Magistrate Dumble sentenced the prisoner to six months in the Central for vagrancy, and at the completion of said term he will be tried on the charge of assault.

One Killed and the Other Badly Hurt by the Enraged Beast.

Round Brook, N.J., July 19.—William Arnold, 8 years old, of New York, and Edward Morgan, son of Samuel Morgan of Zion, were attacked by a bull yesterday. The Morgan boy was killed.

The bull knocked the Arnold boy down, gored him and would have killed him but for Morgan who went to his aid with a stick. The bull then charged young Morgan throwing him high in the air. Again and threw him high in the air. As the boy came down the bull caught him and tossed him up again and again. The infuriated animal finally ripped the boy with his horns, tramped upon him and then tossed him up again.

When Mother Made the Tea.

(A Poem Asked For.)

That's English cooks an' German cooks,
an' French cooks now-a-days,
A-fixin' funny dishes in a thousand modern ways,
But jest somehow or other things don't taste the same to me
As in the olden, golden days, when mother poured the tea.

Her snowy rolls and gleamin' toast an'
waffles rich and brown
Are far ahead o' all the thrash ye git today in town,
An' life was sweet as honey, an' full o'
joy and glee,
In boyhood's sweetest, fleetest days, when mother poured the tea.

I see her now, the household queen, in her accustomed place,
Presidin' o'er the merry board with all a
monarch's grace,
An' good old Dad an' little Nan, an' Fred an' Sue an' me
Wuz feelin' prime at eatin' time, when mother poured the tea.

But mother's gone long years ago, up to a fairer clime,
An' things don't taste exactly like they did in childhood's time,
'Tain't 'cause I'm never hungry, I'm as chipper as can be,
But food don't taste just like it did when mother poured the tea.

THE FOREIGNERS ALL SAFE AT PEKIN

VARIOUS MINISTERS AT PEKIN ARE WELL AND ARE TO BE PROTECTED

MINISTERS SAFE ON WEDNESDAY BUT IN DANGER

Washington, July 20.

The secretary of State to-day received a telegram from Consul Fowler at Che foo dated afternoon of 20th saying that he had received the following telegram from the Governor of Shanting dated 10 o'clock "Received flying express from the Tsung Li Yamen forwarding cipher telegram dated July 18, from American minister at Pekin which I have transmitted, and by which you will see that the newspaper accounts are entirely rumors.

The state department has also received a despatch from consul Fowler dated night July 20 in which he communicates the following message telegraphed to him that day by the Governor of Shanting.

"I have just received definete information that various ministers in Pekin are well and the proper Chinese authorities are divising measures for their rescue and protection. This message is signed by Yuan and the Governor of Shanting.

Brussels, July 20, the Belgian Consul at Shanghai sends the following despatch under date of July 19. Sheng the adminstrator of telegraphs announces that the foreigners at Pekin were safe and sound July 19. An important decree dated July 18 orders the Viceroy of Tien Tsin to appraise the damage caused by the trouble and orders the local militia to repress the rebellion.

Washington, July 20.—The Chinese Minister has just received a cipher cable message from Minister Conger.

It is in the State Department cipher, and is transmitted through the Tsung Li Yamen and the Shanghi Taotai. It contains about 50 words and is signed in English with the name of Conger. The Minister has taken it to the State Department.

Washington, July 20, at 9.45 a.m.—Minister Wu handed the Conger despatch to Secretary Hay. No doubt was expressed by State Department officals as to the authenticity of the message.

Mr. Conger's telegram is as follows.

"In British Legation, under continued shot and shell from Chinese troops. Quick relief only can prevent general massacre.

Paris, July 20.—The Foreign office has received information from a Chinese source, in which, however, certain reliance may be placed, that the foreign ministers at Pekin have not been massacred. According to this information, on July 7, the ministers were attacked and the legations burned, but the foreigners succeeded in crossing the city to Prince Ching's palace, which was then barracaded. The Europeans were holding their own up to the time the news left on July 9. Since then nothing has been heard from Pekin.

SAFE ON THE 11th

Confirmation of Conger's Statement Comes From An Official Source.

Washington, July 20.—The State Department has just issued the following bulletin.—

The Secretary of State received this morning a despatch from Consul Fowler, at Chefoo, dated midnight, 19th, saying a Shanghai paper, of the 16th, said all foreigners murdered. Fowler wired the Governor demanding the truth. The Governor replied that his then were safe, but Pekin last city had been carried by rebels with intent to kill.

MARSACRE AT TAI YUAN

A Hundred and Sixty People Killed by the Boxers.

London, July 20.—A despatch from Shanghai received here this morning reports that sixty missionaries and one hundred native converts have been massacred by Boxers at Tai Yuan.

Tai Yuan is a fortified and populous city in the Province of Shan See, on the Fuen Ho, an affluent of the Hoang Ho, 250 miles southwest of Pekin.

RUSSIANS LOSE HEAVILY

Her Troops Unable to Make Any Headway Against the Boxers.

New York, July 20.—Russian is pouring troops over the northern Chinese border, but her forces are not yet concentrated and are meeting with serious losses to the Chinese Boxers, who overrun all North China, says a Chefoo cable to The World.

It is reported that after the allied army recaptured the native City of Tien Tsin last Saturday, their shells set fire to the town. The Chinese, before they fled, killed all their own women, it is reported, to prevent their falling into the foreigner's hands.

Native Chinese report that there are in and around Pekin at least 300,000 Chinese troops, and that the Boxers are armed with the best and most modern weapons.

Foresters Attention.

The members of Court Peterborough. No. 29. Canadian Order of Foresters, are requested to meet in their Hall, Simcoe street, at two o'clock this (Saturday) afternoon for the purpose of attending the funeral of our late brother, A. P. Morgan. Members of sister Courts are also invited to attend.

TO THE CENTRAL

Seven Men Marched off to the Central Prison, Toronto

Yesterday the extradonary spectacle of seven criminals, handcuffed together, and driven like cattle, was seen on Peterborough streets. Seven men, Albert Allen, 2 years, Geo. Foy, 2 years, Wm. Ralf, 6 months, Wm. Ryan, 6 months, Wm. Cooler, 6 months, Thos. Kelly, 6 months, Thos. Martin, 6 months were taken away. by one of the keepers of the prison, who came here for the purpose. They were a hard looking lot, as they paraded to the station.

The Late George Bevington.

George Bevington one of Peterborough County's oldest and most respected citizens, died at his late residence in North Monaghan, on Wednesday, at the ripe old age of 87 years. The deceased was born in Ireland, in 1813. He left Ireland with his father and three sisters in the year 1836. For some time he resided in the township of Emily during which time he enlisted for the rebellion of '37. He then moved to Ennismore, where he continued to reside until the year 1886 when he came to reside in North oMnaghan. Here he hasl ived ever since. Deceased in 1844 married Ann Cunningham of Cavan.

He leaves to mourn his demise one son and two daughters; the former is Richard, who occupies the homestead and thel atter are Mrs W .A. Tully of North Dakota, and Mrs. S. Howden of Fort Wayne.

NOT CAUSED BY MISSIONS

Mr. Denby Says the Chinese Uprising is Due to Growing Supremacy of Foreigners.

Indianapolis, July 20.—In an address before the Missionary Board of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church at Evansville, Charles Denby, formerly Minister in China, said that he did not believe the uprising in China was due to hatred of the missionaries or of the Christian religion. He said that the Chinese are a philosophic people and rarely act without reasoning upon the causes and results of their actions. They had seen their land disappearing and becoming the property of foreigners, and it was this that had awakened hatred of foreigners the actions of the missionaries or the doctrines that they teach. Col. Denby paid a high tribute to the work of the missionaries.

THE TROUBLE IS SPREADING SOUTHWARD

Reported Murder of Missionaries at Tai Yuan Giv s a Discouraging Aspect to the News From the Orient—Indian Troops Arriving Daily at Hong Kong Harbor

London, July 20.—To add to the gloom occasioned by the extremely serious importsof news showing the daily developing strength of the anti-foreign movemen tin the south of China, comes this morning from Shanghai a report that sixty missionaries and one hundred native converts have been massacred at Tai Yuan. Though the report is not yet corroborated, it tends to confirm the belief that thee hope that the central and southern Viceroyalties would hold aloof from the boxer rising, has never had much foundation. If this massacre has occurred in the Province of Shan See there can be little question that the intense anxiety for the safety of the international colonies at the river ports and even at Shanghai is fully justified, for an attack later by the masses of Chinese gathering in and about the international concessions would mean horrors compared with which the massacre at Pekin would be insignificant.

The rumor is again current in Shanghai that the Empress and Emperor are preparing to reitre from the capital to See Ngan Fu.

The authorities at St. Petersburg are satisfied that the measures for the relief of Harbin which is identical with Charbin, will be successful.

With a view to showing his good faith the Chinese Minister at St. Petersburg has begged the Russian Foreign Secretary to examine all despatches arriving for the Legation before their delivery.

Indian troops are daily arriving at Hong Kong en route to Taku.

A Hong Kong despatch reports a daring act of piracy within the harbor there. A score of pirates armed with revolvers seized a launch and took it up the Canton River, capturing two junks en route. After looting the craft the pirates abandoned them.

A Successful Candidate.

We are pleased to note the result of the recent kindergarten examinations at the Normal School in Toronto, whereby we find the name of Miss Lillian H. Rush among the successful candidates. Miss Rush, who is the eldest child of Mr. T. O. Rush, is but eighteen years of age, and well deserves the distinction which her success implies. The curriculum consisted of music, drawing and cognate subjects together with other studies of a difficult nature, peculiarly required for such a training. The rigidity of the examination is such that two years are allowed for its preparation, but the genius of our young artiste enabeld her to pass succesfully after nine months study only. We therefore offer our hearty congratulations to the talented young lady upon the auspicious event.

Former Citizen Injured.

The Rochester Democrat says: "Ryerson McCoy, a labourer, was seriously injured at the round house of the New York Central railroad at East Rochester about nine o'clock last night. It was part of McCoy's work to clear out the ash pit of the engines which come into the round house. He had concluded his work and began to crawl out on the track under the engine at the moment that the engineer began to back out. The wheels of the locomotice passed over his right foot. He was taken to the city hospital where the leg was amputated between the knee and the ankle. It is thought that McCoy will recover. He is 32 years old, is married and resides at 112 Thompson street." McCoy was a resident of Peterborough up to three years ago. He was employed here by Mr. T. Bradburn and by Mr. Thos Grady.

LI HUNG CHANG'S POSITION

A British Governor Gives Him Audience—Shanghai People View The Incident With Surprise—The Crafty Old Man Again Refuses an Appeal to Return to Canton

London, July 20. — Sir Henry Blake, Governor of Hong Kong, had an audience with Li Hung Chang, who landed at Hong Kong this morning. Sir Henry appealed to him to return to Canton until the troubles were over. Earl Li was obdurate, saying that he must obey the Imperial mandate ordering him to go to Pekin.

Earl Li assured Governor Blake that he had been summoned to Pekin by the Emperor and Dowager Empress, and not by Prince Tuan. He added that he had strictly enjoined Tak Shua, Governor of Canton City, to whom he had transferred the vice-regal seal, to preserve order.

At Shanghai the mission of Li Hung Chang is viewed with general distruct, and there is much indignation because of the reception and salutes given to him by the Governor and other officials at Hong Kong. The question arises, if he can receive from Pekin an intimation of his appointment as Viceroy of Chihli, which is recognized by the powers as emanating from a responsible government, what prevents the powers from insisting before allowing him to proceed that they be given full information regarding the Europeans in the capital?

HUTTON PRAISES THE WARRIOR SON OF BORDEN

He Cables to Ottawa Speaking of His Gallantry on More Than One Occasion Under Fire—Brockville Boy Wins the Victoria Cross

London, July 20.—The following despatch from Lord oRberts has been received at the war office;

"Pretoria, July 19.—Methuen occupied Heckpoort to-day wihtout opposition to speak of. Ian Hamilton and Mahon continued their march along the country north of the Delagoa Bay Railroad. Hunter is reconnoitering the positions occupied by the Free Staters between Bthlehem and Ficksburg."

HAMILTON TURNS EASTWARD

The Boers Hang Around His Rear as He Advances.

Pretoria, July 19.—After advancing north. General Hamilton's column turned eastward. Grobler's commando, which fell back northward before the British advance, followed General, Hamilton when he turned east and harassed his rear.

The Boers evidently intend to avoid fighting any pitched battle, but to bother the British as much as possible by guerilla tactics.

The prisoners taken at Mosselikatze Nek have been sent to Balmoral. A sergeant who had been captured made a nattempt to escape. He hid behind a house but was latter discovered by a field cornet. The sergeant had secured a revolverand he shot the field cornet dead. The Boers, however, heard the shots, and surrounded the sergeant and recaptured him.

Three train loads of indigent Boer families, whose male members are away with their commandos, were sent to General Botha's camp to-day.

WON THE VICTORIA CROSS

Brockville Boy Won the Coveted Distinction by His Gallantry.

Brockville, July 20.—Horace Robinson, a Brockville boy, serving in South Africa with Brabant's Horse, writing to his mother, under date of June 9th says, among other things; "I was paraded before the captain who commanded us at the seige of Wepner,, and told by him that he was going to recommend me for the Victoria Cross. The authorities are very chary about giving them to colonials, but I may get it. I had forgotten all about the incident, but he was very kind in his remarks about it. The outpost that I was occupying was at the croner of a wall, and a trooper by the name of oRberts was running across an open place when he was shot through the obdy an arm. I got him into shelter and went about half a mile through the open to the hospital for a stretcher but as all the attendants were busy I had to fetch it myself. Two of my chums helped me to carry him to the hospital. Their names are Squire and Johnson, and they are recommended for the distinguished coveted metal. We were exposed to the enemy's fire all the way going and coming, and they wasted lots of ammunition both ways."

THE LATE A. P. MORGAN

The Death of One of Peterborough's Most Esteemed Citizens.

Mr. A. P. Morgan is dead. The end came at eight o'clock on Thursday evening, and he passed peacefully away at the age of 52 years.

Mr. Morgan was one of Peterborough's best known and most respected citizens having lived in Peterborough since he was a young man. He was born in Otonabee in 1848, being a son of the late Wm. Morgan who came from Wales in 1832, and settled in Otonabee. The other children are Mr. John Morgan, Warsaw; Arthur, Otonabee, and Mrs. Martin, of Toronto.

Mr. Morgan was united in marriage to his present wife, Miss Eliza Ryan, daughter of the late Thomas Ryan, of Otonabee in 1862, and took up residence in Peterborough two years later, opening a hotel on the northeast corner of Chambers and Hunter streets. He carried on business here for seven or eight years, and moved to his present quarters on April 19, 1876, where he has been in business ever since.

The deceased was for many years a director of the agricultural society, in which he took a deep interest.

Mr. Morgan had the faculty of making friends, and his death will be unniversally deplored. He leaves a widow and two children—Mrs. Ed. Cox and Master Harry to mourn his death. He was a noble husband and a loving father.

The funeral will take place under the auspices of Court Peterboro, No 29, C.O.F.

AT THE POLICE COURT

The Case Against Charles McMahon Was Dismissed.

An interesting case was disposed of yesterday afternoon in the police court. It appears that Mr. Charles McMahon, our well known local horse trainer was arrested in Port Hope on Saturday last, charged with stealing a saddle from Fred Jones of Peterboro, and disposing of the same to Ira Nephews of Millbrook. This proceeding in no way troubled Charlie as he was confident of proving his innocence The premises where he boardrd prior to his leaving Peterboro was searched and the saddle, a hammock and other articles alleged to have been stolen were found and produced in court. When Mr. Nethercote was called he claimed that he had purchased a saddle from Mr. McMahon but when it transpired that it was not the saddle in question, the backbone of the case was broken and the magistrate very properly dismissed the action. Before doing so, however, he ruled that as the prosecution had seen fit to rush into criminal proceedings, they should bear the burden of the costs and also that, as the matter stood, the articles referred to be returned to the place they had been found adn remain there until there proper ownership be determined.

MASSACRE ABOUT TO OCCUR IN PERSIA

A General Massacre of the Three Thousand Christians in Oroomiah by the Mohammedans is Daily Expected—Several Hand to Hand Battles Have Already Taken Place

Chicago, July 20.—A special to the Record from Peoria, Ill., says.

George Shimoon, a Persian student who has been attending college in Illinois for several years, and is passing the summer in Peoria, yesterday received a cablegram from his home at Oroomiah, Persia, otating that his brother had been murdered by Mohammedans, and that a general massacre of the 3,000 Christians in Oroomiah was expected. The cablegram stated that the feeling of he Mohammedians against the natives Christians was growing, and that there had been several hand-to-haGnd battles, with fatalities on both sides.

Mr. Shimoon's father is a native missionary, and this fact adds to the wrath against him and his [illegible]

BETTER FOR THE WAR.

It's an ill wind that blows nobody good. We have it on the authority of the Spanish Consul at Chicago that the disaster which overtook his country in its conflict with the United States has really been a blessing in disguise. "The war," he says, "was a good thing for Spain. nation had been giving its best men and he says, "was a good thing for Spain. The $100,000,000 annually to the wars in progress in the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico. As a result of the recent conflict with America the powers of Spain are concentrated for the country's development and advancement. In ten years the world will not recognize the nation." The Consul believes his country to become "one of the foremost powers of Europe." The Spanish people, he says, realize that "the war with the United States was a war of governments and no animosity exists between the inhabitants of the two countries.

This is decidedly a cheerful view to take of the situation, and one that is not unreasonable. While Spain bled its colonies almost white, it was compelled to spend enormous sums in maintaining its supremacy. It was robbed by dishonest officials; and the soldiery was decimated by the guerilla warfare of the "patriot rebels." The flow of treasure and blood having been stopped, old Spain has a chance to recuperate, and if it does not meet the sanguine expectations of its representative in Chicago in becoming one of the foremost powers of Europe, it will doubtless regain a great deal of the prestige it once enjoyed as one of the old world nations.

FIGHTING NOT CHINA BUT CHINESE

People differentiate a war between nations, a matter of formal declaration, from a condition of rebellion against authority, in which authority itself may call on outside nations to aid it against internal enemies. The distinction is vital. The facts which create it cannot easily be confounded with those which make war in the international sense of the term. But those facts must be awaited. The governments of the world and the newspapers of the world are gathering all attainable facts. Their servants are withholding nothing. Enough is known to know what must be done. Not enough is known to show yet the best means of doing it. Still, the probability favors the theory of rebellion in China against the government of China, as the Times has already pointed out. And from this will be that that theory may be established. It will give to Christendom something for which to fight as well as something against which to fight. It will furnish a point of attraction for the allied powers. It will supply to them a reason and an object of unity. It will enable them to find or to make local agencies through which to work. It will restrain the land lust and the avarice of foreign powers, of which, as men bunched under governments, they are as capable as men are by themselves. It will assure a standing peace for the moral opinion of the world to hold the rulers of the world to the obligations of civilization on which depend the balances of peace within Christendom.

WOKE UP SIXTY THOUSAND SOLDIERS

The Fussy Major, Just Promoted, and His False Alarm.

"There never was any question as to the major's bravery," said the colonel at a dinner of veterans, "but he never got above the rank of major because he was overzealous. Too much zeal is quite as objectionable as too little and particularly in a volunteer regiment such as ours was. The major had been advanced to his major's commission from the ranks with speed, and he really felt that he could give Grant good advice on how the campaign should be directed. He was a military enthusiast, and no detail was too small for his attention. He staid awake nights to plan campaigns. During the fall of 1863 our regiment was brigaded with the regulars and our army lines extended some four miles. We had been pushing forward, and it was known that the Confederates were in force before us and that a big engagement was near. The troops had been hard pressed, and on the night when the major distinguished himself the army, except the pickets, was sleeping the sleep of the tired.

"Our pickets had been re-enforced and thrown far out in front to avoid a surprise. Our regiment was on the advanced line. The major had just received his commission, and as he awoke about 1 o'clock in the morning to think about it he wondered how he might show that he was worthy of his trust. Why not test his regiment by a false alarm? The more the major thought of this the better it appeared, and at 2 o'clock in the morning he tried it. He fired several shots from his revolver, started a cry to arms and then with his watch in his hand timed the sleepy men as they turned out half dressed and fell in by companies. The uproar was great, and it became greater. Drums rattled on either side of our regiment and far away in the distance. Regiment after regiment was formed, and orderlies began to dash up and down the lines looking for information for headquarters. The major had not noticed the tumult around him. He was too busy timing his own regiment and complimenting the companies which turned out promptly. I had been aroused from a sound sleep when an orderly came to my tent for information.

"'This looks like an attack in force, colonel,' he said.

"I rushed out to find half of the regiment formed and the major in full uniform beaming on the men.

"'What is the alarm, major?' I asked.

"'I was just testing the men, colonel.'

"'Is there no attack?'

"'No; just a false alarm which I got up for practice,' said the major.

"The major swore that he would prefer charges against me for the language which I used, but he never did. Message after message came to me from headquarters three miles away asking where the enemy was attacking and in what form. I got tired explaining that my major had been merely testing my men with a false alarm. From headquarters down to the smallest drummer boy every man in that army cursed the major. Nearly 60,000 tired men had been awakened in the middle of the night by his false alarm. His name became known all over the lines the next day. The major made no charges against me, and, fortunately for him, he got off with a severe calling down from headquarters. He fought bravely to the end of the war, but his chance for promotion had been lost by his zeal, which was great."—New York Sun.

Now She "Guides" Them.

There is a jolly mother in Brooklyn who has several grown up sons boarding at home with her, and they declare she wants to "boss" them all the time, just as if they were children. She laughingly repudiates their charge and declares that she merely wishes to advise and guide them, but has long ago ceased to rule them. Here is an example of the way she "guides" them: At dinner the other night a big meat pie and a small roast duck were brought on together. The duck was intended for the father principally. The boys were death on duck, their mother well knew, but it would not make a mouthful apiece for them; so, addressing the boy who sat nearest her, she said, "Which will you have, Bobbie, duck or pie?" and at once began cutting the pie.

"Duck!" said Bobbie promptly.

"No, Bobbie," answered his mother cheerfully, "you can't have duck, dear. Take your choice, my son, take your choice, but you can't have duck!"

Three Meals a Day.

How many years of her life does a woman spend over the hot cook stove getting those three meals a day? Back aching, head throbbing, nerves twitching, it's all the same, there are three meals a day to be prepared. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cannot lighten woman's labor, but it can and does increase her strength. It cures those diseases of the womanly organs which undermine woman's vitality.

"I cannot praise Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription too highly as a tonic for tired, worn-out women who are afflicted with female weakness," writes Mrs. Ira W. Kellogg, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa. "It has helped me very much and a skilled physician once said to me in answer to my question as to its efficacy, 'I know of cases where it has really worked wonders.'"

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets do not re-act upon the system. They are a good thing to keep in the house. One 'Pellet' is a laxative, two a cathartic dose. The medicine for every woman.

STORIES OF WATERLOO.

The Battle of Waterloo, the last act in the ambitious career of Napoleon Bonaparte, has become a synomon for disappointed hopes and blasted prospects; so that when a bold plunger in financial or commercial transactions comes to grief he is said to have met his Waterloo.

There are not many now living who can remember the 18th of June, 1815, but there may be some, who, like myself, were born within a few months of that great day, and who, from the study of contemporary literature or personal intercourse with those who participated in the stirring events of those times, therefore to form a proper estimate of what transpired.

When Napoleon returned from Elba he at once commenced to organize an army for fresh conquest, but the allied sovereigns had resolved that he should not be allowed to further disturb the peace of Europe, and so an army was put in motion to oppose his progress. Napoleon took his stand on the rising ground at La Belle Alliance, which he did not leave until he had to fly. He had a farmer of the neighborhood on horseback beside him to give information about the country and ground in the vicinity, the two horses being connected by the bridle reins.

The Prussians were commanded by Marshal Blucher; the British and their allies were under the Duke of Wellington, who had fixed his headquarters at Brussels, having his army so disposed in the neighborhood as to be easily concentrated at any point. The two roads converging upon Brussels were guarded by outposts of the British, that at Quatre Bras being in charge of the Prince of Orange with 8000 men. I was attacked on the morning of the 16th by Napoleon, but the British held their ground until reinforced from Brussels, when the French retreated. Blucher had promised to support Wellington, but being attacked by Napoleon at Ligny on the 16th, after a hard day's fighting he retreated to Wayne, still keeping open his communication with the British. Wellington made a similar movement, taking up a position on a low range of hills, gently sloping towards the northern front of the village of Waterloo. The French were upon a rising ground on the south side of the village. While at breakfast Napoleon told his officers there were 90 chances in his favor and not 10 for the British. He made a great display of his army in panoramic style, the appearance being really grand.

The battle commenced about noon on the 18th by a storm of artillery from the French. Wellington acted upon the defensive. The British infantry were formed into squares which could not be broken by either cavalry or infantry, and though often broken in upon by artillery, filled up the gaps and held their ground. The French cavalry often charged and galloped round them, but always retreated with loss from the volleys of infantry fire, charges of the cavalry and the fire of the British artillery. Wellington rode from one part of the field to another, taking refuge in some of the squares on the approach of the French cavalry, remarking to his officers—"Hard pounding this, gentlemen, but we will stand it out." Napoleon exclaimed — "What brave troops! But I shall have them yet." The British light cavalry often chased the French as they retired from the squares, but some regiments, being too impetuous, became involved with their enemies and suffered severely. Lord Uxbridge asked Wellington to allow him to take on the heavy brigade, composed of the Life Guards, the Scotch Greys, the Enniskillen Dragoons and others. "Do you think you can do it?" said the Duke. "Yes," was the reply. "Then go ahead." In a song of the time it is said—

The first to come o'er were the gallant Scotch Greys,
The brave Enniskillins and then the Queen's Bays,
Like unto the first there are none to compare,
They were all brought up between Lanark and Ayr.

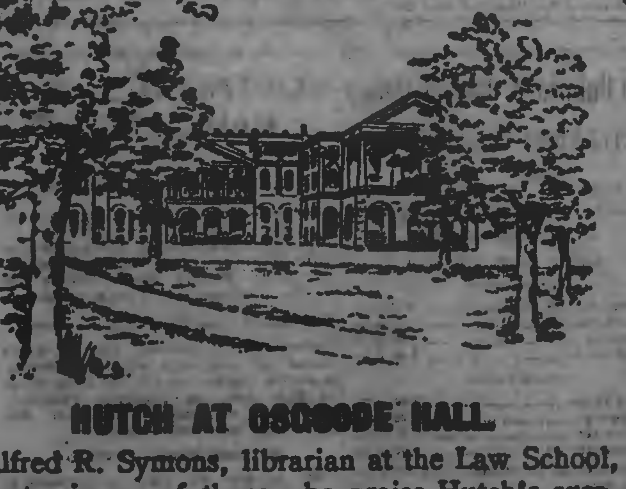
These were more careful than the Light Brigade, going at an easy trot, so that some of the Highlanders could run alongside, holding to the stirrups and cheering, "Scotland for ever!" But when their swords came into play they did fearful execution, causing Napoleon to exclaim—"Those terrible grey horse; Bulow, with 30,000 Prussians, began his march through heavy crops and muddy roads at daybreak, and now came near to the field on the British left. Napoleon sent Lobau with 10,000 men to oppose him, but these not being sufficient, the old and also the new guard were sent against him. It was now far in the afternoon. Wellington was anxious and said—"Would to God that either night or Bluch would come!" Some time afterward he heard the guns of the Prussians and exclaimed "There goes old Blucher at last," and burst into tears. The troops detached to meet Bulow and the charges of the British cavalry had disorganized the French. Napoleon now ordered out his Imperial Guard. Wellington saw the movement. He shut up his telescope and said, "let the whole line advance" and lifting his hat he shouted "Up Guards and at them." The pent up feelings and patience of the British now found vent, and as the French infantry were ascending the slope to the British position they received a volley in their faces which caused them to recoil and then the bayonet did its deadly work, and the rout was complete. Whether carried away by his own feelings or the press of his troops Wellington was in the center of the crowd, and when someone remonstrated with him for rashly exposing himself retorted "what does it matter? The battle is won and my life is little matter." He was on the high road at the bottom of the valley when Blucher rode up and embraced him on horseback, saying, the Prussians would take up the pursuit which they did by moonlight, taking much spoil, guns and prisoners.

Napoleon was one of the first to leave the field of carnage; he reached Paris on the morning of the 19th and told his ministers that he had been defeated. Ney had acted like a madman, but he could not transact business until he had a bath and a breakfast. He then asked his ministers to raise 1200,000 with which to equip a new army. When finding this could not be done and that Paris was not a safe place for him he disguised himself and made for the sea coast, where he took a fishing boat and tried to escape, but as he could not avoid the British cruisers he gave himself up to Capt. Maitland of the Bellerephon to the Prince Regent, casting himself on his mercy. He indulged the hope of being taken to London and made a lion of, but the ministry thought he would be better on St. Helena, and so sent him there.

On the morning of the 18th Wellington had an early breakfast, after which he mounted his horse, and proceeded to get his army in proper positions. While thus engaged he was approached by the colonel of a company of Belgians who were conspicuous by the richness of their uniforms and tall plumes, who asked the Duke where he should place his men, intimating that they were entitled to some consideration as they were all gentlemen. Wellington replied that there was a hill in the rear from which a good view of the battle might be had. The Belgian colonel not perceiving the sarcasm rode off with his company up the hill, where they sat and viewed the conflict, but took no part in it.

Wellington's cook had erected his kitchen on the rear, but as the day advanced and the charges of the French cavalry became frequent, some of the officers asked him to get further off but he refused, as the duke promised to be back for dinner at 4 o'clock, and he would not disappoint so good a master and so held his ground.

The bankers and members of the Stock Exchange at London had sent an agent to Brussels to watch the outcome of events. He did so, and having learned the result of the battle he went down to the coast, got on board a boat and set sail for England. On reaching London he reported to his employers, who told him he might make any use he pleased of his information after 10 o'clock a.m. He waited upon the Ministry of the Government and told his news, but they would not credit them until Mr. Croker put a few questions to him, which being answered satisfactorily, he said to his colleagues "You may believe this gentleman, he is correct." The first public intimation of the victory was given in the London Times of Thursday, June 22, including Wellington's official despatch, although the ministry knew of it the day previous. A reprint of the Times is in my possession from which I learn that the loss of life was British, 15,000; Prussians, 7000 and 5000 prisoners; French, 30,000.



HUTCH AT OSGOODE HALL.

Alfred R. Symons, librarian at the Law School, Toronto, is one of those who praise Hutch's curative powers. Mr. Symons says that owing to the sedentary nature of his work he suffered for years with sour stomach, dyspepsia, and constipation. He endeavoured by every means to obtain relief, and did not spare expense. Prominent physicians were consulted, but at best only temporary relief was obtained. The same old misery came back stronger than ever. Mr. Symons was induced to try Hutch, and procured his first package at Harbottle's Drug Store, King street west. "I was a very much surprised man," said Mr. Symons, "at the sudden relief I obtained. I have been taking Hutch three weeks now, and I have not suffered any stomach distress whatever in that time. I am no longer costive. I am delighted with Hutch. It is a wonderful treatment."

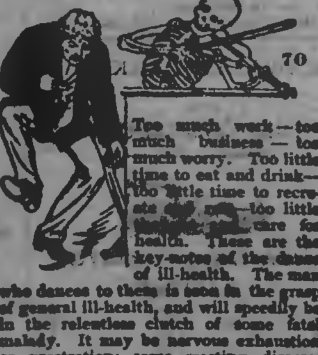
DANCING TO THE MUSIC OF DEATH.

Thousands and thousands of men, without realizing it, are daily dancing to the music of death. It is a measure that ever grows faster and brings a man rapidly nearer and nearer to the grave.



Too much work—too much business—too much worry. Too little time to eat and drink—too little time to recreate and rest—too little thought and care for health. These are the key-notes of the dance of ill-health. The man who dances to them is soon in the grasp of general ill-health, and will speedily be in the relentless clutch of some fatal malady. It may be nervous exhaustion or prostration; some wasting disease, deadly consumption, or almost any ailment in the category of human ills. There is a sure, speedy, and permanent remedy at hand.

Ninety-eight per cent. of all cases of consumption, chronic, or lingering coughs and kindred ailments are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It acts through the blood directly on the lungs, driving out all disease germs and building up new and healthy tissues. It builds firm flesh and makes rich, pure blood. It tones the nerves and brightens the brain. It invigorates the liver and makes the kidneys active. Druggists have nothing else "just as good."

"About two years ago I had grip, which left me feeling miserable—no strength and a cough," writes Mrs. C. Maynard, of East Lyme, New London Co., Conn. "As some of my family died with consumption I feared that, so I began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. After taking the second bottle I felt much better, and now am feeling very well for one of my age (sixty-three years). Have had a house full of company all summer and two hired men part of the time, and I have done all the work alone."

"About two years ago I was taken with eczema in its worse form," writes Austin Ramsey, Esq., of Saltillo, Huntingdon Co., Pa. "I commenced doctoring for it as soon as I found out what it was. Tried three doctors but got no relief. I thought it would set me wild; it itched and burned so badly, I thought I could not live. The neighbors thought I would never be cured. I wrote to you and you advised me to try your 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I commenced to take the 'Discovery' as you said. I took four bottles before I saw any change—then I began to get better. I have taken sixteen bottles in all. Took your 'Pellets' with the 'Discovery.' I am now about well. I had kidney trouble for four or five years and your 'Golden Medical Discovery' also cured that sound and well. I cannot say enough in praise of your 'Golden Medical Discovery.'"

"I consider Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery the finest remedy ever compounded, for bladder trouble," writes Prof. C. Chrisiner, of Carthage, Jasper Co., Mo. "My case was a desperate one. I was starved, and had about given up all hopes. I consulted Dr. Anderson and he told me mine was the worst case of catarrh of the bladder he ever saw. He told me there was only one remedy in the medical world that he knew of that would reach my case and that was Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. In less than one half-hour after I had my first dose I felt relief. Three bottles have cured me sound and well. Now where can I find words to express my gratitude?"

Rev. Dr. C. D. McDonald, of Grafton, N. Dak., President of the North Dakota Christian Endeavor Union, writes "Mrs. McDonald thinks so much of your book 'Common Sense Medical Adviser' she wants a second copy of it—she has loaned to a neighbor the first. I enclose 31 cents for cloth bound copy."

"The Common Sense Medical Adviser," Dr. Pierce's thousand-page family doctor book with over three hundred illustrations and colored plates, will be sent for a limited time only, absolutely free, paper-bound, on receipt of thirty-one cents in one-cent stamps to pay the cost of customs and mailing only. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y. If a handsome, cloth-bound volume is preferred, send fifty stamps, to pay extra cost of this handsome and more durable binding.

An Alarming Truth

Kidney and Bladder Trouble carrying to untimely graves more people than all other diseases combined.

Kidney and Bladder troubles are carrying to untimely graves more people than all other diseases combined. In a recent report by expert medical authority it was stated that in post-mortem examinations from death resulting from any and all causes it was found that in four-fifths of the cases examined in one year, kidney and bladder troubles existed in a greater or less degree. This is an alarming truth and were it not for the wonderful curative powers of Powley's Liquified Ozone—the outlook for the race generally from a health standpoint would be a bad one. The new treatment eradicates from the system all kidney taints, puts these organs in a position to do their work faithfully and well and no need of the painful and all too often surgical operations which result fatally. If your kidneys are wrong Ozone will cure them and keep them cured.

Thos Arnold, of Lindsay, Ont.

Operated on and pronounced incurable, but to use his own word, Ozone was his "Good Friend."

THE OZONE CO.,—

Sirs,—Some years ago I strained myself; cold set in and very soon I had disease of the bladder which gave me great pain. I was operated upon and pronounced incurable. You recommended your remedy "Ozone" which I at once tried. Ozone acted at once in a vigorous manner on all my urinary organs and I soon received benefit. I am glad to say that I am now about cured, as all my former symptoms are nearly gone. I am free from pain and can work easily and feel physically like a new man. We use your remedy for all ills to any of our family. We feel we would loose the time. Very respectfully yours,

MY FIRE.

It starts;
A sinuous eyelash from the sun,
A golden, leaf shaped, dancing thing,
Bending fernlike in a magic breeze,

And grows
And saps the virgin forest's strength
With writhing, biting arms,
And with its red jaws through the gloom
Casts slim shadows round the room,

And, waxing still,
It lashes round the knotted wood
With soft but cruel sting,
Till, gorged with strength, it fades away
Beneath a coverlet of gray,

And now,
Like molten sunset from the west,
Pulsates as with living breath
Till, dying midst the ashes its greed has made,
Its heart is still and ashes mark the grave.

—A. St. Allan in Morningside.

Mr. Jeffries will reward his old patron and benefactor by beating him into pulp and knocking his head off. INVESTIGATION SHOWS WISDOM

I make the absolute claim that Rob Roy Mining Shares are one of the least risky things you can invest in!

Strong language, as mining is usually classed as a speculation, and rightly so—if a lot of good common isn't used!

Still I fearlessly say that these shares are safer than nine tenths of the monetary risks you daily run—in horses or cattle, for instance!

I have seen the properties, know the men at the head of affairs (well known London men they are too!), have my own money up, and am prepared to give you the benefit of my experience if you want it!

You have $100, say, that you want to invest if you can find a safe and profitable place for it. Well there's nothing going that I know of better than Rob Roy stock at .15 per share!

If this interests you and you mean business, drop me a line, and I'll gladly tell you what I know.

In any event you don't HAVE to buy.

Altogether likely these shares will be taken off the market inside of a few weeks.

General Repair Works.

and bicycle merchants, corner of Hunter & Queen streets. All work warranted first class. Patronage solicited.

A Tasty Sketch.

The envelopes of the Y. M. C. A. Camp at Clear Lake is decorated with a sketch of last year's camp. The sketch was made by Mr. Percy McIsaac, the clever young artist of the Times, who is a member of the camp this year.

Methodist vs Presbyterian.

The Eclipse run an excursion from Baltimore, under the auspices of the Methodist and Presbyterian churches, on the 18th., to Keene for dinner, Rainey Point for tea. At the latter place a tug of war took place between the Methodists and Presbyterians. After a steady pull of 5 minutes, the Methodist's won. A very enjoyable day was spent.

Saved a Horse.

One of the horses used for turning the capstan on one of the Dickson Company's drives, got off the crib into the water at Stony Lake on Wednesday evening the animal would have been drowned but for the assistance rendered by the Steamer Empress, which happened to be passing at the time, and took a "hitch" and pulled the horse to shore.

Horses Wanted.

Farmers and others having horses to dispose of will consult their own interests by bringing them along to Mr. W. J. Pearson, the well-known horse dealer of Montreal, who is offering the highest market prices for a car load of good sound horses of every description. If you want square dealings bear in mind the places and dates of Mr. Pearson's next visit, as given below, and govern yourself accordingly—At the Leonard House, Warkworth, Tuesday morning, July 24th.; Coughlin's Hotel, Hastings, Tuesday afternoon, July 24th; White's Hotel, Peterborough, Wednesday, July 25th (all day.)

[illegible] Robbery.

On Wednesday last a Downey street man helped himself to a pocket book, and rushed down Stewart street, followed by a lady, in hot pursuit, who overtook the thief on Wolf street, and demanded her money. This, the fellow refused and proceeded to the C. P. R. tracks, where the lady took more severe measures, by knocking the man down with a stone. The man finally got away, and hid in the R. C. Cemetery. The woman, who is the fellow's wife, finally gave up her attempt to recover her treasure, and returned home.

The Partridge Season.

Partridges were so depleted last season that there were in danger of extinction, and therefore the game law was so amended that partridges could not be offered for sale, and provision was made to enable the government to prohibit shooting the birds at all, as it was feared would be necessary this season. The season, however, has been a good one for partridges, dry weather prevailing during brooding, and the open season will be as usual.

Millbrook Reporter.—Mr. J. A. Dawson, of Peterborough, was in town over Sunday, the guest of Mr. C. H. Tait. He sang a solo in the Presbyterian Church at the afternoon service which was much appreciated by the congregation, many of whom had heard his fine voice when he took part in the Oratorio last Easter.

REPORTERS' ROUNDS

Local Happenings Picked Up Here and There by the Times.

—Fishing was never better at Rice Lake than at present.

—There is a large number of camps along the river below the locks.

—The bridge over the creek on Charlotte street is being repaired.

—There was a very large turnout last night to hear the band in the park.

-The McDonald Lumber Company is shipping large quantities of slabs to Toronto.

—At the entrance examinations at Hastings 23 candidates wrote, and 4 passed and 3 were recommended.

Your best friend can give you no better advice than this—"For impure blood, bad stomach and weak nerves take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

—A black bass weighing 4 1-2 pounds was caught in the river near the water works yesterday by a lad named Byrne.

-The Eclipse delivered a load of hogs yesterday to the Matthews Co. She returns to-day with a load of machinery to Robbin's Landing.

Congratulations will be extended to Rt .Wor. Bro. Alex. Gibson on his election to the office of Grand Junior Warden of the Grand Lodge of Canada, A. F. & A. M.

Our enterprising fellow townsman Mr. R. M. Roy, lent an additional attraction to the band concert last night, by giving a number of Stereoptican views during the programme.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Mr. Thos. Robson of Fenelson Falls, was in town yesterday.

We were pleased to have a call yesterday from our old friend, Mr. Wm. Cumming who is spending a few days with friends.

Miss Edith Dawson, of town among the successful Normal candidates who attended at Toronto. Miss H. Cahill and Miss K. Gilliespie, who attended at Ottawa, are also among the successful list. These young ladies are to be congratulated upon succuring their certificates.

The Times' Megaphone.

The very thing for Stony Lake Cottagers and Campers. It will carry the voice half a mile to a mile and a half. Made in two sizes. Price $1.25 and $1.50. Every Cottager should have one.

Back to Old Size.

The Times will re-appear in its enlarged form in a few days, arrangements having been completed for a regular supply of paper for the purpose. We were obliged to change the size and make-up of the paper on account of procuring white paper, there being a paper famine through the destruction of paper mills by fire. We are pleased to say that our paper will be better than ever in a few days.

Died in Toronto.

The remains of the late Mrs. Endell, of Toronto were brought to town yesterday for interment in the Little Lake Cemetery. Mrs. Endell whose death took place on Wednesday, was a daughter of the late C. D. Macdonald, for some years town clerk of Peterborough and sister of James W. Macdonald also town clerk for a time. She leaves a husband and one child, also two sisters and one brother. Many friends had gathered at the station, whence the funeral took place to the cemetery, Rev. Wm Bennet conducting the ceremony.

Dummer's Town Hall.

Mr. Adam Dawson who has the contract for the construction of the new Town Hall at Warsaw, was home yesterday. The building is 28 x 46 feet in size, the ceiling with gable ends, being 16 feet in height. The exterior is of brick. A hardwood floor has been laid inside, and the ceiling is of oiled and varnished basswood, whilst the walls are sheeted. A very fine stage or platform has been erected inside. Mr. Jacob White was the architect and also superintended the work of construction. He is entitled to a great deal of credit for the job. Mr. Lumsdale and partner had the contract for the woodwork.

MEN OF AFFAIRS.

Need Proper Food to Supply the Brain.

The "Medical Sentinel" comments on the restless brain worker of our large cities and refers to the fact that he thinks he knows as much about the needs fo the brain, when he is tired and shows brain fag, as a trained practitioner.

He is inclined to spur up the tired organs by some stimulant or perhaps quiet its complaints with the narcotic of tobacco, and this plan goes on until suddenly he collapses, for brain fag is sure sign that the elements that compose the brain are being more rapidly used up than replaced by the food.

There is really a choice of but two pathways for an active brain worker—a man of affairs—when he shows symptoms of breaking down. Either he must quit work or he must have food that will replace the structure of brain and nerve centers as rapidly as they are used up each day.

Chemical analysis of the particles thrown out through the pores of the body shows that after continued brain work, a large portion of excreta contains phosphate of potash. It is known that when this element is furnished by the food in proper quantities, the system unites it with albumen and from that compound makes the gray matter that fills the nerve centers and the brain.

This is an especial feature of the food known as Grape-Nuts, a delicious, ready-cooked and predigested breakfast food.

A definite and well understood gain in brain power and physical strength will set in after Grape-Nuts have been used eight or ten days, and sustained and continued brain work can be carried on if a reliance is placed upon this food in connection with the ordinary food of the day.

LOCAL NEWS-LETTERS.

NORWOOD.

The 12th of July was celebrated in Norwood with much enthusiasm. There was a very large gathering—the largest of the kind held in this place for many years. All the lodges in the district, including several from the neighboring County of Northumberland, were present, and about 4,000 people accompanied them to town. The lodges were headed by Mr. D. Andrews, the Marshal of the day, and Mr. James Burgess, County Master, and were given a hearty welcome in the village. The day was cool and pleasant. The streets were gaily decorated for the occasion with flags and arches, evergreens, mottoes and colors, the significance of which is well understood by every Orangeman.

After dinner the lodges assembled in Ridge street, where a procession was formed, and proceeded by way of Pine, Peterborough, Colborne and Queen streets to Grover's Wood, where addresses were delivered by a number of clergymen and prominent members of the order.

The order of procession was as follows—

Marshall, D. Andrews, County Sec.; County Master, J. A. Burgess; L.O.L., No. 166, Warkworth, fife and drum and banner, John McCutchen, master; L.O.L., No. 261, Roseneath, fife and drum and banner, J. STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

During the thunder storm last week the residence of Mr. John Knox, near the village was struck by lightning. The current ran down the conductor pipe and made an opening in the bottom of the cistern which let the water off.

CONCERT.

The concert held in the Palace Skating rink on the evening of the 12th, was not largely patronized. Miss D. Guene, Mr. Fax and Mr. Howson won considerable favor in the rendering of the several numbers of the programme.

Y. M. C. A. CAMP

Y. M. C .A. Camp July 18th.

Some time before seven, the appointed hour of departure from town, the boys were arriving in ones and twos, but as usual the busses were late and kept us waiting for about two hours. In the meantime a number of boys took it into their heads to go down for a "horn," but as they were obtained at the hardware store, they weren't dangerous. After buying up all the fog horns procurable, they formed into a line and marched around the block much to the disgust of a number of late sleepers.

About nine o'clock the last 'bus was started, and with it a large amount of tooting and hooting. Although packed in the rig much to close for comfort, the boys took everything good naturedly, even to the green peas, apples and cherries along the road, and the biscuits brought by "Brick and Porcupine."

A short time was allowed at Lakefield for the boys to "stretch themselves. Thus they did in a number of ways, some by eating ice-cream, some by drinking lemon sour and a few, amongst whom was "Junior Jiddy," by getting on the outside of large slices of water-melon which as "Jiddy" expressed it, made the belt fit a little tighter. Judging by the size of the slices it naturally would.

A large hound, evidently recognizing a good thing when he sa wit, followed us from Lakefield but lost his good taste again when we arrived at camp, and left us.

At Younge's Point, lunch was partaken of, and the hotel being handy a little tea was procured to "wet our whistles."

We arrived at the camp about one o'clock. The sight of so many hungry urchins must have had a demoralising effect on the cook, as he seemed very willing to allow us to fill up on water.

The heavy showers yesterday came on just as our advance guard arrived on the grounds. They erected one of the tents as quickly as possible and put the baggage under it, but not before it had been pretty well sprinkled. After spreading out their bedding, nearly everyone went in bathing, "Corv," as usual being first in, and even the sight of the "Whale" coming toward him didn't frighten him out.

The camping ground is covered with ferns and lavender-colored blossoms. It is a pretty sight at present, but with fifty pairs of "brogues" continually tramping over it, it will lose much of its present beauty.

Cow-breakfasts are much in evidence at present, and some of them certainly look large enough for dinner too.

A. M. July 19.—

The second day of camp has opened with the sun shining brightly. Although a quite a numbre went out fishing, no fish were brought in. One fellow got fastened to a 'lunge and hauled it up to the side of the boat but, alas, "The fish was so large it broke the hook," consequently we didn't have it for breakfast.

The different sections report a fairly good night's rest, except for the visits of Donkey's section which proves to be a nest of night hawks—making raids on the other tents until it became so light their evil deeds could be seen. Of course we had considerable difficulty in arousing them this morning, but it became absolutely necessary as their loud snoring sound like distant thunder and some of the others, mistaking it for such, began fastening up their tents and preparing for a rainy day.

The hospital tent looks quite snug with the Red Cross and Union Jack flags flying over it, but there is enough barking coming from that direction to make up for three or four watch dogs.

The camp with its seven tents in a row on the bank, is a pretty sight, and the camp arrangement promises to be extra good. Two stoves are necessary to cook for such a number.

A post Office has been set up, and the mail will be taken up to Juniper daily and the encoming mail brought down.

Quite a nQumbr of magazines and books have been brought up, and a reading room started consisting of a long board nailed to the fence on which the magazines are spread out, and another board for a seat. A prayer-meeting was held immediately after breakfast under the shade of a spreading pine tree. "Hunting Buck," accompanied by several of his braves, went and picked enough berries for his breakfast, or rather to flavor some sugar with, and they seemed to enojy it very much.

Coming up Ross Dubbin, otherwise called Dorbin, unfortunately left his camera on the bank in getting into the skiff at Younge-s Point although he returned almost immediately it had disappeared.

COMMUNICATION RE-OPENED TO PEKIN

CHINESE GOVERNMENT DOING ITS UTMOST TO OVERCOME DIFFICULTIES

A Few Days More Should Bridg a Solution of the Great Mystery

CHINESE RIFLES TOOK THE AMERICANS IN FLANK

Chinese at Tien Tsin Fired With a Deadly Accuracy That Surprised the Allied Officers—No Doubt About Minister Conger's Despatch—It is Confirmed From Other Sources

An Imperial Ukase issued to-Imperial Ukase issued to-day orders that astate of siege be proclaimed in the military distret of Siberia Turkestan and Semeritchinck and all reservists in those districts be called to the colors.

Shanghai, July 22.

Li Hung Chang who arrived here today on the steamer Emping from Hong Kong was coldly received. The native officials sent an escort ofthree hundred armed troops, but as the French consul objected to their passing through the French settlement they were withdrawn and Earl Li landed under an escort of twelve French police. Once out of French jurisdiction he was handed over to the cosmopolitain settlement police who escorted him to his place of residence on the buffinwell road the Emping having infractions of war on board to the harbor regulations by entering and was compelled to leave the limits. The consuls have decided not to call upon Li Hung Chang officially. Berlin the German consul Swat an telegraphs under date of July 22 that all German missionaries from the interior of the province of Kwang Tung have arrived here safely.

Hong Kong July 22.

The second India brigade has been ordered to remain here. The British first class battleship Goliath and two Indian transports with troops have arrived off Hong Kong.

London, July 22.

Sir Chi Chin—Loh Fang, the Chinese minister in London took the unusual step yesterday of paying a Sunday call at the foreign office. As Lord Salisbury was absent the visit was without special result. Sir Halliday Mac Artney admitted that communication had been proclaimed re-opened with Pekin and that messages from Sir Claud MacDonald the British minister and the other foreign envoys might be expected almost immediately. He said he hoped the trouble would soon be over since the Chinese government was doing its utmost to overcome the difficulties and control the lawless. In his opinion the Americans had taken the most common sense view of the situation and he insisted that China ought not to be misjudged against the suspicion that Li Hung Chang had anything in view.

The protested warmily declaring that all stories about the said trechery of Earl Li were absolutely baseless. According to the Sec. of the Chinese Legation a few days more should bring a solution of the great mystria never the less no one in England believes that the alleged despatches are anything but to hide the real situation as long as possible and revert restribution by so doing bring discord among the powers From Shanghai comes a report that the Empress Dowager and the court are moving to Hsian Fe the province of Stanse to which the largest stores of rice are sent and that when these arrangements are completed the remaining Viceroy will declare against foreigners. The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily mail declares that the Chinese official are thoroughly frightened by the fall of Tien Tsin.

NO MASSACRE AT PEKIN

Minister Conger's Despatch is Confirmed by News From Other Sources.

London, July 21. — The newspapers which in an unguarded moment accepted the sanguinary story of a massacre in Pekin, are lobh to admit that they, made a blunder. Consequently, they are endeavoring to cast doubt upon Minister Conger's despatch received at Washington yesterday. The reason for doing so are absurd on the face of them. They allege, forsooth, that the Chinese out of a batch of despatches from Minister Conger which have been intercepted and retained since the trouble assumed an acute stage, have selected the one which arrived yesterday and given it a fictitious date. When it is considered, however, that the despatch was in a cipher, the key of which is held only by the Minister of Pekin, and the Department at Washington, this theory is ridiculous, for the Chinese could not have read it and ascertained that it was suitable. The second theory that the legations have been looted and that Prince Tuan has secured the cipher key is so absurd as to be scarcely worth consideration. Persons of ordinary common-sense parceive in a moment that it would b eimpossible for Prince Taun the leader of the rebels to transmit such a message by telegraph wires which are admittedly still in possession of the ruling powers, and through the hands of officials of the dynasty which he, is aiming to overthrow. The opinion of officials here who are said to be incredulous regarding the message, is not worth a row of pins when placed against the verdict of those at Washington who have the despatch in their hands are confident of its authenticity,. In brief the efforts to discredit the latest news from China is regarded by reasoning people as the efforts of yellow journals to bolster up their own extravagant stories. It is absolutely certain that no massacre has taken place at Pekin up too Wednesday last.

NARROWLY ESCAPED DISASTER

Graphic Battle Story of the Attack Upon Tien Tsin.

Chefoo, July 19.—Via Shanghai, July 21.—The attack on the native city of Tien Tsin on July 13 resulted in the narrowest escape from what seemed up to midnight would be a terrible disaster for the allies.

The Russians swinging north, and the other allies south, at daybreak the Russians were to take the forts near the native city walls, and the other allies the city itself.

General Tukushina, the Japanese commander, promised that the Japanese engineers after three hours shell fire from all guns would cross the bridge over the moat before the wall, and blowing up the great south gate, make a breach for the infantry to enter.

Upon this depended everything. General Tukushina had not scouted the bridge, and in 24 hours had not scouted the ground over which the charge on the bridge had to be made.

The Chinese destroyed the bridge and flooded the land around it. The allies' shell fire in no wise subdued the Chinese rifle fire from the loop-holed wall which was thirty feet high with a moat twenty feet in depth around it.

An outer wall of mud made it impossible for the infantry and marines coming up the field to reply to the Chinese fire. They lost 50 men in 10 minutes, then rushed back from the mud wall, which they had reached.

General Dorward, the British Commander, hastened forward with a fragmentary, instead of an integral skirmish line.

The American marines and the Welsh Fusiliers together, under command of Waller, were on the extreme left. Then the British marines and the French advanced with the Japanese along the road toward the gate in the mud wall.

Dorward's plan for the Americans to support the Japanese was not made clear to Col. Liscum of the Ninth United States infantry.

Dorward lays the blame for the blunder and sacrifice of life on Liscum, but Dorward's chief of staff was heard to say when Liscum moved; "Get in down the road anywhere, quickly."

Col. Liscum hurriedly led his man through the gate in as open order as possible.

They were immediately under fire. The staff saw them pass over the bridge leading to a field which proved to be a cul de sac.

Three thousand rifles probably were truned on them with an accuracy which has amazed every officer among the allies.

The blue shirts of the American troops made the m distinct marks, where the khaki uniforms of the other allies could not be seen.

The Americans charged into the flank fire with rushes. The ground over which they charged was marshy and lined with ditches.

It was evidently Col. Liscum's intention to rush the houses from which the flank fire was coming, and thus get a position for flanking the wall.

At 12.30 the line had just reached the shore of the canal, and thirty yards separated them from the house, when the color bear fell.

Col. Liscum picked up the colors and stood looking around, apperently for a ford.

The next instant a sharpshooter's bullet went through the brave colonel's abdomen.

The Japanese losses were severe. The Japanses were most gallant in the fight,. But for the Americans stopping the flank fire, the Japanese loss would have been much heavier.

The French, Japanese, American and the British entered the city at two o'clock on the morning of July 14. Their entry was unopposed

The American flag at half-mast was hoisted over the south gate. The walls were strewn with the corpses of Chinese soldiers killed by the shell fire which caused their fight. None, apparently, were hit by the bullets, the damage being done by lyddite sheels.

There is a terrible row over the burning of the town. Several foreign officers are reported lost.

The tired soldiers remain on the walls. The natives went looting through the Chinese town. The bank and the arsenal were heavy sufferers.

IMPERIAL EDICT ISSUED

It Says That the Foreigners in Pekin Were Safe on Wednesday.

Paris, July 21.—Yu Keng, the Chinese Minister here, to-day handed to the Minister of Foreign Affairs, M. Delcasse, an Imperial edict, dated July 18, giving the assurance that all foreign Ministers in Pekin except Baron Von Ketteler, the German Minister, were then safe and sound under the protection of the Imperial Court.

MORE EVIDENCE OF SAFETY

There is Not the Slightest Doubt of the Ambassador's Safety.

Washington, July 21.—The Chinese Minister, Wu Ting Fang, communicated t othe Secretary of State this morning two important telegrams. The first is from Sheng, the Director of Posts and Telegraphs, and says.—

"Fortunate that Minister Conger's telegraphic reply has come. Imperial decree of the 22nd this moon, corresponding on July 18, stated that all Ministers were safe. Insurgents are fighting and killing each other. Li Hung Chang is proceeding northward t osuppress riot, and will find it difficult to go."

The second telegram is from Li Kui Yi, Viceroy of Nanking, dated the 21st of July, and received by Minister Wu at 10 o'clock the same day. It is as follows.—

"According to edict of 22nd of this moon (July 18) with the exceptiom of the German Minister, who was instantly killed by anarchists, with regard to which rigorous measures are being taken to investigate and punish the guilty parties, all the other Ministers for whom strenous efforts are being made for their protection are fortunately unharmed.

Li Kui Yi, the Viceroy of Nanking, is one of the great officers of China, and stands next in rank among the diplomats to Li Hung Chang.

THE VALOR OF A BLIND HERO

Captein Towse, Who Lost His Eyesight in Defence of a Comrade, is Decorated With the Victoria Cross by the Queen

London, July 21.—One of the most touching incidents of the war in South Africa occurred this week, when Captain Towse received the first Victoria Cross bestowed by the Queen for valor in the veldt. Captain Towse earned the distinction by attempting to carry off Col. Downman, who had been wounded, under a hail of bullets. He was unable to do so, and lay beside him, and kept off the Boers all night till help came. By that time Col. Downman was dead. Captain Towse was blinded in both eyes by a bullet wound. On Wednesday Captain Towse was taken to Windsor and led into the Royal presence of his wife, where he knelt at the feet of his sovereign, who was so much overcome by the sight ofthe blind hero that her aged hands could scarcely pin on the most prized of all British decorations. The Queen's few words of simple praise of his gallantry and thanks for his devotion were spoken so low as to be almost inaudible, and when Queen Victoria was led out there was scarcely a dry eye among the officials present.

BUDGET OF NEWS FROM THE OLD WORLD.

Baby Clothes of Oliver Cromwell at Auction.

KING OF PORTUGAL IN ENGLAND.

Death of a Famous Admiral—Lord Salisbury a Prize Gardener—Queen on Telephone—Joke on the Prince of Wales.

London, July 23.—During the week there will be offered for sale in a London auction room the baby clothes worn by Oliver Cromwell. These include a cap embroidered with the words. "Sweet Bab, Don't Cry," and dated 1599, the year the Lord Protector was born.

Famous Admiral is Dead.

Rear Admiral Valentine Inglefield is dead as the result of being knocked down by an omnibus in Marylebone road on Monday night. The gallant officer was born in 1824, and was son of Rear Admiral Samuel Inglefield. When only 16 years old he served in the Princess Charlotte at the capture of St. Jean Dacre by the allied fleet.

Lord salisbury a Prize Gardener.

The public discovered for the first time yesterday that Lord Salisbury was an expert gardener, when the Royal Horticultural society awarded him a silver medal in the fruit section for a box of brown Turkey figs. The Duke of Northumberland came off less gloriously with an award of merit for a seeding melon.

King of Portugal Expected.

The King of Portugal will come to England after his visit to Paris in September. He is to be the guest of the Queen at Balmoral for a few days, when he will go deershooting in the royal forest on the Deeside, and probably the Duke of Fife will entertain his Majesty with a deer drive in Mar Forest.

Queen Appreciates Telephones.

The latest evidence of the royal family's appreciation of the convenience of the telephone is the opening of underground communication between Windsor Castle and Cumberland lodge, in Windsor Great Park. This puts the Queen in easy communication with the Prince and Princess Christian and does away with the exchange of messages by a mounted courier between the castle and the lodge.

Champion Rose Grower Dead.

Benjamin R. Cant, England's champion rose grower, is dead at 73. He has taken over 2,000 prizes and won the National Rose society's trophy nine times.

Tells Joke on Wales and Choate.

A good joke is related in one of the morning papers on the Prince of Wales and Mr. Choate. At the Marlborough club the other day, it is said, effusively shook hands with a man he took for the American Ambassador and later discovered the fellow was an immaculately groomed waiter.

CANADIANS MAY HAVE BEEN KILLED

Several Among Missionaries Reported Massacred at Tai Yuan—Concentrated There and May Thus Have Met This Cruel Fate—Their Names

London, July 21.—Among the sixty missionaries and one hundred native converts reported in the Shanghai despatch yesterday as having been massacred by Boxers at Tai Yuan, 250 miles southwest of Pekin, are Rev. A. R. Saunders, formerly of the Y.M.C. A., Toronto, and wife, located at Ping-yao; Miss M. E. Smith of New Hamburg, Ont., located at Ta-Tung; and Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Mondie, of Perth, Ont., all of the China Inland Mission.

It is more than probable that the missionaries in Shan-See, knowing the danger ahead, concentrated at Tai-Yuan for mutual protection, and it is to be feared that the Canadians may have been among the victims of the massacre.

LORD ROBERTS HAS ATTACKED MIDDLEBURG

Report That Lord Roberts Has Attacked Middleburg in the Transvaal

TRIBUTE TO CANADIAN GALLANTRY IN AFRICA

Marquis of Lansdowne Refers to the Death of Lieutenants Borden and Birch near Pretoria—Earl Cadogan Compares Colonial Patriotism to a Mighty Torrent Russing to the Ocean

London, July 22nd The War Office has received the following despatch from Lord Roberts, Pretoria, July 22.—The Boers made a determined attack yesterday to destroy a post at the rail road 13 miles east of Herdelburg which they attecked with three guns and a pom-pom were surrounded and beaten off after a sharp engagement before reinforcements summoned from Herdelburg had arrived.

TRIBUTE TO CANADIANS

The Marquis of Lansdowne and the Earl of Carrington Refer to Canadians.

London, July 2.1—The Marquis of Lansdowne, Minister of War,ref eering in the House of Lords to Lord Roberts' telegram announcing the death of the two young Canadian officers, Lieutenants Borden and Birch, in defending the British position in the engagement on July 10, paid a glowing tribute to the Canadian volunteers, saying.

"When we think who writes that telegram, and with what feelings he must have written it, I think we may say no more touching tribute could be paid to the memory of the brave young representatives of our colonial forces"

The Earl of Carrington compared the patriotism of the colonies to an Australian under-ground river that disappeared in the bowels of the earth, came up again and rushed onward in a mighty torrent to the ocean. It would always be so, the Earl continued, if perfect equality were preserved between the British colonial troops

AN UNRELIABLE DESPATCH

Report That Lord Roberts Has Attacked Middleburg in Transvaal.

London, July 21.—A special despatch from Capetown dated to-day, says.—

"Lord Roberts has attacked Middleburg in force and a big battle is in progress. President Kruger is with the burghers directing the defence."

The above despatch, being unofficial, cannot be relied upon. It is scarcely likely that Lord Roberts has so quickly advanced upon Middleburg, which is a hundred miles due east of Pretoria. Morecover, Lord Roberts, according to his own despatches, was at Pretoria on Thursday last, and could not possibly have reached Middleburg in so short a space of time. This despatch is probably the work of a yellow journal.

HORSES LOST IN THE WAR

Canon Wilberforce Estimates the Number at 100,000.

London, July 21.— How much has the the war cost us in horseflesh?

The number lost was estimated at 100,000 by Cannon Wilberforce in a speech which he delivered yesterday at the annual meeting of the Home of Rest for Horses, held in the Westminister Palace Hotel.

Nothing, he said, had so well shown as the South African campaign how essential good horses were to us. There had been a good deal of preventible suffering among them, but he was not prepared to say which had suffered more—the horses or the men.

GATACRE DOES NOT GRUMBLE

He Thinks Roberts Will Recognize That He Misjudged Him.

London, July 21.—General Gatacre, by his genial good nature and the utter absence of anything like grievance-mongering, has, since his home-coming, won the goodwill of everybody. His ungrudging reference the other day to the well-deserved honors awaiting Volunteers on their return was, under all the circumstances, magnanimous. As in publci so in private has the General comported himself; and the hardest thing he has been heard to say of Lord Roberts is, "I think he will prehaps one day come to see and to say that he judged me too hastily.

TO FIND CANADIAN GRAVES

South African Ladies Will Assist in a Sacred Task.

Ottawa, July 21.—A communication has been received from the newly-formed guild in Cape Town replying to the request of the Daughters of the Empire that the South African ladies should form a committee to locate the graves of the Canadian soldiers who have been killed during the war. In reply, it is stated that it will be regarded as a sacred privilege to assist their Canadian sisters in this matter. Mr. Mason, who has charge of the Canadian depot in Cape Town, has promised his hearty co-operation. Lord Roberts and the War Office havebeen approached and have promised to lend their assistance. Local committees, whose homes are nearest to the battle-fields, will be asked to take charge of the graves after they have been railed, and they will act on behalf of the Daughters of the Empire in the erection of memorial stones and in procuring photographs of the graves of the dead soldiers.

HUDSON SPECIALLY MENTIONED

Major Hudson was Praised by Roberts for His Good Work.

Kingston, Ont., 21.—A letter from Major Hudson this morning states that Lord Roberts has specially mentioned the [illegible] lant manner in which he led C. Field Battery in the action which led to the relief of Mafeking. Major Hudson also pays a high tribute to the men of his command for their brilliant conduct during the engagement.

PRINCE WILL INSPECT THEM

Canadian Invalids Will Visit Hampstead Hospital on Tuesday.

London, July 21.—The Canadian invalids from South Africa living in the Soldiers' Home in this city will on Tuesday visit Hampstead Hospital for inspection by the Prince and Princess of Wales. Major Thompson will command the party of Canadians.

STORY OF A BLACK RAID

Lekoko's Comic Invasion of the Transvaal Territory.

Mafeking, Thursday, July 21.—You will remember how the day after the relief column arrived the combined forces drove the Boers from the eastern side of the town. They fled so hurriedly that they left plenty of loot, which the natives promptly annexed.

As soon as they had satisfied their hunger, which took a few days, they wanted to followup the stream of good fortune flowing past them.

They went to Lichtenburg, and following the excellant plan they have seen so many times adopted by the Boers, sent in a demand for cattle, and a message, under a white flag by the way, calling upon the white inhabitants to surrender within twelve hours, or they would know the reason why.

A deputation was hurriedly sent from Lichtenburg to General Baden-Powell, and he comunicated at once to the warlike Lekoko that we had extended martial law to that district, Which was now under the British flag, and if, as he said, he wanted to recover some of the cattle stolen from his tribe he must go further afield.

So the natives went further into the Transvaal, and in a day or two come upon enormous herds of fine fat oxen and sheep in splendid condidion

Meeting other parties of natives with similar objects in view, they went on together and had almost secured cattle enough to set them up for life when khaki-clothed fingures came on the scene, and with irresistable violence disarmed and dispersed the natives, captured some, and sent them into Mafeking.

There the blacks found to their dismay they had been helping with our natives and rebel natives to steal General Hunter's cattle.

AT THE BAYONET'S POINT

Schooner Can Only Land Her Cargo at Sydney by Forcible Means.

Sydney, N. S., July 21.—The captain of the schooner Hector McGregor, which arrived here to-day from Belle Isle, Newfoundland, where she carried a load of coal, reports that when attempting to land the coal strikers rushed down to the wharf and threatened them with dire consequences, if he attempted to discharge. The captain then went to St. John's where he obtained police assistance and returned to Belle Isle. He succeeded in discharging his cargo only at the point of the bayonet, the infuriated strikers being held back by the fixed bayonets of the policemen. The leader of the strikers is St. John an American strike leader, who had work only 12 days at Belle Isle when the [illegible]

AMERICAN SYMPATHY WITH BOERS.

The delegates sent from the Transvaal to interview the different powers of Europe in the hope that some one or more of them would come to the assistance of the Boers, met with a decided rebuff at every continental capital. They passed over to the States where several mass meetings were held to arouse the sympathy of the American people. The delegates were received by President McKinley, who, however, was non-committal. All over the States the cause of the Boers, by a certain anti-British class of newspapers, was represented as the cause of freedom. England was represented in hundreds of articles as a tyrant bent on crushing the liberties of a free people. The whole herd of poetasters, who fancy poetry is the art of stringing lines together with a rhyme at the end, publishedt he most fiery denunciations of Great Britain for its tyranny, and appealed to the American people to rise in their might and help the Boers. A handful of Americans responded by going over to Africa and fighting in the Boer lines. One rhymester who spoke of England as "the tiger with its claws on the throat of Freedom," published one, alleged, poem in which we were told that the Stars and Stripes had been the inspiration of every struggle for human liberty! The writer consequently considers that, until the Stars and Stripes flag was first floated there had never been any struggle for liberty, which rather takes the shine out of some famous heroes both of ancient and modern times. Well, after all this screeching, enthusiasm, and swagger the grand result has been, that the subscriptions to help the Boer cause amounted to $1,215. To secure this there was $170 spent in wine, and over $1,000 in such miscellaneous expenses as are usually required to work up popular feeling, especially a demonstration for "liberty," in the abstract. The munificent sum of $50 will go to the Boers as the help furnished by the people of America. Yet, we are being told, and we shall be told in rhyme and prose for ever, no doubt, that the cause of freedom, as represented by the South African oligarchy, found its only sympathizers in the United States, which contributed $50 towards the maintenance of the sacred cause of liberty!

"Delays Are Dangerous.

A small pimple on your face may seem of little consequence, but it shows your blood is impure, and impure blood is what causes most of the diseases from which people suffer. Better heed the warning given by the pimple and purify your blood at once by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine cures all diseases due to bad blood, including scorfula and salt rheum.

SCAVENGER OF THE VELDT.

The Aasvogel, Which Keeps the Wide Plains Clean.

Although the term "vulture" has been used for all time as a term of the vilest opprobrium, no one who knows the bird, its appearance and its habits could doubt for a moment that it expresses a depth of degradation which is barely conceivable.

And yet the vulture does a great deal of good in acting as the scavenger of the veldt. But for his quick eye, carrion taste and love of dead meat the disease germs in the carcasses of dead oxen would be far more prolific and dangerous.

Throughout South Africa is found the aasvogel. Go anywhere you like on the veldt, and sooner or later—and in all probability the former—you will find the remains of his ghastly meal. There are hundreds of thousands of oxen used in the transport and trekking service. Many of them die from exhaustion, want of water or cruelty from their Boer masters. Or they may eat of the poisonous tulp, a bulbous plant growing in marshy places.

A kurneyer, or teamster, soon knows if any one or more of his oxen have been eating tulp. The neck of the ox swells, his eyes close up, he gives short, sharp coughs, and his case is generally hopeless. Sometimes, however, he may be saved, and this by a peculiar, homeopathic sort of remedy. If the bulb of the tulp plant is crushed into pulp, mashed with hot water and forced boiling hot down the throat of the ox he may recover.

The quickness of the eye of the aasvogel is simply astounding. An ox falls out of the team, evidently ill. He is outspanned from his yoke fellow, and he goes down to the spruit, or stream. The sky above and away to the horizon on all sides is absolutely clear and cloudless.

Hardly has the breath left the body of the poor ox than you may observe far, far away up in the sky a tiny black speck, then another and another and another, until there are 20 of them. Gradually they get larger and larger, circling round in ever diminishing circles all the while they descend. The dead ox forms the center of the circumference of their flight. Within a few minutes the grisly horde swoop down upon the still warm beast and commence their ghoulish task.

An hour afterward there is nothing in the spruit but a bundle of bleached white bones that might have been there for months. The sky is clear and speckless again. The aasvogel has scavenged the veldt.

Whittier's Predicament.

Whittier held "Gail Hamilton" (Abigail Dodge) in the highest esteem, and the letters that passed between them are really most delightful. Here is one of the series in The Ladies' Home Journal that is truly characteristic of Whittier. It was written in 1866:

"I must tell thee something droll. Last week the Amoskeag veterans from New Hampshire and a Massachusetts company, with military bands, came and paraded before our house, and Governor Smyth of New Hampshire and one or two officers called on me. When they left and I stepped out to see them civilly off, the men in epaulets got up a grand military salute, with music and three cheers to wind up with! Was ever a Quaker in such a predicament? I did, I fear, somewhat compromise myself by lifting, almost involuntarily, my hand to my hat. But I resisted the temptation and only pulled my hat lower down over my brows by way of testimony."

LATEST MARKET REPORTS

PETERBOROUGH.

As might be expected at this season of the year, the market for the past week has been an exceedingly bad one, very few loads of anything came in, indeed there seems to be no tendency for any early movement, owing to the farmers being all fairly busy. Hay has sold well all week, with only a few loads offering, while in the grain section nothing has been done whatever.

The following are the prices current for the week—

Wheat—Only a few loads were offered and sold at last week's prices. The grain seems to be very steady at 70c for both spring and fall.

Oats—There is a good demand for oats for local consumption, and it is quite easy to realize 29 and 30 cents for good feeding oats, while the buyers are paying 28.

Hay—There were about ten loads marketed and sold recently at $7 to $8. There was a good demand for hay on the market to-day. A few people asked for new hay.

Straw—There has been quite a few loads in, and the market seems to be supplied with sufficient for the present prices, $3.50 to $5.00.

Butter and Eggs—There has been a good market for good butter all week. Prices are steady at 15 to 18c. Eggs are also wanted at last week's quotations.

Berries—There are lots of raspberries and huckleberries being offered, the former at 10 cents a box, and $1 per. pail for wild, while Huckleberries are selling at 8 to 10 cents per quart.

Live Stock—There has been a very small run of live stock locally this week, owing to the condition of the outside markets. Exporters are lower in price owing to the shipping facilities being poor. Butchers' cattle are wanted, but they must be well furnished, as the market is full of badly furnished beeves. There have been a few shipments made. Prices vary from $3.25 to $3.50 for good sheep.

The hog market has a lower tendency. Local quotations to-day were $5.75 for selects, and $4.87 1-2 to $5 for light and heavy weights. The run of hogs to-day was the smallest of the season, only 50 hogs being marketed.

Mr. W. J. English, the Market Clerk, is very much pleased with the new scale which has been installed on the market by the Gurney Scale Co., of Hamilton. There is no trouble whatever to give every satisfaction to both buyer and seller now. The pan for weighing live stock has been balanced on the platform so that the farmers are now sure of getting every pound that is in their cattle, there being no danger of feet being off or the animals pressing up against the sides. It will also weigh any load of hay that may come on the market, but every care should be taken not to have the load built excessively wide, as the platform is ten feet full inside, and it will be easy to crush 11 1-2 or 12 feet inside. Mr. English will be pleased to show the working of the new scale to any of the farmers who choose to come in and look it over.

"Ouch!"

That is about the mildest form of outcry a man makes when rheumatism suddenly tweaks him. In its worst forms rheumatism is a living death. The victim, incapable of moving hand or foot, has no part in the great procession of life, on which he gazes with hopeless eyes. A great many sufferers from rheumatism, who had given up hope, have been cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. A medicine which will cleanse the blood from uric acid and other poisons, will cure rheumatism. "Golden Medical Discovery" has no equal in its power to cleanse the blood and to enrich it. "Discovery" contains neither alcohol nor narcotics.

"I had been troubled with rheumatism for twelve years," writes Mr. R. J. McKnight, of Cades, Williamsburg County, S. C., "so bad at times I could not leave my bed. I was badly crippled. Tried many doctors and two of them gave me up to die. None of them did me much good. The pains in my back, hips, and legs (and at times in my head), would nearly kill me. My appetite was very bad. Everybody who saw me said I must die. I took five bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and four vials of 'Pellets,' and to-day my health is good after suffering twelve years with rheumatism."

The Architect.

One must wonder why it really is that so little is said or thought about architecture, the grandest, the mother, of all arts, a great, a most useful, science, one in which a greater revolution has lately taken place and in which more progress has been made, with more stupendous results, than in any other, remarks a writer in The International Magazine.

Was it not Richelieu who, paraphrasing an ancient writer, said: "If it is versatility you seek, go find an architect. He must be an artist, or his buildings will offend the eye; an engineer, or they will crumble into trouble; a lawyer, or he will get his patrons into trouble; a doctor, or his buildings will be hygienically unfit to live in, and, last, but not least, he must be a gentleman, or we will have nothing to do with him."

A CULINARY TRIUMPH.

When Dorothy Griswood, after a brief but blissful courtship, became Mrs. Philip Marston, it seemed to her that life could hold no more of happiness. But alas, a cloud appeared on the sky of connubial bliss which increased in dimensions and density every day. The fact of the matter is this—Dorothy could not cook—not a little bit. Like too many of the girls of the present period, she was educated in anything and everything but the one thing needful to a housekeeper whose husband is a clerk in a Chicago departmental store.

Dorothy awoke from her dreams of bliss to a realizing sense of her deficiencies. She discovered that burnt steak, muddy coffee, soggy biscuit, and dried-up roasts were not exactly the right sort of fuel with which to feed the flickering flame of domestic love. Philip was too much of a gentleman to indulge in unkind or sarcastic speeches to the bride of a few months, but he lost his bright spirits, became serious and preoccupied in his manner, lost his appetite, and, horrors, began to get thin.

Dorothy became anxious and worried him nearly to death with her solicitude. When, one morning he announced to her that his firm desired him to go to New York to buy goods for his department, she actually rejoiced, though it would take him from her for a time, saying, "I am glad, Phil, dear; the change will do you good. I can stay with Aunt Sarah, you know, while you are away."

She put her flat in order, locked the doors, and betook herself to her aunt's house, which was a few blocks away. A few questions from her aunt, who noticed her troubled eyes, brought the whole matter to light.

"O, Aunt Sarah, I am so miserable," sobbed Dorothy. "And we were so happy. What shall I do?"

"Do?" cried Aunt Sarah energetically. "Why learn to cook; that's all."

"But where, and how?" asked Dorothy, bewildered.

* * * * *

On the afternoon of Philip's arrival, a busy little figure in a gingham apron flitted through the rooms on household duties intent. Philip would not get home until 6 o'clock in the evening. She had planned a good dinner with a few kickshaws as a treat. Every article was of her own cooking, and she felt as proud as a Queen. Her bread had turned out beautifully white and spongy, and baked a beautiful brown. Philip was so fond of home-made bread—when it was good. She was so glad the pie was a success; Philip doted on apple pie. Then there was a Charlotte Russe, and a mold of lemon jelly to go with it for desert. Everything was ready for the salad, the dressing made, the lobster prepared, and the lettuce crisp and cool.

Twenty minutes to 6 the bell rang. Dolly flew to the door, expecting to see only her liege lord. What was her surprise to find with him a stranger, whom he presented as his cousin, Jack Reynolds, from New York. She had often heard her husband speak of this cousin, however, and received him cordially.

"A real stroke of good luck, Cousin Dorothy," said this young man, proceeding to make himself at home at once, "my running against Phil just as he got off the train. He could not escape me, though I believed he tried," which was truer than he thought.

The soup was good and was followed by raw oysters, celery, and olives, with delicate soda biscuit. Dolly deftly changed the plates, and she could scarcely keep her face straight when Philip, carving the tender, juicy roast as if in a dream, stared at the beautiful, snowy bread and the well-cooked vegetables in amazed wonder.

His spirits rose visibly. By the time all were served and he beheld his Cousin attacking the viands before him with great zest, his happiness was complete. His relief was so great when the desert arrived that he became almost hilarious in his appreciation of his cousin's jokes and Dorothy's witty responses. He tried in vain to catch her eye. She resolutely avoided meeting his glances.

"You are the strangest fellow I ever came across, Phil," declared his plain-spoken cousin, when dinner was nearly over. "You were as glum as a death's-head before dinner. Who could imagine that a full stomach could make such a difference?" at which Philip flushed guiltily and Dorothy laughed outright.

When Jack was leaving he said heartily—"Cousin Dorothy, you are a prime housekeeper. Phil is a lucky dog to get such a wife. Almost thou persuadest me to become a benedict."

"Do it," said Phil, with his arm thrown across his wife's shoulder, and his face glowing with pride and affection. "If you can find another like Dolly," and Jack went his way, delighted with his visit.

"What a hypocrite you are, Philip!" cried Dorothy, her face hidden on her husband's breast. "But you needn't get your breakfast down town any more. I cook lots of things"—she was sobbing now—"b-b-beefsteak and b-b- bacon and m-m-muf-muffins and——"

"Some infernal fool had to tell you that, I suppose," growled Philip, with his head laid on her yellow pompadour. "I swear I'll never do it any more, Dolly."

"You won't need to," cried his wife, triumphantly, lifting a tear-stained but beaming face so near his that he did what any young husband worthy the name would do in his place.—From What to Eat.

FELLING FOREST GIANTS.

Methods Used In Cutting Down the Redwoods of California.

It is a most interesting sight to behold one of these giant redwoods fall. The process of cutting is effected through the use of the ax and the saw. All axes are double faced, through which much time is saved in sharpening. Sometimes the axes start the cut on both sides of the trunk and at places about opposite each other through the thickness of the tree. After the chopping has penetrated to the depth of about two feet on each side the saw is started in the line of the incision and the job completed with that instrument. Generally, however, the direction in which the tree is to fall is determined, and the cut is made in that side to the depth of one to three feet. Then the choppers pass to the opposite side and begin sawing at a point several feet higher than the place of the incision. As the saw moves through the heart of the giant he begins to sag down on the side where the wound is gaping. In doing this he lifts apart the cut and opens the section which the saw is making, thereby keeping free play for the saw. This is aided at times by driving wedges at the place where the saw entered.

Presently it is apparent that the section is opening wider and wider and the the tree is beginning to lean away from the cutters. They continue with their work a moment longer, then is heard the cracking of the wood fibers in front of the saw teeth. Another swish of the saw, and these increase. They give a report like firing pistols and the rapidity of detonation of a Gatling gun. The sounds, getting more rapid, presently merge into a continuous roar. Then if you are standing near by and the tree is large you will get the impression that everything above is coming to earth, that the whole forest is falling. The great mast starts slowly to topple, cracking and exploding ever louder at its base, until with a fearful momentum it comes sprawling down, cracking and crashing and roaring and hitting the earth with a clump and thump as if a whole broadside of 13 inch bombs had simultaneously struck a bastion.

The choppers quickly run over the trunk with their axes and cut away all the branches. Almost before you can recover yourself the long stalk is bare of limbs, and then the men begin cross cutting it into logs or sections of from 24 to 30 feet, as long as it is desired that the boards into which it is to be reduced at the mill shall be. This done, the logs are peeled of their bark, the crowbar being used to pry off the thick integument, which is sometimes a foot in depth, the log being turned with jackscrews when such is practicable to get at the under side.

SHE MADE MANY WILLS.

One Woman's Plan For Living Well and Raising Family Ructions.

"Several years ago," said a New Orleans lawyer, chatting about queer experiences in his profession, "a woman died in this city who to my certain knowledge had made about [illegible] different wills. Of course there are people in the world who have a mania for will making, just as there are manias in other directions, but there was a distinct method in this woman's madness. She made her numerous wills for the deliberate purpose of exciting cupidity and then profiting by it, and if the true story of the curious complications growing out of that policy could be written it would form an astonishing chronicle of greed and duplicity.

"To begin with, she had a couple of pieces of improved property worth perhaps $6,000 and a lot of personal belongings which were mere junk and rubbish, but which she valued at a fabulous figure. Between the two she was reputed to be worth from $50,000 to $60,000, and there was much jealousy as to the prospective succession among a lot of distant relatives. The old woman's plan was to take up her quarters with some particular set of her kin and make a will in their favor. Needless to say, she would be treated with every consideration, but she was irascible and invariably got into a quarrel in the course of a few months and moved somewhere else, where the same programme was repeated. She spent years in migrations of that sort, going the rounds of her relatives several times and camping temporarily with numerous personal friends.

"When she finally died, it was found that her last authentic will left the coveted property to a niece who had shown her scarcely any attention at all, and the wail of rage and disappointment that arose was something simply terrific. I dare say she engendered more family bitterness when she was alive, precipitated more rows and was instrumental in causing a greater number of people to stop speaking when they passed by than any one person in the parish. This was an extreme case, but it was by no means unique. Almost every lawyer in town who has a large general practice could cite instances where judicious will making has kept old age surrounded by affectionate solicitude."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

INVESTIGATION SHOWS WISDOM

I make the absolute claim that Rob Roy Mining Shares are one of the least risky things you can invest in!

Strong language, as mining is usually classed as a speculation, and rightly so—if a lot of good common isn't used!

Still I fearlessly say that these shares are safer than nine tenths of the monetary risks you daily run—in horses or cattle, for instance!

I have seen the properties, know the men at the head of affairs (well known London men they are too!), have my own money up, and am prepared to give you the benefit of my experience if you want it!

You have $100, say, that you want to invest if you can find a safe and profitable place for it. Well there's nothing going that I know of better than Rob Roy stock at .15 per share!

If this interests you and you mean business, drop me a line, and I'll gladly tell you what I know.

In any event you don't HAVE to buy.

Altogether likely these shares will be taken off the market inside of a few weeks.

The heat in London was not quite so pronounced yesterday, 122 degrees in the sun and 82 degrees in the shade, but the relief was hardly perceptible. Many cases of heat stroke occurred, and tons of perishable food was condemned. There were several deaths.

It is now discovered that Monday was the hottest day London has seen in fifty years, the official reading of the thermometer being 93.2 degrees.

If my voice is impaired you will not want me, and I am sure I will not wish to sing in America." Since then M. de Reszke's condition has greatly improved, and he says he will sing on Saturday.

Y. M. C. A. Camp.

Y.M.C.A. Camp, July 20.

Camp is now running along smoothly. The sections have commenced their duties which consist of seeing that the bread, plates, butter, dishes etc., are kept filled and washing dishes. It is an amusing sight, with sleeves rolled up and a towel or dish-cloth in their hands on each side of the table. Of course they quarrel about not being allowed to do enough. Our camp-leaders deserve great credit for the neat way they have everything running. "Chief" thinks it is quite spick and span, but a little more span than spick. Several of the boys were out berrying yesterday, and managed to disturb a nest of black hornets. They came back "feeling quite funny" but didn't laugh.

A large drive of logs, belonging to the Dickson Co., passed down the lake yesterday, and another is in Stony Lake. The wind drifted the float of logs into Sandy Bay, so that the boys had a chance to investigate it. One of the boats had an exciting time with the drive. They were going to go to the store at the time the logs were drifting into the bay. At about a hundred yards from where the boat lay, the logs had almost reached the shore. They made a dash for the opening, but were just too late, and in order to save the boat they were obliged to climb out and slide it along the boom till clear water was reached.

One of the sections, composed of the larger boys, took advantage of the drive to have a swim in deep water, but they evidently forgot that the sun will blister the skin. By night they were in torment with their sun-burns. "Toronto" became quite poetical under the influence of his. Probably the backward tumble he had off the wharf while at the store the previous evening had something to do with it also.

A sad occurrence took place yesterday afternoon. Our Ph. D. and the Secretary had their upper lips shaved. The Secretary having had his moustache for about five years must have felt "cut" at losing it, but "Bobs" would necessarily grieve over the loss of his, as he has only had one year in which to fondle it.

The heat to-day is intense, the sun being almost unbearable at noon. Some of the young fellows crawled under the table to eat, in order to get out of the sun. A double decked table is a luxury not to be enjoyed in town.

"Mooley" doesn't know where the spring is, although this is his third year here. He brought a bottle up with him, which may account for it.

Among fellows who are so young it looks decidedly odd to see the corner of some pretty girl's picture stuck in a breast pocket. Of course in almost every case it is a sister — Some one else's sister.

"Cec" took vengeance on the fish for breaking his hook by pulling in a 'lung this morning.

The fishing is very good and the boys are beginning to bring in the bass.

KAISER'S ACTION PLEASES BERLIN

Attitude Toward Chinese Minister is Almost Warlike in Nature—Cannot Act as a Spy

ITALY'S TROOPS ARE ON THE SEA

Berlin, July 22.—Germany has not formally prohibited the exportation of arms and ammunition to China, but the government has requested the firms who might be obligated by contracts to deliver munitions of war to desist. It is also expected that the foreign Admirals will effectually blockade the coast of China, if such measures have not already been taken.

Count von Billow's action toward the Chinese Minister in requesting him to submit all his telegrams to the Foreign office before sending them, is universally approved. The Kreuz Zeitung hits the nail on the head by saying—

"The first question is, whom does the Chinese Minister represent? Where is his government? The old witticism that foreign Ministers are merely authorized spies applies especially in this case. Germany cannot allow Lu Hai Huan to make secret his unrevised reports to the Chinese Generals upon German preparations and intentions."

The step is without precedent in international law, but the situation is a novel one. The powers are waging war against Chinese soldiers while maintaining, for the benefits of all parties concerned, the fiction of peace with the Chinese nation.

The Berliner Post justly observes that it would be childish to permit this benevolent fiction to frustrate the plans of the powers by conceding to the Chinese Ministers complete Ambassadorial liberties.

The Chinese Minister has as yet made no answer to Count von Billow's notification. He is reported to be thoroughly cowed.

It is credibly reported that the German soldiers will be warned against vandalism generally and attacks upon the imperial palace in Pekin particularly. It is recalled that France afterwards regretted the plundering and burning of the imperial summer palace in 1860.

VISITORS BADLY TREATED

Fishery Overseer Moore, of Lakefield, Gets Himself Into Trouble

The action of Fishery Overseer Moore, of Lakefield, in confiscating a quantity of fish caught by a party of Rochester people, is likely to get that gentleman into serious trouble. It appears the party who had had a delightful outing at Buckhorn, brought with them to Lakefield a number of Maskalonge and bass, to show their friends at home. Overseer Moore, who seems to have an improper conception of his duties, seized the fish which consisted of eight maskilonge and 24 bass and fined the six gentlemen composing the party $10 each—$60 in all.

It is claimed that the overseer exceeded his duty. The law, it is said, gives each person a two days catch which they can take away with them, but which they are not at liberty to sell.

Whether this is true or not, we regard Mr. Moore's action as very unwise. Our business is to encourage visitors to come here, and this can only be done by treating them kindly and well.

We understand that action is to be taken against the overseer on the ground that he exceeded his duty.

LATEST MARKET REPORTS

PETERBOROUGH.

As might be expected at this season of the year, the market for the past week has been an exceedingly bad one, very few loads of anything came in, indeed there seems to be no tendency for any early movement, owing to the farmers being all fairly busy. Hay has sold well all week, with only a few loads offering, while in the grain section nothing has been done whatever.

The following are the prices current for the week—

Wheat—Only a few loads were offered and sold at last week's prices. The grain seems to be very steady at 70c for both spring and fall.

Oats—There is a good demand for oats for local consumption, and it is quite easy to realize 29 and 30 cents for good feeding oats, while the buyers are paying 28.

Hay—There were about ten loads marketed and sold recently at $7 to $8. There was a good demand for hay on the market to-day. A few people asked for new hay.

Straw—There has been quite a few loads in, and the market seems to be supplied with sufficient for the present prices, $3.50 to $5.00.

Butter and Eggs—There has been a good market for good butter all week. Prices are steady at 15 to 18c. Eggs are also wanted at last week's quotations.

Berries—There are lots of raspberries and huckleberries being offered, the former at 10 cents a box, and $1 per pail for wild, while Huckleberries are selling at 8 to 10 cents per quart.

Live Stock—There has been a very small run of live stock locally this week, owing to the condition of the outside markets. Exporters are lower in price owing to the shipping facilities being poor. Butchers' cattle are wanted, but they must be well furnished, as the market is full of badly furnished beeves. There have been a few shipments made. Prices vary from $3.25 to $3.50 for good sheep.

The hog market has a lower tendency. Local quotations to-day were $5.75 for selects, and $4.87 1-2 to $5 for light and heavy weights. The run of hogs to-day was the smallest of the season, only 50 hogs being marketed.

Mr. W. J. English, the Market Clerk, is very much pleased with the new scale which has been installed on the market by the Gurney Scale Co., of Hamilton. There is no trouble whatever to give every satisfaction to both buyer and seller now. The pen for weighing live stock has been balanced on the platform so that the farmers are now sure of getting every pound that is in their cattle, there being no danger of feet being off or the animals pressing up against the sides. It will also weigh any load of hay that may come on the market, but every care should be taken not to have the load built excessively wide, as the platform is ten feet full inside, and it will be easy to crush at 1-2 or 12 feet inside. Mr. English will be pleased to show the working of the new scale to any of the farmers who always

DOWNFALL OF DOLAN

Former Capitalist and Railroad Operator Goes to the Pen as a Vagrant.

Buffalo, July 22.—Detective O'connor of Pearl street Station was standing at Main st and Broadway at 1 o'clock this morning when a shabbily clad hungry looking and boozy appearing man walked up to him and tapped the detective on the the shoulder.

"Seems to me I have seen you before," said he. "I'm John Dolan, formerly a capitalist, railroad President, buyer of stocks and bonds and dealer in all kinds of first-class securities. Now I am strictly on the bum. I haven't had a goodsquare meal since I left Detroit three days ago on a freight train. Say, stranger, help a fellow along, will you? One of these days I expect to strike it rich again and then Ill remember all small favors. A quarter will make me feel like a millionaire, but 10 cents will be very acceptable."

"What are you doing in Buffalo?" O'Conner asked.

"You see when I was somewhat younger I understood telegraphy. I learned there was a strike of linemen on and came here in hope of getting a job."

The detective led him over to the station house and locked him up. In the sunrise court, Judge Graf sent him to the Penitentiary for ten days.

BRITISH DEFEAT CHINESE AFTER A HARD FIGHT

It is Now Admitted That Perhaps the Foreigners in Pekin Were Not Killed—The Advance on Pekin is the Talk of the Hour—When it Will be Made

London, July 24.

The Chinese minister Sir Chih Chen To Ping Luh has communicated the press the following despatch from Shing director General of Chinese Railways and telegraphs and Tactal of Shanghai dated Shanghai July 22. Information from Pekin dated July 18 says that the Tsung Li Yamen dated Wan Jai and under secretary of the department to see the foreign ministers and he found every one well, without any missing. The German minister Gen. Young Ju is going to memorize the throne to send all under escort to Tien Tsin in the hope the military operation will then be stopped. The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Mail telegraphing July 22 says a letter from a Chinese official in Shanting has been received by a native functionary, in containing the following passage at the beginning of the month, the foreign missionaries made several attempts to send messages out of Pekin thanks to the street watch kept on their city, the bearers were all caught and executed on the 4th inst. Only 400 foreigners much exhausted were left alive in Pekin, and the night when the big guns were incessantly fired it was known that all the legations and the foreigners were finished, although pretended telegrams contradicted these facts

The St. Petersburg correspondent of the Daily Mail asserts that there are differences of opinion in the Russian council of war.

The minister of war Gen. Kouropatkin wishes to send 100 thousand men to clear the rebels out of Manchuria. On the other hand according to the correspondent Emperor Nicholas wishes the operations limited to the defines and pacifications of the frontier districts put two strong armies of the allies in the south and the others of the Russians in the north confront the Chinese and the rising, so the Czar is said argues would be found to collapse. "We want no conquests" he is reported to have declared at the conclusion of a sitting of the Council. What we desire is to protect our foreigners and t osteer into smooth weteers. The Chinese Ship of State now buffitted by the waves of Civil War.

St. Petersburg, July 23.—Two encounters are reported to have taken place between British and Chinese forces near Wei Hai Wei. The latter, it is reported, were repulsed after a stubborn encounter. No dates are given.

London, July 23.—Now that it is beginning to be generally admitted that the reports of a massacre in Pekin on July 8th were wholly without foundation, there is an earnest desire on the part of all that the various governments should as quickly as possible march upon Pekin and extricate the Ministers and missionaries from what still remains a serious predicament. There is no doubt that men and arms are being assembled at Tien Tsin, and some people fix July 30th as the date of the forward movement. Now that the Chinese have disappeared from the neighborhood of Tien Tsin matters are somewhat simplified, for it enables the allies to at least make a good start upon their crusade for the resc uof those in danger, and the civilization of China. There is no reason why the task should be a very formidable one, if an army sufficiently large is assembled. Sir Archibald Colquhoun, the well-known expert on Chinese affairs, some time ago expressed the opinion that the river route can easily be adopted. He said:—"Although at this time of the year the roads to Pekin are probably impassable, there is the river route open to a point fifteen miles from Pekin, and from thence a stone causeway runs direct to that city. The river route runs through almost entirely open and level country, which would afford little cover for an opposing force, and there are not more than half a dozen villages and small towns along its banks. There are numbers of boats capable of accommodating each 100 men, and plenty of local steam tugs and launches belonging to the men-of war, quite enough to transport a relief force, and the time taken should not be more than a week. The character of the opposition to be encountered is evidenced by the fact that Admiral Seymour was able with his small force to fight his way back to Tien Tsin with comparatively small loss." In the meantime, the powers keep their own council as to time, ways and means, but a general advance on Pekin may begin within the next week. This may be confidently anticipated. The British Government will undoubtedly exert all its influence to bring about an early movement, as it assuredly will not incur a repetition of the national wrath which greeted the uncalled for delay which brought about Gordon's death, and which a massacre at Pekin would arouse.

BRILLIANT DASH AT TIEN TSIN

Americans and English Capture a Fort and Rout the Chinese.

New York, July 23.—A brilliant dash against al arge force of Chinese at Tien Tsin was made this morning by a detachment of American troops, assisted by some English Fusiliers, says a Che-Foo special to the Journal and Advertiser dated July 20. The object was to capture a battery of large calibre cannon which had been doing great damage.

The Anglo-American troops charged a large fort across an open space and were exposed to a hot but poorly-directed fire from the enemy. They dashed into the fort, and after engaging the Chinese in a sharp hand to hand fight put them to flight and remained masters of the fort. Eight large modern guns were captured, together with carts and all the accessories. The battery was immediately turned upon the fleeing enemy, and under the well directed fire they suffered heavy losses.

The victory was won in an uncredibly short time against an overwhelmingly superior force, and despite the charge under fire and the fight in the fort neither the Americans nor the British lost a single man.

The Chinese army is now retreating towards Pekin.

CHINESE OCCUPY CHAIEAR

Russians are Still Concentrating an Army at Charbin.

London, July 23.—M Krutizki engineer of the Eastern Chinese Railway, telegraphing from Aigatchi in the Trans Baikal territory, under date of Friday, July 20, reports the occupation of Chailar by Chinese troops. The Russians according to this despatch, continued to concentrate at Carbin.

EIGHT THOUSAND JAPANESE

Another Army Arrived at Tien Tsin on Monday, July 16th.

St. Petersburg, July 23.—The Chinese positions on the Amur have been cleared from Blagovestchensk as far as Khaberofsk.

Eight thousand Japanese troops arrived at Tien Tsin from Taku Monday, July 16. Twenty-one hundred Japanese troops are commanding the position at Cheefu and 1,500 at Shanghaikuan.

Navigation of the Peiho River from Taku to Tien Tsin is now easy and free from marauders.

Owing to the lack of houses 300 tents have been pitched for the wounded at Tien Tsin.

GUARDS ON ALL CANADIAN CANALS

Dominion Police Patrol the System of Artificial Waterways Taking Every Precaution for Safety

Ottawa, July 23.—The story of a Fenian plot to destroy the Cornwall canal that has been published this morning is a pure piece of fiction, and has no more truth than a similar report published in a French newspaper in Montreal on Saturday, that the Dominion Government had been advised that a plot was on to dynamite the Lachine canal. Both stories had their origion in the action the Government is taking to guard against a repetition of what took place on the Welland canal a few days before navigation opened this season, when an attempt which partly succeeded, was made to wreck one of the principal locks.

The Dominion government i n the case of the Welland canal engaged ex-Chief of Police McKinnon of Hamilton, with a number of local men, who were sworn in as constables to patrol the canal and look after the gates, for fear of their being tampered with. The precaution has been taken on the other canals.

A Dominion policeman has been sent to all the canals on the St. Lawrence route from the great lakes to look after them in the same way. Policeman Godin was sent from Ottawa to the Lachine canal, and has a number of local constables under him, just the same as Mr. McKinnon has at the Welland canal. That gave rise to the dynamite plot story regarding the Lachine canal. Policeman Parkman was sent to Cornwall, and has some local men engaged to assist him, and the story of a dynamite plot is sent out from there.

The Soulanges canal has yet to be heard from, where Dominion Policeman Marcou is in charge.

Sergt. Chamberlain is looking after the "Soo" canal.

In this way all the fourteen feet water-way from the head of navigation to Montreal is well guarded against the interference of dynamiters or any other evil disposed persons.

The minister of Justice says that the department has not been advised of any plots to injure any of the canals, and that the precautions which the Government and the department has been taking is due to what happened on the Welland, and for which the dynamiters are now doing a life sentence in Kingston.

THE SEIZURE OF FISH.

Fishery Overseer Moore Did not Exceed his Duty.

Further particulars of the seizure of a quantity of bass and maskinonge by Fishery Overseer Moore, of Lakefield, last week, (particulars of which appeared in the Times on Saturday last.) shows that Mr. Moore did not exceed his duty.

From trustworthy authority the Times has learned that the six gentlemen comprising the party had with them, not only one but several fish more than the law allows. This is, however, accounted for by the fact that several Americans, who are still at Buckhorn, had sent fish home with their party, and these of course were counted against the six gentlemen.

The Times is also pleased to say that through the kindly efforts of Mr. J. B. McWilliams, the matter is likely to be amicably settled, and the money, which is held by Mr. Moore, refunded.

DEATH FROM HYDROPHOBIA

Farmer's Wife Bitten by a Dog Eight Months Ago Dies in Agony.

Reading, Penn., July 24.—Mrs. Frank Remp, a farmer's wife of Mohnsville, Berks County, died to-day from what the doctor pronounces an acute case of hydrophobia.

Mrs Remp was bitten by a hound eight months ago. The dogs teeth cut the flesh above the left eye. Last Monday Mrs. Remp became very ill, and in a short time began to froth at the mouth. She developed an excessive thirst, but became horrified at the sight of water. The woman was seized with one spasm after another, and it required the strength of several men to control her. She was tied down in bed, but she broke the ropes that bound her, and with superhuman strength threw aside her watchers and escaped from the house. She was brought back and died in great agony. The physicians say it was an unquestioned case of hydrophobia with every symptom clearly marked.

THE POWERS AND CHINA

Draft of An Agreement Between All the Great Powers in Regard to China

Washington, D. C. July 23.—An informal draft of an agreement for a modus vivendi between all the powers over the Chinese crisis was presented to all the nations, including the United States.

By the terms of the modus vivendi, which is believed was first suggested by Mr. Delcasse, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, it is proposed that the European nations and Japan come to an agreement to the effect that all questions relating to the partition of China and the distribution of the indemnity shall be held in abeyance until the present military operations are over.

In this way, while they are relieved from the necessity of pledging themselves not to take a slice of China at any time, the European nations and Japan do agree that the "status quo ante" shall be maintained as to territory, or, to translate the diplomatic language, each nation's claim to the territory of China is not increased nor diminished by the present military operations.

It is not necessary for the United States to enter into an agreement, as it has already declared publicly, in the President's note of July 3, that this country has no intention of taking a slice of China.

President McKinley has, it is asserted, given his assent t othe general conditions of the modus vivendi which include an actual concert of action between the different nations and the consent of all the powers to the immedite employment of a largely preponderating force of Japanese troops, the payment for this unusual service to become a debt of honor on the part of all other nations and not at all a personal claim of Japan against China.

It is believed the general plan for a final settlement includes a pooling of all the claims against China, and then the establishment of a sort of an international clearing-house to distribute the awards.

President McKinley, according to the latest information, was inclined to stand wholly on his declaration of July 3, which committed this country against the partition of China. He has hoped that the other nations would make a similar declaration of policy and thus joint operations could proceed on an absolutely disinterested basis.

Even Russia was found to be willing to disavow any intention of grabbing territory, but, like most other European nations, would not enter into a treaty obligation to preserve the integrity of China. They would not have done that before the massacre of the foreign representatives in Pekin, and, of course, could not do so now.

President McKinley, on the other hand, followed the traditional policy of this country and declined to enter into an entangling alliance, which in the end might be so used as to force this country to consent to the partition of China, or even t otake a slice itself.

General De Wet Cuts the Railway and Takes a Hundred Prisoners

CROSSES THE RAILWAY AND IS MOVING NORTH

Telegraph Line From Potchefstroom to Pretoria Cut and Also That From Pretoria to the South—Every Chance That De Wet May Escape

London July 23.—The war office has receivde a telegram from Lord Roberts' dated Pretoria Sunday July 22, which reports the news contained in the telegram from General Forester Walker and continues.—Methuen continued his march after the occupation of Heck Port and engaged the enemy's rear guard at Sensfontein July 20 casualities a 1 killed and 1 wounded. Early Saturday he attacked the enemy again at Oliphants Nek and completely dispersed them inflicting heavy loss. Our casualties were slight. By the successes Rustenberg has been relieved and Methuen and Baden Powell have joined hands. Hunter reports that Bruce Hamilton secured a strong position on the Spitzkrang yesterday with a battery and the Cameron Highlanders and 900 mounted men. Our casualties were three of the Comerons killed and Capt. Keith Hamilton of the Orford. Captain Brown and Lieut. Stuart and 18 men of the Camerons were wounded.

London, July 23.—The Boer General DeWet has cut Lord Roberts' line of communications and captured one hundred Highlanders and a supply train.

London, July 23.—General DeWet has again succeeded in cutting Lord Roberts' communications, both by railway, and has captured one hundred of the Highlanders. The story of the federal commander's bold raid comes in the form of telegram from Gen. Forestier-Walker, dated at Capetown, Sunday, July 22, forwarding a despatch from Gen. Knox as follows.—

"Kroonstad, July 22.—Following from Broadwood sent by despatch rider to Honingspruit, wired thence to Kroonstad.—

"Have followed commando since, July 16, Hard, sharp fighting at Palmiefortein, July 19. Prevented from pursuing laager by darkness. Eight dead Boers found. Our casualties five killed, and 76 wounded. Reach Vaalkrantz to-day. Enemy doubled back through Paarde Kraal in darkness. Shall march to-morrow to Roode Vaal station. Send supplies for 3,000 men and horses also and news of the enemy's movements, I believe the commando consists of 900 men and four guns, and is accompanied by President Steyn and both the Dewets."

General Knox continues.—

"The wire and main line of the railway north of Honingspruit have been cut, and als othe telegraph to Pretoriavia Potchefstroom.According to my information Dewet has crossed the railway and going north."

General Kelley-Kenny telegraphs from Bloemfontein, under date of Sunday, July 22.—

"The railway has been cut north of Honingspruit and a supply train and one hundred Highlanders captured by the enemy. A report was received this morning that a large force of the enemy is moving on Honingspruit. All communication with Pretoria is cut off. The second and third cavalry brigades are following the enemy."

DE WET'S COLUMN SEPARATES

General Little Overtakes Flying Boers Near Lindley.

London, July 23.—The War Office has received the following from Lord Roberts.—

"Pretoria, July 22.—Little temporarily commanding the 3rd brigade, reports that on July 19 he came in contact with Dewet's force, which broke through Hunter's cordon. The fighting lasted until dark, when Dewet's force, being replused, broke into two parties. Little's casualties were slight. He buried five Boers.

"Hamilton and Mahon continued their eastward march yesterday and could join hands with Pole-Carew today near Eastern Fabraken station.

"A body of the enemy wrecked a train carrying sick between Krugersdorp and Potchefstroom, July 19."

BOERS WERE BEATEN OFF

They Attacked a Post East of Heidelberg, But Were Defeated.

London, July 23.—The War Office has received the following despatch from Lord Roberts.—

"Pretoria, July 22.—The Boers made a determined attack yesterday to destroy a post at the railroad, thirteen miles east of Heidelburg, which they attacked with three guns and a pom-pom and surrounded.

"They were, however, beaten off after a sharp engagement, before reinforcements summoned from Heidelberg had arrived."

Further particulars say the post was completely surrounded, but the parison consisting of 200 of the Dublin Fusilers, and 120 Engineers, and 10 Yeomanry, repulsed the attack after a sharp engagement, before Gen. Hart arrived from Heidelberg with reinforcements that had been requested.

The Boers were seen burying their dead and carrying off the wounded in ambulances.

The British losses are not reported.

GOOD AS COULD BE EXPECTED

An American Attache Speaks Thus of the British Hospital Service.

London, July 23.—Bronzed to a deep brown, after eight months of service in the field, Captain Stephen L. H. Slocum, United States military attache with the British army, arrived in London from South Africa yesterday. In an interview he said,

"The War in South Africa is over. The Boers' resistance reached the guerilla stage weeks ago, and the bushwhacking campaign cannot last much longer. They have fought a good fight, but the odds against them are overwhelming.

"The sensational charges against mismanagement in the Royal Army Hospital Service have little foundation. Lord Roberts' medical service in the field is good—quite as good as soldiers could expect.

CANADIAN PRISONERS

The Strathcona's Reported to Have Passed Through Nooit Gedacht

Lorenzo Marques, July 23.—A despatch from Machadodorp says that among the prisoners passing through Nooit Gadacht this week were a number of Canadians captured at Greylingstad. Four German officers, who have been acting as General Kruger's military advisers, have just arrived, having received orders from Berlin to proceed to active service in China.

HER FIRST TRAIN RIDE

Sallie Was 18, But Did Not Know Enough to Wait Till the Engine Stopped

Sellersville, Pa., July 23. — Returning last night with a party of excursionists, Miss Sallie Cressman, of Argus five miles from here, stepped from the train as it approached Sellersville breaking both arms and receiving bruises on her face and body.

She is 18 years old, but this was her first ride on a steam road. It is supposed that when the brakeman announced "Sellersville" she considered it the time to leave the train. She leaped from the train while it was running fast about 200 yards from the station.

SUICIDE AT HAVELOCK

Mrs. Miles, of Havelock, Takes Her Own Life.

Mrs. Miles wife of Mr. Albert Miles of Havelock, committed suicide on Monday morning by shooting herself.

It appears that the deceased had been in ill health for some two months, and the terrible deed was accomplished while in a state of mental agony. Her sister, who was with her at the time, and was engaged in the housework down stairs when she heard a pistol shot from above. She ran up stairs and found her sister, Mrs. Miles, lying on the floor in a pool of blood, dead, with a bullet hole in her head. A revolver with which the deadly act was committed lay by her side.

Dr. Holdcroft, Havelock, telephoned to Dr. Grey, Coroner of town, giving the facts of the case and asking if an inquest would be necessary. He was informed by coroner Grey that if everything pointed to deliberate suicide, to issue a burial certificate.

Deceased was about 35 years of age, her husband being a driver on the C. P. R.

A DISCREDITED PROVINCE.

Ex-Lieut.-Governor McInnes cuts a sorry figure in the correspondence between himself and the federal government which he has given to the light. He is like a boy who, beaten, complains vociferously that he was beaten in the wrong, and cries for self-pity. The whole conduct of Mr. McInnes proved that he was not of the stuff of which statesmen are made. He does not seem to have a discrete political moment. He possessed neither dignity nor reticence. He gave way to passion like a fourth rate politician. He was splenetic and fussy and discredited the government which fostered him upon the people of British Columbia. On the other hand, let us do the poor man justice. How many parties are there in the Pacific province? There are political and family groupings; there are small organizations hopelessly local in their ideas and aims; there are parties whose wisdom dies in the dust of the late Peter Mitchell, is concentrated under one hat; there are political dispensations whose methods would do credit to Tammany—that ruthless and vulgar tyranny which operates under republican forms. Most hopeful, in many respects, of all the provinces, British Columbia has been given over, politically speaking, to elements which have taken advantage of the pre-occupation of those who should have a natural interest in the country, and the result is political chaos, and a discrediting of the province in the eyes of the world, especially of that financial centre, London, which was so willing to invest its money in British Columbia mines, but which asks for order and stability and dignity in a province which is the most British in character of all the provinces in confederation.

VERY LIKE WAR.

Li Hung Chang is one of the few living Chinamen whose statements would now pass current for truth anywhere in the civilized world, and he is about to disappear into the whirling storm-centre of lies and carnage at Pekin. How long he can keep the confidence of foreigners and his own head is altogether uncertain. If an untoward fate should overtake him on his present journey made in obedience to an imperial summons the world would feel that the state of actual war with China was immeasurably nearer than before. As the most enlightened native in the kingdom and one who is most familiar with the disposition and the strength of the powers now in alliance for the protection of their interests in China he is a safeguard, and his influence a shield against the calamity of a war between the powers and the Imperial Government at Pekin. Should he fall a victim to the fury of Prince Tuan or to the malevolence of the old Dowager Empress, it would not be easy to keep up much longer the assumption that the allies are not at war with China, but with the rebels.

The St. Petersburg report of the operation on the Amur River in the North say that Chinese troops and Boxers acted together in the seizure of the Russian transport, killing the escort and destroying the city where the Amur Government has its seat. This is war, of course, if it shall appear that the Chinese troops acted under orders from Pekin. Russia at least would be unable to conceal from herself her real relation to the troubles. The reports from Shanghai of the strengthening of the Chinese forts at the mouth of the Woo-Sung River are ominous, also, but these reports, together with the story of Tuan's enormous army of nearly a million men and its assignment to various rebellious duties awaits confirmation.

If all that comes to us about the formidable character of Tuan's preparations and about the disposition of the Imperial Government were to be accepted as fact we should know at once that a situation of the utmost gravity existed in China. But it must be remembered that the allies have as yet struck but one blow, and that was delivered before they were prepared, although it was effective. The capture of Tien-Tsin is a good beginning. Preparations are now hurrying forward, and within a few days the Japanese reinforcements may be expected to give some account of themselves. The military chiefs of the allies are all likely to [illegible] the [illegible] army they [illegible] overcome at Pekin, but should it prove to be of the nature of the Chinese armies encountered by the Japanese in their recent war the victory at Pekin might be so decisive that it would be speedily followed by the collapse of the rebellion and the disappearance of Tuan and his Boxers.

Eating and Sleeping.

Food supplies the substance for repairing the wastes of the body, and gives strength. Sleep affords the opportunity for these repairs to be made. Both are necessary to health. If you can't eat and sleep, take Hood's Sarsaparilla. It creates a good appetite and tones the digestive organs, and it gives the sweet, restful sleep of childhood. Be sure to get Hood's.

THE DEACON'S MISTAKE.

His Stolen Maul Staid in the Water With the "Old" Man.

The Annapolis valley, or the famous "Land of Evangeline," gives more opportunity for the study of human nature, perhaps, than any other locality along the entire Atlantic seaboard. The scenery of this region is beautiful beyond description, and tourists soon become well enough acquainted with its people "to go altogether to the kirk and altogether pray."

One Sunday the parson in a village church delivered with special emphasis an able sermon on putting off the "old man" and getting on the "new." This signal feat, he stated, was accomplished by simply going down into the waters of baptism and burying the "old man" and coming out of the waters a new creature.

After the service a wealthy deacon inquired of a certain wayward individual who occasionally presented himself to the gracious influence of the church how the sermon impressed him. He said it was the only sermon that ever touched his heart. The deacon, putting on a smile of gratification, gave him a hearty handshake. For quite awhile he had been trying to persuade him to submit to baptism. In this he had an ax to grind.

Almost a year previous the prospective convert stole a maul out of the deacon's sawmill and more than once flatly refused to return it. The deacon finally decided that an ecclesiastical course of bamboozle would have more influence over him than harsh words. If he could make him a Christian, he felt sure the maul would be forthcoming. So that Sunday morning he solemnly entreated this wayward individual, whose heart was already softened, and won his consent to submit to baptism.

When he arose out of the water, the deacon greeted him as "brother" and cordially congratulated him in that he had buried the "old man" and put on the "new." The deacon, now feeling that the long lost maul was as good as returned, went on his way rejoicing. Next day the "new man" sallied into the deacon's grocery store. As usual the place was crowded with brethren, discussing the merits of Sunday's sermon. When they had all congratulated him upon his baptismal regeneration, the deacon, believing the golden opportunity had come, addressed him with the utmost confidence:

"Well, my brother, now I am sure you will return the maul you took out of the mill last summer."

The reclaimed wanderer hesitated and then meekly replied: "I am sorry, deacon, but you've got the wrong man. The 'old man' who stole the maul went down into the water yesterday and was buried."—Pittsburg Press.

DEADLY SNAKES.

Various Signs by Which Their Character May Be Recognized.

To distinguish between venomous and harmless snakes is easy in practice, but it is difficult to explain in words alone, as there is one external characteristic which distinguishes them. It is rather a peculiar, varying union of many separate marks that brands the dangerous reptile.

Generally speaking, all snakes may be divided into two great classes—those which have the head covered with numerous small scales and those which have it covered with large, regularly fitted plates. Leaving out the elipidæ and the poisonous sea snakes, with which the hunter will have nothing to do, all snakes with small head scales move about by night and those with the large plates on the head by day. This may be known by their eyes, for the first have vertical pupils like the cat's, while those of the latter are generally circular in form. The long, active day snake, gliding about from bush to bush or hurriedly taking refuge beneath some protruding rock or tree stump, is harmless. Even should he lie coiled in the sunshine he will flee from approaching danger. But a serpent thickly coiled in some sheltered nook which instead of fleeing gathers himself closer together is most probably dangerous, particularly if he be more or less marked with a suggestion of irregular crossbars on whitish or dirty yellow and darker brown or blackish. This is the characteristic coloring of our most dangerous snakes, the rattler, the copperhead and the moccasin.

The following points embrace all the peculiarities of our American vipers, and the last two are especially noteworthy as the crowning proofs of venom:

(1) Moving about at dusk or by night, generally on the ground, and very rarely ascending trees or bushes. (2) Seldom flying in alarm, but rather coiling for defense. (3) Colors generally subdued in tint, with a semblance of irregular crossbars of lighter and darker shades. (4) Tail short, body stout, neck thin, head flat and very broad, especially behind. (5) Scales keeled—i. e., each scale has a ridge down the middle, which gives the skin a rough appearance like a rasp. (6) Head covered with small scales, sometimes larger over the eyes or nose. (7) Eyes with vertical pupils like a cat's. (8) Two pits or holes between the eyes and nose, suggesting four nostrils. (9) Two long, curved, perforated fangs in the upper jaw just in front of the eye, one on either side and so hinged that they lie backward, hidden from view in a membranous sheath, but capable of

"A Bright Little Boy"

Would be sure of a welcome in almost any home. But what a welcome he would have in a home where the hope of children had been extinguished. What a welcome this particular "bright little boy" did have in such a home, may be judged by the closing paragraph of his mother's letter, given below. There is no room for the whole letter, which recounts a story of fifteen years of suffering and a perfect cure by the use of "three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, two bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and some of the 'Pellets.'"

In many instances childlessness is the result of conditions which are curable. It has often happened that when "Favorite Prescription" has cured a woman of female weakness and the nervous condition attending it, her return to health is signalized by the birth of her first child. "Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong, sick women well.

"I cannot tell half that Dr. Pierce's medicine has done for me," writes Mrs. [illegible], of [illegible], N. C. "It will do all that is claimed for it—prevents miscarriage and makes childbirth easy. It has given me a bright little boy, and I would not have had him had it not been for your wonderful medicine. I cannot say too much in praise of it; I think it is worth its weight in gold. I thank God for my life, and Dr. Pierce for my health."

"Pleasant Pellets" clear the complexion.

Short Story of the Day

The Redemption of Ralph Morton.

When Miss Amy Warden, only child of the wealthy broker, Anthony Warden, tripped into her father's office one December afternoon she was the embodiment of beautiful, healthful 18. Nodding kindly towards the clerks, who had for a moment ceased their scribbling, she approached the door of her father's private office. A privileged character, as she well knew, she turned the knob gently, intending to surprise him in the usual way.

As she peeped into the dimly-lighted room she discovered at a glance that her father was not there; but his confidential clerk, Ralph Morton, a good-looking young man of 25, was standing before the desk. For a space she was puzzled by the young man's peculiar actions—for he raised his hand twice to the side of his head, then, as if undecided, slowly lowered it again, and each time she caught the gleam of polished metal as it flashed in the rays from the electric bulb. Then, as if fully decided upon his action, he partly turned his face toward her; but she, noting the tenseness of his white features, realized in a flash the awful import of his action, and darting across the room snatched the deadly weapon from his hand and held it behind her. For a space he stood, regarding with wild eyes the beautiful, terrified face before him, then, uttering a low groan, he sank into a chair and hid his face in his hands.

She stood looking at him, the color gradually returning to her face; then she said, a wonderful pity in her tone—"O, Mr. Morton! How could you think of such a thing?"

He slowly raised his head and met her pitying gaze wildly.

"Why do you stop me, Miss Warden?" he said, brokenly. "I am a thief! I caught the accursed fever of speculation and used your father's money. I prefer death to discovery and dishonor."

His eyes closed, as if blinded by her accusing gaze.

"And do you imagine that this will save you from dishonor?" she said, gently, holding out the revolver. "O, Mr. Morton, do you not realize that it will only add to it? Will such an act restore my father's money or absolve you in the eyes of the world and—God?" Infinite pity shone in her eyes as she softly breathed the last word.

He did not look up, and she continued—"You are young and talented, Mr. Morton, perhaps above the average. The world is before you. Do you presume to dictate in this way to the tender mercy that has bestowed such priceless gifts unto you? My father may not overlook this, but there is one, at least who will. How much money have you misused?" she concluded.

He threw out his hands despairingly. "More than I can repay," he faltered. "Two thousand dollars at least."

She remained silent so long that he ventured to look at her. She seemed to look beyond him, a smile like that of a pleased child on her now flushed face—the warmth of a high, noble resolve.

"Your case requires no such desperate remedy as this," she said, turning her face a little from the growing eagerness of his gaze. "Supposing that I—I replace this money, would——"

He sprang to his feet. "No! no! Miss Warden," he cried, entreatingly. "You must not think of such a thing. I have sinned; I must suffer."

"You must do as I say, Mr. Morton," she firmly replied. "My father, I know, would not forgive you; but that is no reason for sacrificing your future career. Besides, you can repay me some day."

He regarded her through a mist of tears, then held out his hand. "I will accept your offer, Miss Warden—the offer of an angel," he said, huskily. "But I must leave this place and redeem myself among a strange people."

She started a little, but, laying her soft hand in his, whispered—"It may be for the best; but, wherever you go, God be with you," and she left him.

Five years had passed by when Ralph Morton again entered the city of his past folly. He did not bring the proverbial fortune, but he had amassed a competence which many less fortunate might envy.

During all this time he had never forgotten the sweet-faced young girl—his savior. Thrice had he written to her, but no answer came; and now, when he went to the old office, he was told that Anthony Warden had failed three years previously and had died, leaving his daughter penniless.

He determined to find her if money, backed by love, could do so, but all search was unavailing. She had disappeared, like many unfortunates, into that mysterious realm where despair, perhaps, is the larger portion.

"You will find her yet, Ralph," said his friend, Dr. Banks, to whom Ralph Morton had confided his story. It was a bleak winter evening, and they were on their way to the doctor's house.

"Heaven will surely guide me to her," answered Ralph.

As they turned into a short street a young woman a short distance ahead stopped and uttered a low cry. A drunken ruffian had barred her path. He had already grasped her arm when Morton, running forward, planted a well-directed blow that sent him reeling. Ralph caught the young woman, half fainting, in his arms; then, as the doctor hurried up, he turned her face to the light. It was a thin, pale face, though beautiful—a beauty matured by days of struggle and sorrow.

Ralph Morton almost dropped the light burden, as he gasped—"It is she—Amy! O, Fred, thank Heaven I have found her at last!"

It was in the doctor's cozy office, after he and his wife left them alone, that he said—"You were my guardian angel once, Amy; will you continue to be such? The debt I owe you can only be repaid with a life's devotion. Will you accept it, dearest?"

And she whispered—"I believe I loved you then, Ralph; at least I was sorry to have you go."—Boston Post.

Heat Record for London.

The heat in London was not quite so pronounced yesterday, 126 degrees in the sun and 82 degrees in the shade, but the relief was hardly perceptible. Many cases of heat stroke occurred, and tons of perishable food was condemned. There were several deaths.

It is now discovered that Monday was the hottest day London has seen in fifty years, the official reading of the thermometer being 92.2 degrees.

LAYING UP A COMPETENCE.

Something That Practically Any Man Can Do Through Self Denial.

"There are some men of genius," said Mr. Nippingly, "who accumulate great fortunes by great strokes, but by far the greater number of fortunes, including those of moderate dimensions, and these form the great majority of all, are made by the very simple process of living within one's income and investing the surplus with more or less wisdom, but always where it will be safe.

"The older I grow the more amazed I am that more people don't lay up a competence for themselves, as most anybody can do, by beginning early in life to live within their income and sticking to that course faithfully. Did I do this myself? No. Am I, however, having learned the wisdom of this course, now making a beginning? I am obliged to say 'No.' I am still spending all I get and laying by nothing.

"There are some lessons that we all easily acquire, but never turn to our own advantage. One of these is of the benefits that arise from the exercise of self denial. We get from this at once the direct benefit of what we save, and self denial nourishes, strengthens and broadens the will and enables a man constantly to do and to earn more and more.

"There's simply nothing like self denial. It is the key to every one of life's treasures, and everybody has one of those golden keys in his possession, eager to help him and waiting only for him to bring it in use."—New York Sun.

An Amazed Woman.

A woman who had an Arabic glass cup of the fourteenth century and did not know its value took it to the British museum. After due consideration the expert, to her surprise, said that, though the museum did not want it, it might be worth $2,000. The woman shuddered, because she had been carrying in a crowded London omnibus a bit of glass worth so much money and it had miraculously escaped smashing.

Finally, wanting money more than Arabian glass, she sent the object to an auctioneer's. Fancy her amazement when, starting at $2,500, the Arabic cup went by leaps and bounds and was finally knocked down for the nice sum of $6,500.

Actually the Arabic cup was worth very much less, but it so happened that there were two rivals at the auction, who bid against each other.—China, Glass and Lamps.

His Idea of Humor.

A janitress living on Washington square had an adventure one day which she will not soon forget. It seems that the building which she had under her care was at one time used by a trust company, and afterward it was turned into an apartment house. When this was done, the vaults were left intact, and they were very seldom opened. The janitress was showing a party of gentlemen through the building and pointed out the desirability of the vaults as refrigerators. When she opened the vault and stepped in, one of the party, who has a rare idea of humor, shut the door suddenly and imprisoned the janitress. That was all right so far as it went, but the lock was a spring affair, and the janitress had the keys on the inside. The room hunters were throroughly frightened, and one of them ran for a locksmith in haste. Luckily a neighbor, who is an expert locksmith, came into the place and in a few minutes succeeded in releasing the woman, who was in anything but a pleasant frame of mind. The room hunters made themselves very scarce before the enraged janitress came forth.—Philadelphia Record.

In the Same Pen.

"One of the boys at the hotel put me on to a little poker game," said the dry goods drummer, "and I went around to see what it was like. There were about 30 respectable looking people in the room, and one of them was trying to teach me the value of the cards, when the police broke in and made a clean sweep of everybody. Next morning, when arraigned at the police court, I wanted a lawyer, and there was a general laugh in court as his honor replied:

"'I don't know where you'll get one. There are nine in town, but all are in the pen with you!'

"It was so," continued the drummer, "and things might have gone hard with us had it not been for the fact that the judge was there, too, but had just stepped out as the raid was made. Nothing was said about it, of course, but he let us off with a fine of $2 each and a lot of fatherly advice."

He Was Very Thoughtful.

A north country miller noted for his keenness in financial matters was once in a boat trying his best to get across the stream which drove his mill.

The stream was flooded, and he was taken past the point at which he wanted to land, while farther on misfortune again overtook him to the extent that the boat was upset.

His wife, realising the danger he was in, ran frantically along the side of the stream, crying for help in a pitiful voice, when, to her sheer amazement, she was suddenly brought to a standstill by her husband yelling out:

"If I'm drowned, Molly, dunnot forget that flour's gone up 2 shillin a sack!"—London Telegraph.

INVESTIGATION SHOWS WISDOM

I make the absolute claim that Rob Roy Mining Shares are one of the least risky things you can invest in!

Strong language, as mining is usually classed as a speculation, and rightly so—if a lot of good common isn't used!

Still I fearlessly say that these shares are safer than nine tenths of the monetary risks you daily run—in horses or cattle, for instance!

I have seen the properties, know the men at the head of affairs (well known London men they are too!), have my own money up, and am prepared to give you the benefit of my experience if you want it!

You have $100, say, that you want to invest if you can find a safe and profitable place for it. Well there's nothing going that I know of better than Rob Roy stock at .15 per share!

If this interests you and you mean business, drop me a line, and I'll gladly tell you what I know.

In any event you don't HAVE to buy.

Altogether likely these shares will be taken off the market inside of a few weeks.

On Wednesday evening of last week we were unfortunate in burning out our motor, owing to the electric storm, which passed over the town on that day. Through the kindness of Mr. H. P. Kennedy, who loaned us a small motor, we were enabled to get out our paper as usual, but the machine was altogether too light to drive our jobbing presses. Yesterday the repairs on the motor were completed, and we are now running again as usual.

Bobcaygeon Hotel Changes Hands.

Mr. Garner Hunter, late of the Market hotel, Lindsay, has purchased the Reid house, Bobcaygeon, at present conducted by Mr. H. Conway, from the owner, Mr. Jackson Reid, of Huntsville. Previous to coming to Lindsay Mr. Hunter was the landlord. The hotel is a well-planned and substantial building. A residence adjoining is included in the deal, and Mr. Hunter will reside there until Mr. Conway's lease expires or some other arrangement is made.

The Late Fred Sheppard.

We regret to record the death of Frederick Sheppard, of 13 Alfred street, which sad event occurred at ten o'clock yesterday morning. The deceased had only been ill a couple of days, having succumbed to an acute attack of inflammation of the bowels. Mr. Sheppard was only [illegible] years of age, having come to Peterborough from England in 1874. His wife was formerly Miss Cullen, daughter of Mr. Cornelius Cullen, town, who, with four small children survive him. He was a trusted employee of the Canadian General Electric Company, and a member of of Lansdowne Lodge, S.O.E. The funeral will take place to-morrow at 2.30.

REPORTERS' ROUNDS

Local Happenings Picked Up Here and There by the Times.

—The Board of Education will meet to-night.

—The Non-Coms will escort to Stony Lake Saturday.

—Nobody objects to being left out in the cold this kind of weather.

—Even the most careful man puts his foot in it when he takes a bath.

—The Times sent up five of its dollar megaphones to Stony Lake yesterday.

—The Sons of England band will play to-morrow night in Victoria park.

—The girl who fishes for compliments finds that her lines are not always cast in pleasant places.

—The annual excursion to the shrine of St. de Beaupre takes place to-day. Quite a number go from Peterborough.

Do you read what people say about Hood's Sarsaparilla? It is curing all forms of disease caused or promoted by impure blood.

—The many friends of Mr. H. Calcutt, who was taken ill on Sunday, will be pleased to learn that he is much improved.

—The trouble in this life is that the voice of duty can't do more than whisper this hot weather, while the voice of pleasure uses a megaphone.

—Our good old ladies in Peterborough and elsewhere will soon be up against the horrors of war. Tea is getting dearer, on account of the Chinese war.

—The Methodist Sunday School of Millbrook, intends running its annual excursion to Stony Lake and Burleigh Falls on Tuesday, July 31st.

—Much sympathy is felt for Mr. and Mrs. David Lewis, of Smith, in the death of their little son, Arthur, which occured on Sunday. The little fellow was bright and loveable, and was but two years old.

The Palace Restaurant, under the management of its new proprietor, Mr. Jas. Armstrong, has been appreciably improved in many respects. The house will be found strictly up-to-date in all its appointments, and everything dispensed of the best brand.

—A western fraternal paper recently published an obituary of a brother who had died in the community, closing with the statement that "a long procession of people followed the remains to their last roasting place." The family read the notice and discovered the supposed error, and asked the editor to make a correction in the word "roasting," but he said he could not do it until seven years' back subscription that the deceased owed had been paid. It is best to keep on the right side of the editor by promptly paying subscriptions due him.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Mrs. W. J. Gould, Belleville, is visiting friends in town.

Mrs. W. H. Robertson is visiting her mother, Mrs. Brandon, Fenelon Falls. She is accompanied by her daughter, Miss Mattie.

—Mr. Harry Thompson returned this morning from a vacation, which included the Mackinaw trip and a week at Stony Lake.

What "Ads" Suggest.

The public justly assumes that the man who shows a keen interest in his business will be entirely up-to-date in the character of his wares. People can tell whether a man advertises only because he must, or because he is wide-awake, eager to do business and confident of the merits of what he offers. The tone of an "ad" suggests much.

LIVELY LAKEFIELD

Budget of News from our Pretty Northern Village.

There are some complaints from the steamboat men that travel is light this season, but Stony Lake cottages are well occupied and the reason for the complaints must be that there is not so much running up and down as usual.

The excursion that visited us from Omemee last week was of a kind that this village appreciates, and would like to see repeated. The visitors brought a fine load with them, and instead of disappearing up the lake, remained with us all day, and thoroughly inspected everything of interest in and around the village.

An annoying delay in the proper execution of the deeds of the land purchased by the Corporation from the G.T.R. as part of the aid to be given to the Lakefield Cement Works, has so far prevented the promoters of the industry from commencing work.

The local fishery inspector made a seizure on Saturday morning at the railway station, and inflicted fines to the amount of $40. Too many fish was the trouble. When not engaged in vindicating the law his stalwart arm is ever ready to assist the carters in handling heavy barrels of "sugar" or other freight.

About Dogs.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I would like to know, through your valuable paper, why God Almighty created animals, whether he didn't create dogs just as well as any other, and therefore would like to know what right people have to catch or shoot them, as they certainly would not do any harm, providing they were properly fed and taken care of? These poor dogs that are being abused every day cannot speak for themselves, and therefore have to bite or snap to defend them. That is the only way of getting revenge. People certainly defend themselves, too, for all you can read is murdering in some way.

I have been taking care of a dog which the owner had very near 10 years, and he never bit any body, because he was always kept clean and fed well, but never abused. The dog has disappeared, and I would like to know through your valuable paper, any trace leading to him. He is golden and white colored dog, medium size, bull-bred, and had a plain leather collar with a number of tags on it. He is more of a pet, and I am very much worried over him, as his owner is at present out of town, and will be very sorry when he hears the sad news.

ALEX J.

IN CAMP WITH THE BOYS.

How the Y. M. C. A. Lads are Getting Along at Clear Lake.

Y.M.C.A Camp, July 21st, 1900.

We have entered upon our fifth day of camp life, and enjoy it more each day, and as our pleasure in it increases, so do our appetites. Of course this is a good thing for the boys, but very hard on the cook.

One and all look forward to reading the Times, which has been coming so regularly, and hope it will continue while we are here.

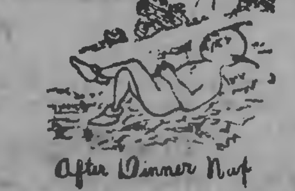
The camera fiends missed some golden opportunities yesterday. Temporary barber shops were to be seen in nearly every shady corner. Any one passing might perhaps mistake the sound proceeding from them for a circular saw at work. A story is going the rounds that one of the fellows complained that his razor was dull. The one addressed wanted to know why he did not use a whet-stone. Being assured 'twas a good thing, he struck for the shore, put his hand in the water and hauled out a smooth pebble and proceeded to "rub it up." A few minutes sufficed to spoil the razor's further usefulness, and he struck after his informer, vowing vengeance. He refused to believe it was not a "wet" stone that had been recommended, and angrily demanded how he was to remove the remainder of his beard. Things reached a climax, when he was told to rub it off with the same stone he used on the razor.

The "ice cream" trousers had to undergo serious operations yesterday. As a number thought mottled pants rather out of the way to go to church in, they took their trousers down by the shore and washed them. They were placed on a large rock and scrubbed with sand and soap, rinsed and then given a sun bath. The result was surprising, but before noon to-day most of the garments will be as bad as ever.

One would think from the fact that "Toronto" has fallen in the water four times, that he is top heavy, but as he always comes up head first it looks as though he were just the opposite.

Yesterday we had a visit from Mr. Pope. He thinks our camp arrangements all that could be desired.

Baseball has been the ruling game since our arrival, and each morning and toward evening, matches are played. As it is too hot in the middle of the day to do much, the boys lie down in the shade and have a nap, with insects of all kinds crawling over them.



A bug was discovered since our arrival, which is certainly a curiousity. It was about three inches in length, and the color of a dry stick. When not moving it looked very much like a thin stick, with six little twigs sprouting out.

Several flag-poles have been erected, each section trying to have the highest pole. Section Five, however, leads by nearly half the length of their pole.

There is a section on duty each day to help the cook and wash dishes. Some take to it very well, but it is funny to see how tired some of the boys get when it comes time to help.

After dark a number of boys amuse themselves by playing "Hot-hands." One kneels down with his face in a hat and the others crouch behind. One of the group then applies a vigorous slap to the kneeler's slipper muscle, and the victim tries to guess who was the offender. If he gets the right one he changes places with him. They seldom get slapped so hard that they can't sit down to their meals, but often look as though sunburnt.

This morning we had the parties who have leased the property next to us, on which we camped last year, down to see us. They evidently have a grudge against the Y.M.C.A. They objected before we came to our camping on Sandy Point. Through the kindness of Mr. Roger, we have the use of the place just over the fence from our last year's camp. This enables us to use the same spring, and also the sandy beach for boating and bathing. They came down apparently ready to cause trouble, but they didn't find us in the same place, but in a prettier and pleasanter spot, for which we don't have to ask their permission to stay. They will get to like us after a while, when they get to know what jolly good fellows we are. Besides the two gentlemen who would liked to have rooted us out, we had quite a number of town people out to see us. A 'bus load arrived at about ten o'clock, and a little later two more came along. Among them were Messrs. Robinson, Harding, R. Merrill, C Kemp, C. Anderson, A. Froude, P. McFadden, John Rossel, F. Trollop, H. Hall, J. Hardwick, Kennedy and Comstock. J. Hardwick and Hiwy are to remain with us. The remainder return to-night, taking with them "Junior Jiddy" whose finger has improved enough to allow him to return to work.

Our guests enjoyed themselves, and praised the camp highly. They seem quite at home in the water, and expressed a wish that they could stay with us. They appreciated the eatables, and kept the section on duty washing dishes nearly all day.

Mr. Harding made himself quite popular by treating all hands to candies and nuts.

Our dress out here, though not strictly conventional, is certainly comfortable. When we get home and have to return to the ordinary attire we will feel smothered.

While slicing bread this morning Horace Ayers unfortunately cut his thumb, which bled freely.

RUSSIA'S BIG ARMY.

Half a Million Troops Being Sent to China by the Czar.

London, July 24.—A special to the Daily Express from St. Petersburg claims that Russia will despatch 500,000 soldiers to Siberia at the rate of 5,000 a day. It asserts that the Czar has had this immense force already mobilized near Moscow.

That Russia is terribly in earnest is seen from the tremendous preparations that are being made in every quarter of the empire.

Rev. Dr. Goforth Seriously Wounded and Mrs. Leslie Also Injured Before Reaching Safety—Fought Their Way Through Chinese Provinces

Tien Tsin July 24 via Chee Foo July 24 and Shanghai July 24.—The Ninth United States Infantry entered the fight at Tien Tsin with 450 men, and a complete list of casualties shows 18 killed. 75 wounded and two missing. The marines had four killed and 18 wounded.

A Tien Tsin despatch, a.m. losses at Tien Tsin—the total losses of the allies were about 800. The British lost 50.

The Japanese estimate their killed at 50 and wounded at 250. The Russians estimate their casualties at 150. All day long the work of bringing in the dead and wounded was continued. The Japanese were the heros of the battle. and was praised by all their colleagues. When some of the foreigner officers retired late in the night, the Japanese generals said, when my men move it will be forward. This morning they charged the breaches in the wall made by the artillery, and fought hand to hand in the streets. The Chinese after the fightwas equally good as they refrained from looting, while some of the European soldiers were hewing an orgue dead Chinamen covered the walls and streets of Tien Tsin. Fifty guns were captured. The place was full of munitions of war. Many fires have been started and most of the city will probably be burned. The Chinese are retreating towards Pekin.

Tien Tsin, July 13 via Chee Foo July 17, Shanghai, July 24.—After fighting all day a force of 2000 Japanese supported by British and Russians, captured the Chinese fortified arsenal two miles east of the city.

The foreigners charged under a very heavy fire from the arsenal following the Chinamen killing four hundred of them. The foreign losses was heavy but is not reported. The Chinese bombarded the foreign city of Tien Tsin heavy for three days and killed some British sailors on a tug to-day besides several frenchmen. The foreigners are mounting heavy guns from the fleet, among them being four twelve pounders and four four inch guns and will attempt to locate and silence the Chinese guns. An explosion killed twelve Russians. Two Batallions of ninth United States Infantry and three hundred marines from the cruiser Brooklyn disimbarked and started for Tien Tsin to-day on lighters. As they went up the river the foreign ships cheered them heavily. Refugees of all nationalities will be taken to Japan by the transport Logan. Tein Tsim 6 p.m. July 15 via. Chee foo July 17 and Shanghai, July 24.—Chinese from Walled city report that the foreiners in Pekin are living, and have taken shelter in a bomb proof. About seven thousand Boers were engaged in the battle here July 13. Men are coming from Pekin Gen. Nieh was imprisoned because he opposed making war on the foreigners but afterwards was released on the condition that he would fight them. Canadian Missionaries Wounded.

New York, July 24.—The Herald publishes a despatch from Hong Kong containing the informaton that Rev. Mr. Goforth and Mrs. Leslie, Canadian Presbyterian missionaries, were wounded.the former seriously, while making their way to a place of safety along with their companions.

Twenty-three missionaries of the Pekin syndicate and the Canadian Presbyterian Society were compelled to fight their way from Kai-Fong-u, on the Hoang-Ho, across the Provinces of Honan and Hupeh to Hankow, a distance of between four and five hundred miles, according to the route taken.

Word has been received by the Presbyterian missionary in Toronto that the Canadians are safe. This evidently refers to the fact that they have reached a point where protection is assured.

Ministers to go to Tien Tsin.

Washington, July 24.—The Chinese received a despatch this morning from Sheng, the director of railroads and telegrams at Shanhai, stating that the foreign Ministers were to be sent from Pekin t oTien Tsin under escort; also that the Imperial Government has not only been protecting them, but has supplied them with food.

Ministers are Still Alive.

London, July 24.—The evidence pointing to the safety of the Ministers Wednesday last is accumulating to such an extent that even the most ardent massacre mongers are begining to weaken. The British Minister has declared officially that his Consul is alive. Russian officials think that some of the Ministers are alive—and if not some, why not all. A famous Chinese expert has no reason to think that a massacre has taken place. The English Secretary of the Chinese Legation in London says the same thing. In addition there is the offical statement of the American foreign department t osimilar effect. Against these statements there are those of two London yellow journals, strengthened by the misgiving which has crept into the public mind owing to the long absence of news from Pekin. It will be seen that the former far outweighs the latter. It must be borne in mind that the English official mind is bound in red tape and slow t omove, believe, or act, and that it will ignore any confirmation, however strong, until its own Ambassador cables. Moreover, it is quite possible that the British Foreign Office is adopting an attude of incredulity in order to make the Chinese Minister the more eager to obtain a despatch signed by Sir Claude Macdonald under such conditions as British may impose as a safeguard against fraud. Perhaps when this has been obtained the circumlocution office will accept as a fact what other people of equal intelligence accepted long ago.

TOTAL FRENCH FORCE

Expedition to be Sent Out Under General Frey to China.

Paris, July 24.—The Matin to-day publishes full details regarding the expeditionary corps of France which will participate in the operations of the powers in China. The corps will consist of two brigades, one of marines under command of General Frey, and the other supplied by the War Department commanded by General Bailloud. The total French force will number 13,000.

THEIR DEATH HERALD

What the World Says Li Hung Chang Has to Says.

New York, July 24.—Li Hung Chang, in a talk with a correspondent yesterday at Shanghai, is quoted in a copyrighted despatch to The World as having said.

"The members of the Legations are still alive, but an advance of the allied troops upon Pekin from Tien Tsin would probably be the death herald of every white man in Pekin. Then the conservative element would be entirely over-powered by the Radicals.

"The causes of the present situation were the lack of backbone and a wrong policy on the part of the Chinese Government while the drastic measures of the foreign powers aggravated the situation.

"We thank the Americans for their friendship, which we have always appreciated, and Admiral Kempff for his justice and forebearance in refusing to join in the bombarment of the Taku forts.

"We are trusting American to stand by the intergrity of the Chinese Empire."

Earl Li further said that he could restore order with less than 20,000 white troops, and added.

"The Boxers are a rabble not to be considered. I would turn to my side the Imperal troops, too, but the powers do not want them and would not permit it."

The New York World is just as likely to have received a despatch from Li Hung Chang as from the planet Saturn, but the above is published for what it is worth.

ASHANTIS IN A BAYONET CHARGE

Col. Willcocks Brings Off the Garrison of Kumassi and Cuts His Way Out Through Opposing Natives

Fumsu, July 22.—The Kumassi relief column has just arrived here from Kumassi, where it left July 17, bringing the old garrison—about 30 fairly fir men, 70 broken-down invalids and some women and children in a pitiful condition.

The success of Colonel Willcocks was due to his choice of a route not suspected by the Ashanti, who had concentrated in thousands along the eartern route, but in much smaller numbers along the western route, via Pieci which Colonel Willcocks adopted.

Even as it was, the Ashantis were active, and the roads knee-deep in mud Colonel Willcocks took a couple of villages by bayonet charges. Beyond Kwanda he found the stockades. It was a large war camp, with the chief commander of the Ashantis' army estimated at 4,000 men.

After a heavy fire on both sides for nearly an hour, Colonel Willcocks ordered a bayonet charge, and the troops rushed the thick bush cheering vigorously.

The Ashantiis did not wait for the bayonet, but fled in confusion.

The casualties of Colonel Willcocks were two officers wounded two natives killed, and seventeen wounded.

On finding Kumassi in such a terrible condition, Colonel Willcocks, after cutting bush and burning the bodies placed the whole force upon half rations, an arrangement cheerfully borne.

There was no opposition upon the return journey.

TO RESTORE THE EMPEROR

Three Thousand Chinaman Call on the Powers to Act.

Chicago, July 24.—A special to The Record from Honolulu July 16, via Francisco, says.

At an open air mass meeting Saturday evening, July 14, attended by fully 3,000 Chinese, resolutions were adopted calling on the Governments of Great Britain, Japan and the United States t olead the way in a movement for the restoration of Emperor Kwang Hsu the preservation involiate of Chinese territory and the removal of the capital from Pekin to some other city less imprevious to the influences of Western civilization.

PESTILENCE TO JOIN WARFARE

And Famine Will Afflict the Region of Tien Tsin---Censorship of Correspondence Has Been Established

Shanghai. July 22. — The following despatch from the Associated Press, correspondent at Tien Tsin reached here today, having been delayed twenty days in transmission;

Tien Tsin,. July 3.—Famine and pestilence are sure to strike the region of Tien Tsin soon. Hundreds of thousands of Chinamen are leaving their homes in the districts where fighting is going on, without means of support.

Lieut.-Col. John S. Mallory, of the Forty-first United States Infantry, has arrived here to act as military observer.

The American and British commanders here have established a censorship of correspondence of those nationalities, to prevent the transmission of reports that might tend to kindle international animosities. The anti-Russian prejudices of certain of the English correspondents caused this action.

NEED HALF A MILLION MEN.

Magnitude of the Task in China Before the Powers Now Apparent.

London, July 25.—While it is untrue that any formal declaration of war has been made by China against Russia, it is accepted as a fact by all the European powers that many millions of the Chinese have committed themselves to defiance of the Western world. It is the consensus of diplomatic opinion that the only reason why the first aggression was against Russia, was that she is the only power whose territory is contiguous to that of China.

It is hardly expected that China will pretend to make her warlike policy regular by withdrawing her Ministers from the foreign capitals. A nation which descends to the role of savages by such conduct as that of the Chinese at Pekin will scarcely bother with such trivial formalities. Those who know China suggest that Prince Tuan probably believes that the Chinese representatives abroad have been sacrificed by the powers in revenge for the fate of their Ministers at Pekin. Such action, it is pointed out, would be a matter of indifference to Prince Tuan, because the Chinese diplomats abroad nearly all belong to the party opposed to him.

Each day's development increases the European conception of the magnitude of the task which faces civilization. Those who a few days ago prophesied that half a million men would be needed, and that a long war was inevitable, no longer are ridiculed. Inquiries in England and Germany disclose the fact that a large portion of the vast output of the arms and ammunition factories of those countries has been going to China for the past four years. France has now proposed to the powers to prohibit the traffic, but this is a good deal like locking the stable after the horse has been stolen.

There is evidence that China possesses 900,000 modern rifles, but the makers of these arms have never given a hint of the fact to the respective governments against which they will be used.

It is uncertain how long the powers will keep up the pretension that there is no war with China and continue to harbor the Chinese representatives. Germany's refusal to allow them to continue their secret communication with China will probably be adopted by the other powers. The only effective means to accomplish this end, however, will be to stop all cipher telegrams to China, for it is easy for the Ministers to communicate through other persons, as they are known to have been doing for the past two weeks.

ADMIRAL KEMPFE UP ON HIS EAR

American Admiral Huffed at a British Warship's Officers Wanted a Higher Salute

London, July 24. — The London, Globe's naval correspondent at Taku writes:

"Admiral Kempff has rised a storm in a teacup on the salute question. He is second in command of the station, and thus entitled to eleven guns, as rear admiral, and this was recently given him by the Endymion at Yokohama. He claimed 13 guns, stating that no American admiral got eleven guns, their value being: Full admiral, 17; vice-aGdmiral 15; rearadmiral, 13; The United States having just started the rgade of admiral, it is probable in pure ignorance, as there appears to be no reason why a [illegible] United States rear admiral should be [illegible] greater than any other rear-admiral.

To his protest Rear Admiral Kempff was informed that the captain of the Endymoin would give him as many guns as he wanted if there were sufficient powder on the ship, but until they published their regulations we had to go by ours. The Orlando, British armored ship, arriving at Taku, knew nothing of this squabble, and rubbed it in by saluting the Chinese Rear Admiral with 13 guns, then the Russian Rear Admiral with 13, and then the United States Rear Admiral with 11. Whether distance made it difficult for them to distinguish the number or a delicate hint was intended, the Newark had the good taste to return [illegible].

BOER WAR HAS COST BRITAIN $172,500,000

Supplementary Estimates Raise the Amount to This Enormous Figure

RUSTENBURG WAS BESIEGED BY THE ENEMY

It was Only the Arrival of General Methuen Which Released the Town and Restored Communication—General De Wet is Still Moving Towards the Transvaal

London, July 24. An official despatch received here from Cape Town to-day dated Monday July 23 says—The Railway northward is now clear of Boers. The line is slightly damaged, but will soon be clear. Captain Fowle proceeds to-morrow.

London, July 24.—The supplementary estimates necessitated by the prolongation of the war in South Africa amount $57,500,000 making a total of $172,500,000 voted for this purpose and bringing the total army estimates up to $[illegible].

London, July 24.—It begins to look as if Great Britain were going to have as much trouble in subduing the Boers as the United States in conquering the Filipinos. The Boers, like the English, evidently do not know when they are beaten. A war of ambuscades, captured convoys, and intercepted communications being waged, according to the promise made before the struggle began by Col. Villebois-Mareuil, the deceased French strategist of the Boers. Strike and run away has become the motto of the burghers, and they are acting upon it to the letter. A series of running competitions are now being conducted both in the Transvaal and the Free State, and if Britain's enemies have not shone as fighters, they are coming out resplendently as escapers. General De Wet's feat of eluding the British and making for the north, blowing up the railway above Honing Spruit and capturing a convoy with a hundred Highlanders as a Parthain shot is indeed a remarkable one. Whether the Boer guerilla leader escapes or is captured his performance will go down to history as by no means a mean one.

The censor is apparently becoming more vigerous than he was in the early days of the war, and events of importance can only be gathered in a fragmentary way. Some weeks ago it was established by logical deduction that Heilbron in the Orange River Colony had been invested by the Boers and had to be relieved by Methuen after its defenders had been on quarter rations for a considerable time. Lord Roberts' most recent despatch gives an inkling of similar things at Rustenberg, about miles west of Pretoria, and a point necessary to keep up communication with Mafeking. It is now evident that this place has been besieged by the Boers ever since Lord Roberts reported that it was under bombardment two or three weeks ago, and that only the opportune arrival of Methuen freed the place and restored communication with Pretoria. It is also evident that the withdrawal of eMthuen in order to raise the seige aided in a marked degree the escape of De Wet, for it must be borne in mind that Methuen's position south of the Vaal might have enabled him to close the door upon the fugitive Boers. On the whole, therefore, it will be seen that Boer strategy during the past few weeks has been directed towards creating a diversion which might assist De Wet in his flight and that such strategy appears to be attended with success. Even should this be the case, the British will be in a better position with De Wet in front of them than in their rear, so that the matter will not be one for great commiseration.

GUN FIRE NEAR PRETORIA

Pole-Carew and Hamilton Engage the Boers Near Pretoria.

Pretoria, July 22.—General Pole-Carew made a reconnaissance to-day east of Donderhook. The Boers shelled Colonel Henry's mounted infantry, but did no damage. The British guns replied. General Hamilton, on the left, made a similar movement. The enemy was cleared out beyond Bronkhorst spruit.

A young Boer law student, who was at Grey's Inn, London, until Jauary 20, came to the British outposts, bringing al etter of the foreign Consuls He declared that the Boers were determined to continue the war to the utmost limits. The total number of Transvaal burghers now in the field is believed to be 12,000 men.

A number of persons sympathizing with the Johannesburg conspirations sang a Volkslied when the prisoners passed through the street to the station. They were summarily arrested and bundled into a train and sent south.

The Boers are reported to be concentrating in the Rustenburg district and on the [illegible] veldt north of here.

Natives report that a large amount of money is still buried in Wolmarn's garden. They are busily digging for it in the hope of a reward.

NO VINDICTIVENESS

Mr. Chamberlain's Policy Regarding the Treatment of Rebels.

London, July 24.—A blue book has been issued containing the offical correspondence with reference to the treatment of rebels in South Africa. It contains an interesting note by Sir Alfred Milner, British High Commissioner, estimating the number of colonists who joined the Boers at 10,000.

Mr. Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, lays down the rule that there should be no vindictiveness in the treatment of rebels, but that justice to the luyalists is the obligation of duty and honor.

THROUGH THE BRIDGE

A Team of Horses Goes Through a Bridge at Ashburnham.

While Mr. Archambault, teamster was driving over the bridge in front of the Dickson's Company's sawmill in Ashburnham yesterday afternoon, the bridge gave away, and the horses sunk to the water below. Fortunately Archambault escaped without injury.

The horses were rescued after much trouble, being [illegible] but not seriously injured.

The break occurred on the upper part of the bridge, and does not affect traffic.

FROM THE BRITISH MINISTER

Sir Claude MacDonald Wrote They Were Alive on July 4th.

London, July 24.—The Foreign Office has received a despatch from the British Consul at Tien Tsin, dated Saturday, July 21st, stating that he had just received a letter from Sir Claude MacDonald, the British Minister at Pekin, dated July 4th, appealing for relief. There were enough provisions at the Legation tol ast a fortnight, the leted said, but the garrison was unequal to the task of holding out against a determined attack for many days.

There had been 44 deaths and about double that number wounded.

The Foreign Office thinks the despatch does not affect the main question of the reported massacre of members of the Legations at Pekin.

GUEST OF THE "HATED" QUEEN

Irish Member Called to Account for Attending Her Majesty's Party.

London, July 25.—Heartburnings have been caused among the members of the Irish party by the presence of James Laurence Carew, Irish Nationalist member for the college Green division of Dublin, at the Queen's garden party. He was the only Nationalist who accepted her Majesty's invitation, and is a stanch Parnellite. In fact, he served four months in Killarney jail, and for four days in winter was left stark naked on a plank bed, because he refused to wear prison clothes. He appeared at Buckingham palace Wednesday, immaculately attired and accompanied by his aristocratic wife, whom he married since the Killarney days and who is immensely wealthy. Mr. Carew is now having to make explanations to his fellow Nationalists.

RAISES $20,000,000 FOR CHINA

Heavy Subscriptions Made by Chinese Reform Party in This Country.

Phoenix, Ari., July 24.—Leong Kough, a Chinese from San Francisco, has been in Phoenix for several days and says he has succeeded in adding many members to the Po Wong Wuy, or Chinese reform party. He left today for Tucson and other Arizona points to continue his work. He asserts that in San Francisco there are 20,000 members, 3,000 in New York, 300 in Los Angeles, 500 in Chicago, and 100,000 more scattered throughout the country. Over $20,000,000, he states, has been subscribed and most of the fund has been sent to China. The original object of the organization was to save the empire from dismemberment, to depose the Empress, and put Kwang Hsu back in power. Since foreigners have intervened, the aim of the society will now be first to turn its strength toward the expulsion of the powers and then to the settlement of internal disturbances.

PUZZLING NEWS FROM PEKIN.

A despatch received from Mr. Conger throws additional obscurity around the situation at Pekin. It shows, in the first place, that up to Wednesday the frequently reported catastrophe had not arrived, and that the foreign residents were still defending themselves in the British legation from Chinese troops." Mr. Conger reports the situation as urgent and critical. "Quick relief can only prevent general massacre."

This despatch was sent in the State Department cipher, and the officials are satisfied that it is genuine and really comes from the American Minister. It is in reply to a cipher despatch from the department sent on July 11 through the Chinese Minister here

This correspondence intensifies the Chinese mystery. The despatch was sent to Mr. Wu to the Director of Telegraphs at Shanghai, who forwarded it to the Tsung-li-Yamen, or Chinese Foreign Office. By the latter it was "handed to Minister Conger" and his reply forwarded through the same official channels.

It thus appears that the Imperial officials at Shanghai are in communication with the Pekin Government, and that the different governments are able to communicate with the foreign Ministers while they are besieged by Chinese troops. Whether the authority represented by the Tsung-li-Yamen is directing the siege or aiding the defence there is no indication. If the Imperial Government is itself in a state of siege and hardly maintaining itself against the insurgents, it nevertheless exists and can communicate with the outside world, and that within a reasonable time. Why, then, can no direct statement be had from it of the actual situation at Pekin?

The despatch from Mr. Conger thus raises more mystifying questions than it answers. The most positive information we get from it is that all previous information was untrue. It does little to relieve anxiety or to simplify the duty of the foreign powers.

THE FORCE OF HABIT.

Showing How Completely One Habit May Supplant Another.

"Habit is a curious thing," said Mr. Joggleton, "but the completeness with which one habit can be supplanted by another seems more curious still.

"I had a chair that I had used for years and which, as I was firmly convinced, was by long odds the most comfortable chair ever made. After breakfast, when I read the paper, I used to sit in that chair, and after dinner at night I settled down into it, with a cigar, in peace and happiness and thought there never was a chair that combined so many good points as to height and pitch of seat and slope of back and all that. I had never seen a chair that suited me so well.

"But one day this chair was tipped over or something or other happened to it, I don't know what, but something so serious that it was put out of commission. With our usual conservative slowness we put off from day to day and from week to week getting that chair repaired, and, as a matter of fact, it was two or three years before we had it fixed up and brought into use again. Meanwhile I had singled out another chair which I came commonly to occupy. This didn't begin to be at first so comfortable as the old one had been, but gradually its objectionable points disappeared, and, I'm blessed, if it didn't begin to develop good points that I had never suspected in it, and I came at last to look upon it as a very comfortable sort of chair indeed. But at last the old chair—the good old chair—was fixed up again and brought back into use, and the day it appeared I looked forward to settling down in it at night with all the old time comfort.

"But when, with all these pleasant anticipations, I came to sit in it again I did not find the pleasure that I had expected. It was too high or too low or the seat sloped too much or something. I don't know what. It wasn't as it used to be to me. I tried it once or twice more after that and then gave it up and went back to the new chair. My new habit had become firmly fixed. I liked the new chair better, and now as I settled down in it its good points were at once emphasized and softened and rounded into completeness, and I accepted it in full as the chair of satisfying comfort and wondered as I looked across at the other what I ever could have seen in it to make me like it so much.

Pretty Hot Stuff.

Colonel Bob Simmons manages to keep his eyes open by consuming a plentiful supply of birdseye peppers, which a superintendent of one of his numerous Louisiana plantations sends him weekly. Did you ever eat birdseye? It is a quarter inch in diameter, shaped like a double convex lens, with a black pupil and dark brown iris. The hottest sauce known to man is made of it.

The colonel delights in offering one to an acquaintance and watching furtively to see the tears come. He tried three on me. I bolted them and smiled, for there was no present heat. In an hour, after they had scorched the walls of my stomach and their force fire had crept up my esophagus to the roof of my mouth, I was crying as a baby. Quantities of milk but increased the terrification. The throat was a crematory. Water cold as ice scalded. My sufferings lasted a night, and I prayed that the colonel might never go to as hot a place as I was.—New York Press.

Pretty Hands,

Hands delicately moulded and daintily white are among the chief of woman's charms. When such hands are marred by eruptions, their very beauty draws attention to the repulsive disease. Humors which break out on the body begin in the blood. Soaps and salves may cover up a humor but they can't cure it. There is a cure for salt-rheum and other eruptive diseases, caused by a corrupt condition of the blood. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures these diseases perfectly and permanently. It carries off the poisons which cause disease. It makes the blood pure and rich. It increases the quantity of the blood supply by increasing the action of the blood making glands. It makes the skin white and clear by making the blood pure.

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or other intoxicant.

"I write to tell you the benefit I have received from your 'Golden Medical Discovery,' after having suffered for three years with salt-rheum," writes Miss Bertha Freeze, of Lake, Monroe Co., Mich. "The humor was on my hands, and I had been treated by our home physician who did not help me. After I began the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery I took seven bottles, and can now say with pleasure that I am cured. Nobody knows the misery this I have endured. I could not sleep at night, the stinging, burning and itching sensation would be so bad, sometimes I could hardly bear it. I thank you for your kind advice."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets assist the action of the "Discovery" when there is constipation.

FIVE GOOD SHORT STORIES

Machine Order.

Here is a story told by gubernatorial candidate "Dick" Yates of Illinois, at the recent Hamilton Club banquet, to illustrate the length to which some men will go in their devotion to a political machine. It concerns Senators Penrose of Pennsylvania and his political godfather, former Senator Quay—

"One day," so goes the story, "Senator Quay met Senator Penrose, and they walked together up to the capitol. 'Penrose,' asked Quay, 'how old are you?' 'I'm 40. Why do you ask?' 'You are pretty nearly 40 years old and you are not married yet. You ought to be ashamed of yourself. Why haven't you got a wife?' 'Well,' said Penrose, 'in the first place I never found anybody I thought would have me. In the second place I never saw anybody I thought I wanted.' 'Penrose,' said Quay, laughingly, I order you to get married. The papers say I'm your boss and that you are the creature of the machine. Now, simply as a matter of good politics I order you to find a pretty girl and get married.' 'All right, Senator,' said the junior Senator. 'I'm a good soldier, and I always obey orders. I'm a machine man and I'm proud of it. If you say marry, I'll do it. I'll marry any woman who can secure the indorsement of the State Central Committee for the job.'"—Kansas City Journal.

Playing False to His Client.

"I shall have to make a lawyer out of that boy of mine. I don't see any other way out of it," declared the well-known attorney with a laugh. "He came into my office the other day on his way home from school and laid a nickel down on the desk before me.

"'What is that for, son?' I asked.

"'Retainer,' he answered, soberly.

"'Very well,' said I, entering into the joke. 'What have I been retained upon?'

"My boy dug down into his pocket and produced a note from his teacher and placed it before me without comment. It was to the effect that he had been 'cutting up,' and advised a whipping.

"'Now what would you advise?' asked he in a businesslike tone after I had read the note and saw the trap that the young rascal had led me into.

"'I think that our first move should be to apply for a change of venue,' said I.

"'Very well,' he answered. 'you're handling the case.'

"'Then we will turn the note over to your mother,' said I.

"I saw the young imp's face fall at this, but he braced up and said—

"'See here, pop, you're bound to see me through on this 'cause you've accepted my retainer, you know!'

"'I'll argue your case before the court,' I answered, 'but you will have to accept the decision. I would not dare to accept the decision. I would not dare to attempt to influence the court.'

"Well, I pleaded the boy's case, promptly had it thrown out of court, and the boy got what he deserved—a good whipping.

"It was the first time I ever played false to a client."—Detroit Free Press.

Pretty Near the Other Place.

Senator Pettus, who had served as an officer in the Confederate army, returned to his home in Selma, Ala., at the close of the war, and with characteristic energy immediately established a law firm, associating with him a young man noted for his thrift and business qualities. The arrangements for the partnership completed, the matter of fees was taken up, relates the New York Tribune.

"Well," said Pettus, reflectively, "these people are pretty poor down here and we don't want to be too strict about fees. We'll take enough to keep us out of the poorhouse, but not enough to send us to the penitentiary."

Not long after this determination was reached Pettus & Co. were retained by a large and important cotton case, which was promptly decided in favor of their clients.

"By the way, what did you charge those people?" asked the senior member of the business man of the firm.

"Fifteen thousand dollars," responded the partner jubilantly. "Don't you think that will keep us out of the poorhouse for a while?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Pettus, shuddering at the magnitude of the sum, "it will, indeed; but I am mighty afraid it will come pretty near landing us in the penitentiary."—Philadelphia Call.

Jim Scanlan as a Witness.

Everybody in Kearney remembers Jim Scanlan, who was Union Pacific agent at this place several years ago, but who is now stationed at North Platte. Jim is and always has been one of the Union Pacific's most zealous employes, and his eagerness to advance the interests of the road was shown to good advantage in the District Court here a few years since. A case came up before Judge Hamer wherein the Union Pacific was defendant, and Jim was called as a witness. After sworn, he took the stand, and an examination of the transcript in the case shows the following to have been a part of the testimony.

Q.—You will please state your name.

A.—James Scanlan.

Q.—Where do you reside?

A.—Kearney.

Q.—Nebraska, Buffalo county?

A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Mr. Scanlan, you may state your business occupation.

A.—I am the agent at Kearney for the Union Pacific, the great overland route, conceded by all to be the greatest railroad in the United States, and running though the most wonderful scenery ever laid out by the Creator for the eyes of man to feast upon, to say nothing of its being the main artery of commerce for the most bountifully-blest region of the habitable globe—a railroad that—

The court—The witness will please bear in mind that this is not a massmeeting for the purpose of advertising any particular railroad. He will confine himself to brief and direct answers to all questions put to him.

And Scnlan has always been sorry that he could not get into the record a lot of advertising matter he had committed to memory from a folder that had recently been issued by the "overland route."—Omaha World-Herald.

Australian Justice.

The stories of early Australian judges are numerous and incredible. The following incident, which is vouched for as a fact, is of a judge who had a very lofty idea of his own legal capacity, and was, at the same time, anxious to sustain the dignity of his court. A "shooting case" came before him. There was no direct evidence as to the perpetrator of the murder, but the individual arrested was well known, and, indeed, confessed the deed. When brought into the court the judge cautioned the prisoner that he must remember his rights as a free citizen, and that, above all things, he must not interrupt the proceedings of the court. After this friendly warning the judge proceeded to state, that he, the prisoner, was accused of having on such a date shot the deceased.

Upon this the prisoner broke in, "Well, and so I did."

The judge was annoyed at the interruption.

"Hold your tongue, sir," he exclaimed. "Haven't I told you to commit yourself nor interrupt me? I shall commit you for contempt of court if you do so again!" he added, sternly.

He then repeated the accusation, upon which the prisoner broke in—

"I told ye afore that I killed—"

The judge's indignation was intense at this second interruption and he demanded—"Mr. Sheriff, what is your evidence?"

"I have nothing but circumstantial evidence, your honor, and the prisoner's own confession."

"Then," said the judge, "I discharge the prisoner on this accusation, but commit him for contempt of court."—Philadelphia Call.

MY FIRE.

It starts;
A sinuous eyelash from the sun,
A golden, leaf shaped, dancing thing,
Reaching fernlike in a magic bosom,

And grows
And saps the virgin forest's strength
With writhing, biting arms,
And with its red jaws through the gloom
Casts elfin shadows round the room,

And, waning still,
It lashes round the knotted wood
With soft but cruel sting,
Till, gorged with strength, it fades away
Beneath a coverlet of gray,

And now,
Like molten sunset from the west,
Pulsates as with lively breath
Till, dying amidst the bones its greed has made,
Its heart is still and ashes mark the grave.

INVESTIGATION SHOWS WISDOM

I make the absolute claim that Rob Roy Mining Shares are one of the least risky things you can invest in!

Strong language, as mining is usually classed as a speculation, and rightly so—if a lot of good common isn't used!

Still I fearlessly say that these shares are safer than nine tenths of the monetary risks you daily take—in horses or cattle, for instance!

I have seen the properties, know the men at the head of affairs (well known London men they are too!), have my own money up, and am prepared to give you the benefit of my experience if you want it!

You have $100, say, that you want to invest if you can find a safe and profitable place for it. Well there's nothing going that I know of better than Rob Roy stock at .15 per share!

If this interests you and you mean business, drop me a line, and I'll gladly tell you what I know.

In any event you don't HAVE to buy.

Altogether likely these shares will be taken off the market inside of a few weeks.

THE COLORADO COPPER MINING COMPANY

LOCATION OF OUR MINES

THE COLORADO COPPER MINING COMPANY is fortunate in being the possessor of five splendid showing properties in the great Salida copper belt, the principal copper producing region of this portion of the Rockies. All of our claims have been more or less developed, and it is our purpose to put the same on a paying basis at once.

Our company owns, clear of incumbrances, the following claims: The Sedalia Extension, the Sedalia Extension No. 2, which property adjoins the great Sedalia mine, which has been a big producer for upwards of seventeen years; the Copper King of Colorado, which immediately adjoins the above; the Copper Queen of Salida, a very promising property, only a few steps from the depot in Salida. This claim occupies an imposing position on a mountain just north of the city; and last, but by no means least, the Sunshine, located two miles east of Salida at Cleora Station, on the main trunk line of the great Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, and also on the Arkansas River, which in length is one of America's greatest streams.

OZONE

The New Treatment Successful in Female Diseases.

Has Cured Many Ladies After the Older Treatments Failed.

When you realize that all blood disease comes from Germ Life, that poisons the system, the only way to get well is to rid the system of the germs which produce the disease. Common sense tells us that this is the true principle of eradicating disease. Powley's Liquified Ozone is a germ Killer. It acts on a different principle of cure than patent medicines, besides, it does not weaken the system in order to destroy the germ, as many drug medicines do. OZONE IS A NATURAL ELEMENT, and cures by removing the cause.

HERE IS EVIDENCE!

THE OZONE CO.—
Toronto, Sept 23rd, 1899.

Dear Sirs,—I am pleased in recommending your wonderful medicine; it entirely cured me of a very bad form of stomach trouble and female complaints. I can also recommend it to all people for pimples and eruptions on the face and other parts of the body.

With kind wishes for your success, I am yours truly,
MRS. E. M. McDONALD,
268 Dovercourt Road.

Toronto, Nov. 7th, 1899.

Dears Sirs,—I am pleased to give you my testimony on behalf of Ozone for the great benefit it has done for me in female troubles and general broken down system. I have reaped great good from its use, and cheerfully recommend it to all afflicted as I was.

We regret to announce the serious illness of Mr. H. Calcutt. He was taken ill on Sunday but on Monday he rallied, and seemed to improve yesterday, however, his condition was not so favorable. His friends hope for a turn for the better although his physicians are not sanguine.

Splendid Results.

The enormous circulation now enjoyed by the Times places the paper in the very front rank, as an advertising medium. This fact is being recognized, yesterday we received the following from the Victor Medical Co., Buffalo, one of the largest concerns in the city—"Please find enclosed $12 kindly keep our ad. hammering all the time, as we have splendid results."

Bread Goes Up.

The local bakers have raised the price of bread to 12 cents per loaf. It is rather peculiar that when the price of flour was away low, bread remained at 12 cents per loaf. In Orillia only 7 cents is charged, and in many places the price never exceeds eight and nine cents. Just why Peterborough bakers put the price up to 12 cts, under circumstances is inexplicable. Perhaps the bakers in Orillia and other places are not after wealth.

Gone to the "Soo".

Mr. Peter Kerr, of the Wm. Hamilton Mfg. Co., left yesterday for Sault Ste Marie, where he has accepted a responsible position. On Monday evening the members of the Christian Endeavor of St. Andrew's church assembled to bid Mr. Kerr farewell. Refreshments were served and Mr. Kerr's past services as an officer and member of the society were suitably acknowledged.

A Tax on Their Virtue.

A curious example of the reward of excessive virtue, which is often its own undoing, is thus given—The English pickle manufacturers have been making their pint bottles hold a little more than a pint, to be on the safe side of an English law on the subject. But when they sent these pint bottles to Canada they ran against a law which provides that any package measuring more than a pint must pay duty as a quart.

Wedded at Campbellford.

At Campbellford at seven o'clock yesterday morning the wedding took place of Miss Margaret McCarthy, of that village to Mr. Thos. J. McDonough the popular clerk of the Oriental hotel. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father McCloskey. Miss May McCarthy, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and the groom was attended by Mr. James Hickey, of town. The young couple take a wedding trip to the thousand Islands. On their return they will take up residence on Townsend-st. Among the presents received was a handsome bedroom suite from Mr. Graham, the proprietor of the Oriental.

The Fish Seizure.

Fishery Overseer Moore's letter, published in another column, puts a new face on the recent seizure of fish at Lakefield. Mr. Moore hits the nail squarely on the head when he places the blame on the hotel keepers. Guests from a distance are not familiar with the fishery laws, and it should be the duty of hotel keepers and keepers of summer resorts to see that the laws are not violated.

People Who Read "Ads."

There is an immense and constantly growing number of people who read the advertising columns of the newspapers before starting out to buy things. Her Scalp Grew on Again.

A remarkable surgical operation has been recently performed in Paris. A laundress had her scalp torn off from the nape of her neck to the eyebrows by her hair catching in some belting. She was taken to the Broussais Hospital, where Dr. Malherbe, after seeing her, sent for her scalp. He obtained it after a delay of several hours, shaved off the hair, washed it with antiseptics, and applied it in place again. The scalp has grown on to the head.

INTENDED FOR OTHERS.

Difficult to Believe Advice Applies to us.

"While reading the morning paper at breakfast, I frequently read over the advertisements of Postum Food Coffee and finally began to wonder if it was a fact that my daily headache and dyspepsia were due to coffee drinking.

"It never occurred to me that the warning fitted my case.

"I had been on the diet cure for more than ten years, having tried a strictly meat diet also a strictly vegetable diet and at other times left off breakfast for a time and again left off dinner, but all these efforts were futile in ridding me of the steady half-sick condition under which I labored.

I had never once thought of over-hauling "dear old coffee," but when it finally occurred to me to make the trial and take up Postum, I immediately discovered where the difficulty all these years came from. I now eat anything for breakfast, as much as I desire, doing justice to a good meal, and the same at lunch and dinner, with never a headache or other disagreeable symptoms. My only "crankiness" now is to know that I have Postum served as it should be made, that is properly boiled. There is a vast difference between poorly made Postum and good.

"C. W. Hasty of Alameda, Calif., insists that he owes his life to me because I introduced him to Postum. I have a number of friends who have been finally cured of stomach and bowel trouble by the use of Postum Food Coffee in place of regular coffee.

Please do not use my name."

How to Keep Cool.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I see you have started a "Letter Box" department in your paper, and I venture to write a few lines in regard to the heat, and how to keep cool. The following are my rules—

Don't worry—and don't worry because you can't help worrying.

Don't sit on a hot stove.

Don't drink hot Scotches, or Tom and Jerrys, or hot rum punches.

Don't talk politics—the other fellow is a heat producing fool, anyway.

Don't get excited. If your dog is being whipped, look at the thermometer and resign yourself to his fate.

Don't swear at the heat. Remember the time you became profane when you slipped in the snow some six months ago.

Don't walk in the sun. Have it moved if it blocks the way.

Don't hurry. Send the office boy.

Don't try to settle the Chinese question. The other fellow is just as much of an anti-to-be-convinced as you are.

Don't look at the ice bill. Think of the ice.

Don't wear an overcoat.

Don't sleep between blankets.

Read the Morning Times regularly.

SOUTH END.

Fishery Overseer Moore Speaks.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I was somewhat surprised at the statement made in your paper of this morning that the parties whose fish I seized on Saturday, had only one more than the law allowed. The facts of the case are as follows—The party (six in number) had four boxes full of fish. I opened one and found thirty maskinonge, besides a large number of bass. They told me that the other boxes were packed in the same ratio, which would give over eighty maskinonge. They were entitled to forty-eight. All the boxes were labelled with different names. I allowed them to take their full number (and more) home with them, as I did not know what to do with the fish. (Those seized were sent to the Protestant Home.) I did not blame the parties so much as the hotel keepers with whom they stay, as they were all posted on the fish and game laws, and should inform their guests and save trouble. It always stands to [illegible] a point in favor of strangers, who come over here for pleasure and spend their money freely, but I cannot pass over such cases as that of Saturday.

I am, Yours &c.,
F. JAS. MOORE,
Fishery Overseer.

Lightning and Trees.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir.—The melancholy death of Mr. Matthew Johnsten the other day while resting under a tree, by lightning prompts me to give some statistics which I gathered regarding lightning and trees.

In this connection it is interesting to note the results of a recent inquiry by the German Government into the effect of lightning upon trees. Observations were made by overseers of foresting stations scattered over an area of 50,000 acres in the district of Lippe. The forests comprised 70 per cent of beech trees, 13 per cent of pines, 11 per cent of oaks, and 6 per cent of firs. Of 270 trees struck by lightning 58 per cent were oak, 21 per cent fir, 8 per cent beech, and 7 per cent pine. These figures show the extreme susceptibility of the oak to lightning stroke, and the large and disproportionate percentage of its attack upon the fir. The beech appears to be almost immune from lightning stroke. While 70 per cent of the forest trees were beeches, they received only 8 per cent of the strokes, or about one-ninth of their proportionate share. It has often been asserted in England that the beech was never struck by lightning. While the German observations disprove this broad assertion, they amply justify the common belief in the rarity of the occurrence. Professor Henry, a United States Scientist observes that the zone of danger from lightning extends over several feet, and cities instances to show the error of the present opinion that it extends but a few inches. Five hundred and sixty-two persons were killed and 820 injured by lightning in the United States in 1890. The most common form of disability from the stroke is partial paralysis.

How They Kiss.

With Apologies to the Belleville Intelligencer.

The Peterborough girl bows her stately head
And fixes her pretty lips
In a hard, firm way—and lets 'em go
And sips, and sips, and sips.

The Lakefield girl has a way of her own;
In a soulful, clinging way,
She takes a kiss that's just as big
As a wagon load of hay!

The Lindsay girl gets a grip on herself
And carefully takes off her hat,
Then grabs the man in a frenzied way,
Like a terrier shaking a rat.

The Port Hope girl never says a word,
She's so gentle, timid and tame,
But she grabs the Jay by the back of the neck
And gets there, just the same.

IN A BARBER SHOP.

Why a Customer Took Exception to a Question.

A bald headed man, with four days' growth of beard on his chin, went into a George street barber's shop and sat down in one of the operating chairs. To him presently went the knight of the razor, who remarked, interrogatively, "Shave, sir?"

"No," growled the man in the chair, "I want to be measured for a suit of clothes."

This statement seemed to surprise the barber, but he managed to say, "This isn't a tailor's shop, sir."

"Isn't it?"

"No, sir."

"What is it?"

"It's a barber shop."

"What sort of work do you do in this shop?"

"Shave men and cut their hair, sir."

"Do you think a man with no hair on his head would come in here to have his hair cut?"

"No, sir."

"Do I look like a lunatic?"

This was replied to by a silent shake of the head, but the barber doubtless thought he was acting like one.

"Then, presuming me to be a sane man, but bald headed, what would you naturally suppose I came here for?"

"For a shave."

"Then, my dear sir, why did you ask me if I wanted a shave, when I took a seat in your chair? Why didn't you go to work at once? If some of you barbers would cultivate a habit of inferring, from easily ascertained data, instead of developing such wonderful conversational and catechetical powers, it would be of material aid in advancing you in your chosen vocation, and of expanding your profits. Do you comprehend?"

"Yes, sir," replied the man, as he began to lather the customer's face in a dazed sort of way, and he never even asked him if he wanted oil on his hair when the operation was performed.

LITTLE HOPE FOR LEGATIONS AT PEKIN

NO RELIABLE NEWS CAN BE SECURED ABOUT THE LEGATIONS AT PEKIN

The Boxers Movements Are Rapidly Extending Towards the South

ADMITTED THAT NO MASSACRE HAS OCCURRED

Belated Stories From Tien Tsin Tell of the Capture of That Town by the Allies—Prince Tuan's Ambition is to Have a Rug of Human Skin

London, July 26. 4 a.m.

Mr. Conger's letter, the substance of which has been transmitted to the United States Secretary of the navy through Capt. Thomas of the United States Cruiser Brooklyn, has increased the belief in London that there is no hope for the foreign Legations in Pekin and that the elaborate fabric of despatches which the Chinese are building to persuade he civilised world that the Ministers are still alive is only intended to enable them to gain time to complete preparations for warfare.

The Chu correspondent of the Daily Mail asserts that a Chinaman who was employed at the British Legation as a waiter and interpreter has escaped from Pekin to Nuichawang and that he declares that at the time he left Pekin most of the members were dead and thousands of others were hopeless. He says that Sir Robert Hart of Chinese Imperial maritime customs, died July 2. The correspondent goes on to say no other dates are given in the message from Nuichawang. The leading Chinese newspapers here published yesterday a despatch declaring it was all over with the members of the Legations. The President of a minor board at Pekin wrote a relative in Shanghai under date of July 8 saying the foreign Legations are still uncaptured but owing to the daily fighting it is reported that only about 3,000 persons are left alive in the Legations, and, if there is any delay in the arrival of the relief force I fear that none will be left to receive it. This is regarded in Shanghai as truth. Strange enough it is said nothing of any assistance to the Legations by Prince Ching or Gen. Yung Lu. While these brief side lights as the fate of Europeans leaves little ground for hope, Shanghai sends a batch of reports indicative of preparation for hostilities on the part of Chinese. It is alleged that Yantsi Viceroys have sent deputies to Shanghai to inquire about raising a foreign loan ostensibly to pursue military operations against the Boxers whose movements are extending rapidly southward with constantly growing strength and has reached a point where the provinces of Shanghai, Honan and Shanghai meet, leaving behind it a trail of burned missions and murdered christains. Simultaneously there is a movement northward of southern Chinese troops to join the main army gathered to oppose the foreign advance on Pekin. The strength of this principal force is now estimated at 300,000 men. It is believed that another two or three weeks must elapse before the Chinese preparations are completed. It is reported that 3,000 Chinese troops and more guns are beginning to reinforce the garrison of the Kiang Yun forces commanding the entrance to the Yang Tse Kiang. The Viceroy of Wuchang, on the Yang Tse Kiang, telegraphs that he is apprehensive that he will not be able to restrain his troops for more than another 10 days. He says he has thrown the Breech blocks of the guns commanding Hankow into the river. These signs of unrest in the southern province are Co incident with Li Hung Chang's presence in Shangahi. They are supposed to be the beginning of a general declaration against foreigners.

London, July 25.—The feature of the news regarding the Chinese crisis is the tardy admission in certain quarters that the story of the Pekin massacre may after all have been a myth. Several belated stories of the capture of Tien Tsin by the allies are published, but though furnishing good reading they add nothing to the main details already published. Admiral Kempff's explanation of why he did not join the allies in attacking the Taku forts is a clear indication that the worthy sailor had not the courage and insight of Nelson, who refused to obey absurd instructions, and furnishes a sufficient reason for his supercession, which has already taken place. The denseness of a commander who could not see how the taking of the forts would serve his country's interests, considering that those forts commanded the route by which the Ambassadors could be rescued, passe all belief.

MESSAGE FROM CONGER

On July 4th He Was in Danger and Pekin Without Government

Washington, July 25. — The following cablegram has been received at the Navy Department—

Chefoo, July 24.—Navigation Bureau, Washington.—Written message signed Conger, dated July fourth, received Tien Tsin 21st, says—

Been besieged two weeks. British Legation. Grave danger general massacre by Chinese soldiers, who are shelling Legation daily. Relief soon if at all. City without government, except by Chinese army. Determined massacre all foreigners, Pekin. Entry relief forces into city probably be hotly contested. (Signed) Thomas.

The message comes from Captain Charles M. Thomas, commander of the Brooklyn.

THE A. P. SWALLOWS ITSELF

Now Admits that the Massacre Story May Have Been Unfounded.

London, July 25.—The earlier unquestioning belief that a massacre took place has to some extent been shaken. and it is now admitted, despite the heavy load of evidence supporting the reports of the massacre, that as Sir Claude Macdonald's letter disposed of the first story alleging that the crime occurred June 30, so Minister's Conger's despatch and other stories reporting thel egations safe July 10, 14 and 18 give some grounds for assuming the possibility that the second reports were also unfounded.

AN ENCOURAGING DESPATCH

Washington Officials Augur Well From Conger's Recent Despach.

Washington, July 25.—The message from "Minister Conger which came over the wires from Captain Thomas this morning was the first communication of unquestionable authenticity which has been received from the American Minister at Pekin since his urgent appeal for help of June 12. It establishes clearly the fact that the American Minister, and probably the other legationers, were alive on July 4, though in sore straits. Therefore it completely and finally disposes of the first stories that were published from Shanghai of the massacre of June 27. It is true that it does not in itself negative the subsequent reports of the massacre on July 6, two days later than the day of the despatch, but the officials here believe that here is quite as much reason to believe that the second report was false as in the case of the first report now shown to have been erronous. A notable omission in Mr. Conger's despatch is the failure to mention the assassination of the German Minister at Pekin, which surely occ urred many days before he wrote his message. It is also noticed that this morning's despatch is dated two weeks before the famous cipher message from Mr. Conger produced here by Minister Wu.

An encouraging feature of the message to-day is the indicatoin that direct telegraph communication has been restored between the cable end at Shanghai and Chefoo. The news despatches have been delayed a full week lately between Chefoo and Tien Tsin.

EARLY MORNING ATTACK

Belated Story of a Fight at Tien Tsin on July 11th.

Tein Tsin, Wednesday, July 11, via Shanghai, Tuesday, July 25.— The allies to-day sustained 100 casualties in repelling an early morning attack on the railway station across the river from the foreign settlement. A regiment of Japanese, a battationof French from Tonquin and the Hong Kong Sikhs participated in the fighting, driving the Chinese before them at the point of their bayonets, killing, it is estimated, three hundred of them.

The allies had planned a general movement against the Chinese position and a contingent of the Ninth United States Infantry landed at midnight prepared to advance. The movement was postponed, however, after a part of the troops had started, on account of the difficulties encountered in crossing the canals. The Chinese apparently, had been informed of the plan, and gathered a large force opposite the station.

These opened with rifles and field guns, and the foreigners advancing were met by a severe infantry fire, the Chinese creeping close to the station behind the cover of the tombs. The fighting began at 3 o'clock and last for hours, becoming a hand to hand conflict The Japanese company leading charge lost all its officers. Five Japanese officers and fifteen privates, and six Frenchmen were killed, and three Sikhs were killed and six wounded.

Two British 4-inch guns mounted at the lower end of the settlement, bombarded the Chinese positions with lyddite, firing at the Pagadoas on the wall of the native city. Two more guns were being mounted. There is great need of more heavy guns to displace the Chinese artillery. Plenty of light batteries are arriving.

A British officer who was in Ladysmith throughout its siege by the Boers says the severity and accuracy of the Chinese shelling the past week exceeded that of the Boer bombardment of Ladysmith, The heat is intense.

CHINESE REBEL AGAINST THE BOXERS

Soldiers Killing the Marauders--Hopeful Signs are Now Found in Dissension Among the Celestials

Tien Tsin, Friday, July 25.—Chinese coming in from the country report that the Chinese soldiers are killing the Boxers wherever the latter are seen, giving as a reason that the Boxers deceived them into embarking on a hopeless struggle. An intelligent Chinaman said he regarded this as a sign of widespreading dissenson. It was only a matter of a short time, he declared, before the same state would exist in Pekin. Then he thought Jung Lu, commander-in-chief of the Chinese forces, and Prince Ching would be able to regain sufficent influence to make peace, especially if the foreigners in the capital were safe. This appears to represent the general native opinion here as far as it is possible to ascertain it.

In the meantime reliable news as t events in Pekin, and whether the foreigners are alive is entirely lacking, or is only obtainable from Chinese sources, and that is most meagre and contradictory.

It is now thought that the forward movement of the allies will probably take place earlier than was at first intended, possibly by the end of this month. But nothing definite will be decided before the arrival of General Sir Alfred Gaselee, commanding the Indian contingent.

A runner who arrived from Pekin yesterday reports that the foreigners were safe on July 10th, and that there had been considerable fighting between the Boxers, and soldiers inside the city.

PRINCE TUAN'S AMBITIONS

Wants a Bedspread Made from the Skin of a "Foreign Devil."

The Peking and Tien Tsin Times prints the following.

"Prince Tuan, the father of the Heir-Apparent, seems to be a nice, kindly old gentleman, He has taken an oath not to rest until he has secured the skin of a foreign devil as a rug for his bed."

A BELATED BATTLE STORY

Further Details of the Capture of Tien Tsin by the Allies.

Chicago, July 25.—A despatch to The Record from Tien Tsin, dated Saturday, July 21 "via Shanghai says.

To-day performance will break the backbone of the Chinese war party. At daylight this morning the combined forces turned their attack upon the Chinese left, which was penetrated. As the Russians failed to make a suitable bridge across the canal the Chinese made a smart counter-attack on our right and left outposts. This was repulsed by a handful or two of men who fought with great bravery but with heavy casualties.

At one o'clock in the afternoon the allies bombarded the native city, and after an hour of magnificent work by two four-inch guns and three 12 pounders the fort and adjoining military pagodas were in flames. Their destruction was complete. The fort replied feebly with a few rounds, when one gun got the exact range and fired several lyddite shells. This is the fort that has been shelling Tien Tsin since June 17. The allied forces have spared the portions of the native city from which operations have not been directed.

LADY MISSIONARIES KILLED

Miss Whitchurch and Miss Searell Slain by Boxers.

The following cable was received at Toronto yesterday. "Shanghai.— information has been received of Miss Whitchurch and Miss E. E. Searell murdered." The message was sent by the Rev. John Stephenson, director of the China Inland Mission station at Shanghai, to the head office of the society in London, and was sent on by them to the local branch. Miss Whitchurch went to China from England in connection with the China Inland Mission in 1884; She was regarded as one of the most valuable as well as one of the oldest of their workers. She was stationed at Hsioai, in the Province of Shan Si. Miss Searell was also regarded as a most successful missionary, though with less experience, as she only went out from Australia in 1895. She also was stationed at Hsioai with Miss Whitchurch.

IN SIGHT OF HUNDREDS.

Lineman O'Neil Meets Death While at Work in Newark.

Newark, N.J., July 25.—John O'Neil, a lineman, was killed on the top of a pole at the corner of Broad and Franklin streets late this afternoon. He was roasted to death in sight of hundreds of persons, and when he finally fell from the pole he struck upon his head, which was split open.

O'Neil and other linemen were engaged in transferring the wires on an old series of poles to a new lot. On the new pole at the corner Linemen Edwin Beatty was at work. The men were about six feet apart. The wire which struck O'Neil hit him on the right arm. Beatty tried to drag it away and narrowly escaped a bad shock himself. The body of O'Neil hung in the air fully two minutes before it dropped. The fall was sixty feet, and it is not known whether the man was dead when he began to fall or was killed by the fall, but it is supposed he was dead. O'Neil was twenty-five years old, married, and lived at 125 South Seventh street.

BUILDS A BOAT TO LOOK FOR LOST ONES

Captain Corrigan's Search to Recover Bodies of His Daughters Drowned in Idler Disaster--He Will Explore the Bed of Lake Erie With Electric Lights

New York, July 25.—Details of fighting in the outskirts of Panama are given in a special to the Herald, coming via Galveston, yesterday. The despatch says the revolutionists reached the suburbs early in the morning, and as the despatch was being written the rifle fire was sharp and continuous, and the artillery fire heavy and severe. Two hundred men had already been killed and wounded, and the Red Cross hospital was filled with wounded and dying soldiers.

Among the wounded was General Losada, formerly in command of the Government troops, who had taken refuge with others on the cruiser Leander on Saturday. He returned to shore and took the place of a private in the ranks, fighting with the bravest.

"Every possible effect has been made by the foreign consuls," says the despatch. "to prevent a disastrous conflict in the streets of the city, but without success.

"Panama's streets are almost deserted. Stray bullets are constantly dropping. Railroad traffic has been interrupted. The morning train from Colon, bringing passengers for New York, had great difficulty in passing under the bridge on account of the risk from bullets and shells. Passengers had to lie flat on the car floors to avoid bullets.

"The Government has issued a decree calling to arms all Colombian citizens between the ages of 18 and 60 years."

THE BOERS ARE NOW RETREATING NORTHWARD

Advance of Generals French and Hamilton Causes Them to Fall Back

WHAT GENERAL LORD ROBERTS INTENDS DOING

It is Not Likely That a General Advance is Taking Place but That the Boers are Being Held at Arm's Length from Pretoria —Botha Admits Boer Mistakes

London, July 25.

Baden Powell reports as follows.—"Magatofarm, July 22.— Cols Arey and Lushington with 450 men drove 1,000 Boers from a very strong position and scattered them with considerable loss. Our Casulaties were six killed and 19 wounded. It is not clear whether the supply train and two hundred fusiliers mentioned in the above despatch are identical with the train and the hundred Cameron Highlanders. The capture of which was reported by Lord Roberts' on July 22. The following despatch from Lord Roberts' has been received at the war office "Bronkhorst Spruit, July 24.—We marched here to-day. This is the place where the Ninety Fourth was attacked December 20. 1880. The graves of the officers and men are in the fair preservation and will be put in good order. The march was unopposed but French's cavalry and Hutton's mounted Infantry made a wide detour on our right and met bodies of the enemy. These were driven back leaving several dead and wounded, a good many were also captured. Our Casualties were one killed. Bradwood reports that he captured five of De Wet's wagons to-day. He was waiting at Vrede fort until Little joined him.

The Boers Retreating Northward.

Bronkhorst Spruit, Transvaal, Tuesday, July 24.—The Boers having got wind of the British advance, have evacuated all their positions and are reported to be moving to the northeast toward Lidenberg whither President Kruger is going. A position of the Boers remain north of Bushveldt, whence they attempt to interrupt communications to this line.

The bridges here and smaller bridges to the west have been destroyed.

The British force comprises two brigades under Gen. French and a brigade and a half under General Hamilton It is not likely that the advance upon Middleburg will be contested. The Boers remaining upon their farms state that most of the brigades are anxious to bring matters to a finish, but that the foreigners are presistent.

The War Not Over Yet.

London, July 25.—The news from South Africa this morning can scarcely be taken as an indication that the the war is much nearer its end. True the Boers are beaten and are utterly incapable of making any strong stand against the British, whose advance is always the signal for a Boer retreat. Still the mosquito-like tactics of the enemy are likely to prolong the struggle for many weary weeks, for burghers recognize that in the Chinese affair, for which British urgently needs men, has come to chance for which they looked and prayed in order to create a diversion in their favor. It is hardly likely that the advance of General French and Hamilton with about 10,000 men towards Middleburg is being undertaken seriously. The smallness of the force and the absence of the commander-in-chief argue against a general advance. Probabilities are that the two generals have advanced to Bronkhorist Spruit in order to hold the Boers at arm's length from Pretoria, about thirty miles away, a manoeuvre which was performed some weeks ago, but which evidently ended in a British retirement upon the Boer capital for some reason which has not been made clear. The absence of news regarding the chase after De Wet causes supicion to rise that no news is not good news, and that the guerilla may have escaped his pursuers and joined Botha over the Vaal.

MARTIAL LAW IN AFRICA

Motion in the Cape House to Restore the Ordinary Methods

Cape Town, July 25.—Ex-Treasurer Merriman, in submitting a motion in the House of Assembly to-day, said that the time has come when private liberty shoule be restored, and the law of the land prevail.

Attorney-General Ross-Innes, in reply, stated that he had consulted with 22 magistrates. Two favored the repeal of martial law, four favored a qualified repeal, and 16 were opposed to any appeal. The liberty of the subject, he added, was subservient to the safety of the State. The time was not ripe for the reinstitution of the civil aw.

Ex-Attorney-General Solomon in supporting Mr. Ross-Innes, stated that only six cases not aristing from a mere breach of the martial law regulations had been tried by court-martial. Of the judgments in these cases, only one appeared to him to be a miscarriage of justice. The military authorities, upon application, willingly submitted the records in this case, and upon his advice the service sentence that had been imposed was reduced from five years to six months. Hardships were undoubtedly caused by natural law, and he sympathised with those who were subjected to them, but never before had martial law been so carefully administered, nor had there ever been such a desire t odo strict justice, tempered with leniency.

RAILWAY CLEARED AGAIN

General De Wet Only Damaged the Line Very Slightly.

London, July 25.—An official despatch received here from Cape Town to-day, dated Monday, July 24, says.

"The railway northward is now clear of Boers. The line is slightly damaged, but will soon be clear. Captain Fowler proceeds to-morrow."

A War Office return shows that the total British losses in South Africa thus far have been 34,350.

INSPECTED BY THE PRINCE

Thirty-Five Canadian Invalids Visited by the Prince of Wales.

London, July 24.—The Prince and Princess of Wales inspected thirty-five Canadian invalids at the Golden Hill Convalescent Home at Hampstead this morning. Major Thompson introduced each invalid to the Prince, who enquired about their health and wounds, and hoped all would soon be better. He took great interest in the French-Canadian invalids.

CONTRACTOR KILLS HIMSELF

Was Separated From His Wife and Had Business Reverses.

Elizabeth, N. J., July 25—Charles Spiclehouse, sixty-five years old, a contractor of this city, committed suicide by shooting himself some time last night. His body was found in bed this morning, a revolver in his right hand.

Mr Spibtlehouse lived at 1,190 East Broad Street, and had been separated from his wife for five years. The couple were married thirty-five years ago. They lived happy together until Mrs. Spictlehouse joined the Christian Alliance Union. Mr. Spictlehouse often spoke of being separated from his wife to his friends. It is believed that this and business reverses were the cause of suicide. Besides his widow, he leaves three sons.

THE FIGHTING AT PANAMA

The Revolution Assumec Alarming Proportions--A General in the Ranks

Clevdland, July 25.—Captain James Corrigan, millionaire owner of the yacht Idler, which was wrecked in a squall twenty miles from here on July 7, has equipped a remarkable boat with which to search the bottom of the lake for the bodies of his two daughters, Ida and Jane, who were drounded when the yacht went down. The bodies of the mother, sister, baby nephew and aunt, drowned at the same time, have been recovered.

Captain Corrigan has had a scow built with circular plates of glass placed in holes cut through the bottom. These windows have been made watertight, so that as the boat is towed through the water by a tug it is possible to see the bottom of the lake for a considerable distance in all directions. The craft has been equipped with electric lighting apparatus, so that lights can be suspended below the bottom to illuminate the bed of the lake.

DEPLETION OF THE SOUTH AFRICAN FORCES.

When it was announced that Lord Roberts said no troops could be spared from South Africa for China, many people were surprised. The fact, elicited in the British House of Commons the other day, that over 12,000 troops have been sent to South Africa since the capture of Pretoria will cause still greater surprise. Yet, when we consider how reduced in numbers the first Canadian contingent is known to be there is no reason for surprise that Lord Roberts has required reinforcements. There were over 1,000 men in the first Canadian contingent, and 125 went out afterward to reinforce them, but according to letters received from South Africa the fighting strength has been reduced to about four hundred some time ago, so that the regiment was cut down to about one-third of what it was when it reached Cape Town. The Canadians were picked men, full of strength and vigour. All the newspaper correspondents at the front have described them as superior in physique to any of the British regiments, and we know that they distinguished themselves both in marching and fighting. It may be that because they were always in the front of the battle and did more work than the average regiment, more of them were knocked out, but if is reasonable to suppose that they did not fare much worse than the British regiments. If the fighting strength of the whole army in South Africa has been reduced in the same proportion the effective force at the present time must be considerably less than one hundred thousand men. The country to be guarded is an immense one. The distances between the leading centres is great, and it requires a large number of troops to maintain communications.

But the war which has so reduced the British forces must have had a like effect upon the Boers. Of course, they are in their own country, are accustomed to the climate and used to a roving, out-door life, but their fighting strength must have been very greatly reduced. It is now known that the reports of the number of Boers killed and wounded in the earlier stages of the war sent out from Pretoria were fictitious. The Boer losses were very much greater than represented. Yet they have sufficient forces in the field to cut British communications at many points if not carefully guarded. They are so mobile that it is difficult for the British to capture them. They do not wait to be very badly beaten before running away and taking their guns with them.

A QUEER EXPLOSION.

HOW A MOUNTAIN LOCOMOTIVE CAME TO AN UNTIMELY END.

There Was Neither Fire in Her Furnace Nor Water in Her Boiler, and Yet She Managed to Blow Up in the Most Approved Style.

Mr. Henry Alquist, a prominent railroad man, relates the story of a curious wreck, the facts in which he will vouch for.

"It is such a remarkable thing," said Mr. Alquist to a reporter, "that I fear many will be inclined to brand it as 'pipe.' I have been railroading now for over 20 years and never in all my varied experience have I seen such a unique and complete wreck as the one I speak of—that of engine 1,129 of the Rio Grande Western. Railroad men will tell you that locomotives seldom explode nowadays, but 1,129 did and in a very peculiar way.

"At the time this wreck occurred I was holding down the job of train dispatcher at Soldier Summit, Utah, and a tough old job it was. Never been there, I suppose? Well, Soldier Summit is a station on the top of one of the Wasatch divides, a bleak and lonely place, where the Rio Grande Western has a roundhouse and coal chute located. At the summit are long snowsheds covering the tracks. These sheds protect the line from the winter. And it is only due to this method that a train ever gets over the mountain.

"On both sides of the mountain the line winds down in a succession of winding curves to lessen the grade. Running off from the railway are switches, which, diverging from the grade, run up into the hills and gradually come to a dead level. These switchbacks, as they are called, are so constructed that they can be thrown from any point on the grade. And if a train breaks in two while ascending the steep grade the runaway cars can be switched on to one of these spurs, where the breakaway finally stops after it has run up the spur as far as the momentum attained in its descent will take it.

"All heavy trains have an extra locomotive before the grade is tackled. These are called helper engines and are kept in roundhouses at each side of the mountain with steam up.

"One night I got word from Clear Creek, a town in the western valley, that the 9:20 freight would be 20 minutes late on account of having to pull out a crippled engine, 1,129. She had burned out her flues and had to be hauled to Grand Junction for repairs.

"That night about 10 o'clock, after I had passed down the Salt Lake express, I heard the freight coughing up the long grade from Clear Creek. There was a snowstorm raging, and the wind howled around the station like the mischief. When the overdue 9:20 pulled into the shelter of the big snowsheds on the wind swept summit, the first thing I asked was, 'Where's the dead engine?'

"'Behind the doghouse!' shouted the 'con.' But as I held my lamp above my head I failed to see it. I was just about to call his attention to it when, during a lull in the storm, we plainly heard the familiar rattle of the rails as the runaway engine flew at lightning speed down the mountain. No. 1,129 had broken loose and was tearing down the grade to destruction.

"I jumped and pulled the lever which opened the spur switches. This I knew would prevent a smashup, as the engine would run up on the switchback and come to a stop. But I was too late. Almost at the same instant I threw the lever a terrific explosion was heard from far down the mountain. The runaway had exploded."

"I thought you said a moment ago, Mr. Alquist," interrupted The Scimitar man, "that the locomotive was a 'dead one?' If she had no fire under her boiler, how could she explode?"

"That was the only thing I couldn't understand myself," the railroad man replied. "I could easily see how the dead engine could break loose on that grade, and I could understand not hearing its descent during such a howling blizzard, but the explosion floored me. The only theory which in any way solved the mystery was that the old kettle was blown up by compressed air.

"You see, when the engine broke loose from the freight and started down the mountain the pistons in the cylinders began to act as air compressors. During the rough trip up her throttle probably jarred open, and as the speed increased with every revolution of her drivers her boiler soon filled with compressed air. It was not long before those flying pistons had worked up a pressure of nearly 500 pounds to the square inch, which came in faster than it could escape by the safety valve, and before the old machine reached Clear Creek her boiler let go."

Wanted to See the President.

The Washington Star says that a big, gawky country lad went to the White House the other day just as the president had gone out for a morning stroll.

"I wants ter see the president," he announced to the first man he met.

"Well, there goes the president now," said the man addressed, pointing to the president's retreating form.

"Dern my time!" the young man ejaculated. "He walks just like any other man," and the fellow struck out so that he could get close enough to see the president well.

Off the Track

This means disaster and death when applied to a fast express train. It is equally serious when it refers to people whose blood is disordered and who consequently have pimples and sores, bad stomachs, deranged kidneys, weak nerves and that tired feeling. Hood's Sarsaparilla puts the wheels back on the track by making pure, rich blood and curing these troubles.

Constipation is cured by Hood's Pills, 25 cents.

"Words fail to express what I suffered for three years, with cold chills, palpitation of heart, shortness of breath, and low spirits," writes Mrs. A. C. Jones, of Walterboro, Colleton Co., S. C. "I could not sleep and really thought I would soon die. Had a peculiar roaring through my head all the time. Was so emaciated and weak I could not feed myself. My aunt induced me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which I did, only to please her, and six bottles cured me. To-day am sound and well. LOVE ON THE FARM.

A potato went on a mash
 And sought an onion bed.
"That's pie for me," observed the squash,
 And all the beets turned red.
"Go away," the onion, weeping, cried;
 "Your love I cannot be;
The pumpkin be your lawful bride,
 You cantaloupe with me."

But onward still the tuber came
 And laid down at her feet;
"You cauliflower by any name,
 And it will smell as wheat;
And I, too, am an early rose,
 And you I've come to see,
So don't turn up your lovely rows,
 But spinachat with me!"

"I do not carrot all to wed,
 So go, sir, if you please,"
The modest onion meekly said,
 "And lettuce, pray, have peas!
Go think that you have never seen
 Myself or smelled my sigh,
Too long a maiden I have been
 For favors in your eye!"

"Ah, spare a cent!" the tuber prayed,
 "My cherryshed bride you'll be;
You are the only weeping maid
 That's currant now with me!"
And as the wily tuber spoke
 He caught her by surprise
And, giving her an artichoke,
 Devoured her with his eyes.

Short Story of the Day

LITTLE MISS CARYL.

"Of course I knew all about it! Hadn't I tended Mr. Rodney in long clothes an' lived in the family until he was a strappin', broad-shouldered man, side by side with his father in all the responsibility and work of that big farm? Why, I was nuse an' cook an' sewin' girl an' everything you can think of in that family!

"An' don't I remember the very day Miss Caryl come there first? You see, it was right after she'd lost her mother, an' she hadn't a soul in the world that belonged to her, anyways close, an' Mrs. Whitcomb was only an old friend herself, but there! It was just her way to go an' ask Miss Caryl to come and live with them.

"Such a little slip of a brown-eyed, curly-headed thing she was, with motions for all the world just like a bird! I can see this minute how she looked when she walked in at the door an' Mrs. Whitcomb took her in her arms. An' Mr. Whitcomb, too, come up an' gave her a kiss, an' said she must be his little daughter, now; an,' with that, Master Sydney, who was only a year younger than Miss Caryl himself—he was 16—come bouncin' up an' said if she was his sister he was goin' to have a kiss, too. So then Mr. Rodney kissed her, but in a bashful kind of way, an'—well, I knew what had happened to him that very night.

"An' it all come along as natural as you please! Well, I was glad for Mr. Rodney when it was all settled, though I knew, of course, she didn't half know how to love him, just at first. How could she, anyway—little young thing! Folks expect miracles, seems to me.

"I don't forget one day at dinner, when I was clearin' away the plates, an' she an' Master Syd got into some discussion an' left it to Mr. Rodney to decide, an' she looked up at him laughin' an' says, 'Now, Rodney, don't you go back on me!' Well, sir, he just looked at her. Such a look! An' she stopped laughin', all of a sudden, an' looked down, an' I says to myself, 'She's beginnin' to understand a little.'

"She was, too. I knew it better afterward.

"Well, by and by Mr. Rodney began to think about gettin' married, of course, an' his rich uncle made him an offer of a fine business position out West, an', almost before we knew it, he was gone. I cried myself, seein' how brave he tried to be, leavin' Miss Caryl—'Patsy'—he used to call her. She didn't half realise it until he'd started, an' then wasn't she a lonesome little thing for awhile? An' didn't she watch for the letters—yes, an' write letters too?

"After a month or two of that Mr. Huntington came for a visit. He was Mr. Rodney's next brother, you know. He'd never liked the farm, an' had gone to the city as soon as he was old enough to work. An' it happened that he hadn't been home any to stay since Miss Caryl came there to live. Well, you ought to have seen how sweet he was to his little sister, takin' her to drive, an' to everything goin' on in the little town, six miles off, an' all that. Just to keep her from gettin' too homesick for Mr. Rodney, you know. Oh, dear! I don't know as you could blame him much, or her, either, but it was dreadful to see it comin', day by day; to see her forget to write so often, an' to feel how uneasy Mr. and Mrs. Whitcomb were gettin' to be! An' the whole thing only took four weeks!

"It was one night, just as I had brought in the lamp, an' set it on the parlor table, Mr. Huntington and Miss Caryl came in from the garden together, and, all of a sudden, he caught her in his arms an' says, 'Father! Mother! This is my little girl, an' I'm goin' to have her!'

"I stopped stock still. I had no business to, but I didn't know what I was doin'. 'She's Mr. Rodney's!' I says, just like that. But the next breath she rushed upstairs, an' I come to my senses an' went out an' shut the door before anybody spoke.

"I never knew just what they said, only I know Miss Caryl cried all night, an' told Mr. Huntington it was all a fearful mistake, an' sent him back to the city the first thing in the morning. An' I know the folks promised to forgive her and love her just the same. Then, after that she sat down an' wrote Mr. Rodney all about it. There was pages an' pages of it—tellin' how kind Mr. Huntington had been, an' how, just for one little crazy hour, she come to think she'd be prouder to walk down the church aisle as Mrs. Huntington Whitcomb than with dear old Mr. Rodney. But she told him it was all over an' past an' begged him to forgive her an' all that. Poor little thing! Nobody could help but pity her before the answer came. An' when it did come what do you think it was? Just her own letter sent back, without a word.

"Now, do you know, that's the only thing Mr. Rodney could have done to made me sorrier for her than I was for him? She wrote again—just such a pitiful little beggin' note—an' that came back unopened. After awhile she even tried again, but it was sent back just the same.

"How did I know? Well, not be readin' other folks' letters, anyway. The poor little thing had to talk to somebody; an' I wasn't exactly Mr. Rodney's folks, an' still I loved him, you see. There was a terrible time after that. Not that she made a sign out loud, but her stillness was worse. By and by I got up courage to write to Mr. Rodney myself, an' he was kinder to me than he was to her. That hurt me, too. He wrote back—'Marica,' says he, 'you can't understand. It can't be, an' it's no use your worryin'. Don't think any more about it.'

"As if I could help it—with the poor little girl sufferin' right in my sight!

"Well, the months went along. Mr. Rodney wrote to his mother, but never mentioned Miss Caryl's name. It got to be a whole year. Master Syd had been off at college for six months, an' we was lookin' for him home for vacation. Well, sir, a half day sooner than we expected him in he walked. That wasn't such an awful surprise, of course, but stalkin' right behind him, tall an' sunburned, an' with a full, brown beard—there was Mr. Rodney!

"Master Syd walked right up and kissed Miss Caryl, just as he always did, an' Mr. Rodney, after stoppin' at the door to speak to me, followed an' says quietly, holdin' out his hand, 'Haven't you got a kiss for me, too, Caryl?'

"Little Miss Caryl put both hands over her face an' commenced to go backward. 'Oh, Marica!' she says, and in a minute I was there an' helped her into another room, where she could cry to her heart's content. And Mr. Rodney never offered to do a thing, but stayed and talked to his mother.

"'Oh, Marica!' says Miss Caryl, when we was by ourselves, 'what does he mean?' An' I says—'My dear, I don't know what he does mean!' For I was all stirred up, I tell you.

"Well, she went to lunch an' tried to act natural. It broke my heart to see her. But Mr. Rodney didn't eat much himself. That was some comfort. When lunch was 'most over Master Syd's trunk came and he had to leave the table to see to it. An' there was something wrong about it, so that first Mr. Whitcomb was called away an' then Mrs. Whitcomb excused herself, too, an' there Mr. Rodney an' Miss Caryl was left all alone.

"I had just swept the last crumbs off the tablecloth when it happened, an' I walked into the pantry with my heart thumpin' like a hammer. 'It's now or never,' says I. I pushed that pantry door almost to, an' then stood an' listened. It's the only time in my life.

"It seemed forever before there was a sound. Then Miss Caryl says, in a nervous sort of way—'It seems so strange to see you with a beard, Rodney.'

"I was so disappointed I could have cried. It sounded so common. But the next minute came Mr. Rodney's voice, shakin' like a girl's; 'Oh, Patsy!' says he, 'I'll shave it all off if you say so!'

"That was enough. My apron went up to my face an' I leaned against the pantry door an' didn't care if it did go shut with a click!

"I don't know how long I stood there in the dark, but by an' by Mrs. Whitcomb opened the door against me. 'Why, Marica, what's the matter?' says she. 'Where's the pie?' she says.

"'Why, Marica, dear!' says Miss Caryl, as soon as she heard me cryin', an' the next minute she was in the pantry with her arms around me.

"'Here,' says Mr. Rodney, 'I guess I can comfort Marica,' an' with that, in he came, too, an' put his arms around us both.

"Miss Caryl was cryin', too, but Mr. Rodney was too happy an' too much in love. I heard him whisper, 'This is the best turn Marica ever did for me,' an' I knew he meant the chance of kissin' her, there in the dark, but says I to myself, 'That's truer than you know, too, Mr. Rodney.' For what if I had been stupid enough to rush right in with the pie when they were alone together?"—Chicago Record.

Morning Times

PETERBOROUGH, JULY 23, 1900.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

The Times' Megaphone.

The very thing for Stony Lake Cottagers and Campers. It will carry the voice half a mile to a mile and a half. Made in two sizes. Price $1.25 and $1.00. Every Cottager should have one.

A Good Idea.

The Synod of Toronto adopted a motion asking the Government to appoint a Sunday as Thanksgiving day, with the Monday following a public holiday—a good suggestion and one that would if adopted meet with the approval of everybody.

The Times at Summer Resorts.

The morning Times is sent to summer resorts and residences addressed to individuals at thirty cents a month. Persons visiting the lakes and other places may have the Times addressed to them for as short a period as one week.

A Popular Horse Buyer.

Mr. W. J. Pearson was in town yesterday, a guest of the White House. He purchased 12 horses on his way up the Grand Junction, and quite a number yesterday morning. Although a busy man, Mr. Pearson occasionally takes time to drop in to see the Times, where he is always a welcome visitor.

A Snap.

Photographs, mounted on a heart shaped velvet pad, with easel, of all the Generals serving in the South African war — the nicest and novelty out for 30 cents each. Also a large colored picture 18x24 for ten cents. Times Book store.

Struck by Lightning.

The new barn of W. C. Ashton, just west of Newcastle, was struck by lightning Wednesday morning and both ends of the gable were shattered. Little Alex. Edmison, son of Rev. T. J. Edmison, B. D., and Alfred Stevens were in the stable at the time, and both were knocked down by the shock. The cows in the yard were noticed to fall on their knees also. The lightning was very vivid. Rev. T. J. Edminson and family are well known in Peterborough.

A Correction.

The Times has been requested by Mr. George Long, foreman for the Dickson Company, to state that the paragraph which appeared in the Times that the Steamer Empress had saved a team of horses that fell of a crib on one of the drives, into the water at Stony Lake is incorrect. Mr. Long was on the steamer when he noticed that the horses were loose on the crib, and was promptly landed in time to save them himself, which was done by swimming the animals to shore.

Mr. Stratton in B. C.

Victoria, B.C., Times—Hon. J. R. Stratton, accompanied by Mrs. Stratton and T. P. Coffee, all of Toronto, in the city. Mr. Stratton is Provincial Secretary of the Province of Ontario, and is also a prominent financier in Eastern Canada. He and Mr. Coffee are identified with the Dominion Permanent Loan Company and the Trusts & General Loan of Toronto, and both these gentlemen are here investigating the securities held by these companies in British Columbia, with the result that they are highly satisfied with the position of affairs. The party leave to-morrow on their return to the East.

Important to Farmers.

Cobden Sun—A judgement, of which farmers and threshers will do well to make a note, was delivered here on Friday, by Judge Deacon. A Pole, named Krinsinske, brought an action against a thresher, who had disappointed him after the plaintiff had gone to the trouble and expense of making all preparations for the thresher's coming. The Judge decided that the plaintiff was entitled to damages. This virtually means that within his jurisdiction threshers must keep their appointments no matter how tempting a job offers itself to one of them while on his way to do work for which a contract has already been made.

Bread and Sugar.

Bread has advanced from ten to twelve cent per loaf, and now sugar has gone up. Since May last granulated and white sugar has advanced 70 cents per 100 pounds.

Died at Belleville.

Mr. George M. Stewart, of Belleville, who resided in Peterborough about 14 years ago, died suddenly on Tuesday last. The deceased was a brother-in-law of Mr. John Bell, Q. C., Grand Trunk solicitor, and was married to Miss Grace, of Lindsay.

Our Letter Box.

The men in newspaper offices who conduct the "Letter Box" department lead strenuous lives. To answer some of the letters they receive is very difficult. Were it not for the extremely large salaries they are paid-some of them would, no doubt, look for easier, less taxing jobs. Here is a letter of the kind they like to get. "Sir—I am a daily reader and wish to know the following to settle a dispute. What is the salary of the head baker in the Protestant Home? Also second baker." The correspondent man who received this letter did not answer it because he feared the haed baker and the other fellow would be enraged to see their salaries set forth in a public print. Also he did not answer it because he did not know the answer.

Editors All Alike.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I am a constant reader of the Times, and therefore make bold to ask you a few pertinent questions. I do so also because you have invited the public to do so through the "Letter Box" department of your valuable paper.

What I wish to say is in regard to editors and newspapers—1. Do Editors, as a rule, write what they believe, or do they use the scissors mostly? 2. Are all editors liars? 3. Do editors ever go to church. 4. Have they, as a rule, soft jobs? Tell us all you know in a few lines about these subjects.

I know, my dear Times, the above may appear to be fool questions—but they're not.

Thanking you in advance, I am, &c.,
A READER.

Ans.—1. No, not always. Editors of party organs, for instance, must defend their political bosses, even when they know the bosses are crooked.

2. No, not all. There are a few, (amongst whom is the editor of this g.f.j.) who make it a rule never to prevaricate when the truth will answer just as well.

3. Yes, occasionally.

4. No, my dear boy, editors are the hardest worked creatures of the universe, except the army mule.

In regard to what we know about ourselves and other people and things, it would take a very large library of books to hold it, but we give below a few rules which prevail in the chief editor's office of this great family journal.

1. Always remember that the editor has more time to spare than anybody else on the paper. The staff and the contributors write it and the printers set it, thus taking all the work off his hands.

2. If the porter says that the editor is not in, do not believe him. Remember that he gets a dollar a week extra as compensation for the wear and tear to his conscience caused by continual lying.

3. If the porter persists in his statement, say brightly, "Oh, then, I'll wait." If you can manage it always wait in a room where part of the staff are working. You can cheer them up and pass the time away by whistling some lively air.

4. Remember that the staff are very hard worked, and a little conversation will cheer them up. While waiting ask them questions about their work, which is always interesting, such as, "I suppose you have to cut a lot out of other papers, don't you?" and "People tell me that the paper is going down—is that so?"

5. Never suggest subjects for articles to an editor. It annoys him. Say, in a cheery way, "Well, what would you like me to write about?" What are editors for, if not to supply their contributors with ideas?

6. Editors are very untidy men. Nothing annoys them more than a neat, clear manuscript fastened with a paper fastener. Any old scraps of papers will do, and never trouble to number or fasten them. Don't take any notice of the injunction to write only on side of the paper. The editor loves giving trouble, and this is one of the manifestation of his trait. Besides, in writing on one side of the paper you give the editor more waste paper to sell.

7. Call on the editor early and often. He likes it. If you cannot catch him in the office, watch him go to lunch. Take a seat at the same table and begin talking about articles. He can more readily decide on the merits of a screed and the enthralling question, "Were hairpins used by the ancient Cretans?" when wrestling with a steak and mushrooms.

8. Never inclose stamps on a manuscript because the assistant editor lifts them and promptly swaps them for beer in the Palace retaurant. This is dishonest, but all assistant editors are dishonest. If your work is not either used or returned the day after you have submitted it, call and see about it.

9. Always remember how much better you could run the paper yourself, and never hesitate to impress this upon the editor.

DOCTORS FOOD TALKS.

Selection of Food One of the Most Important Acts in Life.

Old Dr. Hanaford of Reading, Mass., says in the "Messenger"— "Our health and physical and mental happiness are so largely under our personal control that the proper selection of food should be, and is, one of the most important acts in life.

"On this subject, I may say that I know of no food equal in digestibility, and more powerful in point of digestibility, and more powerful in point of nutriment, than the modern Grape-Nuts, four heaping teaspoons of which is sufficient for the cereal part of a meal, and experience demonstrates that the user is perfectly nourished from one meal to another.

"I am convinced that the extensive and general use of high class foods of this character would increase the term of human life, add to the sum total of happiness and very considerably improve society in general. I am free to mention the food, for I personally know of its value."

Grape-Nuts food can be used by babes in arms, or adults. It is ready cooked, can be served instantly, either cold with cream, or with hot water or hot milk poured over. All sorts of puddings and fancy dishes can be made with Grape-Nuts. The food is concentrated and very economical, for four heaping teaspoons are sufficient for the cereal part of a meal.

Light Weight Services.

A Kingston alderman has been fined for selling light weight bread to his customers. If every alderman or town official of Peterborough who gives light weight service were to be fined a good many civic treasures wuld be materially enriched. And this is no joke.

A Close Call.

While a workman was at the bottom of one of the 80-foot wells at the lift lock yesterday, a portion of the platform at the surface collapased and several hundred feet of timber went down the shaft. Wonderful to relate the man below was uninjured, be having providentially been standing close to one side of the wall. It was a close call.

Laid at Rest.

The funeral of the late Frederick Sheppard took place this afternoon and was largely attended. The Sons of England attended in a body, being largely represented The members of 'A' Company of the 57th and non-coms of the regiment also attended in a body to pay a last tribute to one of their number, the deceased having been a corporal in "A" Company.

LI HUNG CHANG SAYS SOME MEMBERS OF LEGATIONS HAVE LEFT PEKIN

He is becoming Angry at the Scepticism of the Consuls

CANADIANS HAD A HARD TIME WITH BOXERS

Missionaries Who Escaped From Ho Nan Had a Terrible Experience En Route to Shanghai—The Women Suffered Cruel Indignities on the Trip Through a Hostile Country

London, July 27.—The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Express telegraphing yesterday says Li Hung Chang now states that some of the members of the legations have already left Pekin and may be expected shortly. He is becoming angry at the scepticism of the Consuls. The Impression is gaining ground here that the Ministers of the Powers to whom China has appealed for meditation may still be alive. The representatives of France, Japan, Russia and the United States have visited Li Hung Chang, but the others still keep aloof. The allies here are indignant over the fact that United States Consul Goodnow has entered into relations with Earl Li but Mr. Goodnow defends his actions on the ground that he is following the instructions of his government. Trade in Shanghai is so paralized that the customs revenue will not suffice to secure the payment of the next instalment of the foreign loan, meanwhile active preparations are now in progress not for war against the rebels but against foreign powers. Junk loads of Chinese soldiers and Boxers disguised as coolies are arriving here daily. The arsenal is full of arms and supplies are constantly coming in. The Nankin and Wu Chand garrisons are being constantly reinforced and the Viceroys admit that they cannot much longer withstand the pressure brought to bear by Shing and Li Hung Chang upon them to join the forces with Prince Quan. It is hoped that the arrival of admiral Seymour here may stiffin the backs of the southern Viceroys and restore the security of the posts; Five English missionaries Miss Whitechurch and Miss Searell have been murdered at Hsiaol in the province of Shansi. Massacres are also reported from Taiyuan and Paviing Fu.

Canadians had a Terrible Experience

London, July 26. — One of the despatches from Shanghai, published here to-day, says:

"The Canadian missionaries who escaped from Ho Nan, had a terrible experience en route here. The natives everywhere were hostile. The rabble attacked the refugees, beat them and tore the clothes from their backs. The ladies suffered cruel indignities."

The despatch continues:

"Canton remain comparatively quiet. The natives, however, are beginning to fear that the reinforcements arriving at Hong Kong intend to attack the Bogue forts, and occupy the city. The military Mandarin has asked the Colonial Secretary at Hong Kong for assurances that Great Britain does not intend to take Canton.

A despatch received here to-day from Yokohama states that the Japanese division will all be landed at Taku by July 31, and will reach Tien Tsin on August 2.

The Legislature of New South Wales has resolved to despatch a military contingent to join the Imperial troops in China.

List of Canadians in the Party.

Following is the list of the Canadian Presbyterian missionaries, who would be in the party from Ho Nan:

Rev. Murdoch McKenzie
Mrs. Murdock and son:
Dr. and Mrs. Leslie.
Rev. J. A. Slimmon, Mrs. Slimmon and infant.
Rev. J. Goforth, Mrs. Goforth and four children.
Rev. R. A. Mitchell and Mrs. Mitchell.
Rev. J. Griffith.
Rev. T. C. Hood.
Miss McIntosh.
Miss Dow.
Miss Pyke.

Rev. Dr. Leslie, who was injured, sailed yesterday, with Mrs. Leslie from Shanghai for Canada, via San Francisco.

No Boxers in Corea.

Washington, July 26. — Mr. Ye, the Corean in charge here, took to the State Department this morning, a despatch from his government, denying positively the published stories that the Boxer movement had extended to Corea, or that any Chinese Boxers had crossed the Corean frontier.

The Riotous Chinese.

London, July 26. — A despatch from missionary sources, dated Shanghai, July 26th says;

"Rioting has broken out at Ai-Yuen Fu, the capital of the Province of Shan Si. There are no details. Rioting has also occurred at Huai Luh, south of Chi Li. All the missions have been destroyed. Our friends safely escaped to the country, but are still in danger.

The Guard Annihilated.

London, July 26.—A despatch from St. Petersburg says that on July 24th General Gacharoff reports he bombarded and destroyed Lauschi and the garrison fled. The despatch says it is believed the Russian railway guard of 300, at Charbin and Telin, had been annihilated by the hordes of Chinese said to be in that vicinity.

They Did Not Loot.

Washington, July 26. — The Navy Department this morning received the following cablegram from Admiral eRmey;

"Taku, July 24, Cheefoo July 26.—Bureau Navigation, Washington.—Colonel Mead, condemned, Mare Islands Hospital, rheumatism. Major Waller, succeeds command first regiment. My obtainable information clears marines of anyimputation, burning houses or looting Tien Tsin. Signed, Remey.

CHINA'S HOPE IN WORLD.

MUST BE RESCUED FROM HERSELF BY THE POWERS.

Secretary of the American Asiatic Association Argues That Dissatisfaction with the Governme t Has Taken On Form, Hatred for the Foreigners—Nation is Rich Enough in Treasure to Pay Indemnity for Any Harm It May Do.

New York, June 26.—In discussing "How the Reign of Terror Began in China," John Foord, secretary of American Asiatic association, says—

"China is not in the throes of dissolution. Rather, it is an awakening. The crisis has come suddenly, but it was not unlooked for. Every foreign resident of China, who knew the country and its people, felt that revolution was in the air; that a tempest which all previous outbreaks were but summer zephyrs was ready to break over the northern provinces.

"Why did that disaffection take the direction of fury against the foreigners? Simply because this was in the line of least resistance. The Governor of Shantung could have stamped out the Boxer movement in a week had he been in earnest about it; the central government at Pekin could have found a Governor equal to the task had it not been domineered by the anti-foreign fanaticism in which the Boxers found their inspiration.

Crisis was Inevitable.

"The crisis had to come as surely as he who sows the wind may look to reap the whirlwind. An attempt had been made to induce reforms by peaceable means into China. The young Emperor had in the space of three short months revolutionized in a series of edicts the whole administrative, judicial, and educational systems of the empire.

"But Kwang Hsu, while he had surrounded himself with scholars full of the new learning, had neglected to have by him soldiers on whom he could rely, and when the pinch came, in September, 1898, it was he who went to a palace prison and not the Empress Dowager.

"Then reaction had full swing again. Not only was all pretense of reform abandoned, but all who were known to be in favor of a progressive policy were proscribed. Six of the reform leaders were executed without trial, a long list of their sympathizers were banished, and liberal rewards were offered for the assassination or capture of those who had fled.

"The reign of terror began by the condemnation of all who were suspected of adopting foreign ideas; it has culminated in murderous outrages on foreigners themselves.

"That way there could be nothing but ruin for China; nothing but the sinking into a more hopeless torpor than that from which the war with Japan seemed to have aroused her.

"Had the Empress Dowager's taste for blood proved less quickly contagious the representatives of the powers would still be sitting idly by, giving their home governments, as per instructions, as little trouble as possible and letting events take their course.

Awakening of the Nation.

"There has been a horrible awakening and the day of trifling and temporizing with the Chinese question is over. Whether we are to regard China as a world necessity or a world peril does not greatly matter. The interests of humanity demand that the corruption of the palace should cease to be the means of setting great provinces aflame. A government under which every great post is a matter of purchase necessarily fosters a regime of thieves, and it is the people from whom the plunder is squeezed.

"Where millions of men are constantly living next door to starvation; where thousands of families may be laid waste by the failure to repair embankments for which the money was raised but stolen or squandered, public plunder becomes a question of life and death, and the desire to make an example of somebody may drive whole populations into a frenzy of sanguinary excess.

"The civilized world has had a lurid object lesson of what are the possibilities of a system under which the mass of the individual members of a fourth of the human race is compelled to subsist on a few cents a day and the favorite servant of an Empress dies worth $25,000,000.

"The resources of the empire are more than equal to all the burdens that even the penalty of further disorder will impose on its treasury. Hardly one-tenth of the taxes collected finds its way there now, and were China administered like India it would be found to be many times richer, because of the vastness of its untouched possibilities."

A RACE WAR IN NEW ORLEANS

Two Negroes Dead, Three Fatally Wounded and Others in Hospital — Man Fined for Declaring Negroes Equal to Whites

New Orleans, July 26.—Three negroes dead, three fatally shot and twelve men seriously wounded is the known result of a mob's work in this city last night. Three of the wounded are white men, who were hit by stray bullets. There are many battered negro men and women in the hospitals.

A crowd of thousands had gathered to seak Robert Charles, the negro who shot and killed Police Captain Day and Patrolman Lamb, and to lynch Charles' companion, Pierce, from the jail. The police, however, persuaded the mob to disperse.

Small bands of men and boys were soon formed and scattered to several parts of the city. Many negroes who were on the streets, and riding on cars, were fired upon with more or less success.

Not since the lynching of the Italians several years ago has there been such general excitement.

Edward McCarthy, a young white man, who came to this city from New York several days ago, appeared before a police magistrate yesterday. He had been arrested to protect him from a mob which was endeavoring to lynch him because of some remarks in connection with the negro riot. McCarthy had said that negroes had white hearts, were as good as white men, and all of them should not be lynched because of the action of two individuals.

"Do you consider a negro as good as a white man?" asked the Judge.

"The body and soul, yes," replied the prisoner.

He was fined $25 or thirty days in the Parish prison.

At midnight the Mayor issued a proclamation commanding all good citizens to go to their homes.

About 3 o'clock this morning in the French section of the city Baptist Thilo, colored, aged 75 years, was killed and an unknown negro so badly shot that he cannot recover.

All through the night mobs ran riot on a hunt for negroes. The latter became terrorized, and took shelter in their homes and the outhouses of white people, who protected them, so it was only the unsuspecting and inoffensive negroes who were the victims. Those the mob got hold of who were not killed were so bodly wounded they were left for dead.

The police was powerless. As fast as they dispersed, a crowd in one section it reformed and moved to some other point to continue its devilish work.

A notorious character took the head and they headed for the neighborhood of Franklin and Custom House streets. Suddenly they spied a negro in a crowded Villere street car. They halted the car, pulled the trolley off, ordered about twenty passengers out, and then murdered the black. He was dragged out and filled with lead.

Edmonds belongs to Lindsay and Bird is from Belleville.

It is not known how the accident occurred, but it was said to be due to a misunderstanding of orders.

ROCKED THR BOAT

One Man's Act led to the Drowning of Eleven Negroes in an Alabama River.

Birmingham, Ala., July 27.—As the result of one man's foolish prank, eleven negroes working on a government lock in the Warrior River near Akron, Ala., were drowned yesterday afternoon while crossing the river in a skiff. The negroes were working under Christy Lowe & Hayworth on Lock No 5, and after work were returning to the opposite side of the river. They crowded on the skiff, which made the load topheavy. George Moore, one of the negroes, to frighten the others, began rocking the skiff and it dipped a couple of times. This really frightened the negroes. A panic followed, and the skiff upset. All the negroes were thrown into the river.

They went to the bottom, and all were drowned before assistance could be given them. The negroes were mostly strangers in that part of the state. Their names are George Moore, Sam Anderson, Tom Benson Tom Johnson, Abe Sanders, Ransom Smith, Louis Jones, Fred Davis, Fannie Hurst and Ted Hilton.

From Town Solicitor Edwards saying that in the case of Peterborough vs C. P. R. Judge Street dismissed the action with costs and also the counter claim of defendants to have a conveyance executed by the Town. The solicitor then goes on to claim that he would opine that the Judge has not definitely or expressly dealt with the question asked to have decided by him, namely that the Company cannot obtain an absolute title by length of possession as against the Town so as to deprive the latter of the right of crossing the Railway to the water of the river beyond. The judgment, in my view, he writes, is very unsatisfactory in this respect, because if there was a clear decision on this point we should be in a position to know precisely where we stand.—Revision.

From J. Metcalfe, Superintendent of the Barnardo girls Home, seeking exemption of taxes—Refered to Court of Revision to consult with Town Solicitor.

FIRE INSPECTORS REPORT

A communication was received from Mr. Robins, Sec., Canadian Fire Underwriters Association, enclosing duplicate copies of inspectors report, in which the following deficiencies were enumerated.

1.—The "magneto" alarm is not approved and should be replaced by a satisfactory battery system of electric fire alarm, with sufficent well placed boxes to strike 15 in, gongs in fire hall and pump house and to operate the general alarm bell

2.—There are only three instead of five fully paid men of whom the chief is not one. The chief is required to be a fully paid man.

3.—Horses sufficent to haul all the appliances should be maintained for fire purpose only.

4.—The number of dead ends of the mains should be considerably reduced and the single branch hydrants replaced by double ones.

SIDEWALK BY-LAW.

The council here went into committee of the whole on the first reading of a by-law to execute a contract with John E. Hayes for the construction of granolithic sidewalks, Ald. Denne in the chair.

After the first clause of the second reading had been read, council came to to the conclusion that further action would be illegal there not being three-fourths of the members present.

Mayor Kendry at this stage of the sidewalk question remarked that he thought the ingredients which have been and which are proposed to be used altogether too strong and expensive, and the surface finish too thick for all ordinary requirements. He has seen a large numbers of sidewalks in different towns cities both in Canada and the U. S. all of which are giving full satisfaction at a far cheaper cost of construction.

Ald Davison remarked that this was no time to talk of a cheaper grade of walk, now that the plans and specifications had been prepared and approved. He did not think it possible to secure satisfactory walks at a reduction in the quality and quantity of ingredients. Particularly as the cost of material together with wages had increased since last year.

The mayor replied that he found no fault with the plans and specifications, which would undoubtedly assure good results. He did contend, however that satisfactory results could be secured by less expenditure. Neither could he see why the specifications had been changed to produce a more expensive walk for outline streets than we have on our main thorofares.

Town solicitor Edwards here pointed out that this year's specifications call for two parts of crushed granite to two thirds of sand, with a corresponding increase of cement. It was for the town to say whether these proportions are necessary for work in question.

Ald Clinkscale here moved, seconded by Ald. Denne that the by-law be referred back to the Board of Works for further consideration.—Carried.

SEWER BY-LAW.

A by-law to authorize the execution of a contract with John E. Hayes for the construction o fsewers next came up for its several readings, which it passed. Mr. Hayes additional prices for connections of 40c per foot on Stewart street, and 75c per foot on Weller and Park streets being added thereto.

NEW SIDEWALKS.

On complaint of Mr. Geo Cochrane, the Board of Works was authorized to construct a plank sidewalk on Aylmer street near Manning ave., and on motion of Ald Robertson one was authorized to be put down on the south side of Albert-st.

Council then adjourned.

BOERS ATTACKED GEN. HUNTER NEAR BETHLEHEM

British Compelled to Abandon Several of Their Positions Near That Town

LORD ROBERTS MAY NOW BE AT MIDDLEBURG

The Boers are Retreating With French and Hutton in Hot Pursuit—At Last Reports an Attempt was Being Made to Outflank the Enemy by McDonald and Hamilton

London, July 26.—Lord Roberts reports to the War Office under date of Balmoral, July 25 ,as follows.

"We marched here yesterday without seeing the enemy.

"The Boers on July 24 engaged French and Hutton six miles south of Balmoral. While Alderson's mounted infantry attacked the Boers right, French made a turning movement around the left. Seeing their retreat threatened the Boers broke and fled. French and Hutton followed and proposed to cross the Oliphant's river to-day at Naauw Poort. Our casualties were one wounded."

London, July 26.—Lord Roberts reports to the War Office to-day that General Archibald Hunter's command was heavily engaged July 24 and 25 in the hills south of Bethlehem. The Boers compelled the British to retire from some of their positions with about fifty casualties. At last accounts Gen. Hunter had worked behind the Federals, while General Hector Macdonald and Gen. Bruce Hamilton were in front.

London, July 26.—After a pause of six weeks Lord Roberts has recomenced his campaign against the Boers of the Transvaal. Starting out from his advanced position near Pretoria on Monday last, the British Commander-in-Chief moved rapidly eastward along the Delagoa Bay Railway, driving the Boers before him by a repetition of the tractics pursued in the famous march from Bloemfontein to Pretoria. By Tuesday night Balmoral, which is fifty miles from Pretoria, had been reached and it is likely that by this time Middleburg, the chief town of the district, in which the operations are now being carried on, will have been occupied. The Boers on Monday made somewhat of a stand at Bronkhorst Spruit, the scene of the opening incident of the war of 1881, but were forced to retreat by a flanking movement skilfully conducted by Hamilton. On the following day a turning movement by French caused them to abandon a position south of the railway near Balmoral. General French and Hutton pushed foreward in pursuit of the fleeting enemy and evidently intended to cross the Oliphant's River and made a descent upon Middleburg, which was only forty miles from the headquarters of Lord Roberts on Tuesday evening. They have therfore had ample time, unless meeting with unexpected opposition, to enter the town, which will doubtless be used as an advanced base from which to operate against the final retreat of Botha at Lydenburg and the commandos said to be in the district of Ermelo, to the southeast, which evacuated Natal upon Buller's advance.

General De Wet appears to be leading Generals Broadwood and Little a long chance over a large tract of territory. The pursuit of De Wet will henceforth be related as one of the most stirring incidents of the South African war. The Boer guerilla leader had on Tuesday last passed Vredefort, which is close to the border of the Transvaal, and was in all likelihood on the north side of the river. A Cape Town despatch of recent date from Gen. Forestier Walker to the British War Office woould make it appear that a body of Boers from the western Transvaal had crossed the Vaal near the junction of the Rhenoster River, and were on their way to join Gen. De Wet. This news is important and shows that the Boers north of the river are making a strong effort to aid De Wet's escape, and enable him to reach Botha, which he now appears likely to do. As the Boers who crossed the border are said to number 1,000 to 1,500 men De Wet's force will, if they join him, be raised to over 3,000 men, with whom he should not be afraid to turn and make a counter attack upon the British cavalry pursuing him, who cannot number much more.

The latest despatch from Lord Roberts indicates that General De Wet did not take the whole of his force with him from the Bethlehem district. General Hunter's force has been hotly engaged near that town, and has been compelled to abandon some of the positions occupied, which shows that the enemy must be in considerable force, considering that a large British force, headed by such veterans as Macdonald, Bruce, Hamilton and Hunter, was unable to make headway against them. It is likely however, that this is the last expiring struggle of the war south of the Vaal.

THE NEXT BRITISH REVOLUTION.

The formation of the Australian commonwealth seems to presage a gradual but none the less complete reorganization of the British empire's government. Canada is already beginning to inquire why we should have less complete self-government than is granted to Australia. The Globe is agitating for such amendment of the British North America act—Canada's constitution—as will give us the same judicial independence as Australia will enjoy.

The constitution of Canada and Australia exhibit striking and fundamental differences. Canada's appointive senate is an imitation House of Lords. Australia's senate will be elective, like the American. Final decision of controversies between the Dominion and its constituent provinces rests, not with the Dominion Supreme court in Ottawa, but with the privy council in London. The Australian high court's decision will be final with two exceptions. Where the interests of another member of the empire—such as Canada or India—are involved, an appeal will lie to London. In disputes between the commonwealth and its constituent states an appeal may be taken to London if the parties agree. In Canada all power not expressly granted to the provinces are reserved to the Dominion or to the crown. In Australia all powers not expressly granted to the commonwealth or the crown are reserved to the states, or the people.

These fundamental differences show the progress of modern ideas in the British empire. The framers of the British North American act aimed not at a federal republic but at a constitutional monarchy. The makers of the Australian commonwealth avowedly took the United States as their model. Thus Canada is a constitutional kingdom with a non-resident monarch ruling by deputy. Australia is a federal republic with an executive chosen for life represented by deputy. Australia, a Governor General from London, and agrees to submit certain infrequent controversies to British decision. Australia's connection with England becomes almost entirely commercial and social. Canada's dependence upon London is plainly visible and extremely real. Canada naturally inquires why she should not enjoy Australia's independence of British control. Concerning recent services to the empire in South Africa, and the Australian precedent, the British Parliament, if we seriously demand equal rights, can hardly refuse them.

The Canadian provinces may be expected, however, to oppose judicial independence unless accompanied with a reform of the Canadian Senate on Australian lines and the reservation to the provinces and people of powers not expressly granted to the Dominion. The appeal to London now guards Canadian state rights. This was shown in the Manitoba school case, where the privy council overruled the Dominion and sustained the province. If Canada wishes to combine judicial independence and provincial home rule she will have to remodel her constitution entirely and admit the superiority of the Australian to the present plan.

The example of Australia and our decision may easily lead to a revolution in the British empire's governmental organization and its remodelling on more modern lines. If this revolution be accomplished peacefully—and it must be peaceful or the empire will be [illegible] the resulting imperial federation will realize Disraeli's splendid dream.

When You Are Gone.

(A Poem Asked For.)

The sun will rise and set the same,
Men will work and strive for fame,
Forgotten soon will be your name,
When you are gone.

Flowers will blossom in the spring,
And silvery wood notes loudly ring,
As feathered warblers sweetly sing,
When you are gone.

Friends will grieve above your bier
And on your grave will drop a tear,
You'll be forgotten in a year,
When you are gone.

Above you ever and anon
Will pass the long years, one by one,
Remorseless time sweep on and on
When you are gone.

And millions yet will follow thee,
Gray age, glad youth and infancy,
Will join you in eternity,
When you are gone.

The cradle, coffin and the grave
Will hold alike the king and slave,
The proud, the humble and the brave,
When you are gone.

Age will mourn and youth will laugh,
One-half will give the other half
A tear, a tomb, an epitaph
When you are gone.

WOKE UP SIXTY THOUSAND SOLDIERS

"There never was any question as to the major's bravery," said the colonel at a dinner of veterans, "but he never got above the rank of major because he was overzealous. Too much zeal is quite as objectionable as too little and particularly in a volunteer regiment such as ours was. The major had been advanced to his major's commission from the ranks with speed, and he really felt that he could give Grant good advice on how the campaign should be directed. He was a military enthusiast, and no detail was too small for his attention. He staid awake nights to plan campaigns. During the fall of 1863 our regiment was brigaded with the regulars and our army lines extended some four miles. We had been pushing forward, and it was known that the Confederates were in force before us and that a big engagement was near. The troops had been hard pressed, and on the night when the major distinguished himself the army, except the pickets, was sleeping the sleep of the tired.

"Our pickets had been re-enforced and thrown far out in front to avoid a surprise. Our regiment was on the advanced line. The major had just received his commission, and as he awoke about 1 o'clock in the morning to think about it he wondered how he might show that he was worthy of his trust. Why not test his regiment by a false alarm? The more the major thought of this the better it appeared, and at 2 o'clock in the morning he tried it. He fired several shots from his revolver, started a cry to arms and then with his watch in his hand timed the sleepy men as they turned out half dressed and fell in by companies. The uproar was great, and it became greater. Drums rattled on either side of our regiment and far away in the distance. Regiment after regiment was formed, and orderlies began to dash up and down the lines looking for information for headquarters. The major had not noticed the tumult around him. He was too busy timing his own regiment and complimenting the companies which turned out promptly. I had been aroused from a sound sleep when an orderly came to my tent for information.

"'This looks like an attack in force, colonel,' he said.

"I rushed out to find half of the regiment formed and the major in full uniform beaming on the men.

"'What is the alarm, major?' I asked.

"'I was just testing the men, colonel.'

"'Is there no attack?'

"'No; just a false alarm which I got up for practice,' said the major.

"The major swore that he would prefer charges against me for the language which I used, but he never did. Message after message came to me from headquarters three miles away asking where the enemy was attacking and in what form. I got tired explaining that my major had been merely testing my men with a false alarm. From headquarters down to the smallest drummer boy every man in that army cursed the major. Nearly 60,000 tired men had been awakened in the middle of the night by his false alarm. His name became known all over the lines the next day. The major made no charges against me, and, fortunately for him, he got off with a severe calling down from headquarters. He fought bravely to the end of the war, but his chance for promotion had been lost by his zeal, which was great."—New York Sun.

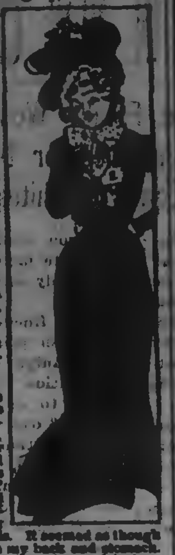
Fainting Spells



Are peculiar to women. Men rarely faint. Many women are liable to what they term "fainting spells," and this liability is always most marked at the monthly period. This alone is sufficient to connect the "fainting spell" with a deranged or diseased condition of the womanly organs. The use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures irregularity, heals inflammation and ulceration, and stops the drains which weaken the body. It builds up the nervous system, increases the vital powers, and so removes the common causes of faintness in women. There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription;" neither does it contain opium, cocaine, nor any other narcotic.

"It gives me much pleasure," writes Miss Ella Sapp, of Jamestown, Guilford Co., N.C., "to thank Dr. Pierce for the great good received from the use of his 'Favorite Prescription,' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I had suffered for three years or more at monthly periods. It seemed as though I would die with pain in my back and stomach. I could not stand on my feet without fainting; had given up all hope of ever being cured, when one of my friends insisted upon my trying Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. With but little faith I tried it, and before I had taken half a bottle I felt better, had better appetite and slept better. Now I have taken two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and one of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and am happy to say I am entirely cured, and all done in two months' time, when all other medicines had failed to do any good."

Short Story of the Day

MONICA.

Although the little village of Olden was beginning to look bright with the green and early spring, down here by the cove all was gray, sands, rocks, sky, even the water had the same dreary tint. Not a gleam of other color, except that of the crimson shawl, which the girl sitting on a ledge of rock, had wrapped about her.

Laurance Dare, coming along the road which ran along above the beach, saw the patch of red and paused.

"That is Monica," he muttered.

At sight of her Dare's heart had given a great throb. It was so long so long since he had seen her. He made a few long strides and stood beside her.

"Monica," he said softly.

The girl turned her head with a quick movement.

There was a displeased tone in her voice and her brows came together in a frown as she regared him. He put out his hand.

"Are you not going to shake hands with me, Monica; it is so long since I've seen you?"

The girl gave him her hand with a reluctant air, withdrawing it quickly from his warm clasp, and turning her face again seaward.

"Monica, you are cruel; you have not let me see you once all this long winter. I have been down from the city so often, and tried again and again to see you, but each time that I called you had just gone out. I feel sure that you saw me coming and went away purposely. Last night it was the same time; but chance has been good to me; I missed my train this morning, and so I have caught you; you had no opportunity to avoid me."

The girl made no answer.

He went on; "Last summer you gave me a faint hope that in time you would listen to me. What have you to say to me now; have you not thought of me all these long months?"

She turned around to him, her eyes full of tears.

"I was wrong to let you think you might hope, Laurance, for I can't do as you wish. Don't you understand? It seems wrong for me to listen to you. Think, I belong to Allen; I was to have been his wife. He was always talking of Cousin Laurance; you seemed Cousin Laurance to me, too. Don't you see? I belong to Allen; I can't marry you."

"But Allen is not—"

She interrupted him quickly.

"Hush; we don't know; he must be living."

"Monica," he said with great gentleness of voice, "think, it is four years, he was to have returned in 10 months."

"I must be faithful to him."

Dare flushed. "This is nonsense, Monica," he said, half angrily. "If Allen is living," he went on, "why have we not heard from him all these years? Are you going to waste your life in this little vilage and give up all chance of happiness for a fanciful idea of being bound to him? And think of me; I have loved you so long. Come to me; I shall love you so much that you must love me in return; come I swear that you shall never regret it, Monica."

"I can't Laurance."

"Will you spoil both of our lives?"

"I must not listen, Laurance, I wish that you did not care for me."

"I can't help caring for you. I think I have loved you since the first day I saw you, and now that you are free—"

"I am not free."

"Monica, listen."

She stood up. "I must not Laurance. Try to forget me. I am going home; do not come."

And before he could stop her she had darted away.

She went along swiftly until she knew that she was out of view from the cove. Her thoughts were in a whirl. Why should she not yield? She knew that her happiness would be secure with this strong, tender man. How little he guessed her struggle to resist his pleading. He thought she did not care. In the old days she had compared Allen with him. And always to the former's disadvantage. For after the glamour of their engagement she had seen the shallowness and selfishness of Allen's nature, and in the close relations into which, through her engagement, she was brought with Allen's Cousin Laurance, she had recognised the strong and noble character of the latter.

And these last years, how the tenderness of his nature had shone out. What care he had given to Allen's desolate mother. He had almost filled the place of her son. Still, at first, her feeling for him had been only a strong admiration. In spite of her recognition of Allen's weak nature, the fascination of his glance and soft voice held her captive. But now! When Allen had gone West on the prospecting tour which was to occupy 10 months, she had promised to be ready to marry him upon his return. But the 10 months had passed, and other months had grown into years, and he had not returned. They had, had no new of him after that last letter, written seven months from his departure. Laurance had employed every means at his command to find some trace of him, but in vain. He appeared to have vanished utterly. The only reasonable solution of the mystery was that he was dead. His mother believed it, but Monica did not. She could not. She promised to wait for him, she dared not break that promise. Allen had loved her—she must, she would be faithful. She would not yield to Laurance.

Dare did not again see Monica, although at each visit he made his aunt during the spring he called at the parsonage. But Monica had always been out. The minister and his wife received him most cordially. They would gladly have seen their daughter his wife.

One day in June Monica was returning home from a walk down to the cove. Her way was in the neighborhood of Allen's mother. As it was still early in the afternoon she decided to go and pay her a call. She had not gone to see her often of late, through fear of meeting Laurance.

She felt that she would run the risk of meeting him this afternoon, he having visited his aunt the previous week. On reaching the house she found the hall door open. She knocked lightly, and without waiting for a response, walked into the little parlor, where she knew Mrs. Dare was in the habit of sitting.

But at the threshold Monica paused, for there stood Laurance by the window with an open letter in his hand. His aunt sat near him, apparently in a state of great excitement.

As she saw Monica she cried out.

"He lives, Monica, he lives; my boy lives; my own Allen is living. Come in and hear the letter."

Then she fell to weeping, repeating over and over. "My boy is living."

Monica looked from her to Dare in bewilderment. She had turned very white. Laurance went up to her and drew her to a chair. He, too, was pale.

"Is it true?" grasped Monica at length.

"Yes." but he did not look at her.

"When?"

"I received the letter this morning, and came down by the first train."

"He is well?"

"Yes."

"Where is he—I don't understand?"

"In California."

Monica looked at him confusedly. "Why—why haven't I—but I have been out all afternoon. I suppose that I shall find a letter at home.

Dare did not reply. His aunt was still crying. She now looked up at Laurance.

"Finish the letter, Laurance. Listen, Monica; our Allen is still living."

Dare had folded the letter and was putting it into his pocket.

"There is little more of importance, dear aunt."

"But Monica must hear it, Laurance, Monica, child, we'll be happy now, Read the letter for her Laurance."

"My dear aunt, you must try to calm yourself for you will be ill."

Monica was puzzled by Dare's evident desire not to read the letter to her. She went over to Mrs. Dare and embraced her.

"Laurance is right; you must try to be calm, dear Mrs. Dare."

"Joy never kills, child. I must cry for pure happiness."

"I shall go home now," said Monica "Perhaps there is a letter for me."

"Well, child, but come early tomorow. We'll count the days now till we see my boy."

Laurance had left the room and stood at the entrance door.

"I am coming with you," he said as Monica came out.

Dare regarded the girl stealthily as they walked along. He marvaled at the unimpassioned manner in which she had received the news of Allen's being alive. She was still very white, and there was a straining look in her face. Not the expression of joy he would have expected to see. She walked rapidly, paying no heed to Dare.

He put his hand gently on her arm. "Do not walk so fast, Monica. You will tire yourself out."

She did not reply, but went more slowly.

"Monica," began Dare hesitatingly. "I—do not think that you will find a letter from Allen."

She stopped still and looked at him. "What is it Laurance? You are hiding something. What is the mystery? Why do you not wish to read the letter?"

"Monica, I believe you are a brave girl. Call up all your pride now."

She gazed at him with wondering eyes.

He looked around hastily. It was but a short distance to the rocks at the cove and the place was deserted.

"Let us go down there. I cannot talk to you here."

She followed him submissively. Thoughts of their last interview at this place came to her mind.

Dare seated her in a sheltered position and stood looking at her, a world of compassion in his eyes.

"Monica, I would give my life to spare you this. Allen is a scoundrel."

He drew the letter from his pocket, opened it slowly.

"What is it, Laurance? Why do you speak so?"

Then, as he did not answer, she said with a touch of imperiousness in her voice.

"Let me read it."

He gave it to her, and she read. She passed hastily over the preliminary lines. But what was this?

"I shall wait until later, Laurance, old boy, to give you the details of all these years. Briefly, the enterprise on which I came out here failed. I kept on trying others hoping to achieve some measure of success before returning home, but one failure succeeded another. Finally I was taken ill with rheumatic fever. The woman at whose house I was staying nursed me through it, and her daughter, one of the sweetest girls in the States, helped me. Call me all the hard names you wish, Laurance, I'll not try to excuse myself, but I fell in love with her and we were married, I was a coward, I know, but she loved me to distraction, and we are very happy. Believe me, I have not been easy, when I thought of my mother and Monica. But I met Malton last week as he was passing through to San Francisco. He told me that you all believed me dead, and that Monica was reported to be engaged to you, so she is consoled and will forgive me. That is why I am writing to disclose my whereabouts. I am fairly prosperous and shall have mother come out here immediately. I know she will forgive me, and she will find the sweetest little daughter-in-law in the country. You will suit Monica far better than I should have done. You have the same high ideas of duty and all that sort of thing. I confess to living on a lower plan.

Monica read no further, but threw the letter down with a little cry and hid her face in her hands.

Dare stood looking at her sadly, cursing Allen in his heart.

"My darling, if I could have spared you this," he said.

Presently Monica looked up at him and said, tremulously.

"Laurance, I tried hard to be faithful to Allen, but—"

"But what, Monica?"

She stood up and looked into his eye a fleeting glance, but— it was enough for Dare.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

SAVE THE CHILDREN

Do Not Burden their Little Stomachs with Patent Medicines Containing Calomel, Mercury and Other Dangerous Ingredients.

THAT ENDANGER LIFE.

Powley's Liquified Ozone is Peculiarly Adapted to Ailments of the Little Ones—Does not Contain Drugs, and is a Sovereign Remedy for Prevailing Summer Complaints.

If there is one thing more than another for which the New Treatment is particularly adopted, it is in the treatment of the little ones. The wonder is not that so many children die, but that so many survive the heavy doses of calomel and other pernicious drugs. Another reprehensible custom is to pour your own paregoric cordials, or some other decoction every time the child is fretful or crying, by which it becomes habituated to their use, and makes it necessary to increase the dose in order to produce the same effects. By imprudent acts of parents in this way both the health and life of the child are endangered.

Cures Diarrhoea

The peculiar action of OZONE stops pain and gripping after a few doses; arrests fermentation, and destroys the germs which cause irritations of the bowels. Stops those loose stools in acute or chronic diarrhoea.

Cures Colic

Soothes crying babies, cures children's colic, removes pain during sleeplessness, and positively prevents hysteria.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

The Times' Megaphone.

The very thing for Stony Lake cottagers and campers. It will carry the voice half a mile to a mile and a half. Made in two sizes. Price $1.25 and $1.00. Every cottager should have one.

The Town Quiet.

The town is very quite just now, many persons being away on vacation. It is said that fully 2000 persons are out of town at present. The farmers, too, are busy with harvest, so that there is little business doing.

A Snap.

Photographs, mounted on a heart shaped velvet pad, with easel, of all the Generals serving in the South African war—the nicest novelty out for 30 cents each. Also a large colored picture 18 x 24 for ten cents. Times Bookstore.

Death of Michael Dunn.

Mr. Michael Dunn, son of the late James B. Dunn, died at the family residence yesterday morning. He had been suffering for some time from lung and liver troubles. The deceased was well known, having been employed for many years in the different hotels as wine clerk. He was unmarried. The funeral takes place this morning

A Stricken Family.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Cressman will sympathize with them in the affliction which has overtaken them. A few days ago Mr. Cressman was taken ill with typhoid fever, and soon after his two young sons and nephew, Mr. Ole's, were also stricken with the disease. They are all, we are pleased to state, doing nicely.

Canada Patents.

Cash, Toronto, Bicycle seat-post; V. Lahaie, Montreal Wainscoting; A. C. Macdonald, Toronto, Games; L. A. Madeau, St. Athanase, Wagon-pole tip; F. O'Neil, Wallaceburg, Machine for manufacturing glass articles.

The Band at Stoney Lake.

A suggestion has been made to the Times, that the band arrange to run a weekly excursion to Stoney Lake, leaving Peterborough at, say from four o'clock, p.m, and arriving at the pavillion at 7, when a two hours' concert be given. The return trip could be made so as to reach home about 11. Many persons it is said would go from town, provided good steamer accommodation could be secured. It is said that the cottagers would supply a boat between Lakefield and Stoney Lake free of charge, as there share, so so that the band would have a decent rake-off on tickets sold, to reimburse them for their time and trouble.

Married at St. Luke's.

On Wednesday afternoon a very pretty wedding was celebrated at St. Luke's Ashburnham, when Mr. Fred D. Long, of Brainard, Minn., formerly of Ashburnham, was united in marriage to Miss Ellen Tighe, daughter of Mr. Wm. Tighe, of Douro. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. Herbert Symonds in the presence of a considerable number of intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties. The bride was attended by her sister Miss Mabel Tighe, with little Miss Florence Buck and Miss Fannie Long as maids of honour. She was given away by her brother Mr. Charles Tighe. The groom was ably assisted by his brother Mr. Alex. Long. The newly wedded couple will take up their residence in Brainard, Minn.

The happy couple were the recipients of many handsome and useful presents. The Times wishes them a long and happy life.

REPORTERS' ROUNDS

Local Happenings Picked Up Here and There by the Times.

—The Morgan House is being offered for sale by tender.

—A new anti-derailing switch was put in at the Brook street junction yesterday.

Surveyors are doing some work just now at the Trent Valley canal route at Frankford.

—The second annual picnic of the Roman Catholic congregation of Havelock was held yesterday.

—The contracts for remodelling the Methodist church in Cobourg have been let, the whole amounting to about $18,000.

The grocers of Toronto took a trip by boat to Cobourg, Tuesday last, and enjoyed themselves at a picnic in Donegan Park.

Pimples on the face are not only annoying, but they indicate bad blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures them by purifying the blood.

—A good deal of new hay is coming in. In fact it may be said that business is being done on a large scale, by the market clerk.

—What a blessed state of things would exist if our two little boiler plate contemporaries would imitate the example set by this g.f.j. and think only good, speak only good, and do only good.

—A Millvers farmer had to pay $30 and costs amounting to $39.90 for running down two ladies on bicycles Friday. The ladies had a narrow escape, but were unhurt having dismounted quickly when they saw what the farmer was trying to do.

—Last Friday twenty-two employees of the spinning department in the Trent Valley Woolen Mills at Campbellford, struck for a raise in wages, which was refused by the superintendent, and, as a result, they are out of employment, in the meantime the work is being done by "green hands."

—Hastings Star;—The number of persons and rigs making their way to the huckleberry plains on Saturday afternoon and night, to spend the Sabbath picking berries, is a shame and disgrace to the community. We don't wonder that some people object to sending missionaries abroad while there are so many half civilized and heathens to be looked after at home.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Miss Stevy Mourley, of Kingston, is visiting Mrs. Clarke Allan of town.

—Mr. John Robertson, of town, left yesterday on a visit to Vancouver, B. C.

—Mr. and Mrs. Lord, of Trenton, who have been in town attending the Wedding of their son, Napoleon, to Miss Clara Cronin, returned home on the nine o'clock train last evening.

How to Advertise.

Twenty-five years ago, a simple announcement in a local paper was all the advertising a dealer was called upon to do. To-day, he must take more space; he must write his advertisement more carefully and attractively. Ten years ago, if you did not happen to have what your customer wanted, he would take the best substitute you had. To-day he will get just what he wants from your neighbor. Almost any kind of store would do twenty-five years ago; to-day, it must be well-furnished, lighted, and kept, and must have bright courteous salesmen, or the best customers will not patronize it.

Married at St. Peter's.

On Wednesday morning a wedding of considerable interest took place at St. Peter's Cathedral, when Miss Clara Cronlan, of town was united in marriage to Mr. Napoleon Lord, of Grenten. city. Dr. O'Brien performed the wedding ceremony The bride was given away by her father, Mr. John Cronim, wore a white organdy muslin dress, trimmed with white chiffon, and a white chiffon hat. She was assisted by her sister Mis Kathleen Cronin, dressed in pink organdy muslin, trimmed with black baby velvet ribbon and wearing a white leghorn hat trimmed with pink roses. The groom was assisted by his brother Mr. Joseph Lord. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the home of the bride's sister Mrs. M. Hano, where a wedding breakfast was partaken of. Among the many beautiful presents received by the bride, might be mentioned a handsome gold ring, set with diamonds, the gift of her father-in-law.

HOW IT HAPPENED

A Young Man Gets a Lady Friend Into Serious Trouble

Every women knows that giving a man letters to mail is foolish thing to do. Several people were talking about this on a Stewart street porch the other evening, when a young man the son of a well-known citizen made an astounding confession. "When I went to look over my last year's clothes in the spring," he said "I cam across a lot of letters in the pocket of a light overcoat. They all bore uncanceled stamps, and were addressed to various people in feminine hand. At first I was puzzled and worried to account for them, and it was quite a while before the truth dawned upon me. Last fall a girl I knew very well was married to a chum of mine. I was best man, and, of course, a great many minor duties devolved upon me. I remembered that I had been entrusted with the mailing of a lot of letters acknowledging the receipt of presents. These were some of the letters. Ofcourse, that was bad enough, but there is a sequel. The girl had always been very popular, but after her marriage quite a number of people seemed inclined to treat her with coolness. She felt it all the more because she couldn't imagine why it was. All this came back to me when I found those letters that had never been mailed. For two or three days I thought it all over. Then I decided that the only thing to do was to see all those people, and explain in confidence just what had happened. It was a deuce of a job, for there were about 30 of them altogether; but I finally did it. Whenever I am given a letter to mail now I carry it in my hand until I come to a letter box."

THE BELMONT TRAGEDY

Not a Case of Murder, as First Supposed, But an Accident.

Full particulars of the death of two men at Belmont Gold Mine, are at hand. Their death was due to an accident, and was not a case of murder, as at first supposed.

The two men were Peter Terreon and Louis Dufresne and were working on Tuesday night down what is known as shaft No. 2 at a depth of 150 feet below the surface. The mines are worked day and night. Men are hauled up or let down the shaft in a "skip" or box, which is held by a strong cable and which runs up and down on two small rails. The descent down the shaft is almost perpendicular, though there is a slight incline. Compressed air power is used for operating the skip. In these skips all the ore from the mines is sent up, and when it reaches a point about ten feet above the surface, the rails on which its runs turn out and the skip dumps its contents on the floor of the shaft house. A man at the mouth of the shaft regulates the skip by signal from below. One stroke on a gong is the signal for the engineer at the top to bring the hoist up.

On Tuesday night the unfortunate men were blasting at a level of 150 feet down shaft No., 2 George Avery was at the mouth engineering the skip and is the man that should know the most of the tragedy. He says that at 11 o'clock he received the signal from them to fetch the skip up. He says he did so and stopped it when it got to the top of the shaft and there was no one on it. He heard their blast go off when the skip was about 35 feet up, at which point they would be out of danger. He was surprised when they were not on the skip when it came up, and he went down about 70 feet but could not see them. Then he crossed to No. 3 shaft house, which is about 80 yards off, went down the shaft there, and walked through the tunnel connecting it with No. 2. At the bottom of No. 2 he found the dead bodies of Dufresne and Terreon. The alarm was given and they were brought out. The only explanation that can be given is that the men fell off the skip on the way up and dropped to the bottom of the mine, being killed instantly. The men generally ride on the bar across the top of the box, instead of getting into it, holding to the cable with their hands. They might have fallen off or the explosion below might have thrown them off, though this is hardly possible. The bodies were found about three feet from where they were working.

Peter Terreon, one of the dead men, was 37 years old and had a wife and two children, twins about a year and a half old. He belonged to Belmont township. Louis Dufresne, the other, was about fifty years of age, and had a family. He came from Cabletown, Que., to Marmora, and from there to Belmont about a year ago.

Veterans in Line.

Kingston Whig.—The veterans of 1864-'66-'70 met last evening in the police court chamber to discuss matters of importance. The question of urging the Government to make the veterans a grant of land in the Northwest Territories came up for consideration. It was decided to assist other similar Associations in Canada in the good cause, and a committee, consisting of Lieut.-Col. Hunter, Major King, W. McCammon and C. H. Vanluven was appointed to wait upon the members of the Veterans' Association with a petition for signatures and which will be presented to the Government setting forth their claims. The veterans are asking for a grant of 160 acres of land each. On August 8th the Association will hold its annual meeting, when the question of conducting a picnic or excursion will be considered.

Care in Advertising.

The successful merchant knows that next in importance to having what people want is telling them that he can gratify their desires. The same care that is used in getting of making things for the public to buy should be devoted to the preparation of the newspaper announcement concerning the same. The men who knows what he is talking about can always make an impression. Everybody reads the Times.

INDIAN RIVER.

The farmer wears a broad smile. Crops promise to be good.

Mr. Sam O'Brien's new threshing mill has arrived. Sam is prepared to hustle things now.

Ed. Quinn & Co. have completed a splendid new barn for Mr. John O'Brien.

Mr. S. Anglese was visiting in the village last week.

Mr. Martin Torpey, of Peterborough is visiting here.

Mr. John Clancy paid a flying visit here on Sunday evening.

Mr. J. Crowley, of Warsaw, was the guest of Mr. D. O. Leary on Sunday.

Mr. Joseph Collins was the guest of Mr. M. Torpey on Sunday.

Mr. J. Hess passed through the village on his way to Little Ireland on Saturday.

Mr. J. E. Devlin has returned from his trip to the North country. He reports huckleberries a good crop.

A large crowd of people left here Tuesday, July 24, on the pilgrimage to St. Anne de Beaupre.

Prof. H. Flinders is installed in his new quarters. He is prepared to teach all who want to learn the manly art of boxing.

What might have been a very serious accident was miraculously avoided on Sunday. Mr. Tim Garvey, while scorching down the hill, familiarly known as the Hog's Back, lost control of his wheel and was thrown head first. Fortunately the bank pile where he landed was soft.

NEW SOURCE OF DANGER

Incandescent Lamps are Liable to Cause Fires.

A citizen called at the Times Office yesterday and stated that a few evenings ago he threw a ligh shirt over an incandescent lamp at his house, and the heat from the glass bulb set the shirt on fire. But for the fact that the danger was discovered in time, a serious conflagration might have resulted.

It is but recently that the users of electricity for illuminating purposes have begun to realize the fact that the common bulb or incandescent lamp can start a fire. It is safe to say, in fact, that the great majority of those who use electric lights in their places of business or in their homes continue to look upon the incandescent lamp as a perfectly harmless affair, absolutely incapable of starting a blaze even under the most favorable conditions. And the general understanding has been that whenever a fire has been caused by an electric-lighting system it was due to the crossing or the imperfect insulation of the wires, but never to the lamps themselves.

Yet there are a number of authenticated instances on record in which the glass bulbs of incandescent lamps coming in contact with material of an ordinary inflammable nature has resulted in fires. Fire underwriters are aware of this danger and have begun to take precautions accordingly, and yet in many business-houses and on many ocean and lake steamers the common electric-light bulb still escapes suspicion.

Those who use incandescent lamps probably have noticed that a new lamp throws out a clear white light and that the glass bulb seldom becomes so warm that it cannot be easily and safely handled. It also will be noticed that the longer the lamp is used the less light it emits. Apparently, the carbon wire or filament inside the bulb gradually turns from a clear white to a dull red. After the lamp has been in use for a month or so, the spiral light within the bulb grows quite red and exasperatingly dim. It then will be found that when the current is turned on the glass bulb can no longer be held in the bare hand. It becomes so hot that, after the current is turned off, the bulb must be permitted to cool before it can be handled. A few days later the carbon wire or filament breaks and the life of that lamp is ended.

It is while the lamp is passing through its last days that the danger of fire comes. The reason is that the lamp is giving out more heat than light and has undergone such changes that the glass bulb ceases to be a good non-conductor of heat.

FOUR BRITISH MINISTERS MURDERED IN SHANSI

All the Foreigners and Many Native Christians Have Been Killed at Pao Ting

THE CHINESE TRYING TO CONCEAL THEIR PLOT

The Report That the Foreigners are Going to Tien Tsin Part of a Plot to Hide the Date of the Massacres and Duplicity of the Officials

Washington July 27

The following despatch has been received at the State Department from Consul General Goodnow at Shanghai July 26—"an official telegram on the 18th says that all foreigners and many natives Christians had been killed at PaoLing and the missions burned. Americans, Simcox family, Taylor, Pekin, Misses Gould Morrill. The customs officer reports disturbances at Yuanan yesterday." The cablegram is somewhat confused but is given out exactly as received by the State Department. It probably means that the Americans who were killed comprised the Simcox family, either a man or woman named Taylor and named Perkins and the Misses Gould and Morrill. PaoLing is about 75 miles west of Pekin.

Washington, July 27

Unless some authentic assurance as to the condition of Americans in Pekin reaches the State Department within a day or two the administration is likely to abandon what ever faith it has manifested thus far in the truthfulness of Chinese information. The State Department is still receptive though looking with growing doubt upon the numerous edicts and telegrams which are coming from China all without bringing any news. The contributions of to-day were from Consul General Goodnow at Shanghai and Consul oFwler at Chefoo. So much of their messages as was given out for publication related to the welfare of certain American missionaries who have been made the subject of inquiring by relatives in this country.

London, 27.

The Daily Express has the following from July 26, "four more British ministers have been murdered in the province of Shansi. News from native Christians sources says that for eight days a general massacre of foreigners has been in progress in the provinces of Honan or Shansi.

London, July 27.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says trustworthy information, which reaches me to-day, Friday, convinces me that all the ministers except Baron von Ketteler are still alive. Some of the European survivors are leaving Pekin.

The proposal made by the Chinese Government to the American consul through Taotai Sheng, that hostilities against the Chinese should cease upon condition that the foreign ministers were sent under escort to Tien Tsin, appears to be part of a deep laid plot to conceal the date of the massacre and the duplicity of the officials, who, being in possession of the news, suppressed it. The story will be that the ministers all left Pekin under a strong escort, but were set upon by a mob of Boxers. The world will be told that, although the Chinese soldiers fought bravely, they were overcome and all were massacred.

THE CHINESE RETREATING

Chinese Troops Have Retreated From the Native City of Tien Tsin.

London, July 27.—The Daily Mail correspondent at Shanghai cables that Chinese troops have retreated from the native city of Tien Tsin and are concentrating at Yuang Tun, on the railway line to Pekin, with a view to opposing the advance of the allies.

PRINCE CHING DEFEATED

Foreigners Defending Themselves in Cathedral Near the Forbidden City.

Berlin, July 27. — A despatch received here to-day dated Tien Tsin, Tuesday, July 24, says:

"A messenger who left Pekin Sunday, July 15, brought to-day to the customs officer here news that Prince Ching's soldiers had been fighting Prince Tuan's troops, and had been defeated. The foreigners were defending themselves in the northern cathedral near the forbidden city."

WILL NOT STOP OPERATIONS

United States Declines to Withdraw in Return for Delivery of Foreign Ministers.

Washington, July 27. — The United States Government have absolutely refused the Chinese proposition to suspend military operations against Pekin in return for the delivery at Tien Tsin of the foreign ministers.

"PEKING ALIVE"

Cable From a Missionary Contains Only These Two Words—Dated July 23.

Boston, Mass., July 27. —The American Board of Commissioners for the Foreign Missions today received a cablegram from Rev. Henry B. Porter, a missionary of the Board, dated Chefoo, July 23rd, containing the words, "Peking alive."

Rev. Mr. Porter who was stationed at Pang Chuang, rPovince of Shan Tung, North China, escaped to Chefoo after the Boxer uprising. The cablegram contained only the two words, "Peking alive" no intimation being given as to the evidence on which the conviction which apparently prevailed at Chefoo was based.

HOPING AGAINST FEAR

The Disposition is to Think Ministers Escaped the Massacre of the Others in Pekin.

London, July 27.—The alleged departure of the Ministers from Pekin has led to the assertion of the belief that the story is part of a deep laid plan by China to conceal the date of the massacre at Pekin, the suggestion being that Chinese officials will claim that the Ministers left Pekin under a strong escort but were ambushed and massacred by Boxers en route to Tien Tsin. However, although it is still believed a massacre of the foreign colony at Pekin has occurred, the disposition now is to think the Ministers were somehow rescued from a tragic fate.

FIERCE BATTLE GOES ON

REBELS BESIEGE PANAMA AND THREATEN BOMBARDMENT

United States Takes a Hand and Tells the Columbia Revolutionists That They Must Not Shell the City.

Colon, Colombia, July 27.—Fierce fighting is still in progress between the government troops and insurgents around Panama. The steamer Bernard Hall arrived at Colon from Savanilla at 3 o'clock this afternoon with reinforcements for the government, numbering 1,000. They were brought by General Campos Serrano, Governor of the department.

The government troops are still holding this ground. Many have been killed and wounded, and a four hours' armistice was agreed upon to attend the wounded and burn the dead.

The cable between Colon and Jamaica was repaired to-day.

United States Takes a Hand.

Washington, D. C., July 27.—Special United States Consul Gudger at Panama to-day notified the State department that the Colombia revolutionists have demanded the surrender of Panama City and upon refusal had announced their intention of bombarding the place.

Consul Gudger was immediately advised to enter a protest against the contemplated bombardment and instructed to call attention to the treaty ratified with New Granada in 1848 and still operative, by which the United States undertakes to insure neutrality on the isthmus, with hte assurance that this government will see that such neutrality is not violated.

The belief is expressed that this protest, will be heeded. Otherwise the United States must stand ready to defend remonstrance by force.

The despatch from Consul Gudger was sent to the Navy department, with the expectation that a warship will be sent too the isthmus at he earliest possible date.

The battle ship Iowa and the cruiser Philadelphia are at San Francisco. It is expected the Philadelphia will be hurried to Panama with all haste.

Rebels in Greater Force.

Kingston, Jamaica, July 27 The Captain of the French steamer Souchet reports that the rebels have 1,500 men at Carozol, two miles from Panama, and 1,500 more nearer, splendidly armed and disciplined, while the government had only 700 troops.

The principal government Generals had left Panama by the British steamer Leandar.

Since July 18 the post and telegraph offices have been closed at Colon and Panama by the rebel forces.

Colon and Carthagena are without troops or government, the latter being carried on by citizens.

Vessel Searched for Contraband.

Norfolk, Va., July 23.—"Special" Colombian Consul Carl Hugo Arnal today boarded the British steamship Alabama, which has aboard 3,000 tons of coal for the Panama railway at Colon. No contraband of war was found. Every vessel now leaving the ports of Norfolk and Newport News for Colombia is subject to a rigid search.

MISSIONARIES AT PAO TING FU SLAIN

Rev. Mr. Bagnell, Wife and Others Murdered — The China Inland Mission Receives the News To-day

Rev. Mr. Ewing, of the China Inland Mission, received the following authentic cable from Shanghai this morning.

"All missionaries murdered in Pao Ting Fu."

It is uncertain just how many missionaries had remained there. Rev. Mr. Bagnell, his wife and family, are known to have stayed at Pao Ting Fu. The American Presbyterian Mission Board had people there as well as the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, and the China Inland Mission.

London, July 27.—In missionary circles at Shanghai, according to a despatch received here to-day, it has been learned that all the missionaries at Pao Ting, in the Province of Pe Chi Li, have been murdered. All of the people of the mission at Amoy, Province of Fo Kien, are reported well.

PARIS SUFFERING FROM HEAT

Lack of Ice, Water, and Other Necessities Cause Many Deaths and Much Distress.

Paris, July 27.—The weather is torrid in Paris and the lack of both water and ice has caused much suffering. Ice is selling at two pounds for seven cents, in the poor quarters. The ice companies refuse to deliver mor ethan half the ice contracted for by the butchers and market men and an enormous amount of spoiled meat is the consequence. The angry butchers and provision men went in a body to the ice companies' offices to protest. Fifty-six thousand kilos of bad meat were confiscated to-day in the central markets. There are many cases of poisoning from bad meat and many sunstrokes. Numbers of horses and men drop dead in the streets. As few private or public establishments are supplied with electric fans, refrigerators, or means of proper ventilation there is much needless suffering, and the mortality is fearfully increased. It is impossible to turn through the streets without crossing a funeral.

Exposition Almost Deserted.

The exposition is deserted and paid entries have tumbled down to almost nothing. Tickets of entrance sell for two cents.

Mrs. Palmer Going to Sega.

Mrs. Potter Palmer and her son Honore left to-night to visit the Queen of Belgium at Sega. Mr. Palmer and his son Potter are to sail for America.

There is no trace of Mrs. Palmer's jeweled pendant lost last week, despite the heavy reward offered.

The American cruiser Baltimore with Rear Admiral Watson aboard has arrived at Havre from Singapore.

Fear French Captain is Lost.

Ever since President Grebauval of the City Council publicly left the grounds when President Loubet and Waldeck-Rousseau appeared, the tension between the city and state government has been severe.

AGED NEGRESS A VICTIM OF THE MOB

The Reign of Terror Which The Whites Began in New Orleans on Tuesday Last Still Continues The Negroes are Leaving

New Orleans, July 27.—Hannah M. Mabry, a negress 63 years of age, fell a victim at 1 o'clock this morning to the mob which has terrorized the negroes since Tuesday.

She resided with her aged husband at 1,929 Rousseau street. A son and an infant child were also in the house. All were sleeping soundly when the mob broke in the door. They claimed to be seeking a couple of notorious negroes. Mrs. Mabry arose and appeared in the doorway of her bedroom. She fell instantly pierced by a dozen bullets and died in a short time. The mob then dispersed. Mrs. Mabry's son claimed to recognize two of them, and has given their names to the police.

Disturbances were reported this morning from various parts of the city, probably due to the fact that more negroes ventured out than on yesterday. Special police, however, during the night and early morning, gathered in a large number of men on the streets who were unable to give a satisfactory account of themselves. It is thought the effect of these arrests will be to gradually restore order. Rumors of the capture of Robert Charles the desperado who slew Captain Day and Patrolman Lamb and wounded Officer Mora have been circulated continuously, but have proved unfounded.

Mayor Capdevielle remained in his office throughout the night and said this morning that the situation had improved greatly.

Several hundred negroes have left the city to hunt homes elsewhere.

A DRAMATIC STAR.

A Campbellford Lady is Meeting With Much Success in the Dramatic Profession.

The New York Mirror, a journal devoted to the dramatic profession, contains a fine portrait of Miss Minnie Callaghan, of Campbellford, daughter of Mr. Thomas Callaghan, manager of the Rathbun Co's lumber operations, who is well known in Peterborough. The Mirror makes reference to the talented young lady in two items as follows.

"Marie Hunt, who is now playing Julie de Nortelle in a Day of Reckoning, at the Star Theater, is a young Canadian who has done some excellent work in the various stock companies. Her impersonation of Julie has received the endorsement of the press wherever she has appeared. Her gowns have called forth the envying praise of the ladies and her appearance at all times has been remarked as one of refinement.

"Marie Hunt has been engaged by Harry Corson Clarke to originate the leading female role in his new farce, What Did Thompkins Do? Miss Hunt will sail for Paris this week to secure the latest things in Parisian gowns."

DRASTIC LABOR BILL AGAINST CHINESE

Measure Introduced Into the British Columbia Legislature to Prevent the Mongolians Securing Work Within the Province

Victoria, July 27.—The proceedings in the House to-day are expected to be very interesting, as Mr. McInnes' bill relating to the Chinese will come up for its second reading. The bill is of the most drastic character although the Opposition claimed it was based exactly on the lines of the Natal Act, with the addition of a rider relating to those who are on the voters' lists, full-blooded Caucasians and Indians. It is believed that it is being based on an Act recommended by Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, and that Ottawa will not disallow it. It sweeping character may be judged from the following section.

"No person shall be employed on or about any of the works, industries, places or matters enumerated in schedule A to this Act who is unable to read in European language this Act and all the Dominion and Provincial statutes, municipal by-laws and public and private rules and regulations. This action shall not apply to nor affect in any way any person who is on the register of voters, any full-blooded Indian, or any person of full Caucasian blood. Any person or laborer who works in contravention of sections 3 and 4 of this Act, and any employer who employs such person or laborer shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding $20, and not less than $5 for each and every day such person or laborer works.

"Schedule 'A'—Mine, logging camp fruit cannery, sewer, printing house, lumber mill, fishing cannery, road, railroad track, clearing land, factory, fishing, dyke, tunnel, building, construction, shingle mill, brewery, ditch, wharf, freight shed, foundry, laundry, garden, store, slaughter house, Government work, warehouse, electric works, livery, dwelling houses, tailor shop, saloon, roundhouses, gas works, stable, hotel, butcher shop, quarry, machine shop, water works, farm or boarding house."

THE BRITISH TROOPS ARE ACTIVE IN SOUTH AFRICA

Boers Count Upon the Return of the Democrats ant Their Interference With Britain

THEY ARE DEPENDING ON AMERICAN ELECTIONS

The Democrats are not Very Likely to be Returned and If They Were It is Quite Improbable That They Would be Foolish Enough to Put Their Finger into the Fire

London, July 27 11, 18 p.m

The war office has received this dispatch from Lord Roberts.—"French and Hunter continued their pursuit on July 25. The former crossed Oliphant's river and from the high ground on the east bank he could see the enemy retiring in great disorder. The main road north was blocked for several miles with horsemen and wagons. The enemy's rear was then seven miles north. The mounted forces were still west of the river, night was closing in, the rain was falling in torrents and so it was impossible to follow. The night was terrible, in addition to the rain a strong east wind made the bivouacs most uncomfortable. One officer I regret to say died of exposure and the mortality among the mules and oxen was great. The men made light of hardship and were in famous spirit when I saw them yesterday.

Hunter has occupied Fouriesburg and so far as I know, did not suffer loss. He found Mrs. Steyn, wife of the Ex-President and several of our men whom De Wet had captured at different times and whom he was unable to send to Machadodorp. The enemy in the Bethlehem hill are now closed in. Harrismith is the only line open and it will not be easy for them to reach there with guns and wagons.

Bradwood is still watching Christian De Wet who has taken up a position on high hills near Reitzburg about seven miles south of the Vaal. C. De Wet a younger brother of Christian surrendered at Kroonstad yesterday.

Barron reports from Krugersdorp that he has reconnoitred the railway to Bank station where the train was wrecked on July 19 and been enable to replenish his supplies. Methuen's column which reached the Krugersdorp potchefstroom. Buller reports that the railway was opened to Heidelburg yesterday giving us through communication to Natal.

Balmoral, South African Republic, Wednesday July 25.—The Boers stated that their plan of campaign is to keep up guerilla warfare until November, when the Democrats in the United States, if successful in the elections there, have promised intervention in South Africa.

London, July 27.—The statement that the Boers are planning to keep the war going until the result of the American elections is made known in the hope that the Democrats may be returned to power and may interfere with England's continuance of the struggle is quite likely to be true. The well-known ignorance of the Boers regarding affairs outside their own land lends color to the supposition that they may be leaning on a reed which will assuredly prove a broken one when the time comes for its support to be claimed. It is quite probable that unscrupulous politicians in the United States, may for party purposes, have persuaded the Boer envoys who recently visited that country that they may count upon the Democrats, but it is quite as improbable that the Democrats would do anything so foolish as put their finger into the fire now burning in South Africa, even if they were returned to power of which there is not the slightest indication. However as the proverbial drowning man will cling to a straw, so the Boers may be clinging to hope of intervention by the United States, with an additional hope that the war in China may exercise an effect upon Great Britain adverse to an exaction of harsh terms upon them or favoring a quick termination of the conflict.

ORANGEMEN'S COLORS FLY

IMPORTANT MEETINGS AND FUNCTIONS OF THE VARIOUS ORGANIZATIONS.

Battle of the Boyne Celebration to Include Street Parade and a Big Banquet.

New York, July 27.—The color and badges of various organizations of the Loyal Orange Institution were displayed this week in this city by Orangemen interested in the important meetings functions which are being held here this week. The most important of them are the meetings of the Supreme Grand Lodge of the Loyal Orange Institution, United States of America, the Triennial Council of the World, and a grand public demonstration in celebration of the two hundred and tenth anniversary of the battle of the Boyne on Saturday.

Some of the prominent Orangemen in Ireland who had arranged to attend the meeting will not be present. The Earl of Erne, who is Grand Master of Ireland, Imperial Grand President of the Triennial Council, and Imperial Grand Master, has two sons fighting in the British Army in South Africa, and he is so concerned in their welfare that he canceled his engagement. Lord Farnham, who is Grand Secretary of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ireland, and Grand Master of Belfirst Orange Lodge, could not come because of a throat ailment.

Delegate Johnston's Record.

A well-known Orangeman, who will be present at the gatherings, is the Right Hon. William Johnston, member of Parliament for South Belfast. He is a delegate to the Triennial Council and Master since 1849 of Ballydonnell Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 1,444, County Town. Mr. Johnston has had a distinguished career. He was in 1868 elected to represent the entire City of Belfast in the House of Commons and was elected to succeed himself until 1878, when he was appointed Inspector of Irish Fisheries, an office he held until 1885, when he was returned for South Belfast, one of the four Parliamentary divisions of the city, which he has since carried by emphatic majorities.

Receives Gold Medal.

Mr. Johnston in 1867 tested the Procession act, which prohibited party colors and airs in processions, because it was generally understood that it was enforced arbitrarily. He headed a parade of Orangemen with party airs and emblems from Newtownards to Bangor, County Down, was arrested, prosecuted, and sent to prison at Downpatrick for two months. His popularity was so great that the Government shortened his term of incarceration. The Marquis of Hartington in 1876 introduced the bill which abrogated the Procession act.

At the Lyric Hall meeting addresses were made by the Hon. William Johnston, H. Clarke Wallace, M. P., Grand Master of British North America; H. H. Pitts, M. P., of New Brunswick, the Imperial Grand Secretary, and J. C. Hardenberger, Supreme Grand Master, L. O. L., United States of America.

The battle of the Boyne demonstration Saturday will include a street parade, in which colors, banners, and regalia will figure. Its plan and scope will be settled by the Supreme Grand Lodge. There will be bands, and among the airs played will be "Boyne Water."

THINKS THEY ARE DEAD.

Lieut. E. W. Harding, Five Years in China in Town.

Lieut. E. W Harding of Pittsburg, Pa. was in town last-night, on his way to the back lakes for a short outing.

To a Times representative Lieut. Harding said he had spent five years in China and was a special guest of aged diplomat well, and although the stop at the Waldorf-Astoria during his stay in New York. He knows the "This, to my mind, is merely a ruse two are friends he does not place much credence in reports that come from Chinese sources in the Orient.

The Lieut. was for a time a guest on the Olympia, when Admiral Dewey was stationed in the China seas. He is a wealthy shipbuilder and has superintended the construction of several Chinese vessels of commerce. He speaks the language of the Flowery Kingdom fluently and understands the country and customs thoroughly.

"I see" said the Lieutenant, "that Li has intimated that if any interferance by the allied powers results seriously to the Boxers every missionary in Pekin will be murdered.

"This, t omy mind, is merely a ruse to gain time. I do not place any faith either in the dispatches by Minister Wu, at Washington, or the news received abroad. I do believe, however, that Wu is sincere and that he relies firmly on the advices he receives from the Empire.

"Li Hung Chang is a very foxey statesman. He realizes the condition of affairs in this and other countries, and that if the reports of the massacres were at this time confirmed it would mean the prompt wiping off of China from all maps. For this reason, I believe, he is trying to prevent a general march on Pekin.

"The news from London to the effect that the Ministers are to be held as hostage appears to be the most reliable—provided there are many Ministers alive. They are a treacherous lot over there and wouldn't trust the best of them."

Lieut. Harding will be a guest of the American Colony at Stony Lake while up north.

AN AMERICAN ARMY FOR CHINA.

At the time of the outbreak of the Spanish-American war the regular army of the United States only numbered 25,000 men. Now it is announced that the United States troops at present in China and on the way or under orders, will make an army of 22,000 men. It is stated that 12,000 men will go from the Philippines alone. Army officers say that the Chinese trouble and the prospects of United States troops seeing service in that country has given a great impetus to recruiting. Evidently the idea of fighting abroad is more popular than the thought of garrison life at home.

One reason for the determination of the United States Government to maintain friendly relations with the Chinese Government is that the constitution gives the President no power to make war without the consent of Congress. Congress alone has the right to declare war. If Congress were called together to consider the Chinese situation the whole question of "imperialism" would be discussed and the Administration is not anxious for such a discussion now. While the President has no power to make war, he has the right to send military and naval forces anywhere to protect the persons and the property of American citizens against lawless outrages, and there is sufficient excuse for sending a large force to China at the present time. The American troops will go to China may have to do a good deal of fighting before they come home again, but we may be sure that the United States Government will not recognize a state of war to exist if this can possibly be avoided. To prepare to send over twenty thousand troops to China without consulting Congress is a pretty wide stretch of the President prerogative, and if active hostilities on a large scale should occur between American troops and the Chinese, public opinion may force the President to consult Congress in the matter.

INDIA'S AFFLICTIONS.

The cable despatches the latest reports from the famine districts of India show improvement, but in their general tenor they are as grave as any former ones. The last [illegible] were reported in the [illegible] cholera and the bubonic plague have appeared in epidemic form in several districts and the results in loss of life are appalling to the Western mind. For instance, the reports show that there were no less than 2,665 cases of cholera in the famine districts during the week ended on July 7th, of which 6,474 were fatal, while elsewhere there were 2,186 cases with 5,382 fatalities. The total number of deaths on the relief works was 5,878—a rate of 8.9 to the 1,000. The bright part of the picture is the announcement that rain has fallen in several places and that there has been a little sowing of grain. But even this cannot mean much in the unfortunate condition of the people, who are as a rule left without cattle or seed.

In the reports which have been coming from time to time from India mention has frequently been made of the loss of cattle. Millions of head had died from lack of food and water and the natives are almost helpless, as they are unable to [illegible] the planting. A recent letter from India says that there are large numbers of surplus stock in unaffected districts as well as grain for seed which may be had at reasonable prices. The Government has done much to relieve the situation by offering loans without interest to farmers who are solvent, but the vast majority of small land owners are insolvent and must receive charity pure and simple. Most of the money which is being raised by popular subscription will be wisely expended in aiding farmers to raise crops, but even were it all used in this way, it would fall far short of satisfying all demands. If the farmers are able to take advantage of propitious weather, the famine which has already surpassed in extent any other in the history of India for many years will be checked; otherwise it will continue another season with greatly increased horrors. As it is, those who are in a position best to judge say the effects will be traceable for a generation. Canadians have contributed generously to the relief fund, but much more money is needed and undoubtedly it will be forthcoming.

TAKING THE REINS.

During the past winter 19 horses without records have sold for $42,375, or an average of $2,282 each.

Peter Truax, Major Douglas and Frank Blaisdell are going to equip a racing plant on Half Moon island, Eau Claire, Wis.

Mr. William C. Whitney's unnamed 2,000 guinea colt, by Miguel-Aurora, has been entered for the West Derby stakes (England) as a 2-year-old.

At the late Bonner sale five of the get of Ansel, 2:20, none of which had a record, sold for an average of $728, while the sire brought only $130.

Genius receives tribute in divers ways. Recently Mme. Rejane, the famous French actress, was presented with a handsome pair of driving mules by the king of Portugal.

There is a Baron Wilkes mare in "Doug" Thomas' stable that has been priced at $5,500. On a three-quarter mile track she stepped a half in 1:04 and a quarter in 31 seconds.

HAVE YOU CATARRH TAINT? — Here's strong evidence of the quickness and sureness of that wonderful remedy, Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder — "For years I was a victim of Chronic Catarrh —tried many remedies, but no cure was effected until I had procured and used Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. First application gave me instant relief, and in an incredibly short while I was absolutely cured."—James Headley, Dundee, N.Y. 50 cents. Sold by Ormond & Walsh.—4

THE HEIGHT OF POLITENESS.

As Exemplified by an Officer on a British Man-of-war.

This is a story of the height of politeness. It is told by Angus Evan Abbott, the author, and it is, I believe, absolutely true. Mr. Abbott is a Canadian by birth and education, and on first coming to England he was, as most Americans and Canadians are, eager to catch a glimpse of the queen. But as her majesty did not live in his suburbs, Mr. Abbott's wish remained ungratified for some time. However, one day he found himself in Portsmouth and learned that the royal yacht, with the queen and Princess Beatrice aboard, was to cross from the Isle of Wight to Portsmouth.

Hastening down to the landing place, he discovered that there was not the ghost of a chance of catching sight of her majesty on land, so he went to the waterside, hired a small boat and rowed out into the great harbor. Pushing out from the inner port, wherein rode a mighty fleet of battleships and cruisers all aflutter with bunting in honor of the queen, the writer found himself on the broad outer bay, alone except for a dotted line of man-of-war's boats indicating the route to be taken by the queen's yacht.

Pulling in his oars and allowing the boat to float at will, Mr. Abbott got his glasses focused ready for the queen's yacht and put in his time reading a book. All at once he heard a voice sounding as though it came from the clouds. It was gentle, aristocratic of accent and apologetic in diction. It said, "I beg your pardon, but would you mind letting us pass?"

Glancing quickly up, Mr. Abbott beheld the bow of the mighty battleship Minotaur towering over his little rowboat like a precipice, and peering over the brow of the cliff of iron was the calm face of a naval officer. The ship was swinging slowly into harbor and was but a few yards away, coming directly toward the tiny rowboat.

In the words of the novel, "To seize the oars and pull for his life was the work of an instant." When Mr. Abbott was clear of the battleship, the naval officer, not a ghost of a smile on his face, said, "Thank you very much," and the ship swept past. Mr. Abbott claims that naval officer to be the politest man living.—London Sun Saturday Evening Post.

PUZZLED HIS PAP.

Questions That Made the Boy's Father Take a Day Off.

"Going to take the day off, eh?" said the chief of division to the clerk when the latter reported at the office at 9 o'clock and put in a slip for a day's leave. "Nothing the matter, I hope? No sickness at home, is there?"

"No," replied the clerk drearily, leaning heavily on the chief's desk. "No sickness or anything like that. But I've got to put in a day of research. It's this way: That 10-year-old boy of mine sprung a lot of 'em on me when he was going over his lessons after dinner last night that stumped me and put me temporarily out of business. This was one of them:

"'Three-eighths of a pole stands in the mud, one-fifth in the water, and the remainder of the pole, 21 feet, is above the water. What is the total length of the pole?'

"Sounds dead easy, doesn't it?" went on the clerk. "Well, it just stood me on my head, that's what it did. Y'see, I took my civil service examination over ten years ago, and I've tried earnestly and prayerfully to forget all the digging I had to do to squeeze through that. Then he asked me how old George Washington was when he died, how old the Polack Kosciusko was when he offered his sword to the Revolutionary commanders, the date of the battle of Bunker Hill, the nature of the Missouri compromise and 10 or 15 little ones like that. I had to extinguish him by telling him that I was reading my paper, but I promised him that I'd give him all the answers tomorrow, Sunday, in time for him to be right on them at school on Monday. Now, that kid thinks I'm 'It.' He thinks I know it all. He brags to all the other kids in the neighborhood that his dad can give their dads cards and spades and big cassino and beat them to death when it comes to Brains with an upper case B.

"Well, I want to have him go right on thinking that. I wouldn't lose that young one's exalted opinion of me for a house and lot. It 'ud be a solar plexus finish for me to have him direct the blighting gaze of suspicion at me. So I'm going up to the library, yank out a bundle o' books of reference, get the answers to that list of questions, and tonight I'll spring 'em on the kid in an offhand sort of way, as if I knew 'em all the time, but just didn't have time to give 'em to him. I couldn't stand it to have that kid get on to me; not just yet anyhow. He'll have time to do that when he grows up."—Washington Post.

His "Dear Old Jim."

"Corbett is my friend and benefactor," says Mr. Jeffries. "I was once his sparring partner, and he treated me as a gentleman. Hence I have gladly agreed to fight him as a return for favors. I am bound by all the ties of friendship and gratitude to give him a chance to fight me." Was there ever such a touching instance of devotion? Mr. Jeffries will reward his old patron and benefactor by beating him into pulp and knocking his head off. One can fancy him saying, as he puts his terrible right into his friend's ribs, "Dear old Jim!"—Kansas City Star.

Short Story of the Day

Back Home.

A small woman with rather bent shoulders and thin, gray locks stood on the kitchen porch. Below her, on the steps was a young man whose shoulders were straight and broad, and whose locks were not gray. But his eyes were brown like the woman's and the line of his lips was modeled from the older feminine ones.

"Come, mother, I must look about the old place and you must go with me. It seems only yesterday, I left—things look so natural. Here's the corn a foot high—just as 'twas when I went away—the cherries tempting the robins just the same, and the clover smelling like honey. Come along, mother, now do! I want to see the spring house and the hen coops. Like as not they need some carpentering, though 'twas only yesterday, it seems like, they were good enough."

Yielding to her son's persuasion, and the delight of his return after many years' absence, the old woman descended the steps and walked by his side out through the barnyard into a lane leading to the pasture.

"Seems like I ought to stay in and fix the fire for supper, David. Now I got you home again. I feel as though I'd kinder like to get a meal. You always made it worth my while to cook David. Are you still partial to fried chicken and corn bread?"

"Am I? Do I look as though I'd pass by on the other side?"

The pair laughed with the harmless happy appreciation of a homely joke.

"Now here's the old board between the tulip poplars, by jing! Let's sit here, mother, and smell the hay. I want to hear all about your life while I was gone."

Slanting shadows fell over the meadow. The hay was piled in monster mounds in a corner, and through the June air came the fresh, clean, scent of blooming elder. The old woman began—

"After you went West to seek your fortune, I was the forlornest woman in these parts. Father, he just moped, too, and how those first lonely days dragged I can't say. Everything seemed to mope, too. The hay was spoiled, the rust got into the wheat, and that year father had to put the first mortgage on the farm. Along about Christmas time I was as near discouraged as could be; I just pined for you David. That's the time Ellie Martin's parents died, and the child had to be sent to the poor house. Never will I forget the morning that little girl came a-running into my kitchen—

"'Oh, Mis' Allen,' she said, 'let me stay here with you. Don't let 'em take me to the poor house!'

"And the tears were running down her cheeks. She took hold of my apron and wiped her eyes with it, and looked at me as pitiful like I just couldn't help from crying myself.

"'I'll be just as useful,' she said. 'I can skim milk, and feed the chickens—and, oh, lots of things.'

"I stood stock still there a minute, thinking how hard times were, and now the cows were sickening, and the chickens, too, for that matter. Then I looked at that orphan, and thinks I, 'What if that was my David?' Father sat by the stove and, says he, 'Mother!' We looked at each other and then I took Ellie by the hand and says—'Stay right here, Ellie, I guess we can manage.' The little thing was that happy, she just hung on to me the rest of the day, and we hadn't any more tears from her till she went to Kansas last year."

"Did you miss her much?" asked David.

"Miss her? Well, since she left, seems like father and me had grown old. I guess you couldn't understand what kind of a girl Ellie grew up to be. Why, she was the busiest, happiest child I ever saw. We never had cause to be sorry for keeping her out of the poor house. Father and I got to feel she was our own, and it went a long way towards filling up that gap you left. And pretty! How that plain, little black-haired thing did blossom! Pity you never saw her, David."

"H'm," said David. "I've seen some mighty pretty girls out West."

"But not as pretty as our Ellie, sure. She promised to come back some day. You know how she came to go."

"Tell me that," said David. He leaned lazily back against the poplar and surveyed his mother.

"Well, you know her father's brother, who disappeared so many years ago? Well, he turned up and took the greatest kind of fancy to Ellie. He had a family out in Kansas, and nothing would do but Ellie must make them a visit. She was set against it, and wouldn't hear of leaving father and me. Harvest time was coming on and all the extra fall work. She shook her head every time going away was mentioned, but I noticed how keen she was to hear all the interesting stories her Uncle Reuben had to tell. Once I heard her sigh and say—'It must be grand to see the world.' That settled me. I just made up my mind she'd got to go. I wasn't going to stand in the way when she had the chance to see something outside our cow pasture."

The old woman quietly wiped her eyes with the hem of her apron. David only smiled.

"You can't guess how lonesome we were, and how lonesome we feel to this day. No one bustling about and singing and chirking us up all day long." A long drawn sigh, and then looking fondly at her son, old Mrs. Allen said brightly—"But it is good to see you, David, and I only wish you had come to stay."

David Allen brought his palm down solidly on his knee and said—

"That's what I've done."

"You've come to stay?" quaveringly.

"Most emphatically," responded David. "I've prospered out West, but all the time I've hankered to come back to the old farm. Always, that was my idea. I've saved, and laid aside, intending to come home and set the old place on its feet. I never got to feel at home anywhere else, and I've just dreamed of the pastures and that row of walnuts and the spring run, till it seemed that I must get here if I ever wanted to be happy again."

The old mother wiped more tears with her apron, but looked anything but sad.

"The Lord bless you, David. There isn't anything else I need to make me happy."

"But I might as well own up my whole doing, mother, and confess I've brought home a wife."

The old woman started.

"A wife? Why haven't I heard this before?"

"Well, just listen a minute. As I had about made up my mind to start this way, I met a wonderfully pretty girl and I just fell so deep in love it kept me waiting a little longer. You see, I had to give her time to return my sentiments. She wasn't a Western girl, but had come to the town I was living in and was rather homesick herself. So we naturally were congenial, and in course of time she made up her mind to come home with me. It didn't take much coaxing. The idea suited her down to the ground."

David laughed aloud, and putting his arm around his mother's shoulder kissed her cheek.

"But where is she now?" asked the mother, looking rather dazed and uncertain.

"First promise to love her as well as you did Ellie Martin."

"In time, David, maybe in time; but I have to get used to changes first."

"Well, that's all any reasonable person would ask, I'm sure," said David heartily. "As for wife, she's in the house. You see, I left her in the front room when I went to find you in the kitchen, and coaxed you out on purpose to let her get acquainted with father first."

Mrs. Allen started to her feet.

"Oh, I must hurry back to start the fire if we are to have company!"

"No hurry, not a bit of it," laughed David, but he rose and walked beside his mother. "Wife's getting supper. She said she would call us when 'twas ready."

Was the ground reeling under foot? The old woman's life had contained so little excitement that these crowding, astonishing events seemed like wild dreams. David drew her arm through his, saying gently—

"Don't you worry, mother! And look, there she comes! Isn't she pretty?"

A girl, light of form, with bright cheeks and shining eyes, was running toward them from the house. When she reached the couple she spread wide her young arms with a soft cry—

"Mother, I've come home again!"

And the old woman simply leaped to the girl's embrace, and in trembling tones murmured—"Ellie! Ellie!"

Morning Times

PETERBOROUGH, JULY 28, 1900.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

A Fine Livery.

Mr. R. H. Leary, who always keeps abreast of the Times, has added four more hacks to his fine establishment.

The Times' Megaphone.

The very thing for Stony Lake cottagers and campers. It will carry the voice half a mile to a mile and a half. Made in two sizes. Price $1.25 and $1.00. Every cottager should have one.

More Law Expenses.

We understand there is a disposition on the part of a number of the members of the council to appeal the two law suits which recently went against the corporation. Our past experience in law suits is not such as will cause the ratepayers to take a rosy view of the outcome of an appeal. It is time for a change!

An Artistic Piece of Work.

Mr. Pringle, the popular and efficient principal of the Peterborough Business College has just compled engrossing an address to Rev. Father Larkin, of Grafton, from the priests of the diocese of Peterborough, on the completion of his 20 years of priesthood. The work is very fine and reflects much credit on Mr. Pringle's artistic ability.

Another Action Threatened

On account of the disgraceful way in which the sewer connection was made in the Crown Hotel, by reason of which the cellar was flooded and considerable property destroyed, the town is likely to be forced to defend an action for damages. Notice has been served on the town that if the amount of damage done is not covered by a corporation check at once, a suit will be issued.

Censured for Disobedience.

At the inquest held on the two men, killed at the Belmont mines, the following verdict was rendered:—"That the said Louis Dufresne and Peter Terrson came to their death by the accidental falling from the skip or bucket at No. 2 shaft of the mines of the Cordova Exploration Co. Limited, in the township of Belmont, and we censured the deceased for riding on the said skip contrary to the rules of the said company and Geo. Avery for allowing them to do so.

Mr. Oake's Good Luck.

Mr. J. B. Oake is receiving the hearty congratulations of his many friends in Peterborough on his appointment to a responsible position in England in connection with the export fruit trade of Canada. The appointment was made by the Department of Agricultural, Ottawa, and although not permanent, is one of great responsibility, and shows that Mr. Oake is highly regarded at Ottawa as an expert fruit man. He will leave for England on August 15 to assume his duties, returning in the autumn. The Times extends its hearty congratulations.

POPULAR TRIPS TO BURLEIGH.

Tri-Weekly Excursions via Chemong Park.

Mr. George Brown, the energetic proprietor of the Chemong Park Hotel, has arranged a tri-weekly excursion to Burleigh, from Peterborough.

The Trent Valley Navigation Company's steamers will leave Chemong Park at 9.45 every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, for Burleigh and intermediate points, per Trent Valley Navigation Company's steamers.

This will afford a pleasant outing over a new and popular route.

Fare from Chemong to Burleigh and return $1; Buckhorn [illegible]. Busses leave town at 8 a.m., connecting with the steamer and will meet the steamer on her return.

Sheboygan, Wis., July 27.—"Special" As a great eagle was flying away with his baby daughter, T. Smith, a farmer of Sheboygan Falls, seized his rifle, took quick aim, and killed the bird. The bullet passed close to the child, but did not injure it.

The egal measured 6 feet and 11-2 inches from tip to tip of wings.

While at work Smith saw the bird fly close to the children, and before he could reach them it had seized his daughter Mary, aged 3 years.

The man secured the rifle and when he fired the child and bird fell to the ground, the child not being injured.

THE RAILWAY COLLISION

The Full Particulars of Thursday's Accident

It Was a Head-on Collision—Driver Edmonds Lost His Life But Saved His Passengers.

Further particulars of the fatal accident, a brief report of which appeared in the Times of yesterday, are at hand.

The trains that came together were, the Belleville train from Peterborough and the Madoc train, resulting in the death of Archie Edmonds, engineer of the Peterborough train, and Samuel Bird, brakesman, of Belleville.

The Belleville train, in charge of Conductor Riley, left here at 11.45 which was twenty minutes behind schedule time. The crew consisted of Archie Edmonds, driver, W. Nugent, Lindsay, fireman, Bert Hawkins, brakesman, and Dan Thompson Lindsay, baggageman. The postal car attached was in charge of Messrs. Ed Doyle and A. Gillies, of Belleville.

The Madoc train was forty minutes late in leaving Belleville, but the Peterborough train had the right of way and the Madoc train should have left a clear track for it. However, when the Peterborough train pulled out of Madoc Junction the Madoc train was only a couple of miles distant trying to make the Junction, where it goes north to Madoc. The Peterborough train had gone less than a mile, and was approaching a bad curve in the line when the shriek of a whistle struck terror to the hearts of the men in the engine cab, for they saw that another train was approaching, and that a collision was inevitable. Driver Edmonds reversed his engine and put the brakes on hard, and in doing so he so slackened the speed of his train that the force of the shock was reduced and the passenger coaches were saved from the wreck. But the noble deed cost him his life, for it was too late to jump and he was caught in the wreck and scalded to death. His fireman jumped and escaped serious injury, although slightly scalded. The driver of the Madoc train the crew of which saw the danger first, reversed and jumped and escaped, as also did his fireman, but the brakesman on this train, who was on the running board of the engine, was caught in the wreck and was killed instantly, his body being cut in two.

The locomotives were totally wrecked, and the passengers on both trains were badly shaken up, but none were seriously injured. The following is list of those injured:—A Gillies, mail clerk, cut on head Dan Thompson, baggageman, bruised; Bert Hawkins, brakesman, of Peterborough, bruised.

The dead man were very popular all along the line. An investigation has been ordered at Belleville.

ANOTHER ASSURANCE OF MINISTERS' SAFETY

United States Secretary of Has Received Another Imperial Edict Saaing the Ministers are Safe and "Out of Distress" and that the Authorities are Protecting Them

Li Hung Chang's Latest.

New York, July 28.—Li Hung Chang, the Chinese Viceroy, in response to a request cabled to him three days ago by the Tribune, sends the following reply, dated Shanghai, July 27—

"Tribune, New York—

"Pekin reports Ministers alive; safely assured. Allied forces entrance Pekin unnecessary. (Signed) Li Hung Chang."

Minister's Well on 24th.

Washington, July 28.—The Secretary of State has received a despatch from Mr. Fowler, the American Consul at Chefoo, dated at midnight on the 28th;—

"This morning by request of the allied admirals, I wired the Governor, supposed to be the Governor of Shan Tung, their wisht o get news from ministers themselves. The Governor replied;—

"'Have received to-day edict from Emperor saying that the Ministers are well. They are sending provisions to the legations. Am confident Ministers out of distress, and request you, Fowler, transmit this preliminary announcement to Admirals.

Signed, YUAN, Governor.'"

A later despatch from Mr. Fowler, dated 1 a.m. 27th, to the State Department is as follows;—

"Another telegram from Governor;—

"'Have just received Imperial edict 24th saying various ministers, excepting German, are well, and some days ago had supplied provisions to legations. Am satisfied Ministers out of distress.

Signed, YUAN, Governor.'"

Secretary Hay also has received a cablegram from United States Consul McWade at Canton, stating that the Viceroy Tak assures him that the Ministers were all alive and well on July 24th.

Uneasiness in Paris.

London, July 28.—Some uneasiness is felt her at the report reaching Paris of disturbances in the Province of Sze-Chuan. This is the first intimation that has been received that there is any interruption of the tranquility of this—to Britain—most important part of the Celestial Empire. The sphere of influence of greatest value to a commercial nation like Great Britain is the densely populated and fertile valley of the Yang Tse Kiang, which is also the most prosperous portion of China. The announcement of trouble in this Province comes from the French Consul at Hankow, who says that the Lazarist establishment at Yaochow have been burned. These are probably the property of French Catholic missionaries. It follows, however, that once rioting begins with the foreigners as the object of attack all creeds and nationalities will shortly be in it, and the flame will spread with the violence usual in such upsprings. The encouraging feature of the reported incident is that the Viceroys took immediate stepst o suppress the disorder and restore the normal tranquil condition.

Additional reason for believing in the safety of the foreigners at Pekin is afforded by the statements cabled by the Shanghai correspondent of the London Daily Telegraph, who has received additional information leading to the conclusion that the foreign ministers were not massacred, as reported.

Dr. Sutherland, General Missionary Secretary of the Canadian Methodist Church, whose missionaries are stationed at Chentu, the capital of the Province of Sze-Chuan, stated, upon enquiry, that no word has come to him of danger to the representatives of Methodism in that part of China. The last letter he received was dated early in May, which not only contained no mention of disturbances, but told of the purchase of a block of property by the missionaries in the centre of the city of Chentu under specially favorable conditions.

ASSOCIATED PRESS SUMMARY

London Has Returned to a State of Pessimism on the Question.

Londoon, July 28.—The statement cabled from Washington that officials there are wavering with regard to the reliability of the alleged messages from Minister Conger and Wu Ting Fang's assurances has had a markedly depressing effect on this side of the ocean, where many have been buoyed up by the sanguine views of the State Department at Washington regarding the various Shanghai despatches, and pessimism is again gaining the accendancy. "No improvement in the general situation" is the message one agency brings from the British Consul General at Shanghai to over-wrought Europe, while another asserts that as a week has elapsed without a reply to the Consul's message to the British Minister at Pekin, Sir Claude MacDonald, through the Tsung Li Yamen, the belief is confirmed that the assurances of Chinese officialdom are only designed to gain time, and that even if the Ministers are alive they are held as hostages.

As commentators pretinently remark, if there is any atom of truth in all the Chinese asseverations, the officials have only to supply the legations not with vegetables but with telegraph forms.

Definite news of any kind is scarce. The report come from Shanghai that business has been resumed at the port of New Chwang, and that a second Japanese division is mobilizing at Tokio, preparatory to embarkation for China.

Through a Yokohama despatch the Government has received information that Chinese attacked a body of Japanese and Coreans in the vicinity of An Tong on the north side of the Yalu River. Refugees had arrived at Wiju. Japanese reinforcements were proceeding to the scene of confict.

The latest news received at St. Petersburg from Blagovestchensk, was dated July 23. The Russian garrison had been re-supplied with ammunition, and would be able to hold out until reinforced.

The Chinese legation here reiterates the assertion that the Ministers are enroute to Tien Tsin.

TRAIN DIDN'T STOP.

PETERBOROUGH EXCURSIONISTS HAVE AN EXPERIENCE.

They Take in the St. Anne de Beaupre Trip, Intending to Get Off at Montreal, but the Train went Straight Through.

It has just leaked out that among the many excursionists to the shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre on Tuesday last, a small contingent of Peterborough people decided to go as far as Montreal only. Imagine their chagrim, when upon nearing that city they were informed by the conductor that the train would not stop at Montreal. Friends having been invited to meet some of them at the depot, and all other preparations having been made, the situation became desperate. It was at one time contemplated that they should jump off as the train would slow up, passing some country station, rather than be forced worshippers at the shrine of the sainted Anne, but wiser counsels prevailed. However, fate opened a way out of their difficult position. It so happened that the train had to stop at a small station—a distance of some seven or eight miles beyond the city, at about 10 p.m. Now was their chance. In less time than it takes to tell it, the party had alighted and the train was again speeding its way St. Anne-wards. But it was jumping out of the frying pan into the fire, for no sooner had the headlight of the locomotive disappeared, than they found themselves wrapped in Egyptian darkness, relieved only be the frequent flashes of lightning in a lowering sky. This was a quandary that had not been foreseen. What was to be done, was the question that remained unanswered. Two guides, as luck would have it, happened to be on the spot, and they were requisitioned. The situation now became more promising, more especially as one of the guides had a lantern.

When they all lined up, ready for the word go, it was found there were six men, four women, one child and the two guides, making in all the unlucky number thirteen, but this did not dampen their ardor for the march.

The nearest point to a suburban electric car was estimated to be one-and-a-half miles, and the intervening country consisted of a swamp, and party of a rocky ridge. All went merry as a marriage bell for the first three minutes, when the guide with the lantern, who took the lead, got stuck in a quagmire and in trying to extricate himself put out the light. Here the trouble started in earnest, but with a good deal of perseverance, and the encouraging words of Alderman Oake, who was one of the party, they travelled at the rate of a mile an hour until they reached the nearest electric car, and subsequently arrived at their respective destinations at the hour of midnight, a tired but jolly crowd. Mark Tapley might have envied them. With one accord they decided that hereafter they would be sure to enquire the stopping places of the trains on which they travel in future.

THE DEFENCES OF ENGLAND

The Earl of Wemyss Fears That Britain is Not Prepared to Meet an Alleged Invasion From France in November

London, July 28.—In the House of Lords to-day the Earl of Wemyss asked whether the Premier, Lord Salisbury, had received information "confirming the view of one of our military attaches, to the effect that it was all important that England should be entirely unassailable by November next, and whether he had satisfied himself that our means of defence were such as to render all attempts at invasion futile."

Lord Salisbury demanded the name of such attache.

The Earl of Wemyss—I cannot give it.

Lord Salisbury—Then you have no right to quote him.

The Earl of Wemyss—You have no right to ask it.

Lord Salisbury, proceeding with some warmth, said the Earl of Wemyss' inability to quote the name was evidence that the story was pure invention. He said he had never heard that it was important that England should be unassailable by November. He understood, however, that a number of shooting stars might be apprehended in November. If his Albert Hall speech were read in its entirety it would be seen he had not pointed to any immediate danger. He believed the defences were quite adequate, and had every confidence in the future.

The Earl of Rosebery said it was to be regretted that the Premier had imported so much heat in his reply. He thought the Earl of Wemyss should not have mentioned the anonymous attache, and said Lord Salisbury's Albert Hall speech had intensified the anxiety of this country by its extraordinary inadequate conclusion. It was not enough to tell the Primrose League to form rifle clubs to protect liberty, when so vast a body of Reservists was locked up 7,000 miles away. The Secretary of War had made innumerable statements in the House and developed schemes of national defence, but the Commander-in-Chief had never pressed support of the schemes. The matter was grave, as Parliament would shortly adjourn.

"SPARE NOBODY. RINAMOPKE SONERS"

The Kaiser in a Vigorous Speech Calls Upon His Army to Teach the Chinese a Lesson That They Will Remember for a Thousand Years

Berlin, July 27. — The Lokal Anzeiger says the Emperor, when addressing the troops at Bremerhaven before they sailed for China, said

"The task before you is a great one. That a people like the Chinese should cast to the winds international rights a thousand years old and treat with scorn the sanctity of an Ambassador and the rights of hospitality in a manner so horrible in unprecedented in the histor yof the world. Every civilization not founded on Christianity is sure to be brought to nought.

"So I send you out. May you all prove your German efficiency, devotion and bravery, bear joyfully all discomfort, and uphold the honor and glory of our arms. You must set an example of discipline, self domination and self-control. If you close with the enemy, remember this; Spare nobody. Make no prisoners. Use your weapons so that for a thousand years hence no Chinaman will dare look askance at any German. Open the way for civilization once for all."

NINE MEN ~~VICTIMS OF A [illegible] GUN~~

Charles, the Black Desperado, Kills Several More Officers and Citizens — He Was at Last Smoked From Refuge and Literally Shot to Pieces

New Orleans, July 28.—After a desperate battle lasting for several hours, in which he succeeded in killing Sergeant Gabriel Porteous and Van Kuren, keeper of the police jail, and Alfred J. Bloomfield, a young boy, fatally wounding Corporal John F. Lally, John Banollio, ex-Policeman Frank H. Evans, A. S. Locklere, one of the leading confectioners of the city, and more or less seriously shooting several citizens, the negro desperado Robert Charles, who killed Captain Day and Patrolman Lamb and badly wounded Officer Mora, was smoked out of his hiding place in the heart of the residence section of the city and literally shot to pieces.

The tragedy was one of the most remarkable in the history of the city, and 20,000 people, soldiers policeman and citizens, were gathered round the square when Charles was finally put to death. Tremendous excitement reigned in New Orleans as the battle went on between the police and citizens and the negro with his Winchester.

Sergeant Gabriel Porteous, one of the best known officers on the force, and Sergeant John F. Lally, who has a fine record for bravery, were informed duing the day by a negro that Charles was in hiding in a house on Clio street. A posse of officers entered the side entrance of the house, and were surprised in practically the same way as were Day and Lamb. Before the officers were aware of their danger, Charles, who was hidden behind a screen on the second story of the building, raised his Winchester and started a furious but accurate fire.

Lally fell with a bullet in the right side of the abdomen. Porteous was shot through the head and dropped dead across the body of Lally. The other officers and the negro fled from the scene. In a little while there was an immense armed crowd encircling the square in which Charles was located.

In the meantime Father Fitzgerald of St. John's church was summoned to administer extreme unction to the police officers, who were lying in the valley. The priest responded promptly, and he was anointing the body of Porteous, with Alfred J. Bloomfield, a young boy, standing by his side, when Charles appeared at the window. The lad saw him appear, and begged the desperado not to shoot him. Charles immediately fired his Winchester, and Bloomfield fell dead. The priest, unhurt, left the scene, after pluckily performing the last offices for the dead officers.

At this time the ambulance arrived and two citizens volunteered to go into the alley-way and bring out the body of Lally. They entered, and while they were attempting to take the body of the dead officer from that of his colleague, Charles fired again. The citizens nevertheless got Lally's body out of the alley, and afterward succeeded in taking Porteous' body out also. It was then seen that Charles did not propose to be captured without selling his life dearly. Time after time he came to the window, and as citizens, one by one, entered the alley, he blazed away at them.

Ultimately it was concluded by those who were handling the situation that the only way to get Charles was to burn the building in which he was entrenched. This was done, and he was finally forced out to meet death.

BOERS ARE RETIRING IN GREAT DISORDER

General De Wet Will Surrender if His Army is Allowed to go Free

ROBERTS SAYS "UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER"

Boer Forces are Being Pressed Backward to the Lyndenburg Hills by Divisionc Under Generals French and Hutton—Canadians are in the Fighting—The Enemy in a Tight Place

London, July 28.—A special despatch from Cape Town. "De Wet has offered to surrender on condition that his followers be permitted to return to their homes unmolested. Lord Robertd has refused anything except unconditional surrender."

London, July 28.—The reports from Capetown that General Dewet has offered to surrender on his own terms in dicates that General Broadwood has at last succeeded in getting him where escape is impossible. In all past instances the Boer leaders have endeavored to make terms when there was nothing better possible, and Lord Roberts has quite as consistently refused to give any better terms than "unconditional surrender." Although the Capetown message may not be accurate, the situation is such as to most probable; The capture of Dewet and his army, which at last reports was two thousand strong, would undoubtedly have the effect of bringing the war to a close. Even if Dewet is not making overturns for surrender, it is difficult to see how he can escape. He is separated from other Boer forces by long distances and pursued with unusual vigor by General Broadwood, who, at last reports, was on his heels.

London, July 28.—The most encouraging information received from Lord Roberts for some time is contained in the official despatch posted at the War Office to-day. Although his stay at Pretoria was prolonged so that a feeling of uneasiness and disappointment was beginning to manifest itself, now that he has got his forces moving again, the chase that followed the genera: advance from Bloemfontein to Pretroia is being repeated with General Hutton's division (including the Canadian mounted infantry), in the front. Gen. French's force is co-operating with General Hutton's division, and these two bodies are evidently pressiug the Boers' commmandos in that direction up to the Lydenburg mountains, where President Kruger is directing affairs. The last seen of the enemy in this direction they were hurriedly retreating from Middleburg, the roads being blocked with men horses and war material. This place is the center of a large district producing corn and other cereals. The country thereabouts is also admirably adapted for horse and cattle breeding, the land provides plenty of fodder, while the Fish river affords an abundant supply of water. The climate is also of the most salubrious character. These were factors making the occupation of Middleburg of the first importance to either force.

In other parts of the country similar successes have attended British operations. General Hunter has occupied Fouriarburg, where a number of British has been captured by the Boers were found. The enemy that have been causing trouble to the east of Kroonstad are now hemmed in the hills about Bethlehem, while a brother of Christian Dewet has surrendered his force (asmall one) at Kroonstad. Add to these the fact that Methuen is nearing Potchefstroom, and driving the Boers in that neighborhood into a corner, and it will be seen that Lord Roberts' success in his present general advance is quite as complete as that which attended his former movements.

CHANCE FOR CANADIANS

South African Demand for Farm Implements.

IT WILL SOON BE INCREASED.

A Letter Received From South Africa gives an Important Pointer to the Manufacturers of Canada—an Immense Field.

Special to the Times.

Cape Town, July 28.—"I think all are agreed that now the British flag is hoisted in Pretoria, declaring unmistakably to the world Britain's supremacy from Cape Town to Zambesi, symbolizing security, justice and equality, that country will soon enjoy an unprecedented era of prosperity. I would warn manufacturers, especially agricultural implement makers and those in kindred trades, to be first in the market. It appears somewhat invidious to single out particu'ar articles for special mention, so great will be the demand for all classes of merchandise; yet it is imperative in the interests of agriculture and agricultural implement makers to state a few facts that have come within my personal experience. It has been too much the custom to send out to South Africa the same class of implement that is selling in Great Britain. Such a policy is stupid and ruinous.

"To begin with plows. The sale of these is practically unlimited, yet go to any store in the Orange River Colony and you will find for every English made plow three or more from American and other foreign makers. Farmers declare in favor of the American plow because they are lighter, yet equally strong, less complicated, lending themselves more readily to the undulating nature of the land. They are better designed than the average English plow. The American plow does not get out of order so easily as the English-made plow, for the simple reason that it is less complicated, and it has not so many springs. It is very possible that under new conditions there will be an opening for steam plowing. A few sets are already working successfully in the Transvaal.

"With the exception of a disc roller, harrows and rollers are not much used as yet. I think there should be a future for the disc roller in breaking up newly plowed land, and there is a great extent of new land broken up every year for maize, on which the disc roller would be very effective. The few I have seen were of American make. Drills and sowing machines should be cheapened and simplified as much as possible. There can be but little doubt about the future demand for these, because great and rapid improvements will be made in the methods of farming out there, once the country is settled down to its normal self, and after this war there is bound to be a large influx of new blood.

For reaping and binding machines there is a large market, so far scarcely entered upon by home manufacturers, for up to the present time they have been supplied almost exclusively by American makers. The potential market for these machines is very great. Makers should give machines a good finishing off with paint. Paint goes a long way in South Africa in helping to sell anything. Above all, they should not forget to provide duplicate parts at reasonable prices, procurable at convenient stores.

"Threshing machines are mostly of British manufacture. Yet here again there is room for vigilance, for I have heard that one or two Canadian threshing machines have been introduced. The advice offered as to lightness and compactness of reapers and binders applies with even greater force in the case of threshers.

"The demand for portable engines has been great in the past; but I think the demand in the future will put into the shade that of the past, not alone for threshing, but in every other direction where engines are necessary for the developing of a new country. It is the duty of our manufacturers to prepare for the great inrush of trade that must follow the war."

STEAMER OVERTURNED AND 40 LIVES LOST

Terrible Accident Reported in the Mining Country

HAD 110 PASSANGERS ON BOARD

Overloaded on Deck She Became Unmanageable and Sank While Going Through the Rapids.

Vancouver, July 28.—The steamship Cottage City, from Skaguay, brought news of a terrible accident by which forty lives are said to have been lost.

The Lake Lebarge steamer Florence S., a top-heavy river boat, it is said, overturned while going through the rapids at Thirty Miles. She had 110 passengers on board, and of these 40 met death in the swarming waters of the Upper Yukon.

The steamer was at that time coming up Lake Lebarge. According to the story brought by the Cottage City, the Florence S. was on her way down on the trip on Saturday afternoon. She was in the rapids, and became unmanageable She was always known as a top-heavy boat, and had an exceedingly large number of passengers and much freight on her upper decks for a steamer drawing only 28 inches of water.

She capsized in the middle of the rapids, and the people who managed to get ashore did so on pieces of the upper works of the vessel which were torn away. No further details could be learned at Juneau.

The Florence S. was 120 feet long of the usual stern-wheel construction, and was built early in 1899. She was of specially light draught to work in the shoal portions of the feeding waters of the Upper Yukon. She was at one time owned by John Irving Navigation Company, but was sold this spring to an American syndicate.

MEN AND SHIRT-WAISTS.

A bold man, forerunner of a new dress innovation, appeared in the dining-room of a New York fashionable hotel the other day without coat or vest, arrayed in a cool, blue shirt waist, his trousers being held in place by a belt. The head waiter objected to serving him in that costume. When he retorted that the Vanderbilts and the Astors at Newport had adopted shirt waists, and that it was now the fashion, he was allowed to order his dinner. Whatever a Vanderbilt or an Astor does Smith or Brown may do.

This incident is significant because it shows that man has at last summoned courage enough to assert himself. He has come to the conclusion that if a woman can go about in a shirt waist without a jacket, there is no reason why he should not enjoy a shirt waist without a coat. He had already made a step in this direction when he discarded the vest. Now he has boldly taken the next step, which brings him to an equality with woman. Of course, he will not go to the extent of putting on skirts and petticoats in the place of trousers. If he does he should be sternly suppressed.

In demanding the right to appear in a shirt waist man only claims what belongs to him. The woman stole the shirt waist and belt and necktie and soft hat from man, but there is no reason because she stole the waist why she should be permitted to monopolize it. The man has been long suffering and he has been a long time in reaching the conclusion that he has a right to be comfortable in the hot season, but now that he has reached it he must maintain it with firmness, for undoubtedly the woman will protest and may even upbraid him as "perfectly horrid" when he appears on the cars, or in the restaurants, at the roof gardens, or in the summer resorts in a cool negligee shirt and belt. In such cases the man should not answer back, but firmly continue the practice until the woman becomes accustomed to it. She will finally acknowledge that the shirt waist looks just as well upon the man as it does upon her. The summer girls will also welcome the innovation when they find that the number of young men at the resorts will increase as soon as they find that they are not obliged to swelter in coats and vests.

It is a blessed relief when fashion sets in in the direction of comfort, and why should not the man have as much right as the woman to make himself comfortable? When the fashion becomes general the man will wonder why he endured discomfort so long and why he did not make the change at once which common sense suggests, instead of making it by installments. It is not many years ago that even when the thermometer was in the nineties he thought he must appear in a long coat, silk hat, vest, and boiled shirt. The silk hat gave place to the straw hat, the boiled shirt to the negligee shirt, the long coat to the sack coat. Then the vest was discarded. Now the coat is going, and the man will soon be as cool and comfortable as the woman and will look just as well in his belt and shirt waist. Only let him stop there. It is not necessary that he should adopt skirts just because women are gradually appropriating his entire outfit. Besides, he will not look pretty in skirts. He should draw the line at the belt.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

Mr. De Wet has been lucky so far, but his finish is inevitable. One of these days he'll be cornered where he can't slip out and must either surrender or fight. Then he'll surrender.

LATEST MARKET REPORTS

PETERBOROUGH.

Friday, July 27.

This had been another bad market week, as the farmers are all in the midst of their harvest. There has been a good demand for all kinds of produce, and prices have been firm.

Wheat.—A few loads have been marketed this week at last week's prices—70c.

Oats.—There is a good demand for oats. Prices are steady, the buyers paying 28c and outsiders 29c.

Peas.—There have been some enquiries for peas for feeding purposes, but none offered. Prices 60 to 62c.

Hay.—There has been a good demand for hay all week, with few loads coming in. Prices range at $7.50 to $8 for old hay and $6 to $7 for new.

Straw.—There was a few enquiries for good straw for livery men's use at last week's prices, $3 to $3.

Butter and eggs.—There has been a good demand and a fair supply of both butter and eggs all week. Butter sells at from 15 to 17c, and eggs 10 to 12c per dozen.

Berries.—Raspberries have come in in large quantities, and sold at three boxes for a quarter, while wild raspberries sold at $1 per pail.

Huckleberries sold at three quarts for 25c.

Live Stock.—There has been quite a movement in sheep, lambs and fat cattle this week, Messrs. McPartland and Stabler shipped cattle and sheep to Montreal, this week, where they report the market to be better than Toronto. Sheep are selling at $3 to $3.50 per 100 lbs., good fat cows are worth $2.75 to $3 per cwt., but the market for extra choice animals is a little off owing to the lack of export shipping space.

The hog market remains unchanged, with a likelihood of a further drop in price, as the English provision market has fallen. The local quotations are $5.75 for select hogs, $4.75 for lights, $3 for sows. The run this week was light, only about 70 hogs coming in.

TO FORM BRITISH ALLIANCE.

Society Organized in Philadelphia to Effect Union of Friendship Between England and America.

Philadelphia, Pa. July 27.—Application in the Common Pleas Court for a charter for the Transatlantic Society of America is the first move on the part of a number of Philadelphians prominent in the financial, political, and social world, to form an association with the object of an alliance between the United States and Great Britain. The first meeting of the society was held a week ago. The proceedings were kept secret, but today the plans of the organization became known through the application. The officers of the new society are given as follows. C. Stuart Patterson, President; Theodore C. Search and John H. Converse, Vice President; Alfred R. Wiggan, Treasurer; Theodore C. Knauff, Secretary. The society is similar to one now existing in England under the name of the Atlantic Union. The two organisations are likely to unite.

MAN HORSEWHIPPED.

A Prominent Citizen Flogged by a Woman

Ottumwa, July 27.—The spectacle of an irate, muscular woman publicly horsewhipping a dignified, elderly man on the streets of this city this evening was witnessed by a large crowd which was drawn around them by the cries of the infuriated woman. The man was Colonel L. L. Laflin of this city, who was assistant Sergeant-at-Arms of the Kansas City convention, and the woman was Mrs. Thomas Gallagher, wife of a saloon-keeper. The latter and the Colonel had some trouble this afternoon in regard to business matters. The saloonkeeper says that the Colonel slandered his wife. Mrs. Gallagher came down-town about 7.30 o'clock and meeting the Colonel on the street proceeded to chastise him with a horsewhip. The Colonel hurriedly left her.

Backache.

So many women suffer from it. It mars alike their hours of work and pleasure. Backache is generally a symptom of derangement of the delicate womanly organs. It is useless therefore to apply plasters and similar local treatments. A cure can only be effected when the cause of the ache is removed. The use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure the debilitating drains, the inflammation, ulceration and displacement which cause backache, sideache, headache and many other aches and pains. "Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol and is absolutely free from opium, cocaine and other narcotics. It agrees with the most delicate persons.

"I took your medicine six months and I feel now like a new person," writes Miss Annie Stephens, of Belville, Wood Co., W. Va. "Have no backache, no headache, no pain anywhere. I took seven bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and seven bottles of his 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I think there is no medicine like Dr. Pierce's. I can't speak highly enough of your medicine for it has done me so much good. I don't feel tired as I used to, nor sick. I feel well and think there is no medicine equal to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

PUZZLED HIS PAP.

Questions That Made the Boy's Father Take a Day Off.

"Going to take the day off, eh?" said the chief of division to the clerk when the latter reported at the office at 9 o'clock and put in a slip for a day's leave. "Nothing the matter, I hope? No sickness at home, is there?"

"No," replied the clerk drearily, leaning heavily on the chief's desk. "No sickness or anything like that. But I've got to put in a day of research. It's this way: That 10-year-old boy of mine sprung a lot of 'em on me when he was going over his lessons after dinner last night that stumped me and put me temporarily out of business. This was one of them:

"'Three-eighths of a pole stands in the mud, one-fifth in the water, and the remainder of the pole, 21 feet, is above the water. What is the total length of the pole?'

"Sounds dead easy, doesn't it?" went on the clerk. "Well, it just stood me on my head, that's what it did. Y'see, I took my civil service examination over ten years ago, and I've tried earnestly and prayerfully to forget all the digging I had to do to squeeze through that. Then he asked me how old George Washington was when he died, how old the Polack Kosciusko was when he offered his sword to the Revolutionary commanders, the date of the battle of Bunker Hill, the nature of the Missouri compromise and 10 or 15 little ones like that. I had to extinguish him by telling him that I was reading my paper, but I promised him that I'd give him all the answers tomorrow, Sunday, in time for him to be right on them at school on Monday. Now, that kid thinks I'm 'It.' He thinks I know it all. He brags to all the other kids in the neighborhood that his dad can give their dads cards and spades and big cassino and beat them to death when it comes to Brains with an upper case B.

"Well, I want to have him go right on thinking that. I wouldn't lose that young one's exalted opinion of me for a house and lot. It 'ud be a solar plexus finish for me to have him direct the blighting gaze of suspicion at me. So I'm going up to the library, yank out a bundle o' books of reference, get the answers to that list of questions, and tonight I'll spring 'em on the kid in an offhand sort of way, as if I knew 'em all the time, but just didn't have time to give 'em to him. I couldn't stand it to have that kid get on to me; not just yet anyhow. He'll have time to do that when he grows up."—Washington Post.

Short Story of the Day

A BRUTAL FATHER.

"Dollars ain't everything, marm," said Mr. Elijah L. Poggson. "I've made my pile, and it ain't perhaps a small one. But there's nothing but trouble ahead. There's my daughter; she is a fine girl. It's her clear duty to me and her country to invest my dollars in a peerage and marry a British Lord. There's Lord Telfer and Lord Bulper and the Earl of Hurley to select from. They'll all jump. But she says she'd ruther have no truck with lords. She don't vally them a cent. She'd ruther marry a man she really loves and live in a cottage. Did you ever hear such gall. It makes me downright sick. What's the good of my slavin' all my life and going down town every day if my daughter's going to keep house in a cottage?"

"It is only an expression, you see," said Lady William Nowell, with a compassionate smile. "It does great credit to your daughter's heart, but I expect the cottage she contemplates would be one standing in expensive grounds and with all the latest improvements, including the electric light."

"A cottage at Newport, maybe," said Mr. Poggson. "And a lord. But she says she hain't no use for lords. And then there's more gall. My secretary—he was real cute, down to every trick in the game on the other side. This side he seems to have developed into a puffet fool. This old country is too local for him. He don't understand. The all-fired fool got a letter asking me to subscribe to a local institution, signed 'Bletchingdon & Denton,' and he mailed back a refusal, beginning it 'Dear Sir' and addressing it 'Messrs. Bletchingdon & Denton'—and it was from the Dook himself all the time."

"Why don't you have an English secretary to manage your English correspondence?" said Lady William, with animation. "One would know the ropes exactly—steer you clear of all these—er—contretemps—and help you in many ways?"

"Local man to run the local business?"

"Exactly. Now, it happens that by a curious coincidence I happen to know of just the kind of young man who would suit you exactly"—rude people said that Lady William by a curious coincidence always did happen to know of the very thing that people wanted, and that this knowledge was of value to her. "He is not too young, thoroughly up to date, of very good family, and very good-looking."

"Sounds a bit dangerous. I reckon Marry Antinete is just the sorter girl to fall dead in love with him, specially if he hadn't a cent."

"But, surely Mr. Poggson, you could then exercise your parental authority?"

"Certny, I could exercise it; but I ain't certin that drivin' is the safest way of keepin' girls on the straight, and I wouldn't bet much that Marry Antinette mightn't bolt in the opposite direction."

"I can assure you, my dear Mr. Poggson, you need have no cause for alarm. When I have told you all about the young man you will see how exactly suited you would be, and that you need have no anxiety whatever. It is quite providential that you told me just now—"

This was how it was that Mr. Charles Newton became private secretary to Mr. Poggson, the American millionaire, for the English department, so to speak. He was engaged at by no means an excessive salary, but, on the other hand, he was to board and lodge with his employer.

Mr. Poggson chuckled over this to his daughter, the romantic Marie Antoinette.

"It don't cost me a cent more to put him in one of the guest rooms that ain't used and to let him eat what the servants would waste. And it saves me a clear hundred a year. Besides, I have him always at hand."

Miss Poggson's nose acquired an extra scornful tilt when her parent informed her of his arrangement with Mr. Newton. She dubbed him "the hired man" forthwith.

"Lady Nowell says he is of thoroughly good family," observed her father.

"Oh yes, that's your style, pop, Lords and good family. I've no use for lords and these old Britishers with pedigrees as long as Fifth avenue and about a dime to their names makes me tired."

"I reckon you won't see enough of him to make you tired. I hain't hired him to beau you round town, but to write my letters and see that the next duke that applies here ain't sent away snortin'."

"Beau me round the town!" said Miss Poggson, with deep disdain. "A hired man!"

"'Sides, he ain't that style at all," continued Mr. Poggson. "No use for women. Not taking any. Had a good time and wants to square. When you come on he'll skedaddle, you bet."

There was something so unusual, not to say unnatural, about such a view of life in Marie Antoinette's opinion that she became possessed with a violent desire to inspect the strange being who held such horrible sentiments. This did not prevent her firing a parting shot at her father.

She saw the secretary for the first time from the stairs and was surprised. Really for a hired man and the author of such reprehensible notions he was rather attractive in appearance. If he had not given his name in the perfectly audible voice which is one of the characteristics of the day, she might have thought it was some fresh one or other of the gilded youth come "on the hunt," with herself as quarry.

She made his acquaintance at lunch and dinner, and found him agreeable. She soon perceived that the feeling was reciprocated. This at first amused her. Then she presumed on it to interrupt him at his work. She found that there were quite a number of things which she wanted to know, and when the first for knowledge came on her she marched ruthlessly into the secretary's room, sat down with an apology, in front of him, and encouraged him to converse with her.

Mr. Poggson, catching her in the act, objected strongly.

"I don't pay my secretary to gas to you, but to write my letters," he said, with parental frankness.

"You pay him so much," retorted Miss Poggson, with scorn.

"I pay him what he asks," replied her father, firmly. "If he's worth three times that salary to me, so much the better for me. But don't you come blandishing around disturbing him. There's Lord Bulper and the Earl of Hurley dyin' to pop if you didn't choke them off with both hands. It's your business to go and blandish to them."

"Which?"

"I would prefer the earl myself. It's more toney. But if you're more stuck on the lord I give you a free hand."

"Thank you for nothing," replied Marie Antoinette, disdainfully. "I wouldn't take them if they were sold at a dime a dozen. I'm told that Hurley's generally known as 'Earl-Purly,' because he drinks, and Bulper's known as the 'Bull-pup' because he's so hideous."

"Well, you might cure Hurley, or you needn't look at the 'Bull-pup'—he is blamed ugly; but as you've got to marry one or the other——"

"I'm an American girl," said Miss Poggson, with decision.

"I'm an American father," replied Mr. Poggson, darkly, though he could have scarcely explained his meaning.

The results of this passage of arms was that Marie Antoinette, in defiance of her father, persisted in making inroads on the secretary's time and showing a very agreeable side of her character to him, while she proffered nothing but thorns to the noble suitors whom Mr. Poggson favored.

The millionaire stormed in vain about this disobedience.

Matters came to a climax at the ball which Mr. and Mrs. Poggson gave to the elite of London society, with the kind assistance of Lady William Nowell. By the bye, it was whispered that Lady William's kindness made a difference in her banking account to the extent of four figures.

Now Lord Hurley, otherwise "Early-Purly," was really much in love with Marie Antoinette Poggson, and at the same time in awe of her. He wanted to marry her, but whenever he approached the subject she contrived to chill him to the marrow, so that he was quite unable to proceed. Yet he received the most warm encouragement from her father, who made no secret of his wishes. The result of the various spurs to action was that Hurley determined that, come what might, he would propose at the Poggson ball.

Unluckily for him, when the night came his tremors arrived also, and he adopted the injudicious plan of keeping his courage up by trying to fix it with repeated "pegs." The result naturally was that he became a trifle more lively than was altogether well.

Marie Antoinette did not discover that there was anything amiss until she danced with him. Then she thought his steering bad even for a smart young peer. Lastly, the exaggerated tone of his conversation showed her what was wrong. She was so disgusted at the discovery that she shook him off at once, and, leaving him there, seized the arm of Mr. Newton, who was standing near.

"Take me away," she said; "that wretch is tipsy."

The hired man quickly danced her round the room, and they disappeared into the sitting-out places.

Now the whole of this had been witnessed by Mr. Poggson. He did not refer to it that evening, but in the morning he gave Marie Antoinette a solid lecture on her misconduct. She had insulted a peer of the realm; she had made a show of herself with a mere common secretary.

"He's not a common secretary!" cried Marie Antoinette angrily. "He is of just as good family and a far better man than that wretch Hurley; and he is a gentleman, too which Hurley will never be."

"One would think you were in love with him, to hear you talk!" cried the father with rough derision.

"Well, then, perhaps I am in love with him," retorted his daughter, with flashing eyes and flaming cheeks.

"Oh, this must be stopped at once," said Mr. Poggson with determination; and he rang the bell which communicated with the secretary's room.

"What are you going to do?" cried his daughter in alarm.

"Wait, and you'll see," he replied grimly.

When Mr. Newton arrived his employer attacked him at once, charged him with having misused his position of trust to entrap the affections of his employer's daughter.

The secretary replied in a manly and straightforward manner. He denied the charge entirely. As for his own feelings, they were purely private. He was not insensible to the attractions of Miss Poggson—no one could be. If this was an offense, it was anirremediable one.

"You hear, Marie Antoinette?" said Mr. Poggson, with a huge laugh. "My hired man actually has the assurance to say that he is in love with you. Now, then, my girl, show your spirit; stamp on him."

"No, no, you are quite wrong—wrong, all the time!" cried Marie Antoinette, in a pained low voice, putting out her hands as if in search.

The next minute, somehow, she was in Mr. Newton's arms.

•• • ••

"I don't think," said Mr. Poggson to Lady William Nowell on the day when Mr. Newton and Miss Poggson were married, "that Mary Antoinette has quite got over my brutality. She hasn't an idea that you had told me that only two old men of 80 or thereabouts stood between him and the earldom of Finchley, and she don't guess that we may have reckoned that the best way to induce a girl to bolt in a certain direction is to drive her hard all in the opposite. But she'll come round in time. I hope, marm, we are all as pleased as I am."

"These diamonds certainly are lovely," said Lady William, without apparent relevance, as she contemplated a very handsome bracelet on her wrist.

TROPICAL DYSENTERY

Began Using Powley's Liquified Ozone and is Strong and Well To-Day—Had Suffered for 18 Years and Believed His Case Hopeless—Physicians Told Him So—But the New System of Treatment Triumphs in This Case—As in Scores of Others.

PARTICULARS OF THE MARVELLOUS CURE

"The Ozone Company, Toronto—

"I feel it my duty to testify regarding the wonderful curative powers of your new system of treatment. My case is one that baffled the skill of the best English and Canadian medical men. In 1876, while in the tropical climes, I was attacked with Tropical Dysentery in the most dangerous form, and was unable to eradicate it from my system. I was treated in the West London Hospital, at Hammersmith, England; also St. George's Hospital, Knightsbridge, London. I was under the care of the most skilled physicians in London, who were unable to benefit me, and my case was pronounced incurable. Since coming to Toronto I have been a patient in THREE OF THE CITY INSTITUTIONS, viz., General Hospital, Grace Hospital and Simcoe street Dispensary, and have been DISMISSED as INCURABLE. I was advised to take Powley's Liquified Ozone as a last resort, and at the time I began the new treatment was helpless in bed with dysentery in its WORST FORM. I had suffered each summer since 1876, until I began your treatment. Friends never expected me to get well. I had a large lump in the left side of the stomach the size of a hen's egg, believed to be CANCER. I continued the Ozone until I had used 6 bottles, but a PERMANENT CURE HAS BEEN THE RESULT. The lump in my stomach has also DISAPPEARED, and, after 18 long years of doctoring and suffering, I can say positively that I have BEEN CURED through your new treatment. I feel it my duty to send you this testimonial, that other sufferers may know how to act.

Morning Times

PETERBOROUGH, JULY 30, 1900

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

More Walks.

The Times' Job Department issued posters on Saturday, calling for tenders for the construction of more granolithic walks.

The Times' Megaphone.

The very thing for Stony Lake cottagers and campers. It will carry the voice half a mile to a mile and a half. Made in two sizes. Price $1.25 and $1.50. Every cottager should have one.

Non-Com's Excursion.

The Non-Com's excursion to Stoney Lake on Saturday was fairly well attended. The Non-Coms. of the 57th went in uniform, and were accompanied by number of the Dragoons and Durham Field Battery boys also in uniform. An orchestra furnished music throughout the afternoon and evening..

Political Convention.

The Liberals of west Peterborough are making a move to bring out a Candidate for the approaching elections for the Dominion House. A preliminary meeting has been held, and preparations are now in progress for holding a convention at an early date. It is said that the party are determined to carry West Peterborough.

The Dying Boer.

Mr. Alf Jackson dropped into the Times office Saturday evening and showed us a novelty which he calls "The Dying Boer." It is made of rubber, and is "blown up" as a toy baloon, when it assumes the form of an exceedingly fat porker. The animal is then stood on its feet, and as the wind gradually escapes, the beast of course becommes thinner and thinner, until it finally turns over on its side and expires.

The Fishery Law.

The Times has been requested to print the following clauses from the fishery regulation.

1. No person shall offer or expose for sale any bass less than ten inches in length, or any white fish or Salmon trout or lake trout weighing less than two pounds undressed.

2. No speckled trout, bass or maskinonge caught in provincial waters shall be exported or offered for sale before July 1st, 1903;

3. No person shall take, catch or kill in any of the provincial waters, in one day by angling or shall carry away any greater number than 12 bass, 20 pickerel or four maskinonge, of speckled or brook trout no more than 15 pound in the aggregate.

4. No bass less than 10 inches long, speckled trout less than 6 inches, maskinonge less than 18 inches shall be retained or kept out of the water.

—Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons Saturday shipped to Mr. Harry Corby, M. P., Belleville, two beautiful flags for his steam yacht, "Skylark." On one of the flags is the word "Skylark."

—A gentleman of our acquaintances says he can't understand why the wickedest people always catch the biggest fish. The Times also gives it up. We would suggest that he enquire of Mr. A. St. A. Smith.

—A young man, to play a joke on his barber, paid him 35 old-fashioned cents. Later, when he found that the barber had sold one of them for $55, he did not feel so well satisfied with his joke, or at least thought it had become misplaced.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL.

Capt "Rolly" Griffin, Lakefield, dropped in to see the Times Saturday.

STRICT CARE AND ATTENTION

In the age of worry hustle and business competition, strict care and attention in the filling of your physician's perscription is absolutely necessary for the safety and welfare of your family. We guarantee accuracy in dispensing and purest of drugs.

Paine's Celery Compound.

Will quickly banish those tired feelings that make life a burden in the hot weather. It braces the nerves, builds up the tissue, bone and flesh, gives a healthy appetite and perfect digestion. Paine's Celery Compound is the best and safest of all medicines for summer use. James Lynch, Druggist, Peterborough, Ont.

DEATH OF MR. GEO. L. FAIR.

Shocking Accident to One of Monaghan's Best Citizens.

Before the Times reaches its readers most of them will have heard of the shocking accident which befel Mr. Geo. L. Fair, one of South Monaghan's most esteemed and popular citizens.

It appears that on Friday evening Mr. Fair was skinning a calf, when the knife he was using slipped and entering his leg, cut the main artery, and he bled to death in a few minutes.

When the accident occurred Mr. Fair attempted to reach the house, only a few rods distant, but only got half way when he fell exhausted from loss of blood. His little son, who was with him, ran to the house and gave the alarm, but the unfortunate man expired before anything could be done.

The wound was only a small one, but it was a terribly fatal spot.

The deceased was a brother of Mr Robt. Fair, town, and was only 43 years old. His death has cast a gloom over the entire neighborhood in which he lived, as well as amongst many of the citizens of the town, by whom he was well and favorably known.

A sad feature of the case is that Mrs. Fair had given birth to a little one only a few days ago, and is confined to her bed. It is feared that she may not recover.

The deceased leaves a family of four young boys to morn his demise.

A Record in Blood.

The record of Hood's Sarsaparilla is literally written in the blood of millions of people to whom it has given good health. It is all the time curing diseases of the stomach, nerves, kidneys and blood, and it is doing good every day to thousands who are taking it for poor appetite, tired feeling and general debility. It is the best medicine money can buy.

Hood's Pills are non-irritating. Price 25 cents.

MOB BURNS A SCHOOL

Suspected That Negroes Had Stored Arms—New Orleans Riots Go On.

New Orleans, La., July 28.—At a late hour last night a mob which had evaded the militia and the citizens' police, attacked the Thomy Lafon school house, sixth and Rampart streets, upon the supposition that negroes had stored arms and ammunition in the building. They quickly gained possession and fired the structure, destroying it completely.

The school building was erected a few years ago by the city, and was devoted exclusively to the education of colored children. No negroes were found in the school, but a number who emerged from houses in the vicinity were pursued for quite a distance. A strong force was despatched to the scene as soon as the alarm was given, but too late to save the schoolhouse. The mob was quickly dispersed.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

The voice of the people forcibly proclaims the fact that our store is the popular emporium. Our dispensing facilities insure accuracy and safety at all times. We are building up an immense family trade, because we guarantee the quality of our drugs and medicines.

We are headquarters for fine Perfumes and all modern Toilet Requisites.

We can without hesitation recommend Paine's Celery Compound to our customers as the best of all blood purifiers. It has the indorsation of Canada's best people, and never fails to banish all troubles that result from impure blood. Try a bottle of this marvellous system renovator and builder; you will not be disappointed. John Nugent. Druggist, Peterborough Ont.

Y. M. C. A. Camp.

Y.M.C.A. Camp, July 28th.

To-day is field day for the Juniors, the age limit being fourteen. The boys are all excitement, and the different events will be hotly contested. Will send results in next letter.

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Stubbs stopped off on her way to her cottage, and treated the camp to two large watermellons. Mrs. Stubbs is a staunch friend of the Y.M.C.A., aiding it at every opportunity. She welcomes Y.M.C.A. men and strangers coming to town, at her home at any time.

"Giraffe" thinks if all the ladies in Peterborough were as good natured as Mrs. Stubbs, the boys here would be living in luxury.

Mrs. John Sawyers very kindly sent us a very pretty bouquet for the table.

We learn with much regret that our comrade, Horace Ayres, who was obliged to leave, has gone to the hospital with typhoid fever. Horace was a general favorite with the boys, being at all times cheerful, good natured, and ready to put himself out for the pleasure of others.

Another drive of logs passed down Clear Lake yesterday.

Water fights occur here frequently. Yesterday, while engaged in one, Davidson, Jameson and Dunk got a cold bath by falling out of the boat.

Our Secretary obtained a snap shot of the Ph.D., eating his dinner under the table yesterday. 'Twas too warm on the upper deck for him, so "Bobs" went below.

"Flinaghan" misses his moustache, so much that he unravelled a piece of rope this morning and made an artificial one.

As there are no sails with boats, "Parch" has undertaken to make one. As he picked out the brightest colored quilt he had, for the purpose, it looks "much," but it doesn't move the boat much.

C. Sucee and R. Armstrong drove to Lakefield and back yesterday.

Our "Heathen Chinee" and "Ikey" were evidently unable to tear themselves away last night, as they haven't returned for dinner to-day.

Quite a number of visitors have arrived to see the sports. Among them are Ald. and Mrs. John Sawyers, Miss Campbell, Miss Edgar, Miss MacLeod, Mrs. Stubbs, Mrs. Lindsay, Miss Brown, Miss Limburg and Harold Sanderson.

Mr. Sawyers, accompanied by a few of the young ladies carrying pails, went out to pick berries for dinner. A few fellows, badly hit, have gone out to help them. "Dorbin" picked out the smallest cup he could find, as he wished to empty it often, but even that wouldn't be so bad if they didn't run up with it about half full.

The warning bell, which is rung twenty minutes before breakfast, found nearly everyone in bed this morning. Midnight marauders do not tend to encourage early rising. During the scuffle last night one fellow got a bath, but didn't seem to enjoy it.

Every evening some one of the sections undertakes to make taffy. It is all sweet but in nearly every case just a little off.

There goes the dinner, so will have to close. Don't you wish you were here to help us eat "Punk, Brew and hot potatoes?"

PERCY.

BUSINESS PROGRESSION.

Our business is one of progress and success. No need to enlarge on our dispensing facilities; this department is run on correct principles; promptness and accuracy are our mottoes. We are daily renewing and assorting our stock of Perfumes, Atomizers, Sponges, Brushes, Combs and Toilet goods; no old stock; prices always the lowest.

The People Say So.

The public verdict is still in favor of Paine's Celery Compound. It is the great family medicine of the present day and never fails to do what it promises. Paine's Celery Compound will banish and permanently cure kidney disease, liver complaint, ills resulting from impure blood, heart trouble and dyspepsia. Come to us for the genuine—the kind that cures. Ormond & Walsh, Druggists, Peterborough, Ont.

The Times at Summer Resorts.

The Morning Times is sent to summer resorts and residences, addressed to individuals at thirty cents a month. Persons visiting the lakes and other places may have the Times addressed to them for as short a period as one week.

A SAD CASE

Four Little Tots Taken Over by the Children's Aid Society.

On Friday last the agent of the Children's Aid Society was called to investegate a case in Otonabee, of four little children ranging from 18 months to eight years of age, who live with their father Wm. Saunders, a laborer, on the road side, about a mile from Downer's Corners. Mr. Cochrane found the family living in the utmost squalor. The house consists of three rooms, scantly furnished and in a shocking filthy condition. The floor covered with straw and chips. The only food found in the squalid place which represented home to these innocent children, was some dry bread, furnished, it is said, by one Wm. Jasper, the blind man who performs on a tin flageolet around the market buildings and a uncle of the children.

The father is much away, and the mother is employed as a housekeeper for an unmarried farmer living in the neighborhood. She is said to take no interest in her little ones.

Mr. Cochrane visited the house where she was employed and found it clean and the mother, not knowing that Mr. Cochrane had previously visited her home, assured him that it was equally clean. The children were brought to town and placed in the Shelter and perhaps for the first time in their lives knew what cleanliness and comfort were.

THE PRODUCT OF EDUCATION.

THE CHINESE TROOPS REPEATEDLY ATTACKED LEGATIONS ON ALL SIDES

David Oliphant and Warren Were Killed Along With Sixty Others

THE LATEST NEWS LEADS TO STRONGER HOPES

Chinese Attacks on the Legations Slackened and Their Numbers Decreased—Letters From German and Japanese Legations Received at Tien Tsin

London, July 1 a.m. The Admiralty has made public the following despatch from rear Admiral Bruce at Tien Tsin following message from Pekin British Legation Pekin, June 20 to July 16 repeatedly attacked by Chinese troops on all sides. Both rifle and artillery fire since July 16 an armistices but scordon is strictly drawn on both sides of the position. All women and children in the British Legation. Casualties to date 62 killed including captain Strouts, a number of wounded are in hospital including captain Halliday. Rest of legation all well except David Oliphant and Warren, killed July 21 "Signed" MacDonald.

London, July 30.—Sir, Chi Chen Chinese Minister in London has been notified by telegraph that Li Hung Chang conjointly with other Viceroys and Governors has memonalized the throne to urge the sending of the foreign representative under escort to Tien Tsin or the restoration to them of free telegraphic communication with their governments.

London, July 31, 4.50a.m. Sir Claude Macdonald's welcome despatch dated Pekin., July 21, and received in cipher is accepted on all sides as dispelling any doubt that might still have existed regardig the guiness of the despatched. Owing to an error in transmission the message facts to show the number of wounded. David Oliphant and Warren were two student interpreters. The message fails to mention the other legations, and either matters of pressing importance to know but it it should be borne in mind that the British ministers may not be aware that all his previous despatches have been suppressed. He may be under the impression that the government is fully posted regarding all recent occurrences apart from this despatch there is practically no fresh news although a special from Tien Tsin asserts that the British and American forces are getting ready to advance within 48 hours.

Washington, July 30.—The Secretary of State received at midnight a despatch from Mr. Fowler, American consul at Chefoo, dated noon July 29. Mr. Fowler says.

"A letter from the German Legation, dated 21st instant, received at Tien Tsin. German loss is 10 dead and 12 wounded. Chinese ceased their attack on the 12th. Baron von Ketteler's body said to be safe. The American, Italian, Dutch, and Spanish Legations destroyed, and the French partially.

"A letter from the Japanese Legation, dated 22nd, arrived at Tien Tsin on 25th. Ten battalions of Chinese shelled the legations consecutively from the 20th of June, and stopped on the 17th of July, but may renew. The enemy are decreasing. The German, Russian, American, British and half the Japanese and French Legations still defended. Japanese say they have food for six days, but little ammunition. The Emperor and Empress are reported at Pekin."

WERE ALIVE ON JULY 19

Japanese Cypher Message Sent Out on That Date From the Chinese Capital.

New York, July 30.—The Japanese Consul at Tien Tsin sent a runner ho July 15th to Pekin. On the 19th the runner left Pekin, bringing a cipher telegram to the Japanese Government, says a Chefoo special to the Herald, dated July 27th. It reads.

"We were defending ourselves against the Chinese very well, but now the attack has stopped.

"We will keep up to the last of the month, although it will be no easy task.

"The Japanese casualties are. Killed—Kozima, diplomatic attache, captain and one student, and also a few marines; wounded—five or six; slightly wounded—very many."

The Chefoo Consul says that nothing was written about the other Ministers.

HELD AS HOSTAGES

Callousness of the Cruel Chinese—Advance of Allies Will be Opposed.

London, July 30.—An omitted part is published to-day of an Imperial decree, addressed to Li Hung Chang, and dated July 24, which stated that the Chinese Government was supplying the foreigners with food and protecting them. The ommitted part callously admits that it would be inadvisable to kill all the Ministers, and much wiser to keep the survivous in Pekin as hostages.

A further decree promulgated yesterday instructs the Viceroys and Governors to inform the powers that the Ministers are safe, and will be held as hostages pending the result of overtures for the abamdonment of hostile operations against China.

The Viceroys and Governors are also commanded to prevent by all means the advance of the foreign troops, and not to allow a single foreigner to escape from the interior, where quite two thousand connected with the mission work are isolated.

GERMANY HEARS IT

Despatch From the Legation at Pekin Says All Well on the 21st.

Berlin, July 30.—A despatch from the German Legation at Pekin, dated July 21, reports all well.

THE GERMAN LETTER

Secretary of Legation Wrote on Saturday, July 21, That Legations Were Safe

Berlin, July 30.—The German consul at Tien Tsin has telegraphed under date of Saturday, July 28, to the Foreign Office as follows.

The German Secretary of Legation at Pekin, Herr Below, writes July 21.

"Thanks for your news. July 19 the condition of Cordes satisfactory. The remaining members of the legation are all right. The detachment of the guards lost ten killed and fourteen wounded. The houses of the legation, much damaged by cannon fire, are held by the guards. The attack of the Chinese troops on us ceased July 18. Speediest possible advance of relief troops urgently necessary. According to trustworthy report, the body of Baron von Ketteler has been buried by the Chinese Government."

The Cordes mentioned in the above despatch is the second interpreter of the German Legation. He was with Baron von Ketteler when the latter was murdered, and he was wounded. He escaped to the legation.

LI REPORTS MINISTERS ALIVE YET

But the Fate of Them and Children is of no Importance to Him—Sample Treachery of a High Chinese Official

London, July 30.—Shanghai despatches to the Daily Telegraph say that Li Hung Chang was questioned yesterday. He declares that the Emperor, Empress Dowager and foreign ministers are all safe, but he has no more compunction than befits an Oriental for the condition of the women and children in Pekin. He is unable to explain why, if the ministers are safe, he cannot produce such proofs as would satisfy the powers, but he strongly favors holding the ministers as hostages, so as to secure favorable terms for the Empress Dowager and the rebel government. He does not see that holding the envoys as hostages would be a less crime than killing them.

It is obvious now that the object of Li Hung Chang's visit to Shanghai is to sow discord among the allies through the consuls, but as yet he has not met with much success.

A municipal meeting has been convened for Tuesday for the purpose of re-organising the defences of Shanghai. The number of possible assailants is considerably greater than was originally supposed, and a great many officials who are apparently loyal do not deserve to be trusted.

An excellent Chinese source reports a shocking instance of official treachery. The then governor of Shan Tung, Li Ping Ling, left a month ago for Pekin, being then imperial commissioner of the Yang Tse war junks. He was considered loyal, yet a couple of days ago, on the way to Pekin, he entered Kin Chow and ordered the soldiers of his command to massacre the Christians. His soldiers killed 2,000 native Christians and one French priest.

INSURGENT PLOT TO SEIGE MANILLA

The War Apparently to Begin Over Again at the Front

GENERAL AGUINALDO THE LEADER

Uncle Sam has a Heap of Trouble of his own These Days—The Philippine War Likely to Last for Years.

Washington, July 30.—The Secretary of War has been furnished with copies of some interesting documents relating to a plot against the authorities in Manila, which were discovered in the District of San Miguel. The secret service department under Lieutenant Charles R. Trowbridge, Eleventh Cavalry, early in June stumbled upon an insurgent recruiting office, situated in an isolated locality where the work might be carried on without attracting notice. One room of the house was fitted up as an office, and a large quantity of blank forms, bearing the headline, "Republica Filipinas" were found.

Orders From Aguinaldo.

In a cupboard which had been securely fastened Trowbridge and his men discovered a large quantity of papers, all of recent date, the latest being June 7. They consisted of orders from Aguinaldo and letters of encouragement and instruction from that leader and other insurgent chiefs. A document, which excited a great deal of interest, was one which contained the details of a plot arranged evidently early in June to excite an uprising in Manila. The plan contemplated an attack upon the force in the city and the seizure of arms and ammunition. Another paper which is of interest is translated as follows.

"Strike and Spare Not" the War Cry.

"We will not be slaves. Let the Filipinos stand together and battle for their liberties. Already they have laid the corner stone of their liberties, and it will not be long before the nations of the world will recognize their strength. The blood of innumerable martyrs bears ample testmony to the Filipinos' love of freedom and their determined purpose not to cease struggling for it. Shall they allow the Americans to exercise uncontested sway over the fair Filipinos? If they do, then the fate of the American redmen in theirs, and eventually a reservation will be assilned to them. Brothers, our cause is just; therefore let us continue as a thorn in the side of our oppressors and strike where we dare, sparing neither men, women, children nor old people. Those who stay by each other in the hour of adversity are sure to conquer in the end."

MORE TROOPSHIPS.

Eleven Vessels Requisitioned from the Volunteer and Black Sea Fleets.

San Francisco, Aug. 1.—The squadron of the Third Cavalry, from Fort Myer, Va., which arrived here about three weeks ago, will sail from this port to-day on the transport Meade for China, where they will go into service immediately upon their arrival. In addition to these troops, batteries I, O and A of the Third Artillery also sailed for China. They left on the transport Hancock.

Will Ship Cable to China.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The 450 miles of cable, originally intended for inter-communication in the Philippines, will be shipped to China to-day, where the United States will operate in connection with other powers in establishing an international cable system connecting the base of Chinese operations either with Shanghai, Port Arthur, Yokohama, or some other points through which more speedy communication can be had with the outside world.

SHOT AT OFFICER ON WELLAND CANAL

A Bullet in Reply Found a Billet in One of Two Suspicious Men Who Were Found on the Banks of the Waterway After Midnight

Port Dalhousie, July 30.—A little after might on Friday night Peter Mathieson, lock-tender at lock 18, saw a man endeavoring to pass down the canal to a point where it crosses over the Grand Trunk tunnel. This spot is the most open to the designs of miscreants of any on the canal. Mathieson ordered the stranger off, and his actions in response were so suspicious that the man at the lock followed him until he took refuge in a quarry near by and was lost sight of.

A short while after, about 1 o'clock in the morning, Patrolman Gunn of the Dominion police, on duty further down at the west end near the tunnel, saw two men coming up towards him. He called on them to halt. Instead of doing so, one of them shouted to his companion, "Give it to him,". meaning Gunn. The officer was standing in the light, where he was an easy mark, and two shots from a revolver were fired at him in rapid succession. Gunn fired one shot in reply, and the men bolted.

At daylight near the spot where the strangers were when Gunn discharged his revolver some marks of blood were found, so that he evidently hit one of them.

Cornwall, July 30.—Saturday afternoon two boxes containing 56 pounds each of dynamite were found on the canal wharf at the foot of Pitt street. It is thought the explosive material was put off the steambarge Iona. The boxes bore no address or evidence as to where they were from, and the police were notified and removed the dangeous stuff to the police station. In view of the policing of the Cornwall Canal, the discovery of the dynamite was a source of lively speculation here to-day.

AN ASSASSIN'S ROYAL VICTIM

King Humbert of Italy Shot in His Carriage by an Anarchist Who Was the Agent of Conspirators

Rome, July 30.—King Humbert was assassinated at Monza last evening.

The King had been attending a distribution of prizes in connection with a gymnastic competition. He had just entered his carriage, with his aide-de camp, amid the cheers of the crowd, when he was struck by three revolver shots fired in quick succession. One pierced the heart of His Majesty, who fell back and expired in a few minutes. He was wounded at 10.45 and died at 11.30.

The assassin was immediately arrested, and was with some difficulty saved from the fury of the populace. He gave his name as Angelo Bressi, describing himself of Prato, in Tuscany.

The news of the terrible event did not arrive here until after midnight. Signor Saracco, the Premier, immediately summoned a meeting of the Cabinet. The Prince and Princess of Naples are on board the Yela, yaching in the Levant, but are on their return voyage now. The heir apparent to the throne of Italy is Victor Emmanuel, Prince of Naples, the eldest son of King Humbert, and born in 1869. He was married in October, 1896 to Princess Helen of Montenegro.

Monza, July 30 few additional details of the terrible tragedy are available. It happened so quickly and unexpectedly that the King was dead almost before the spectators realized what had occurred. No special precautions had been taken. Very few police were in attendance and only a small guard of soldiers was keeping the way for the carriages, the King, amid the cheers of the crowd, came out smiling accompanied by his aidi de camp, Gen Ponzio Vaglia he had ordered the carriage and was just driving off when the revolver shots were fired in quick succession, some witness assert that Bressi was just previously waving his hands and cheering. The first shot wounded the King in the neck. The second, the fatal one, pierced his heart, and the third broke the arm of the already dying sovereign. The crowd was stunned by the unexpected scene, but speedily a rush was made toward the assassin. He did not attempt to escape and was roughly treated until the carbineers formed scordon and secured him from the fury of the people. An eye witness says that immediately after the shots were fired the King fell back pressing his hand to his heart. He was instantly supported by Gen. Pontzio Vaghia who told the coachman to drive with all speed to the castle. After his exclamation, "It is nothing," he died not uttering a sound.

HUNTER HAS TAKEN 5,000 BOER PRISONERS

General Prinsloo With 5,000 Men Surrendered Unconditionally

IT IS THE BEGINNING OF THE FINAL COLLAPSE

Lord Roberts Cables of the Negotiations Offered by the Boers—Gen. Hector Macdonald Pressing on With His Cavalry—Successes of the British

Cape Town, July 30—General Prinsloo, with 5,000 men, has surrendered unconditionally to the British

London, July 30—A later despatch from General Roberts, dated July 29, confirms the surrender of Prinsloo with 5,000 Boers.

London, July 30.—The following official despatch has been received from Lord Roberts;

"Pretoria, July 30.—On July 28 Macdonald fought a rear guard action with the enemy from early morning until dark, nine miles outside of Naauwpoort in the Bethlehem Hills, resulting in his effectually blocking Naauwpoort Nek to the Boer wagons.

"Hunter reports that the enemy twice checked his advance by holding strong positions on two Neks, one of which was taken before dark by the Scots, the Royal Irish, the Wiltshire, adn the Leinster regiments. Our casualties were only five or six. The second Nek was taken during the night by the Scots and Guards, without opposition, the enemy retiring closely to Naauwpoort.

"Prisoners taken stated that 1,300 burghers would surrender if guaranteed that they would be treated as prisoners of war and not as rebels. To this I assented. As a result of these operations Prinsloo, commanding the Boers, asked, under a flag of truce this morning, a four days' armistice for peace negotiations. Hunter replied the only terms he could accept were unconditional surrender, and until these were complied with hostilities could not cease. I expressed my approval and told Hunter on no account to enter into negotiations.

"As I am writing, a telegram has come from Hunter, saying that Prinsloo had written a second letter, expressing willingness to hand over himself, with his men, rifles, ammunition and other firearms, upon condition that the horses, saddles, bridles, and other possessions of the burghers be guaranteed them and they be free to return to their homes.

"I have replied that the surrender must be absolutely unconditional; that all rifles, ammunition, horses and other possessions must be given up, and that the burghers would be considered prisoners of war. I added that Prinsloo's overtures will not be allowed in any way to interfere with Hunter's operations, which must be continued until the enemy is defeated or has surrendered."

A STEERAGE PASSAGE

The Immigrants Arriving at New York are Brutally Treated.

London, July 30.—A serious attack has been made in the columns of The Daily Express against the treatment off emigrants arriving at New York. That paper sent a representative in the steerage of the steamer La Champagne, who in the course of series of articles entitled "The Closed Door," has been giving English readers vivid pictures of the horrors of a steerage passage. The writer, however, chiefly devotes himself to the alleged brutality and corruption of officials at the Barge Office and on Ellis Island. The latter the writer describes as a prison, where, he maintains, emilrants are beaten and abused worse than cattle. The Ellis Island warders are called "the dirtiest ruffians in New York." Medical examination of emigrants, it is alleged, is made without any regard to the ordinary principles of hygiene. The reporter says the Invincibles Mallet and Fitzharris were a thousand times better treated than other emigrants, not excluding feeble women and children. He gives numerous instances with names.

An idea of the attack can be gained from the following account of a supper on Ellis Island. "We passed in a long line around the room. A man with filthy hands filled our hats and hankerchiefs with mouldy prunes. Another thrust two lumps of bread in our hands. Supervising the distribution was a foulmouthed Bowery tough, who danced upon the table and poured forth upon us torrents of obscene abuse. I saw him drag one old man, a long-beared Polish Jew, past a barrel of prunes by the hair of his face. I saw him kick another emigrant, a German, on the head with a heavy boot."

The Express writer believes that if the shipping companies were compelled by the Legislature to refund the deported emigrants the entire sum spent on the journey, agents would soon cease to embark people who obviously have no possible chance of acceptance.

WANT CHINESE EXCLUDED

Drastic Bill Introduced in the British Columbia Legislature.

Victoria, B. C., July 30.—A bill to amend the Labor Act introduced in the Legislature yesterday by W W B McInnis of Nanaimo aims at the exclusion of all Chinese from all works in British Columbia. So drastic is the measure that it will embarrass the government, which dares take a strong ground against it, owing to popular feeling on the subject.

The bill forbids the employment in practically all industries of any person who is unable to read the act in a European language and all the Dominion and provincial statutes, municipal by-laws, and public and private rules and regulations by which such industries are authorized, licensed, bonused, affected, regulated, or controlled.

The bill does not apply to any person who is on the register of voters in any electoral district for the Legislative Assembly in British Columbia, any full-blooded Indian, or person of full Caucasian blood.

THE CZAR'S LATEST REFORM.

The stirring events in South Africa and China have directed public attention from a reform of far-reaching consequences recently instituted by the Czar. In history the closing year of the nineteenth century will be made memorable by the edict abolishing exile to Siberia. That vast region will no longer be associated with memories of long and painful transportation and rigorous punishment inflicted upon political offenders and other criminals, as well as cruelties made possible by its remoteness from civilization. The Trans-Siberian railway has forced upon the Russian Government the abolition of the penal colony, for a railway means immigration and population, and the two are not possible in a country given over to convict settlement. Henceforth Siberia enters upon a career of industrial prosperity to be developed by the combination of farming and mineral industry. The problem of its population will be solved by relieving the congested districts of Russia and moving the peasants, who will not be averse to the change, as they have no sea to cross and in their new homes will find no change either in the daily methods of life or in political administration, while the great railway will keep them within easy touch of their old homes.

The London Spectator, discussing this subject, calls attention to the abolition of one of the most striking incidents of Siberian exile which is included in the Czar's edict of reform. In future the criminal will be sentenced to imprisonment, not to exile. He will lose his freedom only for the term of sentence and when he comes out of prison will resume the ordinary relations of life. The sentence of exile carried civil and social death with it. The property of the criminal went to his heirs; the wife or husband of the criminal was free to marry again; whatever provision he had made for the guardianship of his children came at once into effect. The sense of impassable distance lay at the root of all these provisions. Family relations imply the possibility of physical contact, and Siberia was so far off and the means of intercourse with its inhabitants so wholly wanting that it seemed natural to assume that the criminal had actually passed out of the world.

The Czar's edict abolishes a system which has been in operation over 300 years. A non-conformist priest, Avvakum, was the first to go in exile in chains, and since those faraway times there has been a long and sad procession of deserving and undeserving criminals who have followed in his steps. In the first five years of this century nearly 2,000 persons were transported to Siberia every year. This figure reached an average of 18,250 in 1873-'77, and in 1882 rose above 20,000. In 1884, 11,104 were transported, followed by 1,769 women and 3,681 children, who chose to share the exile of husbands and parents. The total number between 1823 and 1877 was 600,000, distributed among the prisons of east and west Siberia, or confined at hard labor in the salt and coal mines, where they and their crimes were soon forgotten by the world. The opening of the great railway has ended the injustice and brutality of this system, and a free working population will soon fill the places of the unfortunate victims. As the Spectator says, "Though Russian prisons may have terrors of their own, they are less remote as regards situation, and so far less removed from the possibility of inquiry and improvement."

We would call the attention of the Kingston Freeman to the following editorial from the Toronto News:—"It is difficult to see what the cause of Ireland has to gain by the blowing up of Canadian canals. The attempt on the Welland—that so nearly proved successful—and the threatened danger to the Cornwall canals, can have but one effect upon Canadian public opinion, and that to prejudice the entire nation against a movement that is promoted by men of murderous tendencies."

LAYING UP A COMPETENCE.

Something That Practically Any Man Can Do Through Self-Denial.

"There are some men of genius," said Mr. Nippingly, "who accumulate great fortunes by great strokes, but by far the greater number of fortunes, including those of moderate dimensions, and these form the great majority of all, are made by the very simple process of living within one's income, and investing the surplus with more or less wisdom, but always where it will be safe.

"The older I grow the more amazed I am that more people don't lay up a competence for themselves, as most anybody can do, by beginning early in life to live within their income and sticking to that course faithfully. Did I do this myself? No. Am I, however, having learned the wisdom of this course, now making a beginning? I am obliged to say 'No.' I am still spending all I get and laying by nothing.

"There are some lessons that we all easily acquire, but never turn to our own advantage. One of these is of the benefits that arise from the exercise of self denial. We get from this at once the direct benefit of what we save, and self denial nourishes, strengthens and broadens the will and enables a man constantly to do and to earn more and more.

"There's simply nothing like self denial. It is the key to every one of life's treasures, and everybody has one of those golden keys in his possession, eager to help him and waiting only for him to bring it in use."—New York Sun.

An Amazed Woman.

A woman who had an Arabic glass cup of the fourteenth century and did not know its value took it to the British museum. After due consideration the expert, to her surprise, said that, though the museum did not want it, it might be worth $2,000. The woman shuddered, because she had been carrying in a crowded London omnibus a bit of glass worth so much money and it had miraculously escaped smashing.

Finally, wanting money more than Arabian glass, she sent the object to an auctioneer's. Fancy her amazement when, starting at $2,000, the Arabic cup went by leaps and bounds and was finally knocked down for the nice sum of $6,500.

Actually the Arabic cup was worth very much less, but it so happened that there were two rivals at the auction, who bid against each other.—China, Glass and Lamps.

PEN, PENCIL AND BRUSH.

Now that John Ruskin is dead a "Ruskin union" has been formed in London for the purpose of studying his works.

Emperor William has commissioned William Pape, the artist, to paint the scene of Archbishop Simar rendering homage.

The name of Samuel Smiles has been so long forgotten by the reading public that many will probably be surprised to learn that the author of "Self Help" is still alive. He lives in London.

Winston Spencer Churchill, the British war correspondent now in the Transvaal, has published his first novel. It bears the title "Savrola" and depicts the political intrigue and revolution in the imaginary republic of Laurania.

The clay model for the bust of the late Joseph Medill of Chicago has been badly damaged in some way in the studio of the sculptor, Richard H. Park of Chicago, and he will have to reproduce it from memory.

CURTAIN RAISERS.

Marie Tempest denies the report that she intends to sing in the music halls in London.

Charles Frohman is having a play, based on Peg Woffington, written for Maude Adams.

This thing grows. Fay Templeton mimics Fougere, and Fougere mimics Fay Templeton's mimicry of her.

Wilson Barrett's "Sign of the Cross" has been translated into Polish and has made quite a success in Warsaw.

Mrs. Campbell is to revive some of the Maeterlinck plays in London and produce others never seen there before.

Robert Loraine, Julie Opp's former husband, who was to have acted with Ada Rehan in England, has gone to South Africa.

Marie Wainwright has engaged Payton Gibbs to play Napoleon to her Josephine in her vaudeville sketch, "Napoleon Versus Josephine."

Wilson Barrett has added Robert Hichens in his dramatization of his novel, "The Londoners," and will act in the play in all probability.

Henrik Ibsen's "When the Dead Awake" has been acted in three German cities with success, although without giving the impression that it was likely to enjoy lasting popularity on the stage.

It seems that the new theater in St. Martin's lane, London, will not be owned by Charles Frohman after all, though that energetic American impresario will hold the lease of it and will establish there his London comedy troupe, headed by Seymour Hicks and Ellaline Terriss.

It Saved My Life.

Extreme cases of disease test the real value of a medicine. Many "tonic" and "stimulant" preparations, which have no real medicinal value, seem to brace up the users when they are feeling "played out." Any stimulant will do this whether bought at the liquor store or drug store. The true test of a medicine is when life itself is staked on its remedial power. In hundreds of such cases Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been the means of saving life when even the "family doctor" had pronounced sentence of death.

"I had been a great sufferer for several years, and my family doctor said I would not be a living man in two years, but, thank God, I am still living," writes Mr. George W. Trustow, of Lipscomb, Augusta Co., Va. "Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is what saved my life. I had heart trouble so bad that I could not lie on my left side without a great deal of pain. I was nearly past work when I commenced your medicine, but I can do about as much work now as any man. I cannot say too much for the benefit I have received."

Many diseases, named for the organs affected, as "heart disease," "lung disease," "liver complaint," etc., are perfectly cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which cures through the stomach diseases which originate in the stomach.

THE DEACON'S MISTAKE.

His Stolen Maul Staid in the Water With the "Old" Man.

The Annapolis valley, or the famous "Land of Evangeline," gives more opportunity for the study of human nature, perhaps, than any other locality along the entire Atlantic seaboard. The scenery of this region is beautiful beyond description, and tourists soon become well enough acquainted with its people "to go altogether to the kirk and altogether pray."

One Sunday the parson in a village church delivered with special emphasis an able sermon on putting off the "old man" and getting on the "new." This signal feat, he stated, was accomplished by simply going down into the waters of baptism and burying the "old man" and coming out of the waters a new creature.

After the service a wealthy deacon inquired of a certain wayward individual who occasionally presented himself to the gracious influence of the church how the sermon impressed him. He said it was the only sermon that ever touched his heart. The deacon, putting on a smile of gratification, gave him a hearty handshake. For quite awhile he had been trying to persuade him to submit to baptism. In this he had an ax to grind.

Almost a year previous the prospective convert stole a maul out of the deacon's sawmill and more than once flatly refused to return it. The deacon finally decided that an ecclesiastical course of bamboozle would have more influence over him than harsh words. If he could make him a Christian, he felt sure the maul would be forthcoming. So that Sunday morning he solemnly entreated this wayward individual, whose heart was already softened, and won his consent to submit to baptism.

When he arose out of the water, the deacon greeted him as "brother" and cordially congratulated him in that he had buried the "old man" and put on the "new." The deacon, now feeling that the long lost maul was as good as returned, went on his way rejoicing. Next day the "new man" sallied into the deacon's grocery store. As usual the place was crowded with brethren, discussing the merits of Sunday's sermon. When they had all congratulated him upon his baptismal regeneration, the deacon, believing the golden opportunity had come, addressed him with the utmost confidence:

"Well, my brother, now I am sure you will return the maul you took out of the mill last summer."

The reclaimed wanderer hesitated and then meekly replied: "I am sorry, deacon, but you've got the wrong man. The 'old man' who stole the maul went down into the water yesterday and was buried."—Pittsburg Press.

A PICKPOCKET'S RUSE.

The Trick by Which He Once Got a Woman's Purse.

Jack Piggott, the noted pickpocket, used to tell a funny story about the difficulty he had in picking the pocket of a fashionably dressed woman who was looking in at the window of Shreve's jewelry store. It illustrates the hardships that the light fingered gentry are forced to endure in the pursuit of their profession and when first related was considered amusing not only by Piggott, but by the many to whom he confided his experience.

It was a cold winter evening, and the lady on whose purse Piggott had designs stood looking at the holiday finery so temptingly displayed. Piggott said that he tried all the arts known to his craft for the extraction of the wallet, but all in vain, until, as a last resort, he fished a toothpick from his pocket and, reaching around, tickled the lady's ear. Instinctively she raised her hand to brush away the invading insect or whatever it might be and in so doing let go of her pocketbook that she was carrying in the pocket of her coat.

It was only an instant, but it was long enough for the expert pickpocket to get in his work, and when she put her hand back her money was gone, and in the crowd around her she could not identify the pale faced, fashionably dressed young man at her side as the person who had robbed her, and if she had accused him there would have been no proof against him, as the swag was at once passed to a pal who stood ready to receive it and run. Piggott was not even arrested for that crime, and the lady's ludicrous confusion furnished material for mirth long after.—San Francisco Bulletin.

The Supercilious Camel.

There are few things more interesting in north China than the great Mongolian camel trains. The two humped Bactrian camel of central Asia is a magnificent beast, quite throwing his African brothers into the shade. When clothed in his new winter coat of rich dark brown fur, which even covered his knees, he is doubly imposing. A string of 15 to 20 camels is fastened together by a cord, attached to the nose of the first and the tail of the second, and so on to the last one, which wears a large bell around his neck, so that the Mongol, who is perched on the leading camel, can easily discover when the connecting cord breaks.

A mandarin and a camel are the most supercilious creatures upon earth. The former, wrapped in rich silks and furs, as he is carried along in his sedan chair, glances at the European with pitying disdain. But the camel ignores you altogether, and with a sneer on his mouth plods slowly along, not deigning to look at anything that is not on a level with his eyes. It is therefore necessary to give a camel train a wide berth, for the great beasts would calmly walk over one, and, finding some obstacle in the road, would probably give a kick which would silence one for ever.—Cornhill Magazine.

Mr. Goodnight's Retiring Act.

London possesses one of the cleverest trained horses in the world. His specialty is a retiring act, and to be entirely in accord with it he is named Mr. Goodnight. The costume in which he appeared for his act was checked trousers, dark jacket, boots on his hind feet and a straw hat. These clothes he took off leisurely and then sat down in an armchair and removed his boots.

He then left the ring and wheeled in his bedstead by pushing it along with his head. One by one the bedclothes followed, and, with a little help from the attendants, he was careful to place the bolster and pillow in the right positions. A light was next brought in by the horse, but, as he raced around the ring, it went out. He promptly fetched another and lighted a candle by his bedside. After putting out the match or torch by kneeling down and knocking it on the sawdust, he laid down to rest, first of all putting his light out by knocking over the washstand on which it rested. When lying down, the horse pulled the quilt over him and pretended to be asleep.

Short Story of the Day

AN ANTIQUE TREASURE.

Through days of sorrow and of mirth,
Through days of death and days of birth,
Through every swift vicissitude
Of changeful time unchanged it has stood.
—Longfellow.

The Cartons were an affectionate family. They embraced each other when they met. They kissed each other when they parted. They gave each other presents on birthdays, on anniversaries, at Christmas and Easter. When they met, each of the five sisters asked minutely and in detail as to the children of the other. They admired each man who had married a Carton girl. They rivaled each other in affectionate admiration of the offspring possessing such desirable parents. And they were quite convinced that the Cartons, separately and collectively considered, were of the elect of earth and destined to an immortality of unusual splendor.

When their only brother married Marcia Wright, the family, with its proud unity and generosity, took her into the sacred inclosure of the Carton contingent. She shared the inestimable pleasure of being one of them. She, too, received presents and caresses. She was patronized with the utmost urbanity. It was Matilda who took the lead in these demonstrations. Matilda was the eldest. She was also the wealthiest. Had the Cartons been addicted to the singing of hymns it is unlikely they would ever have chanted in the original "Praise God from whom all blessings flow." The name of the Deity would unconsciously have resolved into that of 'Tilda at whatever sacrifice of correct musical cadence and devout laudation. It was Matilda who suggested names for the new babies, who inspected the shop windows for new styles and beat the family dressmaker down to her terms. It was Matilda who gave her nephews and nieces tin toys and bulk candy. It was Matilda who, when she bestowed a china teapot on a bride or a graduate, stuck a bunch of violets in the spout and swathed the whole in tissue paper, tied with baby ribbon—which thus clearly indicated her artistic tendencies. It was Matilda who, when the first anniversary of Marcia's wedding came around—or was about to come around—informed the young wife she should send her a valuable commemorative present.

Marcia politely protested.

"It doesn't seem any time since you sent Joe and me that beautiful vase," she said. her glance sought the vase in question. So did that of Mrs. Dobbs, which, by the way, was the marital cognomen of Matilda, nee Carton.

"Almost a year, my dear. We always observe anniversaries—we Cartons."

"So sweet of you," murmured Marcia. Young Mrs. Carton made no mention of the fact that, while both the price inscribed on the box and on the vase itself was $15, the edges where breakages had been duly joined were, on close observation, apparent.

"Sometimes," went on Mrs. Dobbs dreamily, "one feels that to give an article of personal significance—of individual interest—far exceeds those that may be purchased for a certain occasion, for a specified sum."

"Indeed, yes!" assented the bride of the brother of Mrs. Dobbs.

She was thinking of the lot of lumber which had accumulated in the attic of her new home. She had taken out of storage the furniture of her mother, who, being passed into the big blackness had no need for furniture, nor for anything else material. It was only that morning Joe Carton had entreated his wife to get rid of it.

"I know there are people who like old trash," Joe had said. It may have been lack of mutual opinion on such matters which made these diverse natures so attractive to each other. "I like the new furniture—the kind you can smell the varnish on. Let an auction man take the truck. Sell them for whatever they will bring."

The varnish! Marcia had suppressed a groan. Varnish! The deep, reddish gleam in that old black mahogany flickered before her eyes. And the golden gloss of the hand-polished birdseye maple! And the dusky glimmer of rare butternut wood!

"I know," she said. "But I'd like to reserve that brass-clamped desk, Joe."

"Reserve nothing!" Joe had decided. He was dictatorial—like Matilda. "Tell the Wabash avenue people to take the lot!"

Marcia had early learned the cardinal Carton virtue of smiling submission. So, with many an inward pang and innumerable treasures carted from the door.

[illegible] woman waved an umbrella at him. "Eight-ten!" she's named.

At sound of the voice Marcia jumped. "Eight-ten! Going at eighteen! Going—gone!"

The man beside the auctioneer held out his hand for the customary deposit, and pocketed the same while he wrote down the name and address of the purchaser. An hour later an express wagon toted from the rear of the auction rooms the desk at which Marcia Carton's grandmother had written her acceptance of one marriage proposal. And the same afternoon saw the desk in question duly delivered at Marcia Carton's home. With it came a note written on the free stationery of a down-town dry goods house.

"Dearest Marcia: In remembrance of the anniversary of your marriage to our beloved brother, to whom I am sure you will never fail in wifely duty and obedience, I send you both, with my dearest love and congratulations, this ancient mahogany desk. It has no duplicate in this country. I have had an agent of one of the best firms in the city looking duly, something of the sort the last three months. I know that you, with your esthetic tastes, will prize it as beauty deserves. I make no reference to the commercial value of the gift. That speaks for itself, as inquiry will prove. Your affectionate sister.

With a slow headshake and a long-drawn breath Mrs. Carton laid down the note. Not one of the Wrights could have written such a note of presentation as that!

"Thank God, they couldn't," she said. And then, "Come in!"

Matilda Dobbs, radiant in full finery rustled into the room.

Marcia looked up. She was pretty white, but

Brave as he who leaps the wall
By angry [illegible] flashes litten.

"It was sold at the auction rooms on Wabash avenue to-day, Robbie. I was there."

"All of it!" He was staring at her in bewilderment. "How have you got this then?"

"That's what I'd like to know," said Joe Carton, who had come in unobserved.

"Marcia handed him the note. "It's an anniversary gift from Matilda," she explained. "I am delighted to have it!"

There was a freezing silence. Matilda Dobbs rose.

"Marcia!" Her voice was sepulchral. "You should teach your—your relatives better manners. In the Carton family [illegible] [illegible] in the presence of guests has never been permitted young people." And she carried her red face and portly person loftily away.

"Jerusalem!" exclaimed Carton. He was looking from the note to the desk and back again. Marcia hugged the antique treasure. She laughed till she cried.

"Gee!" said Robbie.

THE HEIGHT OF POLITENESS.

As Exemplified by an Officer on a British Man-of-war.

This is a story of the height of politeness. It is told by Angus Evan Abbott, the author, and it is, I believe, absolutely true. Mr. Abbott is a Canadian by birth and education, and on first coming to England he was, as most Americans and Canadians are, eager to catch a glimpse of the queen. But as her majesty did not live in his suburbs, Mr. Abbott's wish remained ungratified for some time. However, one day he found himself in Portsmouth and learned that the royal yacht, with the queen and Princess Beatrice aboard, was to cross from the Isle of Wight to Portsmouth.

Hastening down to the landing place, he discovered that there was not the ghost of a chance of catching sight of her majesty on land, so he went to the waterside, hired a small boat and rowed out into the great harbor. Pushing out from the inner port, wherein rode a mighty fleet of battleships and cruisers all afiutter with bunting in honor of the queen, the writer found himself on the broad outer bay, alone except for a dotted line of men-of-war's boats indicating the route to be taken by the queen's yacht.

Pulling in his oars and allowing the boat to float at will, Mr. Abbott got his glasses focused ready for the queen's yacht and put in his time reading a book. All at once he heard a voice sounding as though it came from the clouds. It was gentle, aristocratic of accent and apologetic in diction. It said, "I beg your pardon, but would you mind letting us pass?"

Glancing quickly up, Mr. Abbott beheld the bow of the mighty battleship Minotaur towering over his little rowboat like a precipice, and peering over the brow of the cliff of iron was the calm face of a naval officer. The ship was swinging slowly into harbor and was but a few yards away, coming directly toward the tiny rowboat.

In the words of the novel, "To seize the oars and pull for his life was the work of an instant." When Mr. Abbott was clear of the battleship, the naval officer, not a ghost of a smile on his face, said, "Thank you very much," and the ship crept past. Mr. Abbott claims that naval officer to be the politest man living.—London Cor. Saturday Evening Post.

How She "Guides" Them.

There is a jolly mother in Brooklyn who has several grown up sons boarding at home with her, and they declare she wants to "boss" them all the time just as if they were children. She laughingly repudiates their charge and declares that she merely wishes to advise and guide them, but has long ago ceased to rule them. Here is an example of the way she "guides" them: At dinner the other night a big meat pie and a small roast duck were brought on together. The duck was intended for the father principally. The boys were death on duck, their mother well knew, but it would not make a mouthful apiece for them; so, addressing the boy who sat nearest her, she said, "Which will you have, Bobbie, duck or pie?" and at once began cutting the pie.

"Duck!" said Bobbie promptly.

"No, Bobbie," answered his mother cheerfully, "you can't have duck, dear. Take your choice, my son, take your choice, but you can't have duck!"

Because ministers exchange pulpits, someone has sarcastically suggested that editors might follow the example thus set and exchange editorial chairs for a week or two during this season. It is all very well to poke fun at the editors, but this is no joking matter. It is said at the last Mayoralty election in Peterborough something of this kind took place, by which one of our little local boiler plate contemporaries was assisted in its edit-

Mark of Appreciation.

The Stanley Piano Company yesterday received an order for one of their superb pianos from the middle states. The lady who purchased the piano belongs to a musical family. Having heard one of their fine instruments, after sending for a catalogue, she at once ordered the piano. This is the best evidence possible that the Stanley piano are amongst the best made—if not "the best." The company is now preparing their exhibit for the Toronto industrial exhibition.

The Madoc Collision.

At the Coroner's inquest into the cause of the accident at Madoc Junction on Thursday, in which two men were killed, Conductor Kerr and Engineer Maybee of the Madoc train gave evidence in a most manly and honest manner, and both admitted that they were to blame for not having gone into Foxboro' siding. They said they entirely forgot the other train. The inquest will be resumed on Monday. A verdict was rendered in accordance with the above.

THE Y. M. C. A. CAMP.

The Outing Ends To-day—A Jolly Time Spent.

Y.M.C.A. Camp, July 30, 1900

Our camp is drawing to a close, much to the regret of all the boys. All are wishing that they might stay longer. Next year it is proposed that camp last a month instead of two weeks. This change would certainly please the boys very much.

The boys will leave here by bus some time Tuesday morning, the baggage following on Wednesday.

Yesterday was field day for the seniors. The different events proved both interesting and amusing, and were closely contested. R. Davidson leads the list by one point. Some splendid work was done and does great credit to the training received at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium.

Yesterday afternoon the Non. Com.'s excursion passed the camp. They made a big noise for such a small crowd, but some allowance must be made for them, as they weren't even "out for the day," but had to crowd all their fun into half a day, saying nothing of their being out nearly all night.

The boys have been having quite a time to-day. A number had received invitations to take dinner with friends who are camping at the lakes, and nearly all the rest were going to church. By washing, patching and borrowing they presented a fairly good appearance. The service at the pavilion this morning was conducted by our secretary, Mr. H. H. Williamson, assisted by Messrs. E. Black, A. MacLeod, J. Harvey and Robert Cunningham.

Mr. J. Donnell very kindly came down for us in his trim little yacht, Mayflower. The smaller boys rode in the yacht, while the others were towed up in five skiffs.

A party, a dear friend of the Y.M.C.A., was very anxious that we should be allowed to row back, but Mr. Donnell stuck to the best looking crowd, and brought us back again, knowing that we would have to make two trips of three miles if left to row back. The party in question must be very generous minded, to desire it in order that he might get a tow home.

The boys went through fire and water coming home. The wind was from straight ahead, and the sparks from the smoke stack kept falling on the coats in town and made things lively for us. The lake was also quite rough, and as we were travelling at a pretty good pace the waves frequently splashed over the bows of the boats.

Ikey was with us this morning long enough to change his clothes, but appeared to find "the land of the 'fair'" in time to dine with loved ones. His complaint seems to be contagious, as some ten or twelve other "lady-killers," decked out in all their finery, left for parts unknown to-day, saying they would not be back till night.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. C. Clemence wheeled up and stopped over night with us, and this morning R. Cameron arrived on his wheel.

Friday afternoon Mr. Richard Hall drove up and brought with him a box of bananas for the boys. He was given three hearty cheers as he left.

Yesterday afternoon the boys who went to the store played a good trick on Allen Moore. There was a basket of goodies at Juniper for him and in the bottom of the basket were some carrots. They removed all but the carrots and put the cover carefully on again. Allen was looking awfully delighted when told there was a basket for him, and was much disappointed when he removed the wrapper.

After giving him a little while to get over it the other parcels were handed to him.

LAKEFIELD CEMENT WORKS.

A Hitch has Occurred in Securing the Land upon which to Erect Buildings.

The Cement Company's operations in Lakefield are at a standstill on account of a difficulty that has arisen over the land on which it is proposed to erect the buildings.

It appears that the Grand Trunk, who own the land, inserted conditions in the deed that are not satisfactory either to the company or to the village, and the result is that things are at a dead standstill. The Grand Trunk requires the Company to agree to ship their products over their railway for all time to come, and should the Company at any time fail or go into liquidation, the property will become the property of the Railway Company.

In the meantime the Cement people are figuring on other property. They say they are not forced to purchase the Railway Company's land, and have no notion of doing so unless conditions are changed.

DAZED THE CONDUCTOR

How a Ticket Puncher Was "Worked" the Other Day.

"I made a short trip the other day," said a citizen to the Times, as he smiled softly to himself. "There were six of us at the party, and when we were ready to go home there was some doubt about whether or not we would be able to catch our train. I went on ahead, promising to buy the tickets, so there would be no delay when the others arrived. I managed to reach the station in time and secured the tickets; but the train arrived before my friends did, and I found myself on board with five extra tickets that I had no earthly use for, so I resolved to amuse myself at the expense of the conductor. Tearing up the check that he gave me when he took up my ticket I waited for him to come around again.

"Tickets," he said shortly on his next round, seeing that I had no check.

"I gave up another ticket without a word and promptly tore up the check that he gave me.

"Tickets," he started to say when he came around again, and then looked hard at me, and I handed over another ticket without comment.

"See here, where is your check?" he demanded on his next trip.

"For reply I handed over another ticket.

"The next time he passed me without a word, but I managed to seize hold of his coat-tail and detain him long enough to hand over another ticket.

"When he came around again he looked at me in a startled manner and I heard him give a sigh of relief when he passed and I had made no sign. I let him go until he was nearly to the door and then I called to him that he had overlooked me and frantically waved another ticket.

"The next stop was mine, and as I passed the conductor on the outside I handed him another ticket with the remark that he had overlooked me.

"That conductor has an idea that he has been worked by some sort of new game, but is unable to figure it out."

A New Feature.

New York, Aug. 1.—The remodeled Grand Central Railroad station will be thrown open to the public to-day without ceremony. One of the features of the new station is that traveling women are served with tea, coffee and cakes free of charge in the tea room fitted up especially for that purpose.

A War Number.

To commemmorate the part played by the Canadian soldiers in South Africa, the Canadian Magazine has issued a "War Number" (August) The colored cover represents "The Canadian Soldiers of the Queen," while numerous illustrations add to this idea. "The Maple Leaf in South Africa," is the title of the article which gives in detail the movements of the various Canadian contingents in South Africa. "The Battle of Paardeberg" is graphically described by a Canadian eye-witness. "Three Sieges and Three Heroes," describes the famous defenses made by Sir George White, Col. Kekewich and Maj.-Gen. Baden-Powell. "A Short History of the Boer War," gives a complete summary of the great campaign. There are other features, notably an article on "British Columbia Politics," by T. L. Grahame, with many photographs of the leading men of the province, a short story by Robert Barr and a poem by Arthur J. Stringer.

Letters from the People on Interesting Topics.

(NOTE.—The Times does not hold itself in any way responsible for the opinions expressed by its correspondents.—Ed. Times.)

Must do His Duty.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I judge from a paragraph which appeared in The Times of Monday morning, that the local Medical Health officer does not feel like taking his brethern of the profession to task for not reporting typhoid fever cases, as the law requires.

Now, sir, there is only one way out of it. If the Health officer is intended only for ornament, he can let things slide, but if his duties are real he should at once "full" a "bunch" of the profession for not complying with the law. Let him not forget that the eyes of the ratepayers are upon him, and if he fails to do his duty, vengeance will assuredly be meted out to him in due course.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am,
FAIR PLAY.

Poor Walks.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I see the council has decided to lay a poor quality of granolithic walks this year, adding more trouble and expense to the heavy load which the poor taxpayer has to carry.

Let any man take a look at the Water street walk and compare it with that on London street, and he will at once see the difference. The Water street walk is fast wearing away, there not being cement enough to hold it together, while the London street walk is all right.

Now, Mr. Editor, I would like to know if Mr. Hendry, who is, I believe, the Champion of the cheaper walks, aware of their [illegible] voters will be, however, and I can tell him and those under him, that if any of them are elected it will be because there are no other men in the field.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, I am, etc.
DISGUSTED RATEPAYER.

The Times Did It.

Mr. J. M. Bygott, of the G.T.R., lost a roll of bills amounting to $40. He advertised his loss in the local evening papers without result, and then tried the Times. The result was that he got his money. Everybody reads the Times.

Thirty Black Bass.

On Saturday afternoon a party consisting of Chas. Stanley, W. S. M. Turner, in one canoe, and J. Complin and Gus Hay in another, paddled down the river four or five miles for bass fishing. They landed no less than 30 beauties, Mr. Stanley and Mr. Turner catching 17 between them. This is no fish story, for Mr. Hay is prepared to make oath on the great horn spoon of his ancestors that he counted them. This g.f.j., is satisfied, therefore, that the number was not forty, for if it was Mr. Hay would have said so. The Times congratulates Mr. Stanley and his friends on their good luck.

THE ALLIES HAVE PROBABLY COMMENCED THEIR ADVANCE ON PEKIN

An Army Corps Has Been Selected as Commander-in-Chief

THE CHINESE HOPE FOR REVISION OF TREATY

Think They Can Prevent the Allies From Reaching Pekin and That They Can Recover all Leased Territory —Necleus of Orderly Government

London, Aug. 1 4 a.m. A sensational Shanghai correspondent still hints that the Chinese are juggling with the dates, but, in face of the constantly accumulating evidence that the Ministers were safe on July 22 and despite the omission from all the despatches of anxiously desired information regarding the regulations, political and other wise at Pekin. There are very few in London who do not believe the despatches genuine and reliable.

The allies now confront a most difficult and dangerous problem, without doubt the ministers are held by the Chinese as hostages and the outcome of the advance on Pekin which, in all probability has already begun will be awaited with intense anxiety. To-days despatches show that the allies, notably the Japanese, have been pushing their preparation with feverish haste organising a service of pack carts, trains and junks. It is reported from Berlin that Lieut. Gen. Von Lessel commanding the German forces in China who Emperor William has just promoted to rank of general commanding.

An army corps has been selected as Commander-in-Chief of the allied forces.

The Chinese are strongly entrenched at Wantzan from which position, however, they can be entered without great difficulty. The danger is that the Chinese will retire on Pekin and put the remainder of the Emperors to death. It is possible that the advance of the allies will be the signal for the Chinese authorities to compel all foreigners to quit the capital, in which event they might become the prey of the fanatical Boxers.

The feeling of the newspapers here is that nothing whatever should now delay the advance and that no negotiations of any kind should be countenanced until the allied troops reach Pekin, and assure themselves regarding the fate of the foreigners.

St. Petersburg, July 31.

Official reports have been received here that the Chinese again bombarded Blagovestchensk, capital of the Amur Government on July 26 and July 28, the Russian guns replied and reinforcements were then approaching.

Berlin, July 31.

The hope regarding the security of the foreigners in Pekin now runs high in Berlin. The German foreign office no longer doubts that the minutes except Baron Von Ketteler are alive. The imperial take the same view.

London, July 31.—The brevity of the news from Pekin, leaving so much of importance unexplained, gives plenty of scope for speculation, but there is no further talk of memorial services at St. Paul's for massacred diplomatists. There is nothing to show why the attacks on the legations ceased July 16, nor the state of the supplies, except a Japanese message which mentions the end of the month (today) as the limit of resistance, nor why messages have not been allowed to come freely.

Probably the Chinese contention will be that the government has not yet been able to gain the upper hand of the imperial troops who rebelled. The latest news seems to demonstrate that General Yung Li and the moderates, if unable to quite suppress the rising, were at last able to interpose between the ministers and Tuanites so as to prevent the threatened destruction of the foreign colony. Should the existence of some such strong nucleus of orderly government be found, it is felt here that it will enormously simplify the problem.

Telegrams from Shanghai reiterate that the Empress left Pekin three weeks ago and that she will proclaim Si Ngan Fu the capital when Pekin falls. The Chinese nevertheless profess confidence that the jealousies of the powers will prevent them reaching the capital, scoff at the idea of a punitive force, and brag of their ability ultimately to recover all leased territory and compel a revision of the treaties to their advantage.

Japanese sources reports that the Russians captured the forts at New Chwang, Thursday July 26.

According to Chefoo despatch Admiral Alexieff has returned to Port Arthur.

FOOD FOR LEGATIONS

Provisions Have Been Supplied by Chinese Authorities to the Foreigners.

Washington, July 31.—The following despatch from Admiral Remey was received by the Navy Department this morning.

Chefoo, July 31.—"Bureau of Navigation, Washington. "Taku, July 29—Japanese military attache, Pekin, letter July 22, reports legations besieged since June 13. Continually attacked from June 20 until July 17. Attack then ceased, and Chinese soldiers apparently diminishing. Sixty Europeans killed. Telegram from governor of Shan Tung addressed to consular body, Chefoo, says.

"Imperial edict states that various ministers except German are well and provisions have been supplied.

REMEY,
"Taku"

AN IMMEDIATE ADVANCE

The British General Commanding in China Hopes for Co-operation of Allied Forces.

London, July 31.—In the House of Commons to-day Parliamentary Secretary Brodrick announced the receipt of a despatch from Gen. Sir Alfred Gaselee, commanding the British forces in China, stating that he contemplated an immediate advance on Pekin, and that he hoped to have the co-operation of the allied forces.

CHINESE ATTACK RUSSIANS

Fighting at New Chwang—The Acting Viceroy Represses Canton Malcontents.

London, July 31.—A Shanghai cable says. The Japanese have news that 10,000 Chinese are attacking New Chwang with 4,000 Russians opposing them. The Japanese Minister has forwarded a letter to Tien Tsin stating that the casulties at the Japanese Legation at Pekin were Captain Ando, Attache Kojima and five marines killed, and Secretary Narahara wounded.

The Acting Viceroy of Canton, it is reported, is becoming more active, and adopting a more vigorous policy. It is announced that he has ordered the execution of forty pirates. To-day he will visit the foreign warships and consuls. He says Li Hung Chang is not returning to Canton, where quiet prevails.

The British navy and military officials have taken careful observations of the Canton and the Bogue defences. The Bogue forts are crowded with troops and the parapets are lined upon the approach of steamers.

HOPED FOR SPEEDY RELIEF

No Firing by Agreement at Pekin From July 16th to 21st—Ammunition short.

Tien Tsin, July 27, via Shanghai, July 31.—Word from Minister Conger has been received by Major Waller commanding the American marines, dated Pekin, July 21 saying.

"Since July 16.—by agreement there has been no firing. We have provisions for several weeks. But little ammunition. I hope relief can come soon. If they continue to shell us as they have done, we cannot hold out long, and a complete massacre will follow. We were glad to hear of the victory at Tien Tsin, but regret the terrible cost. "All safe and well."

FOUR LEGATIONS DESTROYED

And a Fifth Partially Wrecked—Emperor and Empress Living in Pekin.

Paris, July 31. — According to despatches received at the Foreign Office to-day, the Austrian, the Spanish, the Italian and the Holland Legations at Pekin have been destroyed, and the French legation has been partially wrecked. The attacks on the Legations ceased some days ago. The Emperor and Empress are living in Pekin.

Will Enforce the Law.

The Ontario Fisheries Department has decided to enforce the laws rigidly and are taking steps in that direction. The officers do not blame the fishermen so much for trying to dispose of the fish, but they intend to make examples of the purchers, whom they consider the greater offenders. Officers are going to see that the express companies do not carry fish that cannot be sold, and wholesale fish dealers will be warned.

FINISH OF THE FREE STATE ARMY

Its End is About Reached — General Botha Entrenching at Machadodorp — Boers are Still Surrendering

London, July 31.—A despatch to the Central News from Lourenzo Marquez says that Gen. Botha and his staff have arrived at Machadodorp.

The Boers are throwing up entrenchments on the hills north and couth of the town.

Yesterday, after Gen. Prinsloo had decided to surrender, the British troops were drawn up in two long lines on the hills and over the valley, and the Boers rode in between, throwing down their rifles, together with a motley collection of clothing, blankets and gear, such as was found in Gen. Cronje's laager. Fifteen horses, two guns and fifty waggons were given up.

Gen. Prinsloo and Commandant Crowther were received by Gen. Hunter at his tent, where they were well treated and accorded every courtesy.

Many of the Boers have gone through Naauwpoort, and will surrender to Gen. Macdonald. Others are still arriving here. The Harrismith and Frede comandoes are yet at large, as well as some Boers who got out of the valley at night, but the prisoners say that those outside will surrender, and that this will practically end the Free State army.

The Boers say they would not have surrendered had they not been surrounded.

ASSASSIN FROM AMERICA

Bressi Went to Italy From Paterson N. J.—Their Eye on the Shah.

Corfu, July 31.—The new King of Italy is expected to arrive here to-night. A telegram from Queen Margherita awaits him, announcing the assassination of King Humbert, and urging him to hasten home.

Paris, July 31.—It was rumoured this afternoon that an attempt had been made against the life of the Shah of Persia. Investigation proved that while the Shah was visiting the Exposition this morning a member of his suite noticed near by a rough-looking Persian carrying, as is customary, poinards in his belt. On account of his suspicious actions this individual was arrested.

Aix Les Bains, July 31.—Maria Pia, Queen Dowager of Portugal, and sister of King Humbert, left for Monza to-day.

Monza, July 31.—After the shooting of King Humbert here last night, as soon as his Majesty's attendants could realize what had happened, he was placed in his carriage and driven as rapidly as possible to the place. He was, however, beyond human aid.

The assassin's name is cariously given as Angelo and Gaetano Bressi. He was born in Prato, Nov. 10. 1869, and is a weaver by trade. He comes from America, where he had resided at Paterson, N. J. He says he had no accomplices, and that he committed the crime because of his hatred of monarchical institutions. He reached Monza July 27 from Milan, where he had stayed a few days.

KING TO SUMMON PARLIAMENT

Rome, July 31.—Orders have been telegraphed to all provincial officials to take steps to assure order and prevent possible revolutionary movements.

The King will be requested to summon Parliament immediately upon his return home.

DEATH OF A SON OF QUEEN VICTORIA

The Duke of Saxe-Cobourg-Gotha Stricken With Heart Disease — He Had Cancer at the Root of His Tongue

Cobourg, July 31. — Prince Alfred Ernest Albert, Duke of Saxe-Coburg, died at 10 o'clock last evening at Rosenau Castle from paralysis of the heart.

Recently at a consultation of specialists in Vienna it was discovered that there was a cancerous growth at the root of his tongue, and by his sudden demise, he escaped a painful, lingering death.

During the minority of his heir, the Duke of Albany, the Government of the Duchy will be conducted by the hereditary Prince of Hohenlohe-Langenburg, the guardian of the young Duke.

The Duke of Saxe-Coburg Gotha was the second son of Queen Victoria and before succeeding his uncle in the European duchy, on August 22, 1893, was known by the title Duke of Edinburgh. He was born August 6, 1844, and on January 23, 1874, married Her Imperial Highness the Grand Duchess Marie of Russia. He had one son, Alfred, who died February 6, 1899, and four daughters survive.

FRENCH ADMIRAL SUSPICIOUS.

The Chinese Government is Behind the Boxer Rising.

Paris, July 31.—Admiral Pottier, the French naval commander in the far East, who has hoisted his flag on the Redoubtable at Cherbourg and, accompanied by the cruiser Chasseloup Laubat, intends to sail on Monday for Taku, was questioned by the correspondent of the Echo de Paris at Rochefort yesterday.

He expressed the opinion that the keynote of the situation in China was the absolute duplicity of Li Hung Chang, who was attempting to gain time and deceive Europe into the belief that the imperial government was a victim of the Boxers instead of, as Admiral Pottier considers it to be evidently the case, working with them. The Admiral thought the foreign Ministers, if not already killed, were being held as hostages, and the only practical course was for the international forces to pull cordially together and get to Pekin as quickly as possible.

The Admiral stated that the Russian naval Captain, Elletz, whom he had known in Crete, had been attached to his staff as honorary aide-de-camp.

News from an authentic source has reached Paris, according to which Russian preparations were being made on the most formidable scale, and orders had already been given for the mobilization of 200,000 men, and 200,000 additional men are to be held in reserve.

PAT VOTES TORY.

A Laughable Incident that Really Took Place.

A stalwart Liberal, who happened to have attended the caucus of the party the other night in Peterborough, met a laborer, who was long noted for his strong Liberal opinions and began a conversation,—

"Pat, how do you feel about the election?"

"Tory for once!" said Pat.

"But, Pat, are you going to vote for the Tory candidate next time?"

"Sure I am, sor."

"Why, are you going to vote for the Tupper party, Pat?"

Mark the sage reply. "Oh, begorra, I have had work for four years and I want a rest."

MILITIA GUARDS THE COTTON MILLS

Protects the Print Works Hands From Strikers' Violence A Reckless Rioter Fires Two Shots Over the Heads of the Police

Magog, Que., July 31.—The strike situation remains unchanged, as the strikers and the Dominion Cotton Mills Company have failed in coming to an agreement. This morning at 5.30 two companies of the 53rd Battalion, of Sherbrooke, under the command of Lieut.-Col. Worthington, arrived here and proceeded to the mills, where they were distributed at several entrances, and also along the various streets leading to the mills, where the strikers had collected in considerable numbers to prevent the print works hands from proceeding to their places of employment.

The special constables sworn in by Mayor Guilbert, who also read the Riot Act Early this morning, are kept busy arresting the chief rioters, one of whom, when they attempted to arrest him, fired two shots over the heads of the police. At 6.30 most of the print works employes went to work.

BOERS ARE PREPARING FOR ANOTHER RETREAT

The Surrender of General De Wet Anxiously Expected in Great Britain

DETAILS OF THE SURRENDER OF GEN. PRINSLOO

Lord Roberts' Advance Post is Now at Middleburg, Where Generals French and Hutton are Halting in Their Pursuit of Botha and Kruger to Lydenburg

London, Aug. 1.

The Lourenzo Marques correspondent of the Daily Express says—"the Boers are preparing to retreat from Waterval Haven. Frank Pettingrew son of United States senator Pettingrew has arrived there and has joined commandant Gen. Bothas staff."

London, July 31.—Britain is in an expectant attitude to-day. The Boers in the eastern portion of the Free State having been captured, the surrender of De Wet is looked for as the next development, and the public will be seriously disappointed if this leader again succeeds in eluding the force under Gen. Broadwood. In fact, his surrender is awaited with a degree of confidence not at all justified by past experiences with this slippery person. Although it turns out that but one thousand men were captured with Prinsloo—the rest repudiating that commander's authority to surrender them—the remainder are not likely to escape, as Generals Hunter, Macdonald and Rundle have resumed operations against them, with still greater determination to accomplish their capture. Gen. DeWet's chances of escape will be lessened materially by the capture of Prinsloo's force, as it will enable a large number of British soldiers who have been engaged in the task of stalking the commandos just taken, to join Broadwood in his endeavor to surround that leader.

The occupation of Middleburg by General French establishes the advance post of the army near to the point where the Boers are expected to make their final stand. The retirement of Lord Roberts and some of his force to Pretoria is regarded as a wise military precaution and a [illegible] move for the men. The severity of the campaign eastward as indicated by the death of three men, besides many horses and mules from exposure, was probably unexpected, and after supporting French till he made sure of the possession of Middleburg a portion of the army was withdrawn to the larger base. What Lord Roberts intends doing is a matter of conjecture, but it is believed that he will await the disposition of De Wet before going after Botha and Kruger.

London, July 31.—A despatch received at the War Office to-day from Lord Robert materially modifies yesterday's statement of the surrender of 5,000 Federals under General Prinsloo. It now appears that General Prinsloo, Villiers, and Crowther surrendered with [illegible] men, 1,400 horses, [illegible] rifles and a Krupp nine-pounder. Some of the leaders in more distant parts of the hills hesitate to come in, on the plea that they are independent of Gen. Prinsloo. Lord Roberts adds that he has directed Gen. Hunter to resume hostilities forthwith and to listen to no excuses.

COPPER WORKS NEAR SUDBURY

The First Step Now Being Taken Toward the Much Desired End.

The Orford Copper Company is making arrangements for further treating the copper-nickel ores raised by the Canada Copper Company from the mines in Sudbury.

Heretofore the ore was reduced to matte at Sudbury and sent to Constable Hook, New Jersey, for further treatment, but the Orford Company now proposes to erect machinery at Copper Cliff, calcining the matte. Every effort is being made to rush on the construction, and machinery is being taken in from Europe, United States and Canada, and it is anticipated that the plant will be in operation this fall.

Fifty men or more will find employment in the calcine works. Three weeks ago Mr. V. Hydrinette, manager of the Orford Company, visited Sudbury and approved of the scheme. Mr. Moffatt, of the Orford Mining Company is in charge.

Calcining is but a small step towards reduction, but this move of the company is looked upon as the first step towards the erection of complete copper works in Canada. It is one of the fruits of the Ontario Government's mining policy.

GIVEN ALL HARD WORK

Sergt. Metcalfe Tells of the Many Hardships Endured by the Boys.

Kingston, Ont., July 31.—Writing to friends here Sergt. Metcalfe, C. M. R., says, "The Canadians are given all the hard work to do. Hard duty is never fewer with them, but there work, and their manner of performing it, finds favour with Lord Roberts. From the time they left Bloemfontein until Pretoria was reached, the Canadian Mounted Rifles fought fourteen battles and after reaching Pretoria they had two days of hard fighting. The army and transport service [illegible] when Lord Roberts says so. The C. M. R. were offered positions on the Mounted Police there and in the railroad services, which a great many of the Toronto squad accepted. Out of 33 in Sergt. Metcalfe's troop only 17 were on duty, the balance being laid up sick.

HUNTING FOR AN ARMY.

Ottawa, Ont., July 31.—Lieut. Stewart, of the Ottawa company of the Royal Canadian Regiment, who was left on duty at Bloemfontein when Lord Roberts started north, writes from Johannesburg, June 2nd, as follows—

"I left Bloemfontein about twelve days ago, and only caught the regiment yesterday. We came along with a convoy, and as there were three officers (including myself) we had a pleasant trip. You have no idea how hard it is to find even a division of 110,000 when they are on the move. After we crossed the Vaal, which we did only a day behind Lord Roberts, the convoy we were with had orders to push straight on to Johannesburg, which we heard had fallen. We did this to the letter, as we passed the army in the night and made straight for the town, which was then full of Boers. We had got within tow miles of the city when and could see the Boers trying to get around behind us to cut us off. We then saw the mistake we had made, got the convoy turned round—which took some time, as there are eighteen oxen to a wagon, and we had ten wagons—and started back as hard as we could go, with the Boers after us. We managed to get away all the wagons but one, the last, which they captured, and as luck would have it, that waggon contained all Lieut. Pelletier's baggage; so that you see that we had a close shave. We have hadg reat fun since talking about ten waggons with only two men with rifles trying to capture Johannesburg, a day before it surrendered to Lord Roberts. Our convoy, however, was in the procession, headed by Lord Roberts, which entered the city the morning it surrendered; so that although we missed the engagement, our regiment was in on the 29th of May, we had had a little engagement of our own and entered the town with the main army."

THE SOUTH AFRICAN WAR.

The war in South Africa is, to a large extent, overshadowed by the more important and more serious events transpiring in China, so the news from the late Boer republics comes to us mainly in condensed driblets. Unfortunately, however, the reports that reach us are not altogether of a satisfactory or reassuring nature. Everyone expected, after the fall of Pretoria and the flight of the Boer forces, that the war would have ended before this; but not only do the Boers refuse to surrender but they keep on fighting with a grim determination and have scored several minor victories of late. They turn up in most unexpected places and capture exposed British outposts, or cut the railways, or seize supply trains, and then slip out of the way before a stronger force can be got together to deal with them. True, they are being gradually forced back into the more mountainous districts by Lord Roberts, but they invariably manage to get off with all their guns and supplies, and they are evidently in a position to keep up this guerilla warfare for six months longer if they are disposed to do so. Gens. Botha and De Wett, who have displayed astonishingly able generalship during the past few weeks, are said to have 15,000 men under them, and as they are well equipped with abundance of supplies, guns and ammunition, one can easily understand that they are capable of doing much mischief from their mountain fastness unless Lord Roberts can manage to pay them off speedily in their own coin. The British public are waiting with some impatience for an effective blow to be struck by the large army now in South Africa.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

This is how a Chinese writer describes the Canadians in a Chinese paper,—"They live months without eating a mouthful of rice; they eat bullocks and sheep in immense quantities, with knives and prongs. They never enjoy themselves by sitting quietly on their ancestors' graves, but jump around and kick balls, as if paid for it, and they have no dignity, for they may be found walking with women."

FELLING FOREST GIANTS

Methods Used in Cutting Down the Redwoods of California.

It is a most interesting sight to behold one of these giant redwoods fall. The process of cutting is effected through the use of the ax and the saw. All axes are double faced, through which much time is saved in sharpening. Sometimes the axes start the cut on both sides and work out of places about opposite each other through the thickness of the tree. After the choppers have penetrated to the depth of about two feet on each side the saw is started in the line of the incision and the job completed with that instrument. Generally, however, the direction in which the tree is to fall is determined and the cut is made in that side to the depth of one or three feet. Then the choppers pass to the opposite side and begin sawing at a point several feet higher than the plane of the incision. As the saw moves through the heart of the giant he begins to sag down on the side where the wound is gaping. In doing this he [illegible] the cut and opens the section which the saw is making, thereby leaving free play for the saw. This is aided at times by driving wedges at the place where the saw entered.

Presently it is apparent that the section is opening wider and wider and that the tree is beginning to lean away from the cutters. They continue with their work a moment longer, then is heard the cracking of the wood fibers in front of the saw teeth. Another swish of the saw, and these increase. They give a report like firing pistols and the rapidity of detonation of a Gatling gun. The sounds, getting more rapid, presently merge into a continuous roar. Then if you are standing near by and the tree is large you will get the impression that everything above is coming to earth, that the whole forest is falling. The great mast starts slowly to topple, cracking and exploding ever louder at its base, until with a fearful momentum it comes sprawling down, cracking and crashing and roaring and hitting the earth with a clamp and thump as if a whole broadside of 13 inch bombs had simultaneously struck a bastion.

The choppers quickly run over the trunk with their axes and cut away all the branches. Almost before you can recover yourself the long stalk is bare of limbs, and then the men begin cross cutting it into logs or sections of from 24 to 30 feet, as long as it is desired that the boards into which it is to be reduced at the mill shall be. This done, the logs are peeled of their bark, the crowbar being used to pry off the thick integument, which is sometimes a foot in depth, the log being turned with jackscrews when such is practicable to get at the under side.

SHE MADE MANY WILLS

One Woman's Plan For Living Well and Raising Family Enmities.

"Several years ago," said a New Orleans lawyer, chatting about queer experiences in his profession, "a woman died in this city who to my certain knowledge had made about 25 different wills. Of course there are people in the world who have a mania for will making, just as there are manias in other directions, but there was a distinct method in this woman's madness. She made her numerous wills for the deliberate purpose of exciting cupidity and then profiting by it, and if the true story of the curious complications growing out of that policy could be written it would form an astonishing chronicle of greed and duplicity.

"To begin with, she had a couple of pieces of improved property worth perhaps $6,000 and a lot of personal belongings which were mere junk and rubbish, but which she valued at a fabulous figure. Between the two she was reputed to be worth from $50,000 to $60,000, and there was much jealousy as to the prospective succession among a lot of distant relatives. The old woman's plan was to take up her quarters with some particular set of her kin and make a will in their favor. Needless to say, she would be treated with every consideration, but she was irascible and invariably got into a quarrel in the course of a few months and moved somewhere else, where the same programme was repeated. She spent years in migrations of that sort, going the rounds of her relatives several times and camping temporarily with numerous personal friends.

"When she finally died, it was found that her last authentic will left the coveted property to a niece who had shown her scarcely any attention at all, and the wail of rage and disappointment that arose was something simply terrific. I dare say she engendered more family bitterness when she was alive, precipitated more rows and was instrumental in causing a greater number of people to stop speaking when they passed by than any one person in the parish. This was an extreme case, but it was by no means unique. Almost every lawyer in town who has a large general practice could cite instances where judicious will making has kept old age surrounded by affectionate solicitude."—New Orleans Times Democrat.

Pretty Hot Stuff.

Colonel Bob Simmons manages to keep his eyes open by consuming a plentiful supply of birdseye peppers, which a superintendent of one of his numerous Louisiana plantations sends him weekly. Did you ever eat birdseye? It is a quarter inch in diameter, shaped like a double convex lens, with a black pupil and dark brown iris. The hottest sauce known to man is made of it.

The colonel delights in offering one to an acquaintance and watching furtively to see the tears come. He tried these on me. I bolted them and smiled, for there was no present heat. In an hour, after they had scorched the walls of my stomach and their fierce fire had crept up my esophagus to the roof of my mouth, I was crying as a baby. Quantities of milk but increased the terrification. The throat was a crematory. Water cold as ice scalded. My sufferings lasted a night, and I prayed that the colonel might never go to as hot a place as I was.—New York Press.

Shoes In Olden Days.

Early Britons wore shoes of raw cow hide, with the hairy surface outward. The Anglo-Saxons showed an advance, for they were black and laced by a leath or thong. Then came what might almost be termed the bag shoe of the Merovingian period, tied round the ankle, a similar easy sort of covering obtaining in Germany, and so by gradual stages from the medieval shoes to the poulaine shoes, a queer early German specimen, the band found the ankle being of engraved brass. The Irish shoe of early date is worthy of note, as for many years the Irish went not only barefooted, but barelegged while their bodies were most gorgeously arrayed.

Short Story of the Day

For Life and Death.

Neill Cameron had been my chum in dear old England. We had tried the Cape together, then Natal. But the quietude of business did not suit Neill. I was the plodder with the will to execute, he the man to scheme, yet never ready to settle down to the humdrum existence of everyday life. So after a brief stay in Durban he had bid me "au revoir," and when last I heard from him he was a financier (an elastic term that) in Johannesberg.

Engaged in business, I had ceased from wondering at his long silence until one morning a hospital orderly stepped into my store and handed me a curiously carried up missive—just a sheet of paper torn from a notebook and screwed into a bad imitatoin of a billet doux.

"Come and see me, old man. I'm badly hit and I'm waiting for a grip of the hand.—N.C."

That was all. Calling to my clerk, I crushed on my hat and lost no time in making my way to the little white building looking calmly down upon the rolling waters of the bay.

Matters were going badly with poor old Neill, so the nurse whispered. He was wounded well nigh to death, and it was simply a question whether his constitution would pull him through. But his face brightened when I drew a chair up to his side. He was the same old Neill, the bustle and rush had not spoilt him. His hand grip was the same, the same old boyish smile flickered over his face as he pressed my hand. But speech was forbidden, and it was a long time before I could get him to tell me his story. Even when he did, it came in disjointed sentences, and my being but a poor story teller has not improved it. Still I shall give it as nearly as I can remember it.

When Neill had left me, as I have told you, he had gone direct to Johannesburg. Things there had quieted down after the raid, but there was yet a current of unrest that finally culminated in the attack of the Boers and Free Staters upon Natal. I'm not here to tell the rights and wrongs of that. I'm only going to tell how my chum fared when the rush for safety came.

Neill had chummed up with another young Englishman there, Jim Darrell, and the pair had gone on their way, interfering with nobody, when the crash came. Their native servant was the first to bring them the warning, dropping in to tell Neill his arrest had been decided upon just as dusk was darking into night. Neill and Darrell lost no time in acting. Their money, notes, and securities were bundled into their bundled into their belts, and as luck would have it, they managed to board a Southern-bound train just as it left the station.

'Twas too late, however, to carry them right through. War had been declared and before they reached the frontier, all on the train, men, women and children, were bundled out by the roadside and left there. To return was almost certain death, to go forward was the only thing to do. So they considered matters, and finally they bought a couple of horses. Mile after mile was reeled off, and they were just congratulating themselves when a hoarse command to halt was roared out from the darkness ahead. Darrell pulled up in alarm. Then on the heels of the order came the thud of hoofs, and a couple of horsemen loomed up ahead.

"Ride 'em down," shouted Neill; "no questions. Dig in your spurs! There's only two of 'em!"

Hesitation would have been fatal. Together they plunged forward. The strangers divined their intentions, but too late. They attempted to separate, but in a moment they were cannoned into and horses and riders were rolling on the turf.

"For your lifes," yelled Neill, as he pulled his mount from its knees; "get out of range or we're dead men."

The darkness had swallowed them up before their fallen foes were able to recover their scattered senses. Then a few shots were fired after them, but at random, and they were enabled to draw rein slightly.

That was apparently adventure enough for one night, and when morning broke they were many miles upon their way. They pulling up behind a clump of trees they discussed the situation. Provisions they had none, but a thread of blue smoke in the distance proved the existance of a farmhouse. Was it worth the risk?

Hunger is a hard taskmaster, though, and at length they decided to chance capture in an attempt to secure a meal.

No good purpose could be served by waiting, so the pair of them cantered on to the little house nestling in a hollow in the veldt. As they drew nearer they could see a couple of black boys in the stockyard, but of the master never a sign.

"Let's dismount here," advised Neill, as they came up to the rude gateway in the fence. "A good general always looks after his retreat, and if you wait here we'll get a fair start if there's trouble ahead."

Darrell could not object, so he drew up and waited, bridle in hand, as Neill strode up to the door and rattled at the lock.

'Twas a crucial moment. Was it to be peace or war?

There was no reply for an instant. Then the door was thrown wide open, and before a word could be spoken Cameron found himself looking down the barrel of a rifle. Behind was a Boer lad of about 16, his finger on the trigger. His lips parted in a curse and his cheek dropped upon the stock. With a bound Neill sprang upon him, ducking as he dashed in, and the bullet flew harmlessly overhead. In another instant he had flung the youth to the ground and had wrenched his weapon from his grasp.

"I don't want to hurt you, my boy," he remarked, as he drew his revolver from his belt, "but put up your hands, and make no mistake about it either."

Sullenly the youth complied. Stepping to his side Cameron unslung the cartridge belt from his shoulder, and his knife from its sheath. With a call to Darrell, he steadily kept the muzzle of his pistol in line with his eye ... he was taking no chances just then.

It didn't take Jim long before he had lashed the prisoner securely. Then they stepped inside the kitchen. Of life there were no signs. Dried beef was on the table. In the corner was another rifle and a belt of cartridges—that was all. Neill smiled.

"Pick up that rifle," he said, "collar the beef, and we'll breakfast as we go along. By all appearances the old man's not far away."

He had scarcely finished speaking when there was a heavy tread outside and a shadow crossed the window. Darrell dropped the meat and sprang to the rifle. To fight would have been madness, but, throwing a glance over his shoulder, Neill noticed an open door. A few steps carried him through, and dashing round the corner of the house as they ran for their horses.

"We've lost our breakfast," laughed Darrell, as he threw his leg over the saddle, "but we've made a pretty good deal considering. Look at our friends, too."

Across the stockyard a couple of figures dashed as the horses sprang forward. Father and son, no doubt; but their teeth were drawn, as no shots were fired.

Away in front of the gallopers stretched a low line of hills, the advance guard of the rocky range that borders the Natal boundary. There was the hardest part of the journey. There was scarcely a doubt but that the Boers would have a line of patrols for the greater part of its length.

Steering by a compass he had upon his watchchain (a present from his mother, by the way), Neill shaped his course so as to strike the pass that ran through the range to Glencoe and Newcastle. A couple of hours steady riding, and they turned the spur of the hills.

A rest and a smoke was all they could treat themselves to, then on again but at a foot pace. Steadily they passed along. Hour after hour passed, first noon, then dusk again.

"A lively lookout!" growled Darrell, "no grub, not even a bit of dried stuff. Confound that Boer. Why couldn't he have waited till I'd pocketled the stuff!"

"Hush!" whispered Neill, who was just ahead. "Do you hear anything?"

Darrell drew his bridle tight, and listened intently.

"Believe I do!" he replied in the same strained tone; "right away ahead. But they're moving off, I fancy."

There was a confused murmur from the front, and slipping from their saddles the comrades loosened their revolvers and gripped their rifles tightly. Moments dragged as long as hours. Would their suspense never end?

Suddenly Darrell's horse threw his head in the air and a neigh shrilled out upon the night.

"Leave him!" cried Neill, as he dropped his bridle, "follow me. The game's up!"

There came a shout from the left as the friends raced for a kopje that reared its head above the surrounding boulders. Then, blundering over the stones, came a party of mounted Boers, bellowing curses as they rode for the horses. But Neill and Jim had secured a good start, and throwing themselves behind a convenient rock, hoped they might escape detection.

Soon, however, the Boers found their quarry had escaped, but where? Half a dozen were out of their saddles in a moment, running to and fro as they attempted to trace footprints on the softer ground. The Englishmen lay and watched them breathlessly. Suddenly there was a shout and a rush, their tracks had been discoverde... 'twould be a battle to the death!

"Sorry, old man," whispered Neill as he gripped his comrade's hand, "but I'm afraid it's all up. We'll fight as long as our cartridges last, and then,—well, we'll show the beggars that Britons know how to die anyhow."

Rising as he spoke, he shouted to the advancing party to halt. A rifle shot was the reply, and his hat went circling into the air. Half an inch lower, and this story would never have been told.

"No quarter, eh?" growled Darrell through his teeth. "Lie low and mark your men."

But the Boers had learnt caution. From rock to rock they crawled forward, firing as they crept from cover to cover. Jim and Neill were not idle, though, and more than one figure plunged forward heavily.

Splinters flew as the bullets pattered like hail round the friends. Neill was bleeding from a cut over the temple, Jim had twisted his handkerchief round a badly grazed wrist. Not a word was spoken. There was naught but the click of the magazines, and the yelping bark of the Mausers.

"Give 'em all they want!" cheered Neill at last. "There's only about 30 against us two, and I guess we've laid out half a dozen. Ah, would you?" and a Boer who had incautiously showed himself against the skyline came to earth with a thud.

Fiercely waged the fight. Their rifles were hot enough to blister their fingers. And then, with a gasping groan, Darrell plunged forward upon his face. A convulsive shudder, a last attempt to raise himself, and the gallant fellow fell back, dead.

Neill set his teeth with a muttered curse. Alone, what chance had he? None! But his bulldog courage steeled his nerves. A bullet searde his shoulder like the touch of a heated iron, another grazed his ribs, but he scarce heedde the pain.

Once—twice—three times he fired. Each bullet found a billet. His foes were paying a terrible price for the life they sought. Again and again a form would loom up but a few yards distant, then it would faall, to rise to rise no more.

So the minutes winged their leaden way along. Clip! Clip! the messengers of death sang through the air. Then there was a shrill whistle from back and front, a rush of hurrying feet, a confused struggle, a rattle of shots and then—oblivion.

That's where Neill's story finished. He remembered no more. But from the nurse I learnt that a scouting party of our lads had been attracted to the spot by the sound of firing. They had arrived in the nick of time. Neill was down, desperately wounded, as they came on the scene, but a very few moments sufficed to turn the tide.

Darrell, poor fellow, was left where he fell. Cameron was brought to Glencoe, and from there sent back to the coast. That's my story. Truth is straner tghan fiction—occasionally.

Hutch in Barrie.

W. E. Wismer, Phm. B., is a druggist, of Barrie, Ont., whose splendid establishment and large practice mark him as an aggressive pharmaceutical authority—This is what he says of Hutch:—

"As regards the sale of Hutch it is simply wonderful, several times I have been sold right out after receiving a generous supply from the wholesale. It is one of the very few things a retail druggist may order in quarter and half-gross lots with perfect safety.

"As regards its efficacy I have yet to meet a person who does not say 'there is something in it' after having used the tablets.

"Only yesterday on enquiring as to its virtues a traveller said, 'until Hutch was introduced I could get nothing to relieve me and was a thoroughbred dyspeptic. Hutch cured me.' This is only one instance of the very many good things said about Hutch. Another proof of its value is that people always come back for a second package. Knowing that a genuine article is sure to succeed, I remain, yours truly, "W. E. WISMER, Phm. B."

The wonderful—almost startling—cures that Hutch is making, its overwhelming endorsation by the public, by scientific experts, and men thoroughly well versed in their knowledge of what cures, marks it as the very best cure for dyspepsia, constipation, and stomach disorders extant.

Sudden Death

Mr. P. Hogan, of the Albion Hotel, Ashburnham, received a dispatch on Monday evening announcing the death of his sister, Mrs. Murphy, which took place at Oscela, Michigan. The deceased was a former resident of Peterborough.

Died of Pneumonia.

Announcing the death of Mrs. D. J Roszel, sister-in-law of Chief Roszel, the Brantford Currier says.—"The death occurred at the hospital this morning of Mrs. D. J. Roszel, after an illness from pneumonia of only one week's duration. Mrs. Roszel was formerly Miss Esther Robson, daughter of late John Robson, of Caistor Township, and had many friends in that vicinity as well as in the city. To the bereaved husband sincere sympathy will be extended."

A Nineteen Pounder.

Mr. Harry LeBrun, who is spending a few days with his family at his handsome cottage in Sotuy Lake, succeeded in landing a nineteen pound ~~ on Monday. Just how it was done, no one will ever know, for Harry's vocabulary is totally at fauly in attempting to describe the landing of monster. After the first few seconds, and when the fish came to the side of the boat, there was a fierce battle. Harry tried to pull it in over the side of the canoe, but it was no go, and for a time it was an even thing as to whether the fish would pull Harry in or the other way about. The struggle was watched by many on the islands, and when at last the monster was captured there were exclamations coming from the fishermen that would break the press to print. This no doubt is the largest fish captured this season.

A July Wedding.

A very pretty wedding was celebrated yesterday morning at the White House, Charlotte street, when Miss Catherine White, youngest daughter of Robert White, Esq., was united in marriage to Mr. Fred J. Bell, son of Capt John Bell of Winnipeg, and formerly of the Canadian General electric Company, town, and now holding a responsible position with the Company in Montreal. The Nupital Knot was tied by Rev. Father O'Sullivan in the presence of the immediate friends of the contracting parties. The bride was bewitchingly attired in a wedding gown of white organdie, was attended as bridesmaid by her sister, Miss Margaret White, and her niece, Miss M. Lawrence. The bridesmaids were also attired in white organdie. Mr. Gus White supported the groom. After the ceremony and congratulations had been extended, an elaborate dejeuner was served and Mr. and Mrs. Bell left on the 11.27 C. P. R. express for Kingston. They will spend a few weeks at the Limestone City and among the Thousand Islands before going to Montreal, where they will reside at 326 Manse St. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. Lawrence, Miss Irene Lawrence, Miss J. Lawrence and Capt. John Bell, father of the groom, of Winnipeg. The wedding gifts were very handsome, and represented the good wishes of a large circle of friends.

Needless to say the country at large is aware of the harrowing experiences encountered in controlling the bike. One of our young ladies, who is visiting here from Peterborough, and who is all but an expert, or has recently been made aware of that fact. Though not seriously hurt the memory of her narrow escape will always deter her from passing too quickly over rough bridges.

CAUGHT THE WORM.

That Gnaws Under Cover.

"I have had quite an experience with the use of coffee. Without knowing why, I gradually became seriously constipated, with all the disagreeable effects of this most aggravating disease. I was also bilious and stomach badly out of order.

"I had no idea of the cause and kept using coffee every morning.

"One day a friend to whom I spoke of my troubles, remarked that perhaps I would find the cause in the coffee cup and suggested the use of Postum Cereal Food Coffee. I was impressed with his remarks and made the change from coffee to Postum. The old troubles have nearly all disappeared, and I am one of the happiest mortals you ever saw. I have proved to my entire satisfaction that coffee was the unsuspected cause of the difficulty and while it nearly ruined my health for a time, I have practically recovered again by the discontinuance of coffee.

"I have known a number of persons who have been driven away from Postum because it came to the table weak and characterless. It simply was not made right, and it would be the same with any other kind of drink, tea, coffee, soups, etc. Postum, when made according to directions, is a delightful beverage.

"There are a large number of people in this surrounding country who are using Postum, and their number is increasing daily. It is a sort of stampede. Store after store is putting in a stock of Postum that never thought of such a thing before.

"I enclose a list of twenty or thirty names of those that I know of as users of Postum, among my immediate acquaintances. Do not use my name, please." J. M. G., Box 72, Jefferson, Wis.

AT HOME ONCE MORE

The Break-up of the Y. M. C. A. Camp at Clear Lake.

Y.M.C.A. Building, July 31.

Here we are again, glad to see our friends, though very sorry to leave the camp.

That you may know how we have fared since my last letter, let me take you back to the time it was despatched.

On Sunday evening a number attended the song service at Juniper Island. Coming home two of them got lost and after several hours' paddling were taken commission on by one of the cottagers, who kept them over night, and set them on the right track in the morning.

The boys who remained on the beach gathered on the point and sung until bed-time.

As usual Roy failed to return, and Archie also becoming charmed by the company he was in, didn't put in an appearance until last evening.

Monday morning the first bell for breakfast seemed to be mistaken for the signal of a pillow battle which took place and which was quite beyond description. Almost everyone in camp was in action either with his own pillow for a weapon or one he had taken from an opponent. The pillow-cases proving to frail for this kind of usage. They were torn off and before long the inner covering also began to give way and the feathers flew in every direction. A snapshot was taken of them pelting one another, dressed only in their nightrobes.

After breakfast our visitors, for want of something to do, began nicking our table knives by placing one knife on the table with edge up and striking it with another. He soon had half a dozen helping him and things began to look bad for the knives, when our secretary got wind of it and lost no time in putting a stop to it.

During yesterday, about a dozen boys went out picking berries to bring home with them, as red black and thimble berries are very plentiful all around camp. They had no difficulty in filling the articles used to hold them, one filled our bread box, another a biscuit box and so on.

In the afternoon those desiring any rest before returning home, took a nap, expectin gan all night carouse.

A gentleman who is camping with several ladies in that vicinity sent down a pail of jam. He said the ladies didn't care for it but he thought perhaps the boys would like it. It was served out at tea. A few tasted it, and "Pain-killer" was in great demand.

All hands gathered around the stove in the evening and watched "Jimmy" pop corn until a late hour.

As they boys retired to their tents they might of been observed smuggling in clubs and bowlders of all sizes, and before very long many of them were in use.

A crowd of rattle brains, headed by the man who started the knife nicking business, began making raids on the different tents. The jam which had been discarded at tea time as unfit to eat, was used as a poultice on a great many unsuspecting victims. Between the water and jam they threw around they managed to ruin several suits of clothes. As they appeared to have entirely taken leave of of their senses, the camp leaders turned out to defend the tents. A sharp engagement ensued and might have proved somewhat serious had not "Bobs" appeared upon the scene. A few brief commands from him accomplished more than the physical force of the whole party. The boys sneaked off to their tents and didn't venture out again until daylight, as they knew "Bobs" meant it when he said he would "chuck them in the lake."

At five o'clock everyone was aroused and the baggage prepared and transported to Winn's landing. Here the buses were waiting for us and by half past seven we were on our way home.

A stop of fifteen minutes was made at Lakefield, where the boys laid in a good supply of candies and nuts.

We arrived at the building about eleven o'clock and the boys lost no time in dispersing. Nearly all are sleeping this afternoon to make up for last night.

THE TIMES LETTER BOX

Letters from the People on Interesting Topics.

(NOTE.—The Times does not hold itself in any way responsible for the opinions expressed by its correspondents.—Ed. Times.)

Ashamed of It.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I see Mr. S. Anglesy, baker, has written a letter to one of your contemporaries stating that he is not responsible for the raise in the price of bread. He says that some bakers have been "traducing" him and trying to injure his business by telling people that he got the price of bread raised.

Now, sir, I was one who heard this story, and was told that Mr. A. did his work quietly. He was too cute to say much at the meeting, but I am informed that he helped to "work it up."

Now, Sir, it appears to me that Mr. A. has grace enough to feel ashamed of the conduct of the bakers, and little wonder, for there is no occasion for a higher price than ten cents for bread at present.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I am, etc.,
A WORKING MAN.

The Price of Bread.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—The price of bread has been raised to twelve cents per four pound loaf in Peterborough. Will the Times please tell its readers what profit this gives the baker? How many loaves are made from a bag of flour?

E. JOHNSTON.

Ans.—Sound flour yields 94 four lb. loaves to an English sack of 280 lbs. of flour. The flour costs about $6.25, and other articles, such as potatoes, etc., say 50c., making in all $6.75. Ninety-four loaves, at 12c. per loaf, is $11.28, leaving $4.53 to pay for manufacture. In the above we have figured flour at current prices to ordinary customers. Bakers, by reason of their buying in large quantities, get it considerably cheaper. Not only this, but many of them use an inferior grade of flour, which would still reduce the price. Suppose a baker used ten sacks of flour per day, or 60 sacks per week, he would have a gross profit of $45.30 per day, or $271.80 per week. Out of this of course he has to pay his help, rent, fuel, etc.

The Ledger Monthly for August.

On the cover of the August number of the Ledger Monthly is a colored picture of a piquant country girl, a sprig of hay between her smiling lips, giving her an arch expression, with the humorous title "A Hayseed." The frontispiece is a characteristic Southern scene, an old Virginia-colored parson meeting two members of his flock in a two-wheel ox cart and stopping to chat on the way. A special feature of this number is a double page of illustrations of old colonial taverns, with an interesting descriptive article by Waldon Fawcett. Two pages are given to sbcenes in Porto Rico, with descriptive text by F. C. Ober. The charming novelette, entitled "Through the Queen's Bequest," is by Julia Heelen Twells, Jr. "Aunt Wing's Carpet," by Louise Marah Morrison, is a pathetic story of New England village life. Edith Lawrence continues her pleasant, gossippy series entitled, "A New York Girl's News and Views." Mrs. Phebe W. Humphreys has as valuable article on "Home Training for Our Girl's." Mrs. Gesine Lemcke has an article appropriate to the summer season, entitled "Many Kinds of Frozen Desserts," which is supplemented by "Delicacies for Hot Days," by Anna Wells Morrison, with illustrations. Fashions are neglected, even in the August number, but have two pages devoted to their illustration. All the usual departments of the Ledger Monthly are maintained, and although make up an unusually beautiful and attractive number. The price of the Ledger Monthly is 50 cents a year, 5 cents a copy. Robert Bonner's Sons, Publishers, Ledger Building, New York City.

To Get New Trade.

Many successful business men are able to make a fair estimate of the trade that is to be gained by advertising. They go in for it, increasing their "ad." space until they acheive the result they aim at. They consider a certain amount of newspaper advertising necessary to mere publicity—to show that they are alive. All beyond that is reaching out for new business.

DR. MORRISON HOLDS UP THE CHINESE GOVERNMENT TO THE WORLD AS GUILTY

A More Hopeful View of the Situation is now Taken in London

ADVANCE OF ALLIES ON PEKIN HAS STARTED

The Powers' Force Will Establish a Base Northwest of Pekin From Which to Strike a Direct Blow at Chinese Capital —They Have 30,000 Men

London, Aug. 2. 4 a.m. At last the story of Pekin has been told. Mr. Morrison in to-days Times hold up the Chinese Government before the world as guilty and to a degree of infamy and duplicaty that exceeds surmise of the worst detraction and in the same despatch he gives a more hopeful view of the besieged than has been expressed by any of the others who have been heard from. Simultaneously there comes from the state of affairs at Shanghai an official statement that the allies are expected to reach Pekin about a week they being 18 miles from Tien Tsin yesterday. Another letter has been received at Tien Tsin from the British Minister Sir Claude Macdonald, dated July 24. "We are surrounded by Imperial troops," he writes, "who are firing on us continuously. We have provisions enought to last about a fortnight and are eating our forces. The Chinese government has done nothing whatever to help us. If the Chinese do not press the attack we can hold out for, say 10 days not no time should be lost, if a terrible massacre is to be avoided."

London, Aug. 3.

The Vienna correspondent of the Chronicle wiring yesterday says. A rumor has reached here from Belgrade that an attempt was made to assassinate King Alexander that afternoon while he was driving through the town.

It is said he was shot, but was not injured. The rumor is unconfirmed.

London, July 2.

At last Sir George Ernest Morrison the famous Pekin correspondent of the Times has been heard from direct. The Times this morning prints the following despatch from him dated July 27: "There has been cessation of hostilities here, Pekin, since July 18 but for fear of treachery, there has been no relaxation of vigilance. The Chinese soldiers continue to strengthen the barricades around the besieged and also batteries on top of the Imperial City wall but in the meantime they have discontinued firing, probably because they are short of ammunition. The main bodies of the Imperial bodies have left Pekin in order to meet relief forces. Supplies are beginning to come in and the condition of the besieged is improving. The wounded are doing well. Our hospital arrangements are admirable and 150 cases have passed through the hospital.

London, Aug. 2.—"The allies began the advance from Tien Tsin this morning," announces an agency bulletin dated at Shanghai at 11.10 a.m. to-day. It is assumed that the Americans, the British and the Japanese are taking part in this foreward movement, whether the other nationalities be established twenty or thirty miles nearer Pekin, and supplies will be assembled preparatory to a direct stroke at the capital.

Of the 60,000 allies debarked at Pe Chi Li ports, English military observers consider that 30,000 are available for advance beyond Tien Tsin. The Chinese forces, according to the vague gatherings of the allies' intelligence officers up to July 27th, were disposed in a great arc, thirty miles long, and distant ten or fifteen miles. The number and exact location of the several divisions are utterly unknown.

The Pei Ho River is blockaded by sunken, stone-laden junks for twenty miles beyond Tien Tsin, and farther up, according to Chinese spies of the allies, a dam has been constructed for the purpose of flooding the low-lying expanse of the country.

SEYMOUR IN COMMAND

Asked by Consuls to Defend Shanghai, but the Municipal Council Objects.

London, Aug. 1.—Shanghai telegrams of this date say the foreign consuls met yesterday and decided to invite Admiral Seymour to take command of the Shanghai defences. The admiral promised to draw up plans and submit them to a council of officers. The Shanghai Municipal Council objects to the consular action.

The British second infantry brigade has been ordered to debark at Hong Kong to form a flying column to serve anywhere in China.

Two more transports with Indian troops on board are due to arrive to-day.

The customs offices at Canton have seized a Chinese junk which had 2,000 rifles and much ammunition aboard.

WHAT LI HAS DONE

Correspondence Between the Viceroys and the Chinese Government Made Public.

Washington, Aug. 1.—The Chinese Minister to-day presented to Secretary Hay some of the latest correspondence that has passed between Li Hung Chang and the Chinese Government.

On July 19th Li Hung Chang and several of the most influential Viceroys memorialised the Emperor to extend protection to all foreigners in China.

The reply was delayed for some time and the Viceroys presented another petition asking that the Ministers should be given safe escort from Pekin or that free communication should be opened between them and their Governments.

The reply to this last memorial has not been received, but after its despatch by the Viceroys Li Hung Chang received an answer to the first memorial, in which the Emperor by Imperial edict ordered all loyal Chinese to protect foreigners in the Empire.

PEKIN IS NOT STRONG

Food Scarce and the City Unable to Endure a Siege—General Mah Killed.

London, Aug. 1.—A Chinese missionary student who was sent to the British Legation at Pekin, but was unable to deliver the message entrusted to him, and left Pekin July 18th saw a few troops between Pekin and Yang Tsun. No works has been constructed. Food in Pekin was scarce, and the city would be quite unable to endure a siege.

Among the scraps of information brought by another counter, who left Pekin July 14th, was the fact that General Mah, a notable Boxer chief, had been killed by the legationers.

RUSSIA'S HANDS FULL

The Chinese Keeping the Czar's Soldiers Near Port Arthur Very Busy.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 1.—Official despatches from the Far East continue to show that Russian military commanders there have all they can do to cope with armed Chinese in the territory adjacent to Port Arthur. Russian detachments are seeking to disarm the natives.

REBELS HOLD PAO TING FU

Fresh Fears Felt That the Missionaries There Have Been Massacred.

Chefoo, Aug. 1.—The Governor of Shan Tung has telegraphed to United States Consul Fowler that the Tsung Li Yamen directs him to notify the consuls that "as the military operations at Pekin and Tien Tsin are unsettled," only messages in plain language, without cipher or reference to military affairs, will be delivered to the Ministers.

The Governor says that the rebels occupy Pao Ting Fu and Consul Fowler fears that the missionaries there have been murdered.

ORDERS TO ADVANCE

American Commander Advised of Reinforcements—Japanese Preparations Being Hurried.

Tien Tsin, Aug. 1.—The American commander has received orders from Washington not to delay the advance on Pekin. He was also informed that heavy reinforcements were on route.

Great activity is noticeable at Japanese headquarters. Transport preparations are being hurried. It is extremely unlikely that either the Japanese or the British intend to be left behind the allies, though the British preparations are a long way from being complete. The Japanese organization, on the other hand, excites the admiration of all.

The total strength of the allies here is 17,000. Reinforcements are arriving daily.

REPORT ON THE FIRST RIFLES

Letter From Col. Lessard Telling of the Bravery of Two Canadians in Swimming a River in the Face of the Enemy

Ottawa, Aug. 1.—Lieut.-Col. Lessard commanding the first Battalion of Canadian Mounted Rifles, writes to Col. Foster, Quartermaster-General from Bloemfontein, under date of June 2nd. He gives a narrative of the movement of the troops from the time they left Canada to their arrival at Bloemfontein. There is little in it that has not been well covered by newspaper letter and reports.

He mentions the different engagements in which the battalion was engaged, and makes special mention of the conduct of Lieuts. Borden and Turner, in swimming the Veit River "On the other side," said Col. Lessard, "were 40 or 50 of the enemy entrenched in a stone wall. The remainder of B Squadron was then ordered to mount and cross the river. A crossing was effected under a pretty sharp rifle fire, and in conjunction with the First Mounted Infantry on our right and left. As soon as the enemy saw us in possession they retired."

Col. Lessard in his letter refers to Lord Roberts congratulating the troops. He also adds that on date of writing there were 78 of his men on the sick list from fever and dysentry, two had died of disease and one had suicided.

BOUND TO BLOCK INTERNATIONALS

Chinese Government Employing Every Diplomatic Device to Prevent the Advance to Pekin

Washington, Aug. 1.—The safety of the ministers at Pekin being temporarily assured, the attention of the government is now being directed toward two objects, first, to effect the permanent safety of the ministers by bringing them away from Pekin; and, second, to hasten the advance on the Chinese capital. The Chinese Government is employing every device diplomatically to prevent the forward movement of the international column. Li Hung Chang is the main reliance to encompass this purpose, but he is hampered by the obtuseness of the Pekin officials. The United States Government is willing to render such assistance as it properly can, but it must be upon the terms already laid down.

It is said here that the possible one means of stopping the forward movement of the column within the reach of the Chinese Government is an instant compliance with the first of the demands of the powers, namely, that the ministers be put in free communication with their governments. It has been suggested to the Pekin authorities that they send an embassy immediately to Tien Tsin clothed with full authority to deal with the situation and given unlimited power to afford paration for the injuries inflicted upon the internationals if this is preceded by the release of the ministers from seige, there is possibility that the powers temporarily will suspend the military movemenmt, which may in the end be rendered nunecessary if the embassy shall meet the demands of Europe and America.

Meanwhile Admiral Remey cables that more marines—those who crossed on the Grant under Major Biddle—are being sent to Tien Tsin, indicating the intention of the military commanders there to make an early start.

The advices from Li Hung Chang, brought to the State Department to-day by Minister Wu, afford strong evidence of the desire of the Chinese Government to escape from its present predicament, and certainly seem to afford a reasonable guarantee for the bodily safety to the legations, pending the outcome of negotiations respecting the abandonment of the Pekin campaign.

NOTHING OF IMPORTANCE FROM SOUTH AFRICA

Ex-President Kruger Carried off all the Gold He Could Gather up

THE PRETORIA BOERS ARE INCENSED AT HIM

The Capture of De Wet is Looked for With Much Anxiety, as His Surrender, it is Hoped, Will Put an End to the Resistance of the Boers

London, Aug. 1.—The surrender of one thousand men of Gen. Prinsloo's army has not thus far led to any further successes to British arms. With Prinsloo's force, and Broadwood and Methuen after De Wet there is reason to look for another capture before very long. The disagreement among the commandos that were under General Prinsloo and the refusal of the larger number of the men to surrender in accordance with his undertaking leaves the impression that he was driven to a very tight corner when he gave up. The authority of this leader is not of the highest among the Boers. He was blamed by them for the capture of Cronje at Paardeberg, because after taking a convoy at Dekil's Drift he went onto Bloemfontein, instead of hurrying to the assistance of Cronje. He was court-martialled for that error, but was subsequently pardoned and restored to his command. These facts no doubt have had influence with that portion of his army which have refused to recognize his authority.

That dissatisfaction exists among the Boers with Kruger is not a matter for surprise. The President, after gathering up all the gold he could, left his old friends to stagger along financially with the paper money of the South African Republic, which, he tells them, is as good as Bank of England notes. The situation is becoming daily more difficult for the enemy on all sides, and the capture of De Wet will probably have a decisive effect upon the war.

BOERS SOUR ON KRUGER

He Took Their Gold and Left Them South African Paper Money.

Pretoria, July 31.—The Boer animosity to President Kruger grows on account of the fact that he and his officials are persuading the people that South African Republic paper money is as good as Bank on inalienable State securities even though the State should be conquered. As the English have not recognized this contention, many burghers have been ruined and inutterable misery prevails. The wives and children of the poorer Boers are almost starving.

Gen. Botha's force is kept together by extraordinary inventions. This correspondent has seen an official circular asserting that Lord Roberts was forced to retreat south of the Vaal, and that Lady Roberts escaped in a balloon.

KRUGER AND THE GOLD

The Old President Was Guilty of Daylight Robbery.

London, Aug. 1.—Continuing his narration of how the President robbed his burghers, Mr. Douglas Story says;

Careful and intimate research shows that twenty-five cases of gold were taken from the Ferreira mine on May 19 and sent down the line. On May 20 thirty-six cases were sent as from the Netherlands Bank to Flushing, in Holland. On the 21st forty-six cases followed, and on the 26th thirty-three were consigned to the Banque Francaise de l'Afrique du Sud, in Paris. On May 27, Sunday, seventy-eight large cases—empty grocery boxes—were carried eastward, and on the 29th the Secretary of the Secret Cabinet escorted thirty cases towards Delagoa Bay.

As the Government insure their gold boxes at £4,000 per case, it is fair to assume that these consignments of gold, with that of Mr. Smuts, represent at least £1,787,000—Paul Kruger's souvenir of Pretoria.

There are other more dramatic phases of his departure, but to the business man this cool misappropriation of Government moneys may appear as eloquent as any other.

THE MASSEY-HARRIS STRIKE.

To The Farmers and All Who Earn Their Bread by Honest Toil.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—We once more feel it our duty to set before you a clear exposition of a few things that have transpired in connection with the strike between the Massey-Harris Co. and their moulders. We will also endeavor to set plainly before you, some of the enormous profits made by this soulless corporation. We will give you a brief outline of two circulars we have already issued, and then enter more fully into some of the actions and profits not yet mentioned. It was shown by the first pamphlet when the Liberal Government came into power, that the duties on raw material used in the construction of agricultural implements, was materially reduced. You farmers know whether the price of machines has been reduced or not. We working men have been pressed hard to make them for less; so you can see the Company's profits must have been larger than ever. But as men grow richer, their hearts grow smaller. They become so greedy they would like to have their machines made for nothing, and still sell them at an enormous price.

It has been clearly shown that a binder costs them less than $40.00, and it generally sells for $125.00; a mower costs them less than $20.00 and sells for $60.00.

You can easily see how the Massey-Harris Co. got their money to become the controlling power in the following industries—Massey-Harris Co., Toronto; Massey-Harris Co., Brantford; Sawyer-Massey Engine Works Co., Hamilton; Verity Plow Co., Brantford; Bain Waggon Co., Woodstock; Canada Motor & Cycle Co., Toronto; Canada Motor & Cycle Co., Brantford.

If there is not something done to put a stop to the enormous profits of this mammoth concern, it will be but a short time till they have a controlling interest in all the industries of Canada. Yet, if the farmers and working men would get together, and run their own business co-operatively, a machine could be sold for half the present price, and the working man could have double the wages he now receives. We allow such concerns as the Massey-Harris Co. to be the controlling power in everything. The Courts, the Parties and even the Church is directed to a considerable extent, according to the dictates of the people to whom we have given the power to become great and wealthy by appropriations which rightfully belong to honest toil.

Some may [illegible] this last paragraph, but we will try and prove all we say.

When we left the employ of the Massey-Harris Co., only a few days passed before some of the officers of the Iron Moulders' Union were served with injunctions which forbade them, even speaking to their fellow men. Time and space will not allow us to go fully into this subject, but it is to be hoped the readers of this will concern themselves enough to look up the question; for we assert, without fear of contradiction, that there is not a more despotic law in the Czar's domain.

Of course some of the men who have been lured into going before a lawyer and swearing out false affidavits (which appear as evidence against the one under injunction) have been up in court for perjury, but the excuse was, that "the original affidavit being at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, nothing could be done at present." When one of these men was asked if he was not afraid of "going down for a few years," he replied that "the firm had that fixed all right." An injunction is in the interest of capital only, and prevents the one under it from taking men from the firm, that applies for it, at any cost; while this firm in question, has taken men from Noxon Bros. of Ingersoll, who had agreements with this latter company in their pockets. They brought these men, who could so wantonly violate an agreement, to Brantford, and called them "respectable citizens." They armed them with revolvers, and we have been told by some of these men, that they were instructed to use them, if any of the striking moulders bothered them, and that the firm would stand by them to the extent of $100,000.

Most of the members of the Massey-Harris Co., are pillars in the several churches, yet when the Rev. Mr. Schofield of this city, took the platform in our behalf, some of these "pillars" made it so hot for him, that he deemed it wise to hand in his resignation. If a minister cannot preach to suit them, he must not preach at all. They turn a part of their factory into a boarding-house for the scabs, where on Sunday they play billiards and cards, temper their moulding sand, etc. One of the number became so drunk, that he was locked in the office safe, to sober up, and another shot off his revolver on the street and got arrested, the superintendent footed the bill.

They deceive the Farmers by filling slag-holes in the castings with gum-arabic, we had to make good castings or get out, but anything passes now. Pillars in churches, for money only! No wonder the good book says, "Ye have lived in pleasure on the earth, and have been wanton; ye have nourished your heart as in a day of slaughter."—James v. 5.

As was shown in another pamphlet, the estate of the late H. A. Massey was, at his death, entered for probate at nearly Four Million Dollars. It is estimated that the concerns controlled by the Massey-Harris Co., have, in thirty years, cleared in profits, $30,000,000.00, beyond the princely salaries paid to a large number of officials. Those connected with the firm, live like emperors, surrounded by all the luxuries that money can procure; and many of them are connected with banks, loan and insurance companies, etc. The workers socially produce, but the capitalists individually own the product, and this is what causes all the misery and want we see on all sides. We allow the money kings to force the politicians of the land to adopt such policies as will render their gains greater. Go to the Massey-Harris shops on election day, and you will see the voters driven to the poles like cattle to the slaughter.

Yet, fellow men, your vote would set you free, if used in the interest of labor instead of that of capital. We must rise above party ties for both parties are pledged to protect the enemy of labor. If the government were despotic to all men, it would be speedily abolished. Investigation shows us that the reason governments are despotic to the working class, is the simple fact that it is but the tool of the ruling class. The government is a pensioner on the capitalistic system.

"The power of gold holds full control,
It owns its victims life and soul."

We hear someone saying that the Massey-Harris Co. deserves some consideration from the citizens; that they paid nearly $300,000 in wages in Brantford last year. No, you farmers paid this, and let us see how much more you paid your agents, the Massey-Harris Co., for conveying this sum from you to us.

For the year 1899, the Brantford factory turned out:

10,500	Binders	$125.00	each	$1,312,500 00
9,200	Mowers,	65.00	"	598,000 00
4,800	Trucks,	11.00	"	52,800 00
1,500	Sheaf carriers,	11.00	"	16,500 00
175	Reapers,	70.00	"	[illegible]
11,450	Harrows,	15.00	"	171,750 00
			Total	$[illegible]

In addition to the above it is a fair estimate to say that there was $150,000 worth of repairs turned out.

"Oh, yes!" you say, "but you've said nothing about the material, the wear and tear of machinery, etc."

Well, let us look at it in another way. Let us speak of the castings, we know more about them; and it may suit you just as well, if we follow them from the pig-iron till they go out of the door, the finished article.

We will first take a few pieces of the binder, the number and price from the Massey-Harris Co's. catalogue.

The binder frame is No. 496, and sells for $5.00 at the factory door. It weighs 70 lbs., best pig-iron laid down in yards for 7-8 of a cent per lb.; but in figuring let us allow one cent per lb. and give the company the benefit of any doubt. Costs for moulding, 23 cents each. One man makes 18 per day. Grinding and chipping about 3c. Drilling 6c., and other labor 10c. Total $1.14. Oh, we won't be hard on them, say profit $4.75. That sum multiplied 18 times, would be $85.75. One man's work for one day in a moulding shop! The moulders have no kick coming neither have you farmers

No. of pieces	B 996	B 442	B 496	B 311
Weight in lbs.	40	9 3-4	11	5
1 man moulds per day	33	60	56	110
Pay	c.	c.	c.	c.
Moulders each	12 3-4	6 1-2	5 1-2	2 3-4
Chip. & grind'g	3 1-2	2	2	1
Other labor	9	6	6	6
Total Cost	62 3-4	24 3-4	1.33 1-2	0.36 3-4
Each sells for	5.00	2.00	1.50	1.00
Profit on each	4.37 1-4	1.75 3-4	1.22 1-2	0.36 3-4
Profit, day's work	$80.14¼	111.94½	67.87½	94.44½

In speaking of these profits there is most certainly no occasion for exaggeration; the truth is scarcely harsh enough. We will cite a few of the pieces used in the mower.

No. 270 is the mower wheel. It sells at the factory door for $6.00 each. It weighs 70 lbs. It paid the moulder for making it 12 1-2 each. He makes seventeen wheels per day. Grinding and chipping 2 1-2; drilling 3c.; we will allow 6c. for other labor. Total cost $1.00 and the profit is $5.00 per wheel. Five times seventeen is $85.00 per day. Not much profit on one man's labor! Looks as if the firm would become bankrupt.

Information.

When the American people want to know a thing they want to know it right away. Hence their reliance upon good newspapers, which are at hand. Advertisers understand this, and they are right in assuming that a timely and inviting fact placarded in the advertising columns of a reliable journal will catch a thousand eyes. Everybody reads the Times.

IRISHMEN URGE A REBELLION

Say the Time is Rife for Another Struggle for Erin's Freedom — Nest of Traitors

Cork, Aug. 2.—At the Nationalist demonstration held here to-day John E. Redmond, leader of the United Irish party in Parliament, made a vigorous appeal for funds to assist the candidates of the party at the forthcoming general election. He publicly repudiated the statement that the United Irish League was opposed to certain Irish members. William O'Brien and others spoke.

During the meeting hand bills were distributed discouraging the work of recruiting for the British army and urging that, as England's army was now "discomforted" in South Africa, the time was ripe for an Irish rebellion.

THE PHILIPPINE WAR.

Pacification in the Philippines is maintained at about the average rate. The official reports for last week show two hundred insurgents killed and one hundred and thirty captured. This is a slight improvement on the week before, in which only one hundred and fifty were killed.

In the absence of any trustworthy census of the Filipinos it is impossible to calculate exactly the time that will be required, at this rate, to pacify the entire population, but the military authorities in the United States are of opinion that they are making satisfactory progress. At the same time they think if they had more troops they could pacify the Filipinos more rapidly.

Unfortunately the troops are now required to cultivate friendly relations with the Chinese Government, and General McArthur, who has charge of the Philippine war, will have to carry on his benevolent work with the rifles at his command. It is only a question of time, and as the army is paid by the month and not by the job a few years more or less will make no great difference.

TERRIBLE MASSACRES.

The brutal massacre of Christians continues in China, and the recital of them by cable and letter are shocking in the extreme. The story of the massacre of Moukden is a fearful narrative of cruelty. It is a story of shameful deception and wholesale murder by Chinese troops and Boxers, in which 200 native converts were consumed by fire in a Christian church, and the Bishop of the diocese diabolically tortured to death before the Viceroy's yamen.

Another story tells of the massacre of one Italian Bishop, three priests and 600 converts, who were barbarously slaughtered, some of them being subjected to hideous outrages and tortures. Rioting and the murder of Christians are reported in various parts of China, hitherto considered safe, in which Chinese troops and Boxers try to outdo each other in brutality and cruelty. Sixty missionaries are reported slain, among whom are Catholics and Protestants.

Rear Admiral Kempff informed the Government at Washington in a late report that "the Chinese Government is now paralyzed, and secret edicts show that it is in sympathy with the Boxers." This was written on June 22, five weeks ago. To-day the condition of affairs proves that the sympathy of the Chinese Government with the Boxers is real, and the edicts are made with only a thin veneering of secrecy.

In the [illegible] Li Hung Chang, who has been suspected of acting under uncertain motives, asserts that some members of the legations have left Pekin and may be expected at Shanghai [illegible] why not all members? The Chinese government, it may be safely predicted, is either unwilling or unable to produce the Foreign Ministers, or proofs of their existence, and the feeling is strengthened that the government at Pekin cannot give satisfactory evidence of the present existence of any of the Ministers.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

General Louis Botha declares now that the Boers made a serious mistake in remaining so long before Kimberley, Mafeking and Ladysmith, and thinks that had those places been passed by and British territory invaded, the Boer ranks would have been swollen by thousands of recruits. Botha is probably correct to an extent, but the Boers after all could do little else. They would not have invaded Natal safely with General White and ten thousand British soldiers behind them at Ladysmith. That was the reason White took his stand at Ladysmith. He held an army twice as strong as his at bay by so doing. Had the Boers not been so careful of their hides they might have carried Ladysmith, but White knew the kind of fighters they were and governed himself accordingly.

Montreal Gazette.—The signs of an early election are accumulating. Contractors are being invited to bid for the work on another section of the Trent Valley Canal. This sign has been followed for years and always works.

* * *

There is no reason to growl because the Boer General Dewet dropped in on a couple of hundred British soldiers at Roodeval recently and captured them. Dewet can't eat them and he won't kill them. About the only thing he can do with his captives is feed them, and he has little grub to spare. There is no more reason to feel blue about the incident than there is to conclude that civilization is a failure because some thief robs your clothesline on a dark night.

* * *

The announcement that the Boers are banking on Bryan's election, and a promise that if he is successful the United States will interfere in South Africa, shows that the Boers are as badly posted on U. S. politics as they have been in other matters. In the first place Bryan won't be elected, and in the second place, if he were the U.S. would not interfere in South Africa.

Eating and Sleeping.

Food supplies the substance for repairing the wastes of the body, and gives strength. Sleep affords the opportunity for these repairs to be made. Both are necessary to health. If you can't eat and sleep, take Hood's Sarsaparilla. It creates a good appetite and tones the digestive organs, and it gives the sweet, restful sleep of childhood. Be sure to get Hood's.

Biliousness is cured by Hood's Pills. 25 cents.

THREE CITIES.

There are 80,000 trees in the city of Paris, including 13,000 willows, 17,000 chestnuts and 26,000 plane trees.

The city of Akron, O., is entitled to the credit for installing the first automobile police patrol. It is of the largest size, having a seating capacity of 20 persons and was built at a cost of $2,200.

Los Angeles has the reputation of being almost tropical, but it is not a warm city either in summer or winter. The temperature is seldom above 78 at any season, and that is about equal to 68 in New York. May and June seem to be the coldest months in the year.

A CARD.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a twenty-five cent bottle of Dr. Willis' English Pills, if after using three-fourths of contents of bottle, they do not relieve Constipation and Headache. We also warrant that four bottles will permanently cure the most obstinate case of Constipation. Satisfaction or no pay when Willis' English Pills are used.

A CURIOUS LAKE.

A curious phenomenon is that metal never rusts in the waters of Lake Titicaca. You can throw in a chain or an anchor or any article of ordinary iron and let it lie for weeks, and when you haul it up it will be as clean and bright as when it came from the foundry. And, what is stranger still, rust that has been formed upon metallic objects elsewhere will peel off when immersed in its waters. This is frequently noticed by railway and steamship men. Rusty car wheels and rails and even machinery can be brightened by soaking them in the waters of Lake Titicaca.—Chicago Record.

Just where the large crowds that suddenly fill the galleries of the senate and house when a notable speech is being made come from is a puzzle. They spring up, however, and as strangely disappear into nothingness.

Tired Out

And she does not understand why. Her work used to seem so easy. You could tell her whereabouts as she worked by the snatches of song which now and again overflowed her happy lips. And now she can hardly keep up. Her head pains, her back hurts, and she feels entirely worn out. What is the matter? The probability is that the stomach is disordered, the liver is not performing its whole duty. Poisons are accumulating in the blood, and unless these are removed, and the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition cured and strengthened, there is liable to be a serious illness. There is no medicine can equal Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for prompt help and perfect cure for diseases of the stomach and blood. It strengthens the stomach, purifies the blood, nourishes the nerves, and brings back the happy days of health, when life is all song and sunshine.

"I suffered ten months from a complicated case of liver complaint, constipation, indigestion, suppression of monthly function, and kidney disease, too," writes Miss Lula M. Brittle, [illegible]. "I also suffered excruciating pain in my back and head. I am glad to say that six bottles of Golden Medical Discovery, three vials of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, and two bottles of 'Compound Extract of Smart-Weed' cured me entirely. I gladly recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to all sufferers."

Short Story of the Day

DOROTHY INGLEDEW REVENGE.

The harvest moon climbed slowly up the cloudless sky, shining white and clear on the sleeping town at Tunbridge Wells. The silence of night was on the sleeping town. Two women, closely cloaked, crept stealthily along, the elder remonstrating.

"It's a great risk you run, mistress," she whispered.

"If you fear to come with me, Betty, I go alone."

"Nay, madam, my fears are not for myself. I know my place better than to leave my mistress alone to meet wild Sir Harry Fortescue."

Meanwhile, pacing slowly backwards and forwards in the shadow cast by high banks half hidden by brambles, a man awaited their approach. As the women came into sight he advanced to meet them.

"It is but five minutes by the clock since I came, madam, yet I dare swear that the moments have been leaden-footed as so many hours. The post-chaise waits for us in yonder hollow, and we have many miles to go before dawn."

"The chaise can wait," she said. "I seek a word with you first, sir!"

"A thousand, as you will, sweetheart! But can you not say them as we drive?"

The moonlight fell full on the group as the woman stopped and threw back her hood, and it shone on her pale, set face. Seeing it, Sir Harry faltered and tapped uneasily on the lid of his snuffbox. It did not seem much like the look to be expected on the face of a romantic girl who had so easily fallen in with his suggestion of a runaway match.

"Now," she said, "I will tell you why I let you think that I would marry you in secret, and also why the chaise will not be needed tonight. You have known me as Dorothy March, sir; know me now as Dorothy Ingledew—sister to the man you ruined, and whose patrimony you stole, and to the woman whose heart you broke."

He scanned the eager face with some curiosity now. So this explained the haunting idea that there was something forgotten which the sight of Dorothy stirred within him. He could see now the resemblance between the slender, fair-haired Winifred Ingledew he had tired of and deserted when he found it so easy to get the Ingledew money from her weak, spendthrift brother without cumbering himself with a wife, and this dark beauty, who had so unexpectedly become his accuser.

"I stole nothing. Your brother — if in play. He lost and I won; it is the way of the world, Miss Dorothy."

"He was a boy. You took advantage brother of yours he was—lost it to me of his youthful folly. My sister loved you; you forsook her when she no longer had gold to tempt you. He lies in his dishonored grave; she pined away and died broken hearted. You killed them both, and I vowed to kill you in turn. This is why I came to the Wells with my godmother, whose name I have borne since she took me to live with her; and I let you think that I would run away with you in order that I might be able to keep my vow."

"Tragedy becomes you, madam," he said, mockingly. "But why talk of killing when you know that your eyes have already mortally wounded me?"

"Will you cease this foolish talk? Do you still think that love brought me here to-night? I have to avenge the honor of my name. It shall not suffer for want of male kin."

"Madam, what folly is this? How can I fight a woman?"

She unclasped her cloak and threw it from her as the maid approached and handed her two foils.

"I came prepared, you see, Sir Harry," she said, as she carefully measured the foils to see that they were of equal length. "Now, sir, choose your foil and take your stand."

"This is midsummer madness indeed! Mistress March or Inglewood, if it pleases you better. And though it may be pretty fooling when so fair a lady plays part in it, I like it not."

"Will you choose a foil?"

"No, madam."

"Coward!" She held a foil by the hilt now, and at the word struck him lightly across the face with the flat of the blade.

His face was white with anger, save where a red line showed where her blow had fallen.

"Had a man struck that blow he would not have seen to-morrow's sun! But a woman is privileged to some extent. I will fence with you, madam, since you insist, and when you are disarmed I shall take my revenge in kisses."

The moon flung their shadows on the ground in grotesque confusion, and glittered on the blades of the foils as they thrust and parried. She fenced with care and skill that comes of long practice.

At first the man carelessly parried her thrusts, laughing and jesting at the strange fate which led him, a noted duelist, to cross swords with a woman. But by degrees the jest and laugh died on his lips, and his gaze remained fixed on something over Dorothy's shoulder. It may have been a fancy, or the fickle of the moonlight on his adversary's uncovered hair, but he thought the face of Winifred looked over her sister's shoulder.

He began to falter, and a lunge Dorothy made remained unparried.

"Winnie!" he cried, and as the cry left his lips Dorothy pierced his heart.

He stumbled then fell at her feet. For a moment she stood aghast at the fulfillment of her vow; then, flinging away the foil, she knelt at his side.

His eyes opened and as they fell upon Dorothy the mocking smile struggled again to the white lips. There was no sound but his gasping breath. His eyes opened again.

"Forgive!" he gasped.

His head fell back, and Sir Harry Fortescue was dead.

Dorothy flung herself on the body and kissed the lips again and again, weeping bitterly. Her maid tried to draw her away.

"Let me be!" she sobbed. "Let me be! O, my love, my love! I thought there was room for nothing in my heart but hate, and I killed him—killed him. But I shall love him till I die!"

"Mistress, you forget," pleaded Betty. "The watch will be here with the day."

Dorothy shuddered and allowed Betty to wrap the cloak around her. The waiting woman gave a last searching glance round to make sure that they had left nothing to betray them, and then with the foils hidden under her cloak, led her mistress away. The pride and fire that had sustained the girl through the night had gone, and she was now all weakness and timidity, obliged to lean heavily on her maid's shoulder, and a brain numbed to all but the one thought that, in avenging her sister's wrongs she had killed her own lover. His death was already avenged.

INK AS A WITNESS.

Results In One Case Which Amazed the Attorneys.

In a case in the supreme court it was alleged that interlineations had been made in the papers after they were filed, and the papers were submitted to expert chemists to decide whether the interlineations had been made after the papers were filed or at the time the paper was drawn. The process followed by the chemists was simple, though tedious.

Hypochloride of soda was the only chemical used by the expert, but the result was the same as that arrived at by the other experts. Tests were made on each line of the document. The soda bleached the ink, and, as the writing in some parts was done many years ago, the first drop of soda was placed on a line which was not in controversy. The writing slowly faded, and it was 51 seconds before it was bleached.

A drop on another interlineation faded the writing in 49 seconds, on another in 51 seconds, and the interlineations made when the paper was first written faded in about 50 seconds on an average. Suddenly the ink of one of the interlineations faded in 15 seconds, and the conclusion was at once reached that it was fresher ink than the others, as the ink had not had time to thoroughly permeate the fiber of the paper.

Several interlineations were found to fade in from 13 to 16 seconds, and these were marked as having been made at a more recent date.

After all interlineations had been so marked, the next step was to ascertain as nearly as possible at what date the interlineations were made, and for this purpose many manuscripts in which similar ink was used on the same kind of paper were taken. The exact date of the writing of each manuscript was known, and soda was dropped on each, beginning with the date of writing of the manuscript in controversy. The time necessary to fade the ink gradually decreased from 52 and 50 seconds as the soda was dropped on the manuscripts of more recent years.

When the fading took place in 20 seconds, manuscripts but a month apart in writing were used, and the fading in 14 and 15 seconds was thus fixed in a certain month. The examining chemists knew nothing of the points in the controversy, and the report was made that certain interlineations were probably made in the specified month. The attorneys in the case were amazed, as the month named was that in which they believed the more recent writing had been done.—Indianapolis Press.

Uses For Bicycles.

There are many uses to which an old cycle can be put. It is said that a theater manager has made rather an excellent chandelier out of his old wheel. He also uses an old tricycle for producing the effect of wind, hail and railway trains. A navvy is said to have made a clock almost all out of parts of an old machine. The bell strikes the hours, and a length of solid rubber tire holds the pendulum, which is a bicycle fork. At one small place a man has turned a discarded wheel into a kind of pump, and the tires do duty for the pipe hose. Another has made a treadle sewing machine out of his wheel. A grocer has turned part of a cycle into a coffee grinding machine, and a bell ringer, being rather feeble in the arm, has an old cycle which he has raised and fixed in one position, and so by a pulley arrangement he can when gently pedaling ring the bell vigorously. Many folks use their old wheels for flower stands, and there is a man who is making quite a decent living by turning old bicycles into conveyances on which washerwomen can take home the weekly load.—London Globe.

The Crusades and Embroidery.

The crusades had a marked effect on the demand for embroidery, as besides the decoration of their cloaks and pouches the kings and their followers wanted gorgeously worked hangings for their tents and heraldic blazons for their banners. The last were difficult of execution, and new stitches were invented, and applique work was introduced about this time. The Spaniards are said to have learned the use of spangles and other metal and bead ornaments as applied to stuffs from the Saracens. Later precious stones and pearls were used, and in 1414 Charles of Orleans spent about £40 for 960 pearls which were to be used in ornamenting a great coat on the sleeves of which were embroidered the verses of a song beginning with "Madam, I am all joyous." The musical accompaniment of the words was also embroidered.—Spectator.

Worth Seeing.

A Newcastle laborer recently resolved to treat himself to a night at the theater, and, entering the pit by the back of the orchestra, he happened to see the double bass viol set up against a music stand.

Having never seen anything of the kind before, he leaned his arm on the orchestra rail and stood transfixed with amazement. The pit was filling rapidly, and an acquaintance, tapping him on the shoulder, said if he didn't take a seat they would soon be all occupied.

"Wey, wey, hinny," he exclaimed excitedly, "neever heed a seat. Aal I want is a look o' the chap that's gaan to put that fiddle oonder his chin."—London Fun.

Bad Enough.

Patient—It is such a terrible thing to die of consumption!

Doctor—Perhaps you would like to have me call in other physicians in consultation?

Patient—No, I don't know that a complication of diseases would be any better to die of.—Detroit Journal.

SCRAPS OF SCIENCE.

Water boils and vaporizes at 212 degrees F. above zero, while liquid air boils and vaporizes at 312 degrees below zero.

It is estimated that in the streets of an average city there are about 3,000 bacteria to the cubic yard of air and in a hospital ward or where there is sickness as many as 80,000.

It has been observed that artesian wells have a daily period of ebb and flow as well as the ocean tides, only the process is reversed. The time of greatest flow of an artesian well is the period of low tide in the ocean.

India Rubber Industry.

The bulletin of the Royal gardens, Kew, states that the falling off in the production of India rubber at Lagos is due to the reckless way in which the trees are being exhausted. There is a want of control over the collectors, who tap young trees and destroy whole rubber forests by overworking, so that this industry, which is an important source of wealth to the colony, is in danger of extinction. A similar disaster occurred in Madagascar, and now active steps are being taken to preserve the industry by the establishment of plantations of rubber producing plants.

Illicit Still Case.

At a session of the County Magistrates Edmison's Court, the charge against Mortimer Healy, of Asphodel, of having an illicit still in his possession was disposed of. Healy acknowledged that he knew of part of the apparatus, namely, a large kettle, being his, as he used it for boiling sap, but he knew nothing of the head and worm, which some other parties had secreted on his farm, where they evidently intended to use them. After hearing a number of witnesses the Magistrate decided to dismiss the case. Magistrate Edmison went down to Keene yesterday to hear charges of fighting laid against Phil Elmhirst and John F. Comrie.

REPORTERS' ROUNDS

Local Happenings Picked Up Here and There by the Times.

—When some men get a swallow they insist on having a lark.

—All men are not homeless, but some are home less than others.

—Complaints are numerous regarding the poor train service to Lakefield.

—The poet appears to have no writes that the editor is bound to respect.

—Lingering too much before the hall is the surest way for a man to get behind them.

—The Lindsay Grand Trunk trainmen will run their excursion to town on Thursday, Aug. 9th.

—One of the most lonesome persons in the world is a well-behaved man when his family is out of town for the summer.

—A wretched old bachelor says: "After all a woman's heart is the sweetest thing in the world; it is a perfect honey comb—full of cells."

—The flags on St. John's church and the Sons of England hall were flying at half mast yesterday on account of the death of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg.

Who thus get a vacation.

Mistress—How shall I write your recommendation?—Maid (just leaving)—Suppose you say I stood this place six weeks? That will be sufficient, thank you.

—An admiring crowd gathered around a big lunge at the GTR station which was captured by Mr. Dickson Hall at Stony Lake. On the depot scales it tipped at 26 pounds.

—Says the Hastings Star;—Mr. C. Gordon, foreman on the Trent Valley canal, arrived in town on Monday, and as soon as timber can be provided will begin work on the dam, which with several sluiceways will be extended to the north side. When completed it will give perfect control of the water in spring. The two new gates for the locks, built last winter, will also be put in their places.

Miss Annie McLaughlin, of Sturgeon Bay, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. A. Garlick, Water street.

—Mr. Harry Thompson, driver for R. R. Philp, who has been confined in Nicholl's Hospital with typhoid fever.

Sudden Death.

Mr. John Hayes, an old resident living in North Monaghan, just outside the town boundary, died very suddenly yesterday morning. He was engaged in delivering vegetables and was driving his waggon on Bonvor-st, when he suddenly expired. It is supposed that heart failure was the cause, although Mr. Hayes appeared to be in his usual good health and had not complained at all of being unwell.

Deceased was between 75 and 80 years of age. He lived at his late home for many years, being one of the early settlers. He was a stonemason by occupation and was an esteemed citizen. He leaves a widow, and the children surviving are four sons, Michael, John Timothy and William Hayes, all of town, and three daughters, Mrs. John Hayes and Mrs. G. O'Brien, of town, and a daughter in Brockville.

To-day's post brings an enclosure of stamps for a copy of the Times, as the sender, who resides at a distance, wishes to ascertain the names and addresses of firms here dealing in a certain standard article. Applications of a similar kind are being frequently made. These enquiries illustrate the utility of a firm keeping its "shingle" constantly hung out in a newspaper like this, which is referred to everywhere in Eastern Ontario for information as to the name and location of business houses. The "Times" containing the card of a merchant is like a commercial traveller in his interest calling upon buyers every day soliciting orders. No more economical nor more effective plan of inviting custom could be devised than keeping the card of a business house continuously before the public by the medium of this paper.

THE AMBULANCE CAME

Remarkable Experience of the Snowden House Proprietor.

They were seated in the famous back parlor, and Tom Rutherford had just told of a marvellous adventure in the woods in the vicinity of Gold lake.

"That reminds me of an adventure I had when a boy," began the general proprietor, as he proceeded to light his corn cob. It was back of Bobcaygeon, in Harvey, when I was on a bear hunt. I saw a tremendous black bear perched up in a tree.

"I took steady aim" he continued as he saw the bystanders all attention, "and shot him plump between the eyes. He gave a spasmodic jump and paralyzed right in midair."

"Hold on there," said Mr. Geo. Matthews, "that don't go; gravity would have forced him to the ground."

"That shows all you know," replied Mr. Snowden. "That was such a dead shot that gravity was paralyzed too.

"But you talk about luck," he continued without a blush. "I was out duck hunting once and had just put one foot into my boat, with the other one still on land, when I saw a duck flying above me, and over on a small island a deer. Meantime my boat was drifting out and I hadn't time to put my other foot into the boat. I took aim, fired, killed the duck and the deer fell into the water, and when I got out my game bag was full of fish." Then the ambulance came.—

Look to your food in summer. The perfect food is Grape-Nuts

A TRUE FISH STORY

Mr. Harry LeBrun Has a Very Peculiar Experience.

This is a true fish story. Mr. Harry LeBrun and his brother were trawling a few days ago off Stoney Lake and had two lines out. They came to a bed of weeds, and the two lines in some way became tangled together. They proceeded to pull them in, their being a dead weight on the hooks. Imagine their surprise when they found a ten pound maskalonge mixed up in the mess. The peculiar part of it was, the fish was attached to a third line which had become mixed up and the lines from the canoe, and was thus drawn into the boat. Mr. LeBrun was not only ahead a fine fish, but also a trawling line and bait.

The above figures should give you a good idea of what you pay the Massey-Harris Co., as interest for the privilege of using the tools some other working man made. Many may think after looking over the foregoing, that we must have made a mistake; but let us assure you that the above named figures deal very liberally with the company, as many of these pieces are now being made on the moulding machine for nearly half the price we have quoted.

Speaking of the moulding-machine question, it has been said by members of Massey-Harris Co. that we refused to work on them, and that this is the cause of all the trouble. That is not true. We believe that the moulding-machine has come to stay; and our constitution advises us to accept jobs on them. But even this privilege was refused us.

That the machine displaces labor no man will deny. We look forward to the time when the hours of labor will be decreased proportionately, to use up that which the machine displaces, and then there will be job for all. But as it is to day four million persons, with modern machinery, are capable of producing as much work as could formerly have been done by four hundred million persons by handwork.

Upon the great bonanza farms of the west and north-west, machines perform the work of hundreds of men. The giant steam-plow, that runs on a cable, at four miles per hour; the steam planter and steam combination reaper and thresher—with these machines, wheat can be produced at 20 cents per bushel. Can the small western farmer compete with these machines? Impossible! Capitalistic, large production in farm crops, must and will result in the downfall of the small producer.

With the best machinery, one man can produce cotton cloth sufficient to provide for 1000 persons. One can produce enough woolen cloth for 500 people. One can make shoes for 2,000 persons. One can raise enough wheat to feed 3,000 persons for one year. A second person can thresh, winnow and sack it, a third conveys it to market, and one miller can make flour for 10,000 consumers. One baker, with best machinery, can feed 500 persons; and with the moulding machine, one man and two boys can mould 20,000 loaves of bread in seven hours.

In the days when sickles, flails and hand-mortar mills were used to produce and thresh grain and grind flour, it required 40 p.c. of the community (or 400 persons) to produce bread for 1,000. Now-a-days ten men (or 1 p.c.) can grow, harvest, grind and bake all the bread necessary for 1,000 persons.

"Said the great machine of iron and wood,
I am a creature made for good,
But the criminal clutch of Godless greed
Has made me a monster that scatters need
And want and hunger where'er I go.
I would lift man's burdens and lighten their woe,
I would give them leisure to laugh in the sun,
If owned by the many instead of the one.
If owned by the people, the whole wide earth
Should learn my purpose and know my worth.
I would close the chasm that yawns in our soil,
Twixt unearned riches and ill-paid toil.
No man should hunger, and no man labor,
To fill the purse of his neighbor.
And each man should know when his work was done,
Where I shared by the many—not owned by one.
I am forced by the few, with their greed for gain,
To forge for the many new fetters of pain,
Yet this is my purpose and ever will be,
To set the slaves of the workshop free.
God hasten the day when, overjoyed,
That desperate host of the unemployed,
Shall hear my message and understand,
And hail me a friend in an opulent land."
—ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

Now fellow working men, of all crafts, in whatever land this pamphlet may reach you, think of the poor moulders and other workmen who have been ground down by the greatest monopoly in Canada, the Massey-Harris Co.; and after looking carefully over and weighing well the foregoing facts and figures, answer for yourselves; does labor get any more than a mere pittance, when you compare what it produces with what it receives?

Monopoly does everything for its own benefit, and for the robbery of the people. Monopoly decides nominations and elections. If monopoly favors a law, it is passed; if it opposes a law, it is rejected. With bribes it secures the vote of the legislators, gives them free passes, giving appointments to needy relatives to lucrative positions. It employs them as attorneys, if they are lawyers; and if it finds a case very stubborn, as well as very important, it puts down before them the hard cash of bribery.

"He's true to God, who's true to man,
Wherever wrong is done
To the humblest and the weakest
'Neath the all-beholden sun.
That wrong is also done to us,
And they are slaves most base,
Whose love of right is for themselves
And not for all their race."

AN OLD RESIDENT GONE

Death of Mr. Matthew Bell on Monday Evening Last.

The death of Mr. Matthew Bell one of Peterborough's oldest and most esteemed citizens, occurred on Monday evening at the resident of his son, Mr. J. F. Bell. The deceased had been ailing for some time, and his demise therefore was not unexpected.

Mr. Bell was born in Yorkshire, England, in 1817, and came to Canada in 1820. Mr Bell's parents were Matthew Bell and Helen Davidson. The deceased settled at Chemong Lake, in Smith, in the Autumn of 1820, his mother being the first white woman to reach Chemong Lake. He had one sister, who was married to Mr. W. Galvin, and who died several years ago. Mr. Bell was the eldest of six brothers, three of whom are deceased, namely—Matthew Richard and John. William and James are still living, and have their homes at Selwyn. He was married in 1841 to Margaret Freeburn, who died in 1879, by whom he had two sons, one of whom, died at a very early age and Mr. F. J. Bell, Clerk of the Division Court, town.

The deceased resided in Smith up to 12 years ago, when they removed to town with his son. He was a consistent member of the Baptist Church, and was universally beloved and respected.

The funeral will take place at 2.30 this afternoon to the Lakefield Cemetery.

Passed Through.

Mr. James Eakins, the "Cattle King" of Canada, was in town yesterday on his way to Stony Lake, where he has a cottage, and where his family have been living since the middle of June. Mr Eakins, like all intelligent men, dropped in and ordered the Times to be sent to him at Stony Lake.

Fifty Missioneries Murdered in the Province of Shan Si -- Eight Women Beheaded

GOVERNMENTS NOT SUPPLIED WITH INFORMATION

Li Hung Chang's Appeals are in Vain—Powers Will Not Cease the Advance on Pekin Until the Legations are Relieved --Censor at Tien Tsin

London, Aug. 3. 3.45 a.m.

No word comes this morning regarding the fortunes of the comparatively small body of troops believed to be forcing their way toward Pekin. The silence is probably due to deligent censorship rather than to any luck of developments.

A Shanghai special announces the receipt of an official telegram from the Tsung Li Yamen asserting that the ministers were all well on July, 30 and that vegetables, fruits, and other supplies had been sent to the Legations on several occasions. "friendly interest caucuses," the official telegram, says "are now being carried on between the ministers and the Imperial government. According to the Daily Express, however, cablegrams from Chefoo announces that the imperial troops advancing to oppose the relief force, have completely wiped out a Christian town near Pekin, killing five foreign priests and 10,000 native Christians.

General Gaslee,—so says this correspondent—was strongly opposed to an immediate advance, but he was over ruled by the other commanders and influenced by Washington's order to General Chaffee to proceed with out an instants delay.

From Shanghai the Daily Express has received confirmation of the reported murder of fifty missionaries in the province of Shan Si with the additional information that English women were dragged out of the mission building by a Chinese mob who beheaded them in the streets of Chu Chow.

A heartrending letter has been received from the Japanese Legation, dated July 22 stating that the Casualties number sixty per cent, that only 25 catridges per man are left with rations sufficient for five days and then it is feared that the legation will succumb within a week.

London, Aug. 3.— 4.48 a.m.—The Vienna correspondent of the Times says the Neue Freice Press greets the decision of the British and American Governments to advance to Pekin independently with the greatest satisfaction. It believes that the resolution of these two powers will put an end to the paralysis of the movements occassioned by the ansolved question of Chief Commander and will inspire the combined forces with fresh life and vigor. It says that when the Anglo American troops assume the offensive the others will follow suit.

Shanghai, Aug. 3.—The allies advanced towards Pekin to-day. It is estimated that the expedition numbers 30,000 men of all arms, with 170 guns It is hoped to reach Pekin August 12.

CENSOR AT TIEN TSIN

Allies Will Keep Chinese From Securing Information as to Their Strength.

London, Aug. 2.—Because of the fact that the Chinese agents at the principal European cable points are in free roys, the foreign commanders at Tien cipher communication with the Vice Tsin have seemingly put an embargo on news concernign the size and composition of the forces advancing on Pekin. Neither the English Admiralty nor the Foreign office have intelligence from Tien Tsin later than July 27th.

SOUTHERN CHINA RESTLESS

The Chinese Authorities Enlisting Recruits at Double Pay at Canton.

London, Aug. 2. — Telegrams from Hong Kong and Shanghai indicate that restlessness is increacing in Southern Africa. The German mission at Namon has been destroyed and the native city of Wu Chaws is no longer considered safe for foreigners.

At the Bogue forts target practise is going on. At Canton the authorities are enlisting recruits at $9 a month, twice the usual pay. Proclamations sent to the recruiting stations threaten officers who defraud the troops.

REBELS IN CONTROL

Russian Announcement Says the Chinese Government is Powerless.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 2.—A Communique in the Official Messenger says; "Information concerning the march of events in China shows the absolute powerlessness of the Pekin Government against the rebels.

"The absence of news from Pekin as to the fate of the Russian and other Ministers renders mediation difficult. Russian efforts will be directed to restoring order in China in which Russia is willing to aid the Emperor."

"THE MAN WHO INSISTS"

Admiral Seymour Forces a Viceroy to Yield and Will Visit Nankin.

Shanghai, Aug. 2.—Admiral Seymour, on board the British despatch boat Alacrity, started for Nankin to-day to consult with Liu Kun Yi, Viceroy of Nankin. Admiral Seymour wired the Viceroy of his intended visit, and Liu Kun Yi, replied;

"I am unwell and cannot see you."

Admiral Seymour insisted upon making the visit, and the Viceroy responded by wire;

"I am instructing a warship to proceed down the river to escort the Alacrity to Nankin in case of misunderstanding in passing the forts."

TROOPS FROM INDIA

A Third Brigade Ordered—Russians Building Armored Trains at Tien Tsin.

London, Aug. 2. — A third brigade was ordered to China from India to-day. It consists of four native regiments, about 6,000 men.

A news agency despatch from Tien Tsin, July 25th, reports that Lieutenant-General Linewitch succeeded Admiral Alexieff in command of the Russian forces there. The Russians, the despatch adds, were constructing armored trains in the Tien Tsin shops and intended reconstructing the railway as fast as the column should advance towards Pekin.

A RUSSIAN VICTORY

The Chinese Fortress at Hunghun Stormed and Many Guns Taken.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 2. —General Grodekoff, under date of August 1st, telegraphs as follows;

"The Chinese fortress at Hunghun was stormed by General Augustoff July 30th, thus relieving the posts of Novokijevskoje and Post a, threatened by the Hunghun garrison. Many guns were taken. The Russian loss was two officers and six men killed and four men wounded."

CHINA'S TERMS

If Allies Stop Their March, Governments May Communicate With the Ministers.

Paris, Aug. 2.—The French Consul-General at Shanghai telegraphs to-day as follows:

"Li Hung Chang has stated to the United States Consul that the Ministers will be put in communication with their respective Governments if the allies arrest their march on Pekin.

"Chang is yet unable to secure a reply to the message in his care to M. Pichon, the French Minister in Pekin, as the Tsung Li Yamen will not consent to the forwarding of cipher messages for the Ministers."

CHINA IS FEARFUL

Wants to Stop the Advance by Opening the Telegraph Lines to the Powers.

London, Aug. 3. — An agency at Shanghai says that Li Hung Chang has asked United States Consul Goodnow whether or not, if he were placed in communication with Ministers at Pekin, the powers would suspend the advance. MMr. Goodnow, the report adds, replied that he would ask the Washington authorities.

BOXERS SLAY FIFTY MORE

Missionaries in Shan Si are Once More Reported as Murdered

Washington, Aug. 2.—The State Department has published its reply rejecting the suggestion of Li Hung Chang that the ministers might be sent under safe escort to Tien Tsin, provided the powers would engage not to march on Pekin.

In reply to the further enquiry regarding the cessation of the allies' advance if free communication were established between governments and ministers, Secretary Hay said.

"I do not think it expendient to submit the proposition to the other powers. Free communication with our representatives in Pekin is demanded as a matter of absolute right and not as a favor. Since the Chinese Government admits that it possesses the power to given communication, it puts itself in an unfriendly attitude by denying it. No negotiations seem advisable until the Chinese Government shall have put the diplomatic representatives of the powers in full and free communication with their respective governments and remove all danger to their lives and liberty. We would urge Earl Li earnestly to advise the Imperial authorities of China to place themselves in friendly comminication and co-operation with the relief expedition. They are assuming a heavy responsibility in acting otherwise.

NOT MANY LEFT.

Toronto, Aug. 2.—A batch of letters from members of "B" Company, first Canadian contingent, arrived in the city from South Africa yesterday.

The letters contained news of the Canadian regiment's doings up to June 26, and also information regarding other corps with which the Canucks had been working. Private Hennessy, writing to the Manhattan Club, of which he was a member, says it is hard to see the company which left here in October over one hundred strong reduced to thirty-five men. He also tells of the entry into Pretoria, and says that of the 21 men of the Seventh who arrived at Cape Town only seven were in the ranks when the Transvaal capital was reached. All of the regimental mail from March 25 to April 10 was captured by the Boers, thus keeping the boys without news from home for a considerable time. At the time of writing, the opinion seemed to prevail that the regiment would not be called upon to do any more hard work, and that it would soon be homeward bound.

BRITAIN WAS NOT IN THE LEAST TO BLAME

For Transvaal War -- They Did Everything Possible to Prevent it -- Almost a Split in the Inter-Parliamentary Congress

Paris, Aug. 2.—An unpleasant split in the inter-Parliamentary Congress for peace arbitration was narrowly avoided at to-day's session. M. Dorand, speaking of the importence of The Hague Conferance, as there has never been more wars than at present, protested against the war in the Transvaal, and expressed astonishment that the requests for arbitration made by the South African Republics had not found an echo in Europe.

Lord Stanhope, one of the English delegates, immediately rose and stated that friends of peace in his country did everything possible to prevent war, adding that it would be impossible for representatives of England to participate in a discussion implying the least blame of England.

The presiding officer tactfully turned the approaching storm by calling for a vote on the following resolution, which was adopted.

"This Congress, acting on The Hague resolutions, expresses its gratitude to those contributing to the results, in the firm hope that the Powers will not neglect in the future to utilize the means at their disposition for the appeasement of international conflicts, and its regret that they have not been able to do so. Actual war in the Transvaal calls the attention of the various delegates to the duty devolving on them to call the attention of their respective Government to the obligations the Powers contracted in giving adhesion to The Hague resolutions."

FOUR GIRLS DROWN IN BATHING

Go Beyond Their Depth in the Surf and Sink Before Help Reaches Them.

Ocean City, N.J., Aug. 2.—Four young women from Philadelphia were drowned here to-day. Only two of a group of six who went bathing in the surf some distance from the daily throng of bathers were saved.

Those who lost their lives were—

Lowe, Virginia, 20 years old, of Germantown.

Lowe, Elsie, 18 years old, sister of Virginia Lowe.

Lonsdale, Jennie, 19 years old, of Wynnemore, Chestnut Hill.

Lonsdale, Birdie, 23 years old, sister of Jennie Lonsdale.

The four girls came to Ocean City recently and were not used to sea bathing. They had been stopping at the Meehan cottage.

About 11 o'clock this morning the young women, with Clement Lowe, a young brother of the sisters who were drowned, and Mrs. S. T. Meehan, proprietress of the cottage, went bathing opposite Fourteenth street. From the stories told by Mrs. Meehan and the boy it seems that all six in the party went beyond their depth before they realized their danger. Then they called for help.

Lifeguards Foster and Lee swam to the exhausted bathers and by strenuous efforts managed to bring Clement Lowe and Mrs. Meehan ashore.

Before they could again reach the spot where the girls had been all four had disappeared.

Several hours after the accident the bodies were washed ashore.

AN ATTEMPT MADE ON THE SHAH'S LIFE

Persian Monarch at Paris Narrowly Escapes Assassination -- Arrest of the Would be Murderer How it Was Done

Paris, Aug.—An attempt on the life of the Shah of Persia, Muzaffer-Ed-Din, was made this morning, but luckily it resulted in no harm to His Majesty. A man broke through a line ofpolicemen, as the Shah was leaving his departments, and tried to mount the royal step. He held a revolver in his hand, but as soon as his intention was divined the police disarmed him before he was able to fire.

At the police station the man expressed regret that he had been unable to carry out his intention. He said.

"This is an affair between me and my conscience."

The man, dressed as a laborer, broke through the line of policemen, overturning a bicycle officer, and jumped upon the royal carriage step. In one hand the man had a cane, which he raised as though to strike. But this movement was only intended to hide the real purpose. In the other hand he held a revolver.

The attempted assassination there came to an end, for the Grand Vizier struck the weapon from the man's hand and at the same time officers caught his arm from behind and overpowered him.

A crowd of 500 people witnessed the attempted assassination, and at once made a rush towards the would-be murderer. The police acting as guards of the Shah, however, prevented the mob from doing violence to the miscreant. The prisoner was taken to the police station.

This afternoon the Shah carried out his program for a trip down the Seine to Versailles.

The would-be assassin declines absolutely to give his name or nationality. He speaks but little and that with a southern accent. The police believe him to be an Italian. He is about 26 years of age.

Just before starting from the palace the Shah received a letter of warning, dated from Italy, signed with an Italian name, but posted in Paris.

The letter announced that he would be assassinated to-day. The police believe the man who attacked the Shah was not alone in his efforts. The whole of the police department is at work on this case.

ANOTHER 1200 BOERS CAPTURED BY HUNTER

General Oliver's Commando Slipped Through the Cordon Drawn Around Bethlehem Hills

HARD WORK DONE BY CANADIANS UNDER OTTER

Compromising Letters from British Members of Parliament Found at Pretoria—Seven Miles of Wagons Captured With Gen. Prinslee's Army—Another Cable from Milner

London, Aug. 3.—The Pretoria correspondent of the Daily Mail telegraphing Wednesday says Commandent General Botha is weakening. He has sent a message to Lord Roberts asking for confirmation of the report of the surrender of General Prinsloo and requesting premission to communicate with General Christian Botha DeWet.

London, Aug, 2.—The capture of another portion of General Prinsloo's force, reported by Lord Roberts yesterday, was in line with the expectations excited by former offical despatches. The pursuit of the commandos that have been operating in the eastern part of the Orange River Colony has been more determined than any previous effect. The country is admirably adapted for Boer methods. There is plenty of water and numerous hills, which may enable them to elude the pursuer for some time yet, although the investment is so close that there is little probability of ultimate escape. General Olivier, who, with one thousand men, has slipped through the cordon and gone toward Harrismith, will be compelled either to disband his little army or surrender. There is no way to safety in that direction, as the Brtiish hold the passes into Natal, and it would, in any event, be impossible for the Boers too stand a lengthened campaign in so isolated a position with an active enemy preventing communications with their friends. General Olivier's only hope of accomplishing anything lies in his ability to reach Botha and co-operate with him. As the two forces are over two hundred miles apart this looks like an impossibility. General French is not idle at Middleburg. He has occupied Pan Station, sixteen miles further east, and the Boers are still moving away. There is no word from Baden-Powell, who is reported to be besieged at Rustenburg, with Lord Kitchener hastening to his relief. No particular anxiety is felt over his position, because of the belief that exists in Baden-Powell's resourcefulness, and the fact that the besieging force cannot be very large nor very well equipped.

1,200 BOERS CAPTURED

General Hunter Gets Another Detachment of Prinsloo's Force.

London, Aug. 2.—Lord Roberts has telegraphed to the War Office as follows.

"Pretoria, Aug. 2.—Hunter reports 1,200 more prisoners surrendered yesterday, with Commandants Rouse and Fontenel, while Commandants Deploy, Potgieter and Joubert surrendered to Bruce Hamilton, who collected 1,290 rifles, 650 ponies, and an Armstrong gun. Lieut. Anderson, a Danish officer in the Staats Artillery, also surrendered. Olivier, with five guns and a number of burghers, broke away in the Harrismith district, but Hunter expects the total prisoners will amount to 4,000.

"An unfortunate accident occurred near Frederikstadt, on the Krugersdrop-Potchefstroom Railway. The enemy had torn up rails, and a supply train escorted by the Shorpshires was derailed, 13 being killed and 39 injured, although a special patrol has been ordered to prevent trains, passing. A special inquiry has been ordered to ascertain why the order was disobeyed.

CANADIANS WOUNDED

Private Paton Severely, and Private Storrie Slightly.

Ottawa, Aug. 2.—Sir Alfred Milner cables to Lord Minto as follows.

"Cape Town, Aug. 2.—2462, Pte. J. E. Paton, slightly wounded; 2827, Pte. Storrie, severely wounded at Stephansdrai, on July 29."

(Signed), Milner."

VICEROY IS BECOMING ACTIVE.

Reported That Officials of Canton Has Ordered Execution of Forty Pirates —To Visit Warships.

Hong Kong, Aug. 2.—The Acting Viceroy of Canton, it is reported, is becoming more active and adopting a more vigorous policy. It is announced that he has ordered the execution of forty pirates. He will visit the foreign warships and Consuls tomorrow.

He says Li Hung Chang is not returning to Canton, where quiet prevails.

The British naval and military officials have taken careful observation of the Canton and Bogue defences. The Bogue forts are crowded with troops, and the parapets are lined upon the approach of steamers.

PEACE CONGRESS MEETS.

Convention of Parliaments and Press Associations in Session.

Paris, Aug. 2.—The interparliamentary peace congress had its first session today in the Senate Chamber, under the presidency of M. Falliers, who made the opening address. He urged the delegates to make all nations understand it was better to seek decisions by arbitration than by victories of blood.

M. Monis, the Minister of Justice, welcomed the delegates. M. des Camps, a Senator from Belgium, read a report on the judicial functions of peace in the time of war.

Count Appoyni proposed the organization of a press union.

The arbitrage congress sent a resolution of sympathy to Italy.

Press Congress Gets to Work.

The press congress got down to various work today.

A paper was read by Mr. Singer urging the establishment of better conditions for journalists and that they fortify their place in the state and society by lifting up the profession to the height of a public function enjoying entire public confidence. The report of Mr. Fanney proposing an international press card good in all countries was accepted by unanimous vote.

Michael De Young of San Francisco was elected President of the American press section and M. Hebrard, director of the Temps, President of the French section.

Wait Wedding for Throne.

The Czar has decided to be present by witness at the marriage of King Alexander and has charged Count Mansouraw to represent him. The ceremony has been postponed because the Servian throne is in Paris as one of the decorations in the Servian palace at the exposition. The King has ordered it sent back and workmen packed it up today. It will arrive at the Servian capital for the ceremony on Thursday.

What Russia Would Like.

New York, Aug. 3.—An alliance between Russia and the United States for the settlement of the Chinese crisis is urged in a lengthy article in the Novoe Vremya, says a St. Petersburg despatch to the Herald. The journal points out that just as the Franco-Russian alliance neutralied the warlike menace of the triple alliance, so would a rapprochement between the northern empire and the United States consolidate the peace of eastern Asia.

Dishonest apple packing, like all other dishonest practices is sure to result in loss to those engaged in it. An extensive apple dealer is now visiting some of the chief apple growing sections of Ontario. He has received favorable reports of the crop but wishes to see for himself before the season opens in earnest. He has in his passion many letters from Old Country buyers who protest against the methods of packing. "This apple packing business is the biggest farce going," said he, "and I have decided to cease buying from any packer who did dishonest work last season. I will deal only with reliable men, and give them more for their fruit."

A Gang of Desperadoes.

Falkland, Ont. Aug. 2.—For some time past a gang of three men have been making themselves troublesome around Falkland by nightly depredations of various kinds. They have frequently been seen prowling around houses after midnight, peeping in windows, etc. Last night, while a young man named Walker, son of Mr. R. Walker, who is postmaster, and keeps a general store in Falkland, was returning from a neighbor's, he was set upon and threatened in the vilest language. He shook loose, and mounting the wheel he was riding when stopped by the gang, made off. The men chased him for some distance, and finding they could not overtake him, opened fire with a revolver. One bullet pierced his hat, but he escaped unhurt. The police have been unable to find any of the assailants, but are still on their track. Young Walker is positive he can identify them.

BIG WORDS.

A fight is being put up in the United States against the use of big words. The evil, for it is an evil, has done much to retard learning by unpopularizing science. It has led to a belief that science was a thing to be sanctified from public interest and only to be studied by those who had a special training in it. This is not the right way to get anything out of a department of learning. Science is merely truth. Why obfuscate truth with words so hard and to the commoners so meaningless? It is feared that this ancient practice of juggling everything into Latin had its origin in the wish of the jugglers to be considered by the multitude as something more than ordinary. Words were their trade secrets. Physicians wrote and continue to write in Latin and the hod carrier's wife who has a prescription to carry to the drug store is twice as deeply impressed by that fact than if the terms were written in English. The druggist, too, is able to charge twice as much for tarax acum as he would dare to charge for dandelion, and how many a poor devil has paid a fancy price for table salt in a prescription when it appeared in a chemical formula as chloride of sodium.

Chloride of sodium is not an ill phrase, for there is no other thing that truly describes the salt or indicates in what way it differs from salts that have their bases in other metals. There are equivalents, however, for many terms in use in botany, mineralogy, geology, zoology and entomology that might as well be English. The old excuse that scientific terms were based on dead tongues to make them uniform and therefore enable persons to recognize them in any language presuppose the ability to talk and read several foreign languages. Is it not a fact that the constant use of turgid scientific language drives away interest, save in the case of the most desperately determined specialists? There is nothing so dry as a work of science whereas there should be nothing so interesting. Popular science has earned its name. The success of books and lectures on that theme attests the fact. And probably there is not one fact of whatsoever consequence that cannot as easily be told in our own tongue as in Latin.

Eating and Sleeping.

Food supplies the substance for repairing the wastes of the body, and gives strength. Sleep affords the opportunity for these repairs to be made. Both are necessary to health. If you can't eat and sleep, take Hood's Sarsaparilla. It creates a good appetite and tones the digestive organs, and it gives the sweet, restful sleep of childhood. Be sure to get Hood's.

NON-COM'S INDICTMENT.

Writes From Portuguese East Africa Complaining of the Treatment of the Men—Lack of Nourishment.

London, Aug. 3.—A non-commissioned officer, writing from Umtali, to the Daily Chronicle, says, in reference to the camp at Twenty-Three Mile creek—

Who is responsible for placing English troops in this hell of Portuguese East Africa? Who is responsible for feeding us on five hard biscuits a day and salt bully beef for five weeks without variety? Our treatment has been disgraceful. From Twenty-Three Mile creek we got to Bamboo creek, a condemned swamp. Truly the sight here was terrible to witness. A man was strong and healthy one minute, the next almost a corpse. Never while I live shall I forget this horrible white man's grave. Hundreds of enormous vultures circle round the camp. Dysentery rampant, and the men served with bad coffee, as owing to mismanagement the tea was sent forward.

The hospital tent was a disgrace. Men lay in stinking hot tents and never had their clothes taken off for five days. The orderlies got drunk and the sick were badly fed—starved—when good food could be had for money. There is an allowance of a guinea a day per sick man Where is it?

It is a fact that two men who died at Bamboo creek and were buried beneath the shade of a palm tree died of "lack of nourishment." I call it starvation. This is a serious thing to say, but it is the truth.

Let us mention three men, men in the true sense of the word, who took the sick man's cause to heart—Col. Park, Sir Wm. Miller and Sir R. Crossley. Sir William kicked up a terrible row and did his best to get a court-martial, but the men would not back him up. He gave all his luxuries to the sick, even his clothes, and spent all his money, why was it not used?

Farewell to Glenwood.

Written for the Times by a Guest of Mr. David Breeze's Stoney Lake Summer Resort.

Farewell to Glenwood hills and vales,
And isles that here abound.
Farewell ye Breeze's and ye gales,
And pleasant spots around.

Farewell to host and fair guest too,
Who brighten Glenwood's home
Like flowers of bright, but varying hue,
Each peerless in her own.

Farewell thou thoughtful, heaving lake,
Now restful and now torn,
Thy massive walls of veil can make
Mid raging chaos born.

And now to Glenwood fare thee well,
Another year will bring me
Thy many charms to sing and tell
Thy praises high I'll sing thee.

THREE CITIES.

There are 90,000 trees in the city of Paris, including 15,000 willows, 17,000 chestnuts and 26,000 plane trees.

The city of Akron, O., is entitled to the credit for installing the first automobile police patrol. It is of the largest size, having a seating capacity of 20 persons and was built at a cost of $2,200.

Los Angeles has the reputation of being almost tropical, but it is not a warm city either in summer or winter. The temperature is seldom above 78 at any season, and that is about equal to 68 in New York. May and June seem to be the coldest months in the year.

A CURIOUS LAKE.

A curious phenomenon is that metal never rusts in the waters of Lake Titicaca. You can throw in a chain or an anchor or any article of ordinary iron and let it lie for weeks, and when you haul it up it will be as clean and bright as when it came from the foundry. And, what is stranger still, rust that has been formed upon metallic objects elsewhere will peel off when immersed in its waters. This is frequently noticed by railway and steamship men. Rusty car wheels and rails and even machinery can be brightened by soaking them in the waters of Lake Titicaca.—Chicago Record.

Just where the large crowds that suddenly fill the galleries of the senate and house when a notable speech is being made come from is a puzzle. They spring up, however, and as strangely disappear into nothingness.

RISKS

Are run by every woman who has household cares. It is so easy just to run out of the warm house into the fresh air, to pin a piece of lace to the clothes line. It is also easy to take cold in doing so. Then perhaps comes suppression and kindred evils. Whenever there is any disturbance of the normal womanly function Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription may be relied upon to re-establish perfect health. It is strictly a temperance medicine, containing no alcohol or whisky, neither opium, cocaine nor other narcotic.

"Several years ago I suffered severely from female weakness, prolapsus and menorrhagia, and used 'Favorite Prescription' with splendid effect," writes Fannie Shelton, of Washington, Iowa. "Glad I have not needed it for a few years past but if I should have a return of the old trouble would surely try 'Favorite Prescription.' I have recommended it to a number of my lady friends. I always tell them to try a bottle and if they are not benefited by it I will pay for the medicine. In every case they have spoken in praise of it."

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well.

PUZZLED HIS PAP.

Questions That Made the Boy's Father Take a Day Off.

"Going to take the day off, eh?" said the chief of division to the clerk when the latter reported at the office at 9 o'clock and put in a slip for a day's leave. "Nothing the matter, I hope? No sickness at home, is there?"

"No," replied the clerk drearily, leaning heavily on the chief's desk. "No sickness or anything like that. But I've got to put in a day of research. It's this way: That 10-year-old boy of mine sprung a lot of 'em on me when he was going over his lessons after dinner last night that stumped me and put me temporarily out of business. This was one of them:

"'Three-eighths of a pole stands in the mud, one-fifth in the water, and the remainder of the pole, 21 feet, is above the water. What is the total length of the pole?'

"Sounds dead easy, doesn't it?" went on the clerk. "Well, it just stood me on my head, that's what it did. Y'see, I took my civil service examination over ten years ago, and I've tried earnestly and prayerfully to forget all the digging I had to do to squeeze through that. Then he asked me how old George Washington was when he died, how old the Polack Kosciusko was when he offered his sword to the Revolutionary commanders, the date of the battle of Bunker Hill, the nature of the Missouri compromise and 10 or 15 little ones like that. I had to extinguish him by telling him that I was reading my paper, but I promised him that I'd give him all the answers tomorrow, Sunday, in time for him to be right on them at school on Monday. Now, that kid thinks I'm 'It.' He thinks I know it all. He brags to all the other kids in the neighborhood that his dad can give their dads cards and spades and big cassino and beat them to death when it comes to Brains with an upper case B.

"Well, I want to have him go right on thinking that. I wouldn't lose that young one's exalted opinion of me for a house and lot. It 'ud be a solar plexus finish for me to have him direct the blighting gaze of suspicion at me. So I'm going up to the library, yank out a bundle o' books of reference, get the answers to that list of questions, and tonight I'll spring 'em on the kid in an offhand sort of way, as if I knew 'em all the time, but just didn't have time to give 'em to him. I couldn't stand it to have that kid get on to me; not just yet anyhow. He'll have time to do that when he grows up."—Washington Post.

New Zealand Oddities.

The crow in New Zealand strikes as sweet a note as any heard in the woodland, says Henry D. Lloyd in The Atlantic. The robin has no song and no red breast; the native hen is the greatest of rat killers; there is a caterpillar which turns into a plant. These and some other productions of nature have done for New Zealand what the kangaroo and the ornithorhynchus have done for Australia—given it the suggestion of oddity and the marvelous. Rabbits and sweetbriers, introduced for pleasure, spread like wildfire, and it is an attraction to be duly advertised in the sale of land that it has been cleared of sweetbrier and fenced against rabbits, and then later the rabbit becomes a profit instead of a pest and is exported by millions to feed the English.

Amateur Photography.

Let me call attention to one of the most universally popular mistakes that have to do with photography—that of classing supposedly excellent work as professional and using the term amateur to convey the idea of immature productions and to excuse atrociously poor photographs. As a matter of fact nearly all the greatest work is being and has always been done by those who are following photography for the love of it, and not merely for financial reasons. As the name implies, an amateur is one who works for love, and viewed in this light the incorrectness of the popular classification is readily apparent.—Alfred Stieglitz in Scribner's.

Minnesota's First Book.

The Rev. S. W. Dickinson, an agent for the American Bible society, says that the first book printed in Minnesota was a Bible. It was printed in 1836, about 18 years before the first issue of a newspaper in St. Paul. The Bible was in the Ojibway language and was printed on the mission press at Lake Pokegama, Pine county, under the supervision of Rev. Mr. Ayer, who likewise had charge of the mission farm at that point.

SCAVENGER OF THE VELDT.

The Aasvogel, Which Keeps the Wide Plains Clean.

Although the term "vulture" has been used for all time as a term of the vilest opprobrium, no one who knows the bird, its appearance and its habits could doubt for a moment that it expresses a depth of degradation which is barely conceivable.

And yet the vulture does a great deal of good in acting as the scavenger of the veldt. But for his quick eye, carrion taste and love of dead meat the disease germs in the carcasses of dead oxen would be far more prolific and dangerous.

Throughout South Africa is found the aasvogel. Go anywhere you like on the veldt, and sooner or later—and in all probability the former—you will find the remains of his ghastly meal. There are hundreds of thousands of oxen used in the transport and trekking service. Many of them die from exhaustion, want of water or cruelty from their Boer masters. Or they may eat of the poisonous tulp, a bulbous plant growing in marshy places.

A kurneyor, or teamster, soon knows if any one or more of his oxen have been eating tulp. The neck of the ox swells, his eyes close up, he gives short, sharp coughs, and his case is generally hopeless. Sometimes, however, he may be saved, and this by a peculiar, homeopathic sort of remedy. If the bulb of the tulp plant is crushed into pulp, mashed with hot water and forced boiling hot down the throat of the ox he may recover.

The quickness of the eye of the aasvogel is simply astounding. An ox falls out of the team, evidently ill. He is outspanned from his yoke fellow, and he goes down to the spruit, or stream. The sky above and away to the horizon on all sides is absolutely clear and cloudless.

Hardly has the breath left the body of the poor ox than you may observe far, far away up in the sky a tiny black speck, then another and another and another, until there are 20 of them. Gradually they get larger and larger, circling round in ever diminishing circles all the while they descend. The dead ox forms the center of the circumference of their flight. Within a few minutes the grisly horde swoop down upon the still warm beast and commence their ghoulish task.

An hour afterward there is nothing in the spruit but a bundle of bleached white bones that might have been there for months. The sky is clear and speckless again. The aasvogel has scavenged the veldt.

Whittier's Predicament.

Whittier held "Gail Hamilton" (Abigail Dodge) in the highest esteem, and the letters that passed between them are really most delightful. Here is one of the series in The Ladies' Home Journal that is truly characteristic of Whittier. It was written in 1866:

"I must tell thee something droll. Last week the Amoskeag veterans from New Hampshire and a Massachusetts company, with military bands, came and paraded before our house, and Governor Smyth of New Hampshire and one or two officers called on me. When they left and I stepped out to see them civilly off, the men in epaulets got up a grand military salute, with music and three cheers to wind up with! Was ever a Quaker in such a predicament? I did, I fear, somewhat compromise myself by lifting, almost involuntarily, my hand to my hat. But I resisted the temptation and only pulled my hat lower down over my brows by way of testimony."

PEN, PENCIL AND BRUSH.

Now that John Ruskin is dead a "Ruskin union" has been formed in London for the purpose of studying his works.

Emperor William has commissioned William Pape, the artist, to paint the scene of Archbishop Simar rendering homage.

The name of Samuel Smiles has been so long forgotten by the reading public that many will probably be surprised to learn that the author of "Self Help" is still alive. He lives in London.

Winston Spencer Churchill, the British war correspondent now in the Transvaal, has published his first novel. It bears the title "Savrola" and depicts the political intrigue and revolution in the imaginary republic of Laurania.

The clay model for the bust of the late Joseph Medill of Chicago has been badly damaged in some way in the studio of the sculptor, Richard H. Park of Chicago, and he will have to reproduce it from memory.

ROYAL NAMES A HOODOO.

One of the Strangest Superstitions of the English Navy.

One of the very strongest and most ineffaceable of all superstitions in the royal navy, a superstition that is almost as strong today as ever it was, is that vessels bearing the names of royal personages are doomed to ill luck, and, strange as it may seem, there is an undeniable historic basis for this feeling.

Some of the most terrible disasters ever known in connection with our navy have concerned war vessels with royal names. Two vessels called the Royal James came to disastrous ends. One of them exploded, and some 800 officers and seamen perished. The other ship so named was actually carried out of the mouth of the Thames by the Dutch Admiral de Ruyter under circumstances disgraceful to those in charge of the craft.

Then there is the forever memorable disaster to the Royal George, an unlucky ship previously, that turned over and sank in sight of crowds at Spithead, over 1,000 souls, among whom were 300 women, being sacrificed. And second only to this hideous disaster is that which afterward befell the Royal Charlotte, which, after a career of much vicissitude, was consumed by fire off Leghorn, over 800 of the very flower of the navy perishing with her.

When in 1893 the Victoria, a new vessel and the very triumph of modern invention so far as naval architecture went, was rammed and sank at once in sight of the whole fleet and when hundreds of lives were lost, there was not a sailor, however matter of fact he might be, who did not remember the dire fate of the royally named craft. These instances are only the greater ones. A score of smaller ones are reeled off by every royal navy man.—Tit-Bits.

INK AS A WITNESS.

Results In One Case Which Amazed the Attorneys.

In a case in the supreme court it was alleged that interlineations had been made in the papers after they were filed, and the papers were submitted to expert chemists to decide whether the interlineations had been made after the papers were filed or at the time the paper was drawn. The process followed by the chemists was simple, though tedious.

Hypochloride of soda was the only chemical used by the expert, but the result was the same as that arrived at by the other experts. Tests were made on each line of the document. The soda bleached the ink, and, as the writing in some parts was done many years ago, the first drop of soda was placed on a line which was not in controversy. The writing slowly faded, and it was 51 seconds before it was bleached.

A drop on another interlineation faded the writing in 49 seconds, on another in 51 seconds, and the interlineations made when the paper was first written faded in about 50 seconds on an average. Suddenly the ink of one of the interlineations faded in 15 seconds, and the conclusion was at once reached that it was fresher ink than the others, as the ink had not had time to thoroughly permeate the fiber of the paper.

Several interlineations were found to fade in from 13 to 16 seconds, and these were marked as having been made at a more recent date.

After all interlineations had been so marked, the next step was to ascertain as nearly as possible at what date the interlineations were made, and for this purpose many manuscripts in which similar ink was used on the same kind of paper were taken. The exact date of the writing of each manuscript was known, and soda was dropped on each, beginning with the date of writing of the manuscript in controversy. The time necessary to fade the ink gradually decreased from 52 and 50 seconds as the soda was dropped on the manuscripts of more recent years.

When the fading took place in 20 seconds, manuscripts but a month apart in writing were used, and the fading in 14 and 15 seconds was thus fixed in a certain month. The examining chemists knew nothing of the points in the controversy, and the report was made that certain interlineations were probably made in the specified month. The attorneys in the case were amazed, as the month named was that in which they believed the more recent writing had been done.—Indianapolis Press.

Uses For Bicycles.

There are many uses to which an old cycle can be put. It is said that a theater manager has made rather an excellent chandelier out of his old wheel. He also uses an old tricycle for producing the effect of wind, hail and railway trains. A navvy is said to have made a clock almost all out of parts of an old machine. The bell strikes the hours, and a length of solid rubber tire holds the pendulum, which is a bicycle fork. At one small place a man has turned a discarded wheel into a kind of pump, and the tires do duty for the pipe hose. Another has made a treadle sewing machine out of his wheel. A grocer has turned part of a cycle into a coffee grinding machine, and a bell ringer, being rather feeble in the arm, has an old cycle which he has raised and fixed in one position, and so by a pulley arrangement he can when gently pedaling ring the bell vigorously. Many folks use their old wheels for flower stands, and there is a man who is making quite a decent living by turning old bicycles into conveyances on which washerwomen can take home the weekly load.—London Globe.

The Crusades and Embroidery.

The crusades had a marked effect on the demand for embroidery, as besides the decoration of their cloaks and pouches the kings and their followers wanted gorgeously worked hangings for their tents and heraldic blazons for their banners. The last were difficult of execution, and new stitches were invented, and applique work was introduced about this time. The Spaniards are said to have learned the use of spangles and other metal and bead ornaments as applied to stuffs from the Saracens. Later precious stones and pearls were used, and in 1414 Charles of Orleans spent about £40 for 960 pearls which were to be used in ornamenting a great coat on the sleeves of which were embroidered the verses of a song beginning with "Madam, I am all joyous." The musical accompaniment of the words was also embroidered.—Spectator.

Worth Seeing.

A Newcastle laborer recently resolved to treat himself to a night at the theater, and, entering the pit by the back of the orchestra, he happened to see the double bass viol set up against a music stand.

Having never seen anything of the kind before, he leaned his arm on the orchestra rail and stood transfixed with amazement. The pit was filling rapidly, and an acquaintance, tapping him on the shoulder, said if he didn't take a seat they would soon be all occupied.

"Wey, wey, hinny," he exclaimed excitedly, "never heed a seat. Aal I want is a look o' the chap that's gaan to put that fiddle oonder his chin."—London Fun.

Bad Enough.

Patient—It is such a terrible thing to die of consumption!

Doctor—Perhaps you would like to have me call in other physicians in consultation?

Patient—No, I don't know that a complication of diseases would be any better to die of.—Detroit Journal.

CURTAIN RAISERS.

Marie Tempest denies the report that she intends to sing in the music halls in London.

Charles Frohman is having a play, based on Peg Woffington, written for Maude Adams.

This thing grows. Fay Templeton mimics Fougere, and Fougere mimics Fay Templeton's mimicry of her.

Wilson Barrett's "Sign of the Cross" has been translated into Polish and has made quite a success in Warsaw.

Mrs. Campbell is to revive some of the Maeterlinck plays in London and produce others never seen there before.

Robert Loraine, Julie Opp's former husband, who was to have acted with Ada Rehan in England, has gone to South Africa.

Marie Wainwright has engaged Payton Gibbs to play Napoleon to her Josephine in her vaudeville sketch, "Napoleon Versus Josephine."

Wilson Barrett has added Robert Hichens in his dramatization of his novel, "The Londoners," and will act in the play in all probability.

Henrik Ibsen's "When the Dead Awake" has been acted in three German cities with success, although without giving the impression that it was likely to enjoy lasting popularity on the stage.

It seems that the new theater in St. Martin's lane, London, will not be owned by Charles Frohman after all, though that energetic American impresario will hold the lease of it and will establish there his London comedy troupe, headed by Seymour Hicks and Ellaline Terriss.

THE COLORADO COPPER MINING COMPANY is fortunate in being the possessor of five splendid showing properties in the great Salida copper belt, the principal copper producing region of this portion of the Rockies. All of our claims have been more or less developed, and it is our purpose to put the same on a paying basis at once.

Our company owns, clear of [illegible], the following claims: The Sedalia Extension, the Sedalia Extension No. 2, which property adjoins the great Sedalia mine, which has been a big producer for upwards of seventeen years; the Copper King of Colorado, which immediately adjoins the above; the Copper Queen of Salida, a very promising property, only a few steps from the depot in Salida. This claim occupies an imposing position on a mountain just north of the city; and last, but by no means least, the Sunshine, located two miles east of Salida, at Cleora Station, on the main-trunk line of the great Denver & Rio Grande Railroad, and also on the Arkansas river, which in length is one of America's greatest streams.

A Big Sale of Republic Stocks

THE FAIRFAX CO., OF REPUBLIC, J. J. Brown, Pres., Willis Merriam Treas., after securing the Jim. Hill claim adjoining it on the north, sampled the ledge and W. H. Stowell reports on this cropping $36 [illegible] in gold, immediately upon the result becoming known in Republic, a Mining Supt., through our agent there, Tom Ansel, negotiated the purchase of $1,000 worth of Treasurer's stock, the company has authorized me to place a small amount of this stock at 5cts. Remember the Fairfax and Jim. Hill are less than 300 feet from the Mountain Lion, which is now $1.00 per share, and is an investment at that. The Fairfax at 5 cts., is a speculation. Work is to be pushed.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS

The Times' Megaphone.

The very thing for Stony Lake cottagers and campers. It will carry the voice half a mile to a mile and a half. Made in two sizes. Price $1.25 and $1.50. Every cottager should have one.

Arrested Yesterday.

Conductor Kerr and Engineer Maybee were arrested yesterday in Belleville, as a result of the verdict reached at the Coroner's inquest upon the bodies of the victims of the accident of the Grand Junction Railway last week.

A Snap.

Photographs, mounted on a heart shaped velvet pad, with easel, of all the Generals serving in the South African war—the nicest novelty out for 20 cents each. Also a large colored picture 18 x 24 for ten cents. Times Bookstore.

Look Sharp for Swindlers.

A gang of swindlers are travelling through the rural districts claiming to examine wells. They examine the water through a microscope and find all kinds of bacteria; cholera and typhoid germs, and permit the farmer and his wife to look through the microscope, where of course they see a menagerie, that will always be found in a drop of water. The frightened farmer is advised to apply certain remedies which the fakirs sell at a high price and which proves to be a plain soda.

Thrown Out.

On Wednesday evening as Wm McCrae, a travler, and a friend were driving in from Chemong about eleven o'clock, their horse took fright at a red light just at the turn into town and ran away. At the corner of Reid and McDonnel-sts. the buggy collided with a telegraph pole and was smashed into kindling wood, the horse escaping. Mr. McCrae was stunned by the shock, but on recovering was found to be uninjured. His companion was thrown out before the buggy struck, but was also uninjured.

Ottawa Central Fair.

Ottawa's Annual Exhibition at Lansdowne Park will, without a doubt, be far in advance of anything that has yet been placed before the public. There are so many new features, such originality of arrangement, such a quantity of special attractions and such care and pains-taking in the accommodation both for exhibitors and visitors that such a thing as a dissatisfied visitor will be a curiosity. Since the departure of Strathcona's Horse for South Africa the buildings which had been used as a barracks for the volunteers have been thoroughly overhauled and renovated and are now ready for the reception of the exhibits. The duration the exhibition will be from September 14th to September 22nd. While this is not so lengthy as that of last year, it was deemed advisable to make the exhibition shorter and increase the number of attractions thus ensuring satisfaction for every guest. With the increased capacity of the exhibition buildings and the grand stand there will be plenty of room for all this fair in the specified time and although the attendance will be far greater than that of other years the management are in a position to handle the crowd no matter how large it may be.

Making More Trade.

Almost every business can be stimulated by persistent advertising. A porportion of mankind is disposed to do without many things until attention has been called to their needs. The advertiser not only gets a large share of the business that is being done, but he also increases the volume of trade. Everybody reads the Times.

The father of one of them went to Belleville to locate the youngsters, but they had gone westward to Port Hope and from there to Peterborough, and his boy returned home the following day.

From South Africa.

Mr John Armour has received a letter from his son, who is in South Africa fightin for the Empire. Armour with Orpen's Horse. At the outbreak of hostilities he left for South Africa, reaching the cape in November. Private Armour writes that the detachment has been in the saddle for four months, sleeping only on the veldt, that their clothing has gone to rags, with no chance to replace them, but that they were still in hot pursuit of the Boers, who are described as cowardly unless they have great advantage of numbers and position. As soon as the war is over Mr. Armour will return to Peterborough.

Here's a Proposition.

Recognising the need of first class summer hotels in this district, the G. T. R. has made a proposition to Lindsay men that if a company can be formed to build, equip and run a hotel, the G. T. R. will guarantee 6 pre cent. on the investment. The G. T. R. stipulates that the hotel must be first class in its accomodation, built from approved plans, and to be a not less than $2.00 per day house. If the hotel be located at a good point reached by the line, the railway will fill it with summer visitors who will pay the rate, and who do not want accommodation such as could be offered at a lower figure. Lindsay men are working up a company to build such a hotel at Sturgeon Bay, on the site of the one destroyed by fire some years ago. The G. T. R. has also given it to be understood that a similar proposition will hold good at any other locality in the lakes reigon. Has Peterborough any capitalists who are willing to take the Grand Trunk's 6 per cent?

The Times at Summer Resorts.

The Morning Times is sent to summer resorts and residences, addressed to individuals at thirty cents a month. Persons visiting the lakes and other places may have the Times addressed to them for as short a period as one week.

VISITING FINANCIERS.

Hon. Mr. Stratton and Mr. Coffee of Toronto Have Arrived.

From the Victoria, B.C. Colonist—

Arrivals from the mainland last night were the Hon. J. R. and Mrs. Stratton, T. P. Coffee, all of Toronto. Mr. Stratton, who at present holds the portfolio of provincial secretary in the Hardy administration, in the province of Ontario, occupies also a leading position amongst the financiers of Eastern Canada, being president of both the Trusts and General, and the Dominion Permanent Loan Co., of Toronto. Of these two companies, Mr. Coffee is respectively, the vice-president and general manager. Together, the two already have over half a million dollars invested in various securities of British Columbia, and the present is a visit of general inspection of there investments. Not only are the various securities being looked up, but new fields of investment are also being investigated by these two gentlemen. All the leading towns of the province are being visited, and are receiving critical consideration.

Seen last evening, the Hon Mr. Stratton stated that so far they had been particularly well pleased with the outlook, and had found the investments made by his companies exceedingly satisfactory. In the Kootenay, matters were found to be in an excellent position, well warranting the confidence that was again being placed in that field by the capitalists of Eastern Ontario. For some time, a while back, Kootenay propositions had received a black eye, but this was now well outgrown, and companies were pressing on the development, while many prospects are now finding capital ready and willing to undertake their exploitation.

This measure of growth and prosperity Mr. Stratton considered was not confined to this province alone, as from ocean to ocean and particularly it might be said of either Coast, great industries were springing up and offering magnificent returns to both investor and wage earner.

Mr. Coffee is a guest at the Driard, while Mr. and Mrs. Stratton are visiting Mr. Stratton's brother-in-law, Mr. D. T. McDonald, of Oak Bay avenue. They will leave on Friday on their return Eastward, making several visits at various towns en route.

I. O. F. Excursion.

Court Chemong and Court Queen Independent Orde rof Foresters will run an excursion to Jubilee Point on Saturday next. The excursion will leave Peterborough at 1.30. Good music for dancing. Tickets 40cts., J. H. Heslop and Mrs A. Dunsford Sec's of Com.

Tickets may be secured from J. H. McQuay's confectionery store, George st., W. Byers, C. P. R. freight sheds, or Mrs. P. Metherall, Sec. of Com.

A Sad Affliction.

The citizens will all sympathize with Mr. and Mrs. Cressman and family in the sickness which has overtaken them. Two weeks ago yesterday Master Harry was taken ill with what was only supposed to be a bilious attack. The following Saturday Mr. Cressman and Master Fred came home sick, and a short time after Mr. Oles, Mr. Cressman's nephew, who lives in the house with them, was likewise stricken. It was then discovered that they were suffering from typhoid feaver. On Wednesday little Jessie, four years old who had been sent to Dr. Caldwell's for the time being, was also laid low. It appears that defective plumbing was the cause of the outbreak; Everybody will sympathize with the family in their affliction, and trust they may all soon recover.

Wedding Bells.

An interesting event occured yesterday at the St. Luke's church which was the scene of the marriage of Dr. G. H. Groves, of Carp, Carelton Co., to Miss Kate Godard, daughter of the late A. H. Godard, of Ottawa. The bridegroom was supported by Messrs. T. Verner, and C. McElroy, of Carp, Miss Gillard, of Grafton, cousin of the bridesmaid and Miss Grace Bell as maid of honor. Among the guests were Mrs. Max, of Chatham, and Miss Godard, of Grafton, sisters of the bride, Miss M. Gillard, of Grafton, Mr. and Mrs. Boara, cousin of the bride, Mr. Chas. Spillsbury, Miss Spillsbury, Master Gorder-Gillard, and Osler Monk Graves. After the ceremony the party drove to the residence of Mrs. F. L. Bell, Brock street, sister of the bride, where the wedding dinner was partaken of. The happy couple leave on the C. P. R. 4.45 to-day for the west, accompanied by the best wishes of their relatives and friends.

Rowdyism in Keene.

For some time there has been considerable rowdyism in Keene, the tough element in the neighborhood being very numerous. A fight occured a few days ago, of such a disgraceful character that the matter came before County Police Magistrate Edminson, on Wednesday, when Phil. Elmhurst was fined $2 and cost.

Enlarging His Livery Barn.

Owing to the increase in his livery business, Mr. Robert Leary has been compelled to enlarge his barns. He has purchased Mr. Robert Fife's livery barn on Water street, and has left the contract to Mr. T. Rutherford, to have the building remodeled and fitted up in first class style. The roof of the present barn will be raised one story and on the first flat he will have an office fitted up. Mr. Laery has enjoyed a good patronage, and when his new stables are fitted up, which will be in the course of a few weeks, he will have a livery that is second to none in Ontario.

Boers Attacked Smith-Dorien, But They Were Easily Repulsed

REPORTED CAPTURE OF A COMMANDO OF 750

General DeWet's Force Appears to be Still Very Active in the Neighborhood of Potchefstrom.

Pretoria, Aug. 3.—President Kruger and Commandant Botha have issued a proclamation promising that they will be responsible for damage done to the farms by the British, providing the Burghers remain with the Commanders.

London, Aug. 4.—General Hunter's force is still on the move after the scattered army of General Prinsloo, and it is reported that he has captured another commando of seven hundred and fifty men, making in all very close upon three thousand prisoners gathered in during last week. The success of General Hunter's operations are as encouraging to the British as they are discouraging to the enemy. The good effect, therefore, is doubted by the strengthening of the one force and the disheartening of the other. The London Daily Mail's Pretoria despatch indicating a willingness on the part of General Botha to surrender is without the elements of probability. That general is in the best position of all the Boer leaders to hold out. He is in a fertile district, and within reach of easily defended positions in the Lydenburg mountains; President Kruger is not far away with about six million dollars in gold with which to purchase supplies, and better prospects of resistance than De Wet or any of the others. It is possible that Kruger has come to the conclusion that he better surrender before his gold has been exhausted, and thus have some provision for his declining years. In that case he would be in a position to influence Botha to drop the fight. Up to the present, however, there has been nothing to justify the belief that the President would submit while any of his generals are fighting. A complete abandonment of the war would in all probability speedily follow the capture of De Wet's force, but unfortunately that contingency does not appear to be immediately at hand, for General Smith-Dorien has suffered an attack from a force that must be a portion of De Wet's command, showing that the burghers still have some vigor left, and that they are not yet cornered. The Boer force is rapidly dwinding, however. Hunter has taken three thousand of the five thousand who were operating in the eastern portion of the Orange River colony, and with the exception of De Wet and Botha the other Boer forces are so scattered as to be ineffactive. The end does not draw near as quickly as the public desires, but it is coming none the less.

An Asthetic Young Man Walks Home in a Bathing Suit.

Residents in the neighborhood of the river above Dickson's dam received a rude shock yesterday morning. It appears that a young man, who evidently has been at Coney Island or some similar bathing place, where people go around in a more or less nude condition, donned bathing suit, and proceeded to the river where he took a plunge. Returning he was the observed of all observers. Dogs even barked at him, but he didn't mind it a bit.

He proceeded quite leisurely up Water to George street, and then went to his home. It is certainly an innovation.

WELLAND CANAL OUTRAGE

Commissioner Sherwood of the Dominion Police Lays the Blame on Tramps

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—Special—Commissioner Sherwood, of the Dominion Police has returned from Tonawanda where he has been investigating the finding of the alleged despatch. He found that the despatch was concocted by two newspaper men with the knowledge of a member of the police force, but not of the chief of the police whom he entirely exonerates from any blame.

In regard to the shooting at the police patrol at Merritton on the Welland canal, Mr. Sherwood is satisfied that the outrage was the work of tramps. Two tramps had endeavoured to get through the tunnel under the canal, and had been turned back by the police. Afterwards a shot was fired at the patrol, who returned the fire, and must have hit one of the men, as there were marks of blood found in the vicinity of where the shot was fired by the unknown man.

The commissioner has also been inspecting the circulation of worthless New Brunswick and New Jersey bank bills in Montreal. The hotel keeper at Prescott admits that he gave an American the $10 Consolidated Bank of Toronto bill, hwich was returned marked worthless, but states that he cannot say from whom he received it.

THE PLOT HATCHED IN WEST HOBOKEN

Detectives Have Found the Room Where Plot Was Formed.

BRESCI PRACTICED SHOOTING

Detectives Think They have Found the Room Where Bresci and His Anarchist Friends Arranged Humbert's Assassination.

New York, Aug. 3.—Detectives have found the room in which it is asserted the plot to kill King Humbert was formed. It is on the second floor of a West Hoboken resort for Anarchists, in the heart of the Italian settlement.

These detectives say they learned last night from a Socialist who attended a meeting at this place that less than four months ago an important conference was held in this room by Anarchists from New York, city Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Paterson and West Hoboken.

It is learned that the assassin Bresci was a member of what is known as the "International Group" of Anarchists. This brand have the reputation of being good rifle shots as well as handy men with revolvers. These "Internationalists," contest for prizes at 'Beer picnics," and the Anarchist men and women, who know what their shooting practise really means, make heroes of them. Captain McClusky is looking into this matter very thoroughly. If there is any rifle practise going on he intends to put a stop to it. Bresci's aim was so sure that he evidently had had practise and plenty of it.

A Washington special says that Secretary Hay has been advised by the Governor of New Jersey that he will make every effort to establish whether or not King Humbert's assassination was the result of a conspiracy hatched in Paterson.

MARRBOROUGH'S EXPERIENCE

Returns Home Well and Unharmed in Spite of Many Narrow Shaves.

London, Aug. 4.—The Duke of Marlborough had a most interesting experience in South Africa, and, though participating in many fights and undergoing long marches, came through without a scratch or a day's illness. After leaving Bloemfontein where he was attached to Lord Roberts's staff, the Duke joined Gen. Ian Hamilton, acting as "galloper" for him during the hard-fouhgt progress toward Pretoria. The Duke had several narrow shaves. On one occasion a shell burst within a few feet of him. A fragment hit Gen. Hamilton in the small of the back and knocked him down, but by great luck it failed to penetrate. The Duke of Marlborough escaped all the flying fragments.

The Duke has returned home because Gen. Hamilton's staff has been broken up, Hamilton not needing his services longer. The Duke says he is proud of his Yeomanry, though he was with them but a short time. He was immensely struck with the Canadians, and is perfectly satisfied that the British soldiers, especially the infantrymen, is as good as any in the world.

THE ALASKAN BOUNDRY

The Provincial Boundry to be Adhered to

FINAL SETTLEMENT LATER

A Fatal Disease Breaks Out Amongst the Northern Gold Seekers

United States Tax on Bank Notes—Electric Lighting in British Cities—British Ambassador at Washington.

Washington, Aug. 4.—The threatened trouble over the Alaskan boundary seems to have been only a flash in the pan. The Demoncratic papers have printed a few editorials denouncing the President for sacrificing American interests and territory and making the point that he is "scuttling" there while standing so firmly against the Filipions, but the country has refused to get excited on the subject, and it has already been nearly forgotten. It is thought unfortunate that the Porcupine mining district, which has always been supposed to be American, should have fallen on the Canadian side of the provisional boundary, but it only illustrates the unsettled character of Alaskan geography, where the maps are often more than a hundred miles out in locating even important points. It is remembered that the Canadians are not any better satisfied with the provisional boundary than are the Americans. When the provisonal line was agreed upon between the British and the American governments October 21 of last year there was prompt and vigorous complaint from Ottawa that Canadian rights had been ignored and that the Dominion's interests had been sacrificed by England in order to come to an amicable understanding with American. Canada, both before the High Joint Commission and in the subsequent negotiations, contended strongly for a port of entry on the Lynn Canal, but this was not conceded. As it does not seem possible to please everybody, the governments concerned will probably do the next best thing by pleasing themselves in adhering to the provisional boundary until such time as the subject can be reopened with some reasonable hope of success in a final settlement.

Sickness in the North.

Captain Cushing of the revenue cutter Rush has telegraphed to this city from Ounalaska that a very fatal disease said to resemble the grip exists in the seal islands in Behring Sea. There have been fifteen deaths already and others are probably dying. It is assumed that these deaths are principally among the natives, as there are only about ten whites on the islands.

U. S. Tax on Bank Notes.

For many years United States laws have provided for a tax of ten per cent on all bank notes, other than those of national banks, which circulate in this country. The intention of the law was to tax out of existence the old state bank currency, which was often worthless and lent itself to all sorts of frauds, but it has been decided that it applies to all foreign bank notes as well. The law has been brought to notice by the fact that the Bank of Clallam Co, in Washington State, had paid out $1,750 in Canadian banknotes and was much taken aback at being assessed $175 on them. In reply to a protest, the interal revenus office in this city responded that whenever Canadian bank notes, or the notes of any person, firm corporation, association, or company, whether foreign or domestic (other than a national banking association), were passed from hand to hand anywhere in the United States in payment of debts or in the purchase of goods, it had been held that they are used for circulation in the United States, and that any bank receiving these notes so used and paying them out again in the United States is required to pay the tax of 10 per cent. on the amount of the notes thus paid out or sold. Canadians should take notice and avoid sending their bank notes to the United States.

Electric Matters.

United States Consul Halstead writes from Birmingham, England in regard to the electric lighting of British cities. He says, in part; "A few of the main thoroughfares of London will soon be electrically lighted, some poles having recently been put int oposition. Piccaddilly had a few as long ago as the fall of 1896, and no doubt the success of that experiment is regarded as warranting extension on careful lines. Birmingham is still a gas lighted city, and there seems to be no street electric lighting movement, though on January 2 last the corporation took under its municipal wing the small electric lighting company. New mains are been put in to position. Piccaddily electric street lighting must come up within a year or two, as must also the question of cost to consumers. Cork is one of the smallest towns with electric service and gets its electricity as cheaply as any city."

The British Ambassador.

Lord and Lady Pauncefote and Miss Audrey Pauncefote were the Washington guests at the large dinner given by Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish at Newport on Saturday evening. Both Lord and Lady Pauncefote are extremly popular at the summer metropolis, while the young daughter and Miss May Goelet are the leading belles of the smart cottage set.

TRUE STORY OF THE SIEGE AT PEKIN

Dr. Morrison Says the Chinese Are to Blame

THEY ARE VERY TREACHEROUS

The Times' Correspondent Sends a Graphic Despatch Detailing the Treachery of the Chinese Government.

London, Aug. 4.—The statement that the relieving force had actually started for Pekin rests at present on the sold authority of the Belgian representative in Shanghai. It is remarked here that the movement may be merely a preliminary reconnaissance towards Yang Tsun.

The advance will begin without a supreme commander being selected. This is definitely stated in Berlin, where there is no insistance upon a German being selected as the commander. Indeed, it is pointed out that, as the German force at Tien Tsin is only 300, the acceptance of the commandership by a German would be impossible. It is asserted also in Berlin that the Americans and British will act under a common commander, but it is not indicated whether this will be General Caffee or General Gaselee.

The Russians are reported to have captured some forts ten miles from Tien Tsin in the direction of Pekin. Ten thousand Chinese, who were garrisoning the forts, fled.

STORY OF THE SIEGE.

The Times to-day prints a long despatch from Dr Morrison, the famous correspondent at Pekin. He holds up the Chinese Government before the world or guilty, and to a degree of infamy and duplicity that exceeds the surmise of its worst detractors. In the same despatch he gives a more hopeful view of the prospects of the besieged that has been expressed by any of the others who have been heard from.

Simultaneously there comes from the Belgian Charge d'Affairs at Shanghai an offical statement that the allies are expected to reach Pekin in about a week, they being 18 miles from Tien Tsin yesterday.

Dr. Morrison says. — "There has been a cessation of hostilities here since July 18th, but for fear of treachery there has been no relaxation of vigilance. The Chinese soldiers continue to strengthen the barricades around the besiged area and also the batteries on top of the Imperial city wall, but in the meantime they have discontinued firing, probably because they are short of ammunition.

THEIR BASE TREACHERY.

"The main bodies of the Imperial soldiers have left Pekin in order to meet the relief forces. Supplies are beginning to come in, and the condition of the beseiged is improving.

"The despatch to Queen Victoria was sent to the Tsung Li Yamen by the Grand Council on July 3rd, yet the day before an Imperial edict had been issued calling on the Boxers to render loyal and patriotic service in exterminating the Christains. The edict also commanded Viceroys and Governors to expel all missionaries from China, and to arrest all Christians and compel them to renounce their faith. Other decrees applauding the Boxers speak approvingly of their burning out and slaying converts.

"On July 18 another decree made a complete volte-face due to the victories of the foreign troops at Tien Tsin. In this decree for the first time, and one month after the occurrence, an allusion was made to the death of Baron Von Kettaler, the German Minister, which was attributed to the action of local brigands, although there is no doubt that it was premeditated and that the assassination was committed by an Imperial officer, as the survivor, Herr Cordes, can testify.

BESIEGING FORCES

"The force besieging the Legation consists of the Imperial troops, under General Tungiu and General Tungfuhsiang, whose gallentry is applauded in Imperial decrees, although it has consisted in bombarding for one month defenceless women and children cooped up in the Legation compound with shell, shrapnel, round shot and expanding bullets.

"They posted proclamations assuring us of protection, and the same night they made a general attack in the hope of surprising us.

The Chinese undermined the French Legation, which is now a ruin, but the French Minister (M. Pichon) was not present, having fled for protection to the British Legation on the first day of the siege.

"The greatest perial we suffered during the seige was from a determination to destroy the British Legation by burning the adjoining Hanlinyuan by burning the adjoining Hanlinyuan (National College), one of the most sacred buildings in China, sacrificing the unique library. The Chinese throughout acted with characteristic treachery."

CHINA IS RESPONSIBLE.

Commenting on Dr. Morrison's despatch, the Times says.—

"It is now beyond doubt that the frequent assertions of different Chinese representatives that for a month past the Legations have been enjoying the protection of the throne are, one and all, unqualified falsehoods. The cumulative evidence is overwhelming that the whole affair has been throughout under the control and direction of the Chinese Government.

"It now rests with the powers to make the Chinese Government understand that it will be held responsible for whatever happens in Pekin."

THEIR SORE STRAITS.

Another letter has been received at Tien Tsin from the British Minister. Sir Claude Macdonald, dated July 24.

"We are surrounded by Imperial troops," he writes, "who are firing on us continuously. The enemy is enterprising but cowardly. We have provisions of about a fortnight, and are eating our ponies. The Chinese Government, if there be one, has done nothing whatever to help us. If the Chinese do not press the attack we can hold out for, say, ten days. So no time should be lost if a terrible massacre is to be avoided."

JAPANESE HAD TO RETIRE WITH A LOSS OF THIRTY

Between 10,000 and 15,000 Christians Killed by the Imperial Troops

CHINAMEN KILLING ONE ANOTHER AT PEKIN.

Foreign Ministers are Held as Hostages and Will be Killed if the Allied Troops March on Pekin—Massacre of Christians and Destruction of Property—Allies Need a Supreme Commander.

London, Aug. 4 8.15 a.m. According to a special despatch from Shanghai, dated Aug. 3, the advancing column of the allies was reported yesterday to have reached a point 25 miles beyond Tien Tsin. Nothing from any other point cooberates this statement in fact the Standard goes so far as to say it fears the real advance a port from preliminary measures has not yet begun.

Tien Tsin despatch dated July 30 tell an action which it terms a reconnoisance, between the Japanese and Chinese two miles beyond the Kaiku Arsenal in which the Japanese withdrew after suffering casualties.

The Tien Tsin correspondent of the Standard under date of July 27, declares that the Americans and Germans have been ordered to move forward without waiting for the British.

A Cheefoo special dated Aug. 1 announces the safety of all the Americans in Pekin and the receipt of a letter from De Chilliman dated Pekin July 20 saying that on the previous day Sir Claude MacDonald the British Minister, had agreed to a truce provided the Chinese came no closer, and adding, we hope this means relief but having defeated the Chinese we are fearful now of treachery. All are exhausted with constant watching, fighting and diging trenches. The greatest credit is due to Mr Squears Sec'y of the United States legation whose military experience and energy are invaluable.

The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily News says the Consuls there regret the independent action taken by the American association and Chinese association on the ground that it is injudicious, he says the settlements being petty jealousies must disappear. The China association is of little local influence, presumably he refers to the American society association.

The arrival there from Sanfrancisco of Homer Lea for some time sec. agent in the U. S. of American Society for the reformation of the Chinese Empire with 50,000 stirling which will presumably be used in connection with the revolutionary movement against the Empress Dowager. A movement quiescent since 1898. Until within the last few weeks nearly all the correspondants confirm the reports of a wholesale massacre of Christians outside Pekin. A correspondent of the Daily News giving the number as killed between ten and fifteen thousand innocent converts. Imperial troops, so it is stated, did the ghastly work. According to the Shanghai correspondent of the Times one of the members of the Tsing Li Yamen mentioned by United States consul Goodnow as having been beheaded for pro-foreign tendencies, he was Chung Cheng former minister to Russia. The correspondent says the Empress Dowager ordered his execution on the advice of Li Ping Leng. Li Hung Chang has been informed from Pekin that Prince Ching's only prominent supporters in his place are Gen Young Lu and Wang Wen Shoo president of the board of revenue and whose influence is small.

London, Aug. 4.—(Special)—A Tien Tsin despatch, dated July 30, evening, via Chee Foo, August 2, says. During a reconassiance to-day the Japanese troops struck the enemy in a village two miles beyond Hsiku arsenal. The Chinese were in considerable force and occupied huts with loopholed walls. Japanese were only fifty yards distant the Chinese opened fire. The engagement was very brief and after having thirty casualties the Japanese retired.

The commanders of the troops of the various nations are rushing preparations for a general advance on Wednesday, August 1.

The river is full of commandered junks, which are taking on supplies.

New York, Aug. 4.—Trustworthy information has reached Shanghai, says the Herald correspondent at that place, that Chinese troops are steadily advancing northward from the Yang Tse Valley and also toward the south and may attack and flank the European armies.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 4.—General Grodekoff telegraphs from Khabrovsk, August 1. that fourteen Hotchkiss and ten other guns were captured at Hung Hun by the Russians, who storming the fortress Monday, July 30, drove 4,000 Chinese before them.

Che Foo, Aug. 4., via Shanghai, Aug. 4.—Governor Yuan Shi Kai states that he has received a note from the Tsung Li Yamen, dated July 30, reporting that the Ministers at the German Legation and others were well, and that their relations with the Government were friendly. They were conferring, the note said, with a view of arranging measures to protect the Ministers to Tien Tsin.

STREETS RAN IN BLOOD

CheFoo, July 26, via Shanghai, Aug. 2.—The latest reports from Pekin were brought by disaffected officers of the Chinese army. They are considered reliable. The officers left Pekin on July 15. They say anarchy had reigned in Pekin for months, and the streets ran blood, the Chinamen fighting among themselves. Jung Lu, commander-in-Chief of the Chinese forces, and Prince Ching espoused the cause of the foreigners, and endeavored with the part of the army loyal to them to expel the Boxers. Later, with the majority of the Imperial troops under anti-foreign leaders, Prince Tuan and Gen. Tung Fuh Siah were victorious, and Jung Lu and Prince Ching and their followers were prisoners in their Yamen's when the bearers of these reports left Pekin.

SUING THE CORPORATION

Notice Served on the Town Claiming Heavy Damages.

Messrs. Hatton and Bradburn, Solicitors, have been instructed by Mr. R. A. Morrow, who owns the property on the north east corner of George and Brock streets, to issue a writ against the town for damages in consequence of the lowering of the sidewalk in front of the old post office block. A notice to this effect was served on the Town Clerk yesterday.

This is probably the first of a number of similar actions that will soon be taken against the corporation. The street work has been so badly bungled during the past year, that it will be marvelous if damages are not obtained.

Weather Notes.

Heavy showers occured yesterday in the Ottawa and St. Lawrence valleys and some few places in the Northwest Territories, but the weather generally in the Dominion has been fine and warm. In Manitoba and Assiniboia very high temperatures were recorded, 94 being reported from Qu'Appelle, 92 Minnedosa, and 86 Winnipeg and Swift Current. Present indications point to a continuance of fine weather in Ontario over Saturday and then very hot weather on Sunday, with local thunderstorms, chiefly towards night.

Probs—Light to moderate winds; mostly east and south; fine. To-day—Easterly winds; fine.

PRESBYTERIANS WILL RETURN TO VANCOUVER

Foreign Mission Committee Entrust the Work to Messrs. Mackenzie, McClure and MacGillivray

The Foreign Mission Committee of the Presbyterian church met yesterday to consider the situation in China and what steps should be taken regarding their missionaries, all of whom are believed to be at present in Shanghai.

The committee had to consider the situation in view of the following considerations: The future safety of the missionaries; the tremendous strain to which they were subjected in escaping from Honan through five hundred miles of hostile country, and the possible need of rest for a season; the expectation that in the future China will be more accessible than ever, and that missionaries should be in readiness immediately to seize the opportunity when it came and take up again the work from which they were now compelled to retire; the knowledge of the fact that the presence of the missionaries at the present time in any part of China, acted as an irritant; and that the native converts were less exposed to prosecution in the absence of their teachers; the desire in the meantime to have the missionaries employed elsewhere, if not in China, either in the home or foreign field; the fact that even if the trouble had not risen, a number of the missionaries would be entitled to return home on furolough in the spring of 1901 and others in 1902, and that by taking furolough a year earlier they would be the better prepared to enter upon the work when the opportunity offered; the fact that the dialect spoken in Honan and North China generally was not spoken in any of the other missions in China or Formosa, thus preventing [illegible] those missions.

THE SALE OF ARMS TO BARBARIANS.

In view of the fact that 490,000 stands of rifles have been exported from Germany to China within the past five years the outcry of the Berlin Kreuz Zeitung against the sale of weapons to the Mongolian barbarians by British manufacturers arouses a feeling akin to admiration for the triple-plated brazen "cheek" of the utterer. The Kreuz Zeitung proceeds to uphold the course of the German Government in prohibiting further shipments of arms to China "after the outbreak of hostilities" as an example of angelic rectitude—as if locking the stable after the horse had been stolen could be accounted an act of superlative wisdom and beneficence! The truth is that the matter of providing savage tribes and barbarous empires with the implements of war all civilized nations have been partners in crime. M. Delcasse, the French Minister of Foreign Affairs, in the circular addressed by him to the Powers on this subject had the good grace to embody in his communication an admission that French factories had supplied Orientals with arms of precision, and he thereby made it impossible to misconstrue the motives of the French in submitting a proposal to suppress the traffic. The example of M. Delcasse is worthy of the imitation of all who may take part in the discussion of what has become a burning question, lest the same should degenerate into bootless and irritating recriminations.

The difficulties which lie in the path of concordant action on the part of the Powers, including the minor States, to prevent the arming of the hordes of Oriental barbarians and African savages are insuperable. It would be practically impossible for Governments restrained by constitutional limitations (as are those of Great Britain and the United States) to arbitrarily interfere with an industry hitherto considered perfectly legitimate by prohibiting the sale or shipments of the products thereof to whomsoever might choose to buy. Even the inhibition of sales of arms to certain nationalities by a Government possessed of despotic power to suppress the traffic would not constitute any assurance that the prohibited wares would not reach the proscribed countries indirectly and clandestinely. Arms and ammunition are not subject to seizure in transit as contraband, except in time of war; and the object desired to be accomplished is to prevent the supply of weapons to barbarians in time of peace and preparatory to a conflict. It would be necessary, therefore, to secure the unanimous consent of all nations to a new rule putting arms and war material consigned to China, and to other countries to be named, under the ban of international law, and permitting their confiscation at all times by the military and naval forces of all the Powers. Mauser rifles are said to have been shipped from German ports to South Africa in piano cases and invoiced as pianos; and in order to prevent the perpetration of this and similar frauds the right of search would have to be legitimized in periods of profound peace. Railway cars would have to be ransacked at the boundaries of the proscribed territory, and no vessel could hope to complete her journey without having her cargo overhauled. The resulting anarchy in the world's commerce would be intolerable.

Another obstacle to any agreement on this subject would be found in the difficulty of drawing the line between the nation to which arms might continue to be sold and those with which the traffic ought to be forbidden. If a taboo is to be proclaimed against the Chinese, why not also against the Turks? If against the Moors or Ashantis, why not against the Persians, Haitians or the rowdy Republics of Central America? Then, again if the trade in arms and ammunition should be placed under international supervision, and could thus be suppressed, what would hinder Oriental or other barbarians from providing themselves with material and machinery for the manufacture of their own war material? The Chinese are now producing excellent guns of various patterns, ranging from 3 to 9 inches in calibre, at their own arsenals, and would encounter little difficulty in establishing factories for making small arms or any other military engines and equipments which they might need. To be effective, therefore, any agreement between the Powers intended to deprive barbarians of the means of making war on civilization would necessarily include the suppression of the manufacture of these things by the proscribed nations themselves. In other words, the barbarous races whose armament is deemed so threatening would have to be subjugated in order that the forging of weapons by them in their own workshops could be forbidden by the Powers and obedience to the injunction compelled. It is too late now to carry out any such plan. Five years ago it might have been possible to subdue China and put her under European control; but the Celestians have heeded their Occidental advisers, and are now supplied with the arms which will enable them to enforce respect for their political creed that China belongs to the Chinese. Any regulation against supplying China with rifles and other war material would be ex post facto.

Off the Track

This means disaster and death when applied to a fast express train. It is equally serious when it refers to people whose blood is disordered and who consequently have pimples and sores, bad stomachs, deranged kidneys, weak nerves and that tired feeling. Hood's Sarsaparilla puts the wheels back on the track by making pure, rich blood and curing these troubles.

Constipation is cured by Hood's Pills. 25 cents.

Man Drunk, Block Signals Sober.

The introduction of block signals on railroads running fast express trains has lessened the danger and also created a feeling of safety in the minds of those who are compelled to travel to any extent.

The pilot on the engine of the postal express when it reached New London bore the signs of an accident in which some track walker had lost his life. The engineer knew nothing of it, nor could he tell when the supposed accident happened.

None of the operators could shed any light on the mystery, but, strange to say, the operator in the tower just east of the Westerley station failed to respond. Repeatedly he was called up, but to no purpose.

An investigation showed that he was lying on the floor, dead drunk. From the appearance of things it looked to those present at the station as if the man had set out deliberately to celebrate. All the signals were set at safety, and there was no reason why the towerman should have been disturbed.

Not Polite to Interrupt.

"I want to get off"—the man with the round, expressionless face remarked slowly, and the thin, hustling conductor rung up the car and glared at the impassive passenger who did not move, but continued with the same even tones—"a good joke I heard the other day."

"Say, do you want a transfer to Bellevue?" was the ungrateful way the bellringer received this contribution to contemporaneous humor.

THE MODERN CONSTRICTOR

The man tangled in the tape from the ticker is the type of the average business man. His business cares wrap him about like the coils of a constrictor and slowly crush out his life. The common sign of the business man's slavery is "weak stomach," the natural consequence of the rapid eating, the indigestible pastry, the coffee and pie or doughnuts, with which many a man stuffs his stomach under the name of "quick lunch." The quickest way back to a strong stomach and sound health is to use Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery until perfectly cured. It goes to the root of disease. It removes the cause of ill-health. It makes more blood and better blood, and this blood nourishes every organ in the body to the highest point of vigorous health.

"During the summer and fall of 1898," writes Chas. H. Sergeant, Esq., of Plain City, Madison Co., Ohio. "I became all 'run down,' nerves were out of order. I wrote to Dr. Pierce for advice. He said I had general debility, and advised Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and, thanks to you for your advice, I used six bottles; and since I stopped taking it about one year ago, I have not taken any medicine of any kind, and have been able to work every day. My appetite is good, I can eat three square meals a day, and I do not feel that miserable burning in the stomach after eating. My blood and nerves are in good shape, and I am in good running order."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure biliousness.

"LOST AND FOUND"

Carelessness in New York Department Stores.

The carelessness of the shopping public is marvellous. You begin to feel after awhile that people who are so thoughtless don't deserve to have anything. We never receive handkerchiefs at the "Lost and Found" desk unless a very handsome one is brought to us, and we accept it under protest. Neither do our customers often inquire for them, possibly because they think they dropped them in the street.

Umbrellas are among the articles most frequently lost. Sometimes on a rainy day the desk looks like a bargain counter of umbrellas.

Strange as it may seem, pocketbooks are third in the list of articles most often lost. There is never a day in which from one to eight pocketbooks do not either find their way to the desk or are reported as lost in the store.

A woman came the other day to say that she had given the baby her purse to play with and he had opened it and dropped out two $10 bills, for which she wished us to make search. It is seldom that a purse is picked up that does not contain one or two rings and some other small pieces of jewelry.

Many capes, jackets and furs are dropped. A customer once reported that she was afraid of pickpockets and so had taken off her handsome diamond watch and was carrying it in her hand. Unfortunately she had laid it down somewhere and couldn't find it.

Gloves and veils are frequently picked up and parcels innumerable. Garters seem to have a fashion of getting away from the wearers, and sometimes a stray bustle finds its way to the desk. Customers when they miss something usually go to the counter where they think they left it. If they don't find it there they are prone to insinuate that the girl behind the counter got it.

Now, it is an astonishing fact that customers seldom find anything. The superintendent is surprised when an article is brought to the desk by a shopper. It is the clerks and the little cash girls who turn over anything that they may find. It is my experience that our girls, who have small salaries, are constantly exposed to temptation and every day see pretty things they would like and cannot have are almost invariably honest.

Conscience plays strange pranks sometimes. Only last week we received through the mail a box of jewelry. There were trinkets of every kind in it, rings, breastpins, chains, bracelets, lockets, in all enough to stock a country store. Every piece had been removed from its card, and there was no name or message. It was recognized as belonging to our jewelry department, but how so much got away without being missed remains a mystery. Such a quantity could hardly have been taken by a regular shoplifter. One theory is that some one in the department took it and afterward acknowledged the theft at confession and the priest ordered the jewelry returned to us. We have had several cases of that kind.

On another occasion we received a box of expensive handkerchiefs. Within was a card. It read: "I am afraid the innocent will suffer, so I send these back to you, although I know you don't need them and I do."

Whenever any one asks at the desk for any article they have lost in the store we ask for a description. It would be amusing if it were not annoying to see how indignant the average woman gets at this question. She considers it an imputation that she is not honest, and she often resents it in the most energetic manner.

Altogether the life of the man in charge of the "Lost and Found" desk is by no means pleasant.

Those who have had only glimpses into Bohemia can scarcely imagine the real heartsickness of a fuller knowledge of it, for the first glimpses are apt to seem most facinating; but any man who knows Bohemia thoroughly is apt to have a very grave face as he hears a woman say so. No one can live her best in Bohemia; it is far easier to live your worst there.—Ladies Home Journal.

There are over two hundred distinct muscles in the human body, of which the best of us keep about one hundred in prime condition by steady use.

NE'ER WAIT.

He's dead!
And when the roses grow above his breast
Carressed
By the sun's bright glow and the dews of night,
And shed
A perfume sweet o'er all his virtues; like mist
Sunkissed
His faults will disappear,
As breath of love
Floats Heavenward.
Pity?
Nay, waste no sympathy for him
now
His brow
Is no longer damp by the sweat of toil,
Gritty
Nor grimy the hands that peaceful rest
On breast
That will heave no more
With labor's strain—
Never again.
Perfect?
No! never a man but one was so,
You know,
Him crucified for goodness man despised
Expect
No perfection in this mortal life,
Where strife,
Perpetual storms awake—
Makes Virtue halt
In facing Fault.
Ne'er wait
Until the sombre shadows of the pall
Recall
The humble virtues of some departed friend
Too late
When sabel robe has fallen for good or harm
To charm
The silent clay that's left,—
The soul takes wings
From earthly things.
When love
Would try to lead you to some kindly deed
Make speed,
For laggard ne'er attained the higher goal
Above
The puny weaknesses of earthly hate
Too late
May some immortal light.

If thou wouldst live."

A LAWYER'S STORY.

Twelve months had crept by since I had passed my trying examination and been admitted to the bar. I hired a cozy little office in a building filled with scores of prominent law firms. After arranging my well-stocked library, I nailed up my new sign among the rest and waited for my clients to appear. It soon became a sad trial of patience.

Among the many brilliant lights of the day my own name passed unnoticed.

Day after day, and month after month, I attended the courts or passed the time in pursuing celebrated cases. Like Micawber, I was waiting for something to turn up. The small capital with which I had started was dwindling away at an alarming pace and, as yet, I saw no prospective fee.

One pleasant afternoon Stanley Ferris, a young lawyer, who, like myself, was unwillingly idle, dropped in to see me.

"What news, Jack?" he asked carelessly.

"Same as usual," I replied, despondently. "I've a notion to pack off in the wilderness for a few weeks. Everybody is out of town, and there is little prospect of picking up a fee until they return."

My friend was about to reply, when there came a low rap at the door.

As the door opened my heart gave a great bound. I felt that my long-looked-for client had arrived at last. At a single glance I took in all the details of my visitor's appearance. He was a middle aged man, dressed in plain costume, and with a seemingly good natured face. Most men would have set him down at once as a jolly, open-hearted individual; but I did not. My constant attendance at the courts had taught me much. There was something underlying his oily smile and obsequious manner that made me distrust him.

"Is this Mr. Burns?" he asked blandly.

I bowed in the affirmative, and requested him to be seated. Stanley left the room at that moment, and the stranger continued:

"My name is Brown, sir,—Martin Brown. I have called upon you in a case of emergency."

"In what way can I be of service?" I asked.

"My friend, who is in a dying condition, wishes you to draw up a will at once."

I seized my hat and hurriedly followed my visitor. In the elegantly furnished room of a hotel we found the man.

Owing to the heavily darkened room, I could distinguish nothing of his features. He lay with his face turned toward the wall, and in feeble tones dictated the terms of the will, as I drew it up.

I accomplished my task to his satisfaction, and placed the document before him to sign. As he did so I noticed a deep red scar running across the back of his hand. The whole of the dying man's property—an immense one, by the way—was left to his dear friend, Martin Brown.

As I left the house the smiling Mr Brown handed me my fee. It was a beggarly amount—the more so from the fact Mr. Brown was soon to become wealthy. The man's wily smile too, while his friend lay at the point of death sickened me, and I was glad to hurry away. On my return I met Stanley, and in answer to his inquiries I related the circumstances.

"A beggarly miser," he exclaimed indignantly. "I'd never believe it from his appearance."

It was nearly a week afterward that a young lady, dressed in deep mourning, called upon me. This time I had a case in reality. She was not more than twenty, but her beautiful face bore the impress of grief. In a few words she stated her business, retaining the names until she had heard my opinion.

Her story was as follows:

Three weeks before her uncle had left home in company with a man he called his friend. While in the city he had been taken suddenly ill and died. She had received no information of the fact until after her relative was buried.

Then came the strangest part of the story.

Two years before her uncle had made a will, making her, his only living relative, his sole heiress.

On her arrival in the city, however, she had been shown a will drawn by her uncle on his death-bed, in which he left his entire property to his friend.

She could conceive of no reason for such a strange act, and, distrusting the friend, had sought out a lawyer. Luckily she was unacquainted with the names of our distinguished lawyers. My glaring gold sign had been the first to catch her eye, and so she called upon me.

"The case certainly looks suspicious," I remarked. "I think I will be able to make a fight in your behalf Now, will you kindly furnish me with the names of these parties?"

"My uncle, sir, was Andrew Thurber. His friend calls himself Martin Brown."

Involuntarily my pen dropped from my surprised fingers. It was the very will I had drawn up myself.

She turned pale as I related the circumstances and arose to leave.

"I see I have made a very awkward mistake by calling upon you," she said, sadly.

"Wait one moment," I replied, quickly. "This Martin Brown is a total stranger to me. If he has been engaged in an act of villainy I shall not shield him."

We entered into a close conversation, at the end of which I said, confidently:

"Leave the case to me. If I fail it shall be through no fault of mine."

She accepted my offer with thanks and left me, thinking deeply.

During the interview I had learned that the deceased had no scar upon his right hand. Now, certain of villainy, I set to work diligently to find it out.

Working cautiously, I found the man who had laid the body out for burial. From him I learned that he had performed his task on the morning of June 22, just ten hours before I was called upon to draw up the will. The will had already been offered for probate, so there was no time to be lost.

Andrew Thurber's body was disinterred and the contents of the stomach analysed. It was found to contain poison.

By some means the sly wretch got wind of my movements and attempted to fly. At that moment the detectives seized him. Confronted by the terrible proofs, he made a full confession.

Before his trial came off he ended his life by swallowing a quantity of the same deadly poison with which he had killed his victim.

Miss Thurber met with no further obstacles in regaining her rights.

Something still more important happened to me from my connection with the case. I wooed and won the beautiful girl for my wife. As Stanley Ferris remarked afterward, I "gained fame and fortune with a rush."

Pretty Experiments.

There are many tricks and experiments that can be performed by boys and girls without the aid of expensive or intricate apparatus. Here are two good ones which fulfill this condition and one well worth trying: How many of you know that lads, lasses and lucifers have likes and dislikes in common? The average boy would prefer a sweetmeat to a bath at any time, and, strange to say, a common lucifer match has the same fastidious taste. If you want to test this curious quality get a basin of water and arrange a number of matches on the surface in the form of a star.

When the match heads are all nicely together in the centre of the basin touch the water with a piece of soap. Like a little boy they will run away from it as fast as they can. The matches will make for the side of the basin without the least possible delay.

Now take out the soap and touch the water with a piece of sugar and you will see a strange sight. All the matches will return to the centre of the basin, and appear to feed on the sugar with the greatest avidity.

"Oh, it's nice to be a press agent," said one of that happy tribe the other day. "Here I have been putting in all my time this morning trying to convince two dramatic critics and four managing editors that our show is the best thing that ever opened in town, and I have been called the biggest liar on earth by all but one of them. Such practical unanimity makes a man think there may be something in the proposition."

"What did the sixth man tell you?"

"He wouldn't see me at all. He had been to the show."—Chicago Post.

Strayed to Lakefield.

Three young ladies (two of them belonging to the Ambitious City, the other to our hustling Borough) were on their way home after spending a lively two weeks on Kawartha Lakes in the vicinity of Juniper Island—when, upon arrival of the steamer in Lakefield, the spinsters betook themselves to sightseeing, they became so enwrapped with the mysteries of the great T. V. C. Locks, that the last train for town was far on its noisy way, ere they awakened to the fact, that they were alone in a great and rocky country. However, Mr. Corner was consulted, he having a reliable (stabler) set the bewildered orphans on their way rejoicing. The stabler by the way proved to be a jolly good head—enjoys a good song, can hang on to raspberry bushes, take good care of a warm—but oh that water lilly (crowd.) During their visit the adventure seekers have learned to eat pork and beans and to run logs with the rest of the river drivers. The trio breaks to-morrow, as the ambitionites leave for the mountain. Their friends will employ a private detective to keep 'em in sight until train time.

The Price of Bread.

Editor Morning Times.

Kindly allow me space in your valuable paper, to make an explanation, in regard to some Toronto bread, which is brought to Peterborough and sold for 10 cents a loaf. The Peterborough people, I think, are under the impression that they are getting a cheaper bread than the Peterborough bakers are selling, while they are really paying a higher price for the Toronto bread. The Toronto loaves only weigh 3 pounds, while the Peterborough loaves weigh 4 pounds. The Toronto bread should be sold at 9 cents per loaf to be equal in price with the Peterborough bread. It is an injustice to the town bakers, as well as misleading to those townspeople who buy their bread with the idea that they are getting a 4 pound loaf, when they only get a 3 pound loaf. Allow me to explain why it is a great injustice to the town bakers. The Town Council passed a by-law that no bread should be made and sold in town other than a 2 pound or a 4 pound loaf, and yet this Toronto bread is sold here altogether contrary to what the by-law calls for. Our Town Council should, in all fairness, either change the by-law so that Peterborough bakers can make the same weight of a loaf (which could be sold at 10 cents) or else see that the Toronto bread comes up to the weight required in the by-law.

Trusting this will meet the notice of some of the Councillors, and thanking you Mr. Editor for your favor, I remain.

TOWN BAKER.

HEALTHY SCHOOL MA'AM

Found Out How to Feed Herself.

Many school teachers, at the end of their year's work, feel thoroughly exhausted and worn out, physically and mentally. The demand upon the nerves and brain of a teacher is unusual and unless they are well fed and fed upon properly selected food, it is natural that they should run down.

A little woman teacher at Goblesville, Mich., who has been teaching regularly for a number of years, has always found herself thoroughly exhausted at the end of the season, until within the last year, she has made use of Grape-Nuts Food with the result that she closed the year as a robust, healthy, strong, vigorous woman, having gained in weight from 90 pounds to 126; her nerves strong, face bright and cheery, and really a wonder to all her friends, who constantly comment on her color and strength. She knows exactly to what the change is attributed, for in the years past, living on ordinary food, she has almost broken down before the school year closed, whereas since using Grape-Nuts, this change has been brought about; evidence prima facie of the value of Grape-Nuts Food for rebuilding the brain and nerve centers.

The name of the teacher can be given by Postum Cereal Co., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

PETERBOROUGH MARKET.

MR. WRIGHTON'S REPORT.

Mr. W. H. Wrighton reports the local markets to be as follows—

Friday, Aug. 3.

Again the past week has been very dull. Very little of any produce has come in, with the exception of a few loads of hay, and an occasional load of grain. The prices for all kinds of produce have remained firm and no appreciable change can be recorded.

Oats.—There is a good demand for oats. The buyers want them, and so do local consumers. Prices remain unchanged at 28c for the buyers and 29c for outsiders.

Hay.—There has been a good sale for hay all week, the ruling prices being $7.50 and $8. There was only one load on this morning and about twenty persons were looking for it.

Live Stock.—The live stock market has been dull this week owing to the poor prices prevailing in the outside markets. Export cattle are declining in price, owing to their being a corner in the shipping space. This has been secured by Gordon and Ironsides of Montreal, and costs the small shipper $15 per head to send cattle from Montreal to the English ports. Mr. T. Thompson had bought 16 fine head of exporters from Mr. David Johnston. It is not known what price was paid for them.

Mr. J. Parland is shipping butchers' cattle of all kinds to Montreal every week. He is paying 3c per lb. for cows, $3.20 to $3.75 for the better class of cattle. Sheep are worth $3.25 to $3.50, and it is expected that he will ship a car load on Saturday. He is being assisted in his buying by Messrs. Stabler and Sons, W. Morris, B. Howden and A. Patterson.

The new market scales are giving excellent satisfaction to both buyer and seller, and there is now not the slightest chance for a dispute. The Market Clerk is very particular in having his scale always on balance and would be only too glad to show their working to persons desiring to see them. There has been a desire on the part of certain interested individuals to get the market clerk into difficulties, but no such interference will be tolerated in the future, and the farmers can rely on getting every pound that is in their stock. When selling your live stock always insist on having it weighed on the market.

LI HUNG CHANG HAS COMMITTED SUICIDE

A Message Was Sent to His Residence But an Answer Was Refused

ON THE ROAD TO PEKIN--BRITISH DID NOT DELAY

The International Troops Available for the March upon the Capital—British Ministers Agree to a Truce.

Shanghai, Aug 5.

A report having been circulated here to the effect that Li Hung Chang had committed suicide. A foreign official sent a message to his residence but answer was refused.

London, Aug. 6.

The American and British forces began the advance on Pekin last Thursday, according to a despatch dated Aug. 3 from Tien Tsin to the Daily Express. The main body of the allies "continues the correspondent" marched July 30. Gen. Chaffee was delayed by difficulties of disembarkation. Gen Dorward "the British commander had no such obstacles and his delay is inexplicable. The other foreign troops are now half way to Lofa, the force includes twenty thousand Japanese under Gen. Yamuchrachi and 10,000 Russians. The British force totals nine thousand, and the other foreign troops about 7000. We are weak in artillery. On Aug. 1, a strong force of Chinese from the Native City attacked Tien Tsin by a series of brilliant charges, our troops drove them fromt their positions. The Native City is still defiant and the allies are unwilling to march troops through its streets, as this would mean and immense slaughter. When the Chinese saw so large a body of troops marching westward they apparently believed they would have an easy victory over those who were left. A message to the same paper from a correspondent in Pekin dated July 22 says the women have borne all the horrors with marvellous fortitude and even with cheerfulness. The Chinese wanted peace when the attacks around Tien Tsin were captured and the negotiations bade fair to be successful, unfortunately Li Ping Heng and Kang Yu arrived at the critical moment and over threw the peace party. Food has been short but not terribly so, though we have had to be very careful.

A Shanghai special dated Aug. 4. says the first open attack upon foreigners occurred this morning three Chinese soldiers in disguise fired at a well known English resident while he was lying asleep on the verandah of his house he had a narrow escape. From various sources comes statements that a large body of Boxers, some estimating them at 30,000, is gathering south of Tien Tsin threatening comunications. The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Mail announces the receiption of an Imperial edict dated Aug. 2. ordering Gen Yung Lu to select high military and civil dignitaries to gather with a sufficient number of picked troops to escort the foreign ministers to Tien Tsin as soon as they decide to leave Pekin by the terms of the edict. Gen Yung Lu will be held personally responsible for their safety and he is given full authority to deal squarely with those opposing the peaceful passage of the escort, by such acts. "concludes the edict' do we show our good intention to people from afar ando pen our bosoms to them. Yokohama advances says that Gen. Tesanchi has reported to the Japaneseg Government that it is not advisable to send more troops to China declaring that the united force is ample to release the foreigners in Pekin. Chinese message assert that in addition to causing the execution of high functionaries of pro—foreign tendencies Li PingLeng has impeached Li Hung Chang, Li Kung Yi, Viceroy of Nankin and others on the charge of maintaining relations with foreigners.

A Tien Tsin despatch dated Aug. 1 to Berlin gives a report of an Imperial edict issued July 27 ordering the recapture of Taku and Tien Tsin by troops from Shanting and the South. Detailed accounts of the reconnaissance of July 27 that the enemies guns were attacked near Peitsang. It is believed that they can only be captured after a hard struggle. Gen. Gaselee and his staff accompanied the reconnaissance. No British troops were engaged.

London, Aug. 4. — According to a special despatch from Shanghai the advancing column of the allies was reported yesterday to have reached a point 25 miles beyond Tien Tsin. Nothing from any other point corroborates this statement. In fact, the Standard goes as far as to say that it fears the real advance apart from perliminary measures has not yet begun.

The Tien Tsin correspondent of the Standard, under date of July 27, declares that the Americans and Germans have been ordered to move forward without waiting for the British.

AGREED TO A TRUCE

A Cheefu special, dated August 1, announces the safety of all the Americans in Pekin, and the receipt of a letter from Dr. Cheltman, dated Pekin July 20, saying that on the previous day Sir Claude Macdonald the British Minister had agreed to a truce, provided the Chinese came no closer, and adding:—"We hope this means relief; but having defeated the Chinese we are fearful now of treachery. All are exhausted with constant watching, fighting and digging trenches. The greatest credit is due to Mr. Squers, Secretary of the United States Legation, whose military experience and energy are invaluable."

HE WAS BEHEADED.

According to the Shanghai correspondent of the Times one of the members of the Tsung Li Yamen mentioned by the United States Consul Good now as having been beheaded for pro-foreign tendencies was Hsu Ching chang, former Minister to Russia. The correspondent says the Empress Dowalger ordered his execution on the advice of Lipingheng.

Nearly all the correspondents confirm the reports of a wholesale massacre of Christians outside Pekin, the correspondent of the Daily News giving the number as killed between ten and fifteen thousand innocent converts. Imperial troops, so it is stated, did the ghastly work.

BRITISH DID NOT DELAY.

Parliamentary Secretary Brodrick said yesterday in the House of Commons that the Government had no fresh information from China. It was not true, he said, that operations by the allies had been delayed by the British contingent. The last information from General Gaselee had been to the effect that his troops would shortly advance, and that he anticipated the co-operation of the allies.

AFRAID OF TROUBLE.

Paris, Aug. 4. — Despatches from Shanghai says that the Consuls are afraid that the action of Vice-Admiral Seymour in proceeding up the Yangtse-Kiang toward Nankin is likely to produce trouble, for which he alone will be responsible. At the same time the Consuls favour the formation of an international force to protect Shanghai under Admiral Seymour's command.

ROUTED THE CHINAMEN

White Woman With a Razor Chased Three to the Top of a Partition

Lockport, Aug. 5.—There is a Chinese laundryman on Locust Street in this city who had been living with a white woman for about three years. About 12 o'clock a policeman passing near the laundry heard a confusion of cries issuing therefrom which led him to think a full fledged Boxer massacre must be going on. He forced open the door and made his way to the back room from which the noise issued.

Perched on the top of a thin board partition he saw three Chinamen and they were all yelling like mad. On the floor, brandishing a razor and now and then, reaching for one of the Chinamen, was the woman who had been living with Ben Lee, the laundryman.

The officer placed the woman under arrest and the Chinamen came down from their narrow perch. At the station-house the woman gave her name as Mamie Stack. She declared that she had attacked the Chinamen because two of them held her while Ben Lee attempted to beat her with a club. She exhibited bruises to prove that she had been roughly handled. The police justice told her he would release her if she would leave the city. She expressed a willingness to do so if Ben Lee would supply money to take her to Boston, from which place she claimed she came. The Chinamen readily agreed to do that.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES.

THE SIEGE OF TIEN TSIN

Foreigners' Desperate Flight Described by Charles F. Gammon.

Victoria, B. C. Aug.55.—Many new details of the seige of Tien-Tsin were received here per the steamer Grenogie, to-day. Charles F. Gammon, Superintendent of the American Bible Society in China, arrived at Nagasaki shortly before the steamer left for Victoria. He said as soon as the Chinese troops received word that the bombardment had begun they immediately opened fire on the city. The telegraph, telephone and railway systems had been destroyed, leaving the residents without any means of communication with the outside world.

The shelling of the city continued for twelve days, until every house had received some damage. There wer about 700 Russian troops in Tien Tsin and Mr. Gammon claims that it was owing to their bravery that the lives of the foreign residents were saved. At the railway station 14,000 Chinese troops were held at bay by the 700 uRssians. Had assistance not arrived the foreign residents intended to shoot all the women and children rather than allow them fall into the hands of the Chinese. A number of men had been detailed to perform this terrible task.

A German pinnace, which attempted to reach Tien Tsin, during the seige, was fired on by Chinese hidden in an abandoned fort. The German finally ran the vessel ashore on the opposite bank, and there the beseiged in Tien Tsin saw them fall into the hands of the Chinese. They are said to have been brutely killed.

Another tragic incident of the defense of Tien Tsin was the sortie of the troops and capture of the military school in which the Chinese soldiery had taken a position on the 18th. The Chinese made a stout defense, but inside of half an hour the allies climbed the walls and forced the gate. The Chinese then retired to a large room upstairs and barricading themselves made a last stand there, refusing to surrender.

An English blue jacket battered down the door with an axe. He was shot dead. Others were not, but finally an entrance was made and the Chinese were put to the bayonet. The place was fired and burned in two hours.

Several foreign soldiers, it is reported, have been given a drumhead courtmartial and shot for looting.

ELOPING LOVERS DROWN.

Tried to Outwit an Obdurate Father, Who Is Now Insane.

Poplar Bluff, Mo., Aug. 4—Two persons dead and a father insane is the result of an attempt to elope today made by Miss Martha Hendricks and Paul Varner, a young couple living near Bennett in Ripley county. They had been keeping company some time and were anxious to marry. The father of the girl, John Hendricks, objected to the match on account of the girl's youth, she being only 17 years old.

This morning the couple clipped away from home, and started for Doniphan, this county, with a view to getting married. The father started in pursuit, and to outwit him the couple attempted to cross Currant river in a boat. When midway in the stream, the boat was overturned by striking a snag, and both were drowned. Their bodies were recovered by some hunters who heard their screams, but were too late to render them assistance. When Hendricks arrived later and learned of the accident he went insane. It is announced that the couple will be buried in the same grave.

THREE MORE CANADIANS DIE

Enteric Fever Causes Deaths in the Second Canadian Contingent.

Ottawa, Aug. 3.—Special. — The following cable was received here to-day, from Sir Alfred Milner;—

Cape Town Aug. 3.—177, Hull Kroonstad, June 29th; J. Cooper, Bloemfontein July 29th; 234 Brand, Bloemfontein, July 9th. Above died enteric fever. 61, Brown, dnagerously wounded, Reitviel, July 16th. Signed Milner.

Pte. M. A. Hull was a member of the Princess Louise Dragoon Guards.

Pte. William Elliott Brand enlisted as a civilian. His home was at Rat Portage, Ont.

Pte. A. W. Brown was formerly a member of A. Squadron, Royal Canadian Dragoons, and enlisted at Toronto.

The three soldiers above named were members of the 1st Battalion Canada Mounted Rifles. The number of Cooper, the remaining one of the four named, is not given, but it may be presumed the he belongs to the same battalion, and in that case, is doubtless C. (not J.), Cooper, who was formerly a member of a Squadron, R. C. D. and enlisted at Toronto. He lived at 67 1-2 Euclid avenue.

CHINA'S CRACK REGIMENT.

The "Tiger Guard" are supposed to be very Tigers when turned Loose in War.

All armies have their crack regiments. China's is known as the "Tiger Guard." Its members are supposed to be very tigers when turned loose in war. Then, too, they are dressed in yellow, the imperial color, with striped of black, in imitation of a tiger's skin. The cap is made of split bamboo and has ears to it.

A bamboo shield, with a monster's head painted on it, completes the fantastic uniform.

A "Tiger" officer in full uniform, as he appears on occasions of review or parade, is a matter of no small interest and wonder to the stranger. A highly polished helmet terminating in a crest of gold and a tuft of colored hair on a rod eight inches above the cap; a robe of purple or blue silk, richly adorned with gilt buttons, and reaching to the feet, which are incased in black satin bots, constitute a costume of picturesqueness and inconvenience.

His implements of war are in keeping with the uniform. All of them glitter with gems and precious metals. What sort of fighters the "Tigers" make remains to be seen.

The general belief is that they are not superior to other branches of the Chinese Army except when thoroughly impregnated with the spirit of fanaticism. Their reputation is largely based upon past glories, and they now appear to think more of their adornments than of the serious business of warfare.

They are carefully selected men, of good proportions, and enjoy numerous privileges. On whose side they are fighting now is largely a matter of conjecture. They should be defending the Dowager Empress and the Emperor Kwang-Su, if still alive.

Shot in Dispute Over Gravel.

Brazil, Ind., Aug. 4.—A shooting affair occurred at Asherville tonight which may result in the death of Voorhees McCullough, one of the leading farmers of that locality. James Stigler, also a resident of Asherville, did the shooting, and is now in jail. The two men disagreed over the amount of gravel McCullough had hauled for Stigler and a fight followed, which ended in the shooting. The bullet penetrated McCullough's left side and ranged upward.

ENGINE DRIVER KILLED NEAR BRANTFORD

Passenger Train Ran Into a Gravel Train and Several Ladies Were Iniured--One Brakeman Missing.

Brantford, Ont., Aug. 4.— Special — A passenger train leaving Brantford on the T. H. and B. about 8.40 this morning for Waterford, collided with a gravel train a short distance west of Brantford. There were but four persons, ladies, in the passenger train, all of whom sustained a number of bruises and a bad shaking up. It is thought that nothing serious will result, however. It is reported that four men on the gravel train were killed and some others injured.

The two engines are standing on the track badly telescoped, the passenger car and baggage car standing apparently all right on the track. Six flat cars loaded with gravel smashed up very badly are piled and spread on both sides of the track. Engine-driver Gilmour of the passenger engine was killed.

The driver on the gravel engine jumped before the collision occurred and saved himself. One brakeman is still unaccounted for.

Brantford, Aug. 4.—The names of the injured are.—

Chas. Policary, fireman.

Gus. Munroe, engineer, probably fatally.

J. Terryberry, fireman.

Conductor C. Iles, of Waterford.

Hugh Sweeney, B. McMahon and H. Held, all of Hamilton.

L. Walker, of Waterford, and five Italians.

James Gilmour, engineer, Hamilton, was the name of the man killed.

China's Westminster Abbey.

The temple of Confucius at Chu-fou-hsien is the Westminster Abbey of China, and the grave of that sacred personage is the most noted spot in the grounds. A sacred mound surmounts the remains of Confucius. Near the mound is a building erected to the meditation of those who render homage to the greatest Chinaman who has ever lived. Near by is a tree, said to have been planted by Confucius—or, rather, the trunk of it, for it is dead. The tree is on a circular stand of stones and mortar, close by a large table of stone that looks like marble, having been polished by a devotee. The mound is only twelve feet high. Before it is a tablet bearing the name and the works of the man buried beneath, and at the foot of the tablet is the famous incense vase. The inscription reads—"Chih Sheng Hsien Shih K'ung Tsu," which means the Perfect Sage, the Former Teacher, the Philosopher K'ung. Near to the tomb of Confucius is that of his son, who died four years before the Chinese seer; but the tomb of the grandson attracts more notice, because it is almost as grand as that of Confucius. There are thousands of graves near the shrine of Confucius, and the nearer they are the better the lot of the departed, according to the belief of the Chinese. The keepers of the Temple demand a fee before showing the place to foreigners.

GENERAL BADEN-POWELL WOUNDED AT RUSTENBURG

The Boers Make Some Prisoners and Capture 324 Wagons

3,348 BOERS SURRENDERED TO GEN. HUNTER

There Resisting Power is Fast Weakening—Discovery of Explosives, The Treason Bill—War Loan is Issued.

London, Aug. 6

The Touranzo Marques correspond-ent of the Daily Express wiring Saturday says Transvaal advances declare that Gen. Baden Powell was wounded during a recent engagement at Rustenburg when the Boers according to their account took some prisoners and captured 324 wagons.

London, Aug. 4.—Lord Roberts telegraphs to the War Office that Gen. Hunter reports that altogether 3,348 men have surrendered to him.

General Hunter also secured 3,046 horses and three guns.

Lord Roberts adds that General Ian Hamilton, continuing his movement towards Rustenberg, engaged the Boers in the Middlesberg range Thursday. Lieut. -Col. Rhodes and Major G. A. Williams were among the forty-one British wounded. The Boers left two dead and several badly wounded.

Thursday night a train was derailed and attacked twenty miles south of Kroonstad, four men beiing killed and three wounded. Lord Algernon Lennox and fourty men were made prisoners, but were released at the request of the American Consul-General, who was in the train.

A Boer force was attacked by Gen. Knox near the railway north of Kroonstad on Wednesday, August 1, and left five waggons and a lot of cattle.

Fouriersberg, Aug. 4. — There are 2,500 Boer prisoners at Gen. Hunter's camp, and 1,500 prisoners and nine guns at Gen. Ian Hamilton's camp There was about 5,000 in the Caledan Valley originally, but some refused to acquiesce in Gen. Prinsloo's surrender and slipped away in the night. These have now sent in asking for terms of surrender. It will take some days to ascertain the exact number. The Boers, who excuse themselves for not fighting, say they are in a hopless position. The ravines were choked with waggons, placed in the most dangerous spots of the roads, which were blocked for twenty miles.

London, Aug. 4.—A despatch from Pretoria, dated August 4, to a news agency here says.—"It is reported that Gen. Christain De Wet is dead from a shell wound. The report has not been confirmed."

Pretoria, Aug. 4.—Gen. Hamilton is pressing the rear guard of the Boers north-west of Pretoria. The enemy is making little resistance.

President Kruger and Commandant Botha have issued a proclamation promising to pay all damage done to the farms by the British, providing the burghers remain with the commandos.

FOR BAD WORK

Lorenzo Marquez, Aug. 4.—A large quantity of materials for the manufacture of explosives, consigned to local firms, but destined for the Transvaal, have been discovered on the steamer Cassius, owing to a fire on that vessel. The materials were manifested as disinfectants.

Capt Town, Aug. 4.—In the Assembly yesterday ex-Prime Minister Schriner, in supporting the Treason bill, said he adhered to every word of Mr. Solomon's miinute. While he would welcome amnesty, the House had no right to demand it and usurp the Queen's prerogative of pardon. The constitution of Cape Colony, he declared, was now on trial, and he called on the members of the House to show themselves worthy of responsible government.

He supported the bill because it was right and just. Unless the Opposition conciliated the opinion of the English population, they would never get amnesty, and would defeat the policy they had at heart. They must not adopt a Febian policy, but must proceed with common sense.

THE WAR LOAN

London, Aug. 4.—The war loan has been issued in the form of £10,000,000 3 per cent, Exchequer bounds at 98, rapayable at par in 1903.

The bonds are to be for three years, and will be issued at 98. Subscriptions are authorized to be taken in this country by J. P. Morgan & Co. and Baring Magoun & Co., of New York; Kidder, Peabody & Co., Boston and Drexel & Co., Philadelphia. No fixed amount has been assigned for sibscription in this country.

Bloemfontein, Aug. 4.—A train carrying United States Consul Stowe, and flying the Stars and Stripes, has been derailed and burned at Honigspruit, south of Kroonstad, by a flying patrol of Boers. No prisoners were taken.

WAR IS ABOUT ALL OVER

New York, Aug. 4.—(Special)— The Post's London correspondent, cabling this afternoon, says the South African war really seems to be coming to an end, and this week's happenings, and especially to-day's expectations of the approaching surrender of General De Wet, under pressure from General Lord Kitchener, confirm the Ministers' belief that Field Marshall Lord Roberts will be able to hand over South Africa to Sir Alfred Milner, as the civilian administrator, before the end of September next.

LETTERS FROM THE BOYS.

Private Hannaford's Views of South Africa and the War.

Pte. Alex. Hannaford, of the 1st Canadian contingent, writes as follows from the Springs, near Johannesburg, under date of June 19th, to Mr. Samuel Thompson, his brother-in-law, of 163 Versailles street, Montreal—

"We are in a pretty place, about ten miles from where the gold mines are, and where a great deal of coal is to be found. So you can see what a rich country this is. Down below, when we were at Germiston and Elandsfontein, and right across the rand on which Johannesburg is situated, is a vein of gold about 15 miles wide, and I can tell you that this is the real country for mechanics, for wages are at least $30 a month and board is $10 a month, so a man could get rich in no time.

"We will soon be going home now for the war is about at an end. We have had lots to do and plenty of fighting. The design for the medal we are to get they say is as Pretoria. It is to have four bars, namely, Kimberley, Paardeberg, Bloemfontein and Pretoria. We will get them when we return to England.

"In order to give you an idea of the work and fighting we have had to do, I will quote an extract from the divisional orders issued June 6th, 1900. This reads—

"'The Nineteenth Brigade, including the Gordons, Royal Canadians, Cornwalls and Shropshires, has achieved a record of which any infantry might be proud. Since the date it was formed, Feb. 12, 1900, it has marched 620 miles, often on half rations and seldom on full; it has taken part in the capture of 10 towns, fought 10 general actions, and in one period of thirty days it fought on twenty-one of these and marched 327 miles. Our casualties have been between 400 and 500, and our defeats none.

"'(Signed), IAN HAMILTON,
"'Divisional Commander'"

"I can say for myself that I have been nearly starved at times, and have had all I want of war. We haven't got any mail to comfort us for a long time, and I don't know when we will get it."

THE EMPRESS TREACHERY

Documents Found at Tien Tsin that Prove Her Endorsation of the Boxers Act, While Li Opposed Them

New York, Aug. 4.—Before the bombardment of Tien Tsin, prominent natives urged the Viceroys to put down the Boxers, but the Viceroys was in their power, and wired to Li Hung Chang for advice, says a Cheefoo special to the Herald. The latter advised crushing them at once, saying that the Boxers had gained too much headway. The Viceroys also had instruction from the Empress to encourage the Boxers attacks on foreigners.

The Boxers have released all the criminals, who have joined them. Proofs have been discovered that the Viceroy offered and paid a reward for heads of foreigners. A cage was found in his establishment especially made for foreign prisoners.

Documents found in the Viceroy's office at Tien Tsin gave the names of the heads of the Boxers. Their numbers were said to be 20,000. The Viceroy had recommended some for official appointment.

There were copies of his reports to the throne on the Tien Tsin fighting. He asked for reinforcements and more guns. He recommended the attack of the Taku forts, and on this appeared the Empress Dowager's indorsement, "Let the Taku forts be retaken."

A private letter to the Viceroy's secretary indicates that the Pao Ting Fu missionaries have been killed.

The Viceroy is at present in camp with General Ma, six miles away. General Sung is at Yang Tsun, twenty miles to the north. He has obstructed the rivers by sinking stone-laden junks. The forces of General Ma and General Sung number about 15,000. They are short of food and ammunition.

A WORD WITH THE CHURCHES.

That the evangelical churches are awakening to the fact that practical Christianity is the only kind of Christianity that stands a show of competing successfully with the various large and lively brands of practical wickedness that flourish in the modern world, is daily becoming more evident.

At the Baptist convention in Winnipeg a short time ago, the Rev. T. B. Tygmott said that of 7,000,000 young men in the United States, only 15 per cent. are regular church attendants, only 5 per cent. are church members, and only 2 1-2 per cent. are leading godly lives. Rev. Chas. A. Eaton, Toronto said — "This century is saturated with commercialism and materialism. It is of no use for the preacher to preach Jesus on Sunday and have his members go and pick pockets on Monday. The biggest thieves to-day are the members of Christian churches. Those who organize big deals or big steals, are pious deacons and church members. If the preacher were to speak out they would fire him quicker than scat—He would lose his job."

That is a pretty warm indictment, but the man who made it was a preacher and he ought to know. If what he says is true, and there is little doubt that it is true to a considerable extent, the church can gain nothing by ignoring a state of affairs which militates against the spread of Christianity. The Times has no sympathy with the belief of some people that all Christians are hypocrites, but the Times does believe that the percentage of hypocrites in the ranks of professing Christians is quite large enough to in a large measure neutralize the usefulness of the genuine ones. It would be better for the churches in every way, if a little more chaff were to be sifted so that the genuine grain would have a better chance of coming to the surface.

The Powers and China.

From the correspondence contained in the British Blue Book on China it appears that the suggestion of Great Britain that Japan be requested to land an army of sufficient strength to cope with the situation in Pe-chi-li (because the Mikado's was the only Government that could move a force to Pekin expeditiously enough to save the foreign legations) elicited the reply from Germany that nothing ought to be done to imperil the accord of the Powers. Japan herself required assurances that her intervention should not lead to a collision with Russia, and that she should be indemnified for the financial sacrifices which a military campaign in Northern China would entail. Russia finally declared on June 22 that she had no desire to restrict Japan's liberty of action nor to place any limit upon the number of troops she might be disposed to send on a Chinese expedition. Great Britain, however, stood quite alone in undertaking to make good the extra expense which would be imposed on Japan by assuming a disproportionate share of the common burden of all the Powers in China. It appears, therefore, that there was not exactly a discord among the Powers, but neither was there such an absolutely frank accord as was demanded by the peril of the Ministers in Pekin.

One is here reminded that there has been much misconception and a great deal of loose thinking with respect to the task of assembling a host of internationals at Taku. France is recruiting her little expeditionary corps for China by offering bounties of 100 francs to reservists who will enlist for the enterprise. The Kaiser is obliged to call for volunteers to avenge the death of Baron von Ketteler. In view of the fact that Germany and France could each call to arms over 2,500,000 men by a stroke of the pen, it must puzzle the uninformed to see these Powers driven to such shifts. The fact is that the great armies of these countries consist in the eye of the law of mere national guardsmen—highly organized militias, but still militias—and can be called out by the Executives without the intervention of the legislative power only to repel invasion. Declarations of war by the Chamber of Deputies and the Reichstag would, perhaps, alter the case; but in the meanwhile the powers of Kaiser Wilhelm and President Loubet in the matter are more limited than are those of William McKinley, of Canton, O. It would be well to bear these things in mind when one speaks of the forces which the rulers of Europe could pour into China.

"Your son," said the school teacher, "is very backward in his studies." "That's funny," mused the father. "At home, in conversation with me, he seems to know it all."—Philadelphia North American.

"I wish I knew," said Mr. Tucker, "how I caught this cold."

"Didn't you get a bad cold when you changed your underclothes last spring, paw?" asked Tommy.

"Yes, I believe I did."

"This cold's in your head, ain't it, paw?"

"Yes."

"I guess you got it by changing your mind."

Feminine Inconsistency.

It's such a nuisance having to remove one's hat," remarked a pretty girl in a marvellous piece of millinary at the theatre recently.

"But everybody does it nowadays, and, after all, it's only common courtesy," the youth replied.

"Yes, of course; still it's most inconvenient. But I've the greatest scheme in the world," she added enthusiastically. "Instead of hatpins, that are always falling out of one's hat during the performance and rolling off under the seats, I have a new patent arrangement—two cute little shell combs that are attached to the hat and fasten in the hair. They are simply fine."

"And they do away with those barbarous long pins?" the man interrupted, with a shudder.

The girl laughed. "What a horror you men have of them! I'll show you how this thing works. Not now—I never take off my hat till just before the curtain goes up." The conversation then ran in other channels, and as the music ceased and the lights were lowered an impatient voice was heard to exclaim:

"Oh, dear, I can't get my hat off."

"Can I help you?" her escort asked.

"Oh, dear, one of those nasty little combs has got caught in my hair. If it were only light——"

"Possibly I can disentangle it."

"Ouch! You're pulling my hair."

A painfully distinct voice from the rear: "Will you ask that lady to remove her hat?"

"Oh, I can't. It won't come off."

Another voice with equal distinctness: "I'd speak to the usher.'

"What shall I do? What shall I do? I can't budge it!" The girl was growing tearful. "Isn't there a lady back of me?"

"No, only men."

"This is too awful! What a beastly arrangement this is!"

Several minutes elapse, during which twenty square feet of stage are rendered invisible to part of the audience, who evince impatience. Finally, a triumphant voice exclaims:

"There, it's off at last. But hasn't my hair come with it? Oh, I know I'm a fright. What a hateful arrangement! The man who invented it ought to be drawn and quartered."

The youth smiled, but refrained from comments.

A Young Girl

May be very old in suffering. She is very apt to neglect the earlier symptoms of disease. Often when she takes treatment it is the wrong treatment for her case. Very many young women write to Dr. Pierce and consult him by letter free. All such correspondence is strictly private, and womanly modesty is spared the shock of indelicate examinations, unpleasant questionings and offensive local treatments.

"I suffered with female trouble," writes Miss Agnes McGowne, of 1321 Bank St., Washington, D. C. "I tried various remedies but none seemed to do any permanent good. The doctors said it was the worse case of internal trouble they ever had. I decided to write to Doctor Pierce for help. I received a very encouraging reply and commenced treatment at once. I had not used the 'Favorite Prescription' a week before I began to feel better, and, as I continued, my health gradually improved. It is improving every day and I still continue to take the medicine.

LOCAL NEWS-LETTERS

MILLBROOK.

Mr. J. A. Vance was in Montreal on a business trip last week.

Miss Ethel Payne left Friday to visit friends in Brockville and other eastern points.

Miss Lily Sotheran took in the excursion to St. Anne de Beaupre last week. She reports having a most enjoyable time.

Mr. C. Walsh arrived home from Montreal, Friday, to spend his well earned holidays. He has not been home since he went there, some two years ago. Charlie is one of our most popular young men, and we are pleased to learn of the excellent position he holds in one of the pioneer city's largest drug stores.

Mr. Wm. Cathcart, formerly of this place, but now of Souris, Manitoba, returned home Monday, after spending the past five months in Europe, taking in the great Paris exposition, and visiting the different cities of interest in the British Isles, namely, Glasgow, Edinburg, London, Liverpool, Cork, Dublin, and numerous other cities. Mr. Cathcart reports that the exposition is worthy of attendance having large and creditable exhibits from all countries, but will not exceed the expectations of those visitors after all they have read about it, except your board bill, which under no consideration will be less than you expected. He also states that the British are boycotting it to a great extent on account of the French cartoons and pro-Boer feeling which exists there.

Misses May and Stella Thorndyke left Tuesday for a fortnight's visit with friends in the Queen city.

Mr. Geo. McCartney, of the Robt. Fair Co., Peterborough, is spending his holidays under the parental roof.

Mr. Harry McBain, of Winnipeg, Man., is visiting friends in town.

Miss Hattie Melville, of Peterborough, is visiting her cousin, Miss May Duncan.

Miss Kate Carveth returned home Wednesday from Peterborough, accompanied by her friend, Miss McFarlane, after spending a most enjoyable holiday.

Messrs. H. Skitch, Jas. Foster, and Misses. C. Tucker and C. Budd spent civic holiday at the Otonabee river.

We would like to know if Robbie McNight intends to resume his old position at the Palace Restaurant, as we noticed him gracefully occupying his old seat Wednesday evening beside the prettiest doll that was ever sent in a gum box.

We would like to know how Miss L. M., of Peterborough, enjoyed the Methodist excursion, as every one reports a pleasant time.

We might suggest to Mr. N. McBrien that the next time he has any swine to dispose of, to first replenish his stock before having our prominent stock drovers, especially Mr. W. Gray, losing time in searching for Guinea pigs.

Misses. Millie and Mabel Irwin spent Civic holiday with Miss M. Tobister, Monaghan.

Last Tuesday being Civic holiday, the Methodist Sabbath school held their annual excursion, going this year to Stony Lake, the most picturesque lake of the Kawartha group. The attendance, however, was not as large as other years, owing principally to the wet weather, hay-making, and the harvest coming in earlier than usual, making the farmers in the country very busy. Yet some 80 people took in this unsurpassed trip. Leaving on the regular morning train, and being joined by numerous others along the route. A large number going from Peterborough, who were most cordially received. Upon arrival at Lakefield, they were quickly ushered on board the steamer Sunbeam. We have every reason to appreciate the efforts of Mr. Clarke, superintendent, for securing a craft with such genial employees as those found on the Sunbeam. We trust to again have an opportunity to enjoy a delightful sail on this excellent boat. After the moorings had been loosed we glided gaily out into the beautiful waters of Katchawanooka Lake. On reaching Young's Point, half an hour was given for refreshments. Continuing our journey, we entered the well named waters of Clear Lake, where all on board were very much interested in the artistic artitecture of the numerous cottages along the shore, till McCracken's Landing was reached, where we were given an hour and a half for dinner. The place is quite worthy of the tourist's notice, being the old haunts of the Mississauga Indians. A large number took advantage of the canoes and spent the time in fishing, till the whistle called all aboard to extend the trip to Burleigh Falls, which we regret to state ended in a delusion, for after another hour and a half we found ourselves at Juniper Island, about a half mile from where we previously started, which gave rise to considerable comment by those bent on seeing the renowned falls, which are only surpassed by Niagara. When time had been given for refreshments the gong again called all aboard for the homeward trip, which was enjoyed by all on account of the melodious selections given by the band, and singing by a number of ladies, both of which was highly appreciated. Upon returning to Young's Point an hour was given for tea and viewing the sites of this popular point, the scene of Champlain's early fish stories. We again resumed, and upon arrival at Lakefield, we gave three hearty cheers for the captain and crew, and bidding au revoir to the Sunbeam. We next found ourselves interested in the famed Trent Valley Canal, until the train gave the signal for departure. On reaching Peterborough we found we had an hour to take in the sights of this business metropolis and bid adieu to the fair belles of that town. We again pursued our journey on the regular train, which after another half hour's ride lands us safely at home, with bright recollections of the day's pleasant outing. Among the noticeable features of the excursion was the admirable manner in which the band added to the enjoyment of the day by their well chosen selections, which was not only a credit to themselves, but to the town. Neddy Hogan was the star of the programme, keeping all on board amused by his Irish jigs and Turkish hoe downs. The celebration badges got out by Mr. Marshall, were highly appreciated and showed artistic taste. He is talented for fine job printing.

We are again called upon to note the loss of another of our most popular young men, in the person of Mr. A. Chambers, who left Monday for Honolulu, going via C.P.R. to Victoria, where he will embark on the above Company's up-to-date steamers for that distant port. Although Albert has resided in Oshawa during the past few years, he will be greatly missed from his old home by his many friends, who, while regretting departure, wish him success in his new field of labor.

Testimony of a Babylonian Brick

It is marvellous what a mass of detailed information has come down to us from the perishable brick tablets inscribed, or rather stamped before firing, with minute and complicated inscriptions and preserved in the buried libraries beneath the mounds of the Tigris and Euphrates Valley. Prof. Sayce is able, for instance, to tell us from one of these tablets how "a widow brought action before he royal judges to recover her husband's property. She stated that after their marriage she and Ben-Hadad-Nathan had traded together and that a house had been purchased with a portion of her dowery. This house, the value of which was as much as 110 manehs, 50 shekels, or £62 10s., had been assigned to her in perpetuity. The half-brother now claimed everything, including the house. The case was tried at Babylon before six judges in the ninth year of Nabonidus, and they decided in favor of the plaintiff," for a woman's dowry was her own property. This might be an extract from the law reports of the Times, and other details of ancient Babylonian and Assyrian life are not less precise. "In the reign of Ammizaduk three men rented a field for three years on terms of partnership, agreeing to give the owner during the first two years one gur of grain upon each acre. The whole of the third harvest was to go to the lessees and the partners were to divide the crop in equal shares on the day of the harvest." This seems a pleasant kind of agreement, worthy of imitation. The third year free of rent must have been delightful.

THE REMEDY FAILED.

How a Helpful Wife Did Not Cure Her Husband of the Tobacco Habit.

"It will only be necessary for you to drop about half a teaspoonful of the mixture into this cup of coffee each morning," the circular said, "and the taste for tobacco will gradually depart from him. He may not cease the use of tobacco immediately, but within a week he will begin to abhor tobacco if the mixture is given to him faithfully every morning."

And so the young wife sent her little $2 on and got a flagon of the tobacco cure.

"Pretty bum coffee this morning," he remarked dryly the first time she dropped the half-teaspoonful of the mixture into the cup.

"It's the same as we've been using right along," she replied, craftily.

Now, lo and behold! he was a pretty smooth proposition himself, and he had, unbeknownst to her, seen the package holding the flagon of agin tobacco mixture when it was delivered.

So after dinner that evening he produced a large bulky package of fine-cut tobacco from his pocket and took therefrom a plenteous chew of tobacco. It was the first chew he had ever taken in her presence, and she marvelled thereat, but she determined to persist with the "treatment."

"Dead rank chickory again this morning, isn't it?" he inquired at breakfast the next morning.

"I'm sure it tastes the same to me," she replied.

That evening after dinner he produced a short, black clay pipe and a package of a new kind of tobacco that was as black as the ground work of a Jolly Roger.

"Thought I'd bring this old dudeen up from the office," he explained cheerfully. "It's as sweet as a nut."

Whereupon he filled the house with the aroma of punk that was strong enough to break rock.

"This grocery person who gets all of my wages is certainly doing us on the coffee game," he remarked when he tasted his cup next morning.

"Really," she said, gazing innocently at the ten-cent bunch of asters in the middle of the table, "I can't detect any difference.'

"And yet there are low foreheads who don't believe that all women are actresses," said he to himself on the way to his office that morning.

That evening he brought home a box of auction stogies, and after he had smoked one of them after dinner all of the people in the neighboring flats stuffed cotton in the hall door keyholes and closed the hall transoms.

"I must persist though," thought his baffled little wife, gloomily.

"Coffee tastes like stewed gunnysack again this morning," he remarked at the next breakfast. She felt a bit sorry for him, but she was determined to use up that flagon of "agin-tobacco" if she had to chloroform him and pour it down his throat.

That evening, however, her resolution deserted her. After dinner, for the first time to her knowledge, he pulled out a package of cigarettes, lit one and began to smoke it.

She went upstairs, poured out the remaining portion of her $2 worth of agin-tobacco and carefully hid the bottle.

"Coffee's all right this morning." said he at breakfast the next day.

"Yes?" she inquired, absently.

When he had finished his dinner that evening he lighted one of his usual brand of good cigars.

"Men are mysterious to me," she thought, regarding him out of the tail of her eye.

"Women only think they're foxy," he thought, blowing smoke rings into the Swiss curtains.—Bangor Commercial.

A Competent Witness.

United States District Judge Williams, now holding court in Topeka, tells a funny story. Years ago he was a district judge in Arkansas. At a certain term of court a murder trial came before him, and the most important witness for the prosecution was a colored boy only ten years old. The lawyers for the defence set out to show that the boy was too young to understand the nature of an oath, and therefore was not competent as a witness.

"Boy," said one of them severely, "do you know what would happen if you swore to a lie?"

"Yes, sah. Mammy would lick me.'

"Would anything else happen?"

"Deed dey would, case de devil would git me."

At this point Judge Williams leaned over his desk and said with pretended sternness: "Don't you know, boy that I would get you, too?"

"Yes, sah. Dat's what I jus' said."—Kansas City Journal.

Two Points of View.

A farmer drifted into a hardware store at Mulhall and was asked by the manager. "Don't you want to buy a bicycle to ride around your farm on? They're cheap now. Can give you one for $35."

"I'd sooner put $35 into a cow," said the farmer.

"But think," said the manager, "how foolish you would look riding around town on a cow."

"Oh, I don't know" said the farmer; "no more foolish, perhaps, than I would milking a bicycle."

Out of the Ordinary.

The two old friends, as has been narrated before met again, after years of separation.

"By the way, Gagster," said Throggins, "do you remember that snub-nosed, cross-eyed little Tilbury girl, with a face on her that would ditch an express train? She used to live somewhere in your neighborhood, I think."

"Oh, yes, I remember her perfectly," replied Gagster.

"What ever became of her?"

"I am sorry to disappoint you, Throggins"—here is where the variation comes in—"but I have not the slightest idea. I didn't marry her."

Wonderfully Made.

Sister—When you called to see George was he wearing those slippers I made him for Christmas?

Brother—No. He was using one of them as a laundry bag.

No girl can afford, either for her own surest happiness or for the comfort of mind of him whom she marries, to wed a young man during the formative period of his life, which is between twenty and twenty-five. And she who withholds from a young man her consent to marriage until he has reached the first year of the beginning of wisdom is a mighty sensible little body, and acts in a manner which she will never have cause to regret as long as God gives her and her husband life.—Edward Bok, in the Ladies' Home Journal.

Disputed Patent Rights.

Swindling the Farmers.

Farmers should beware of a gang of swindlers who are travelling through the rural districts claiming authority to examine wells. They examine the water through a microscope and find all kinds of bacteria, cholera and tyhoid germs, and permit the farmer and his wife to look through the microscope, when they see, of course, a menagerie that will always be found in a drop of water. The frightened farmer is advised to At Police Court Saturday morning fakirs sell at high prices, and which proves to be a little plain soda.

Lakefield Wants Industries.

The Lakefield News says.— "Mr. J. H. Hay, President of the Owen Sound Bent Chair Co., and Mr. H. B. Smith secretary, are in the village at present, looking over the prospects for a supply of timber suitable for the manufacture of chairs. We understand that if there is a sufficent quantity it may be an inducement for the company to locate a factory here. The kind of timber they require is beech, maple, ash, elm and berch, which we believe can be found in large quantities in this section. The gentlemen who composed the deputation to visit the Owen Sound Cement Works, invited them to visit Lakefield and they were shown around by them."

Doing Justice to Gen. Hutton.

The more the people of Canada learn ofof General Hutton, says the Halifax Herald, the larger man they see him to be. The publication of the Hutton-Huges correspondence showed Hutton to be quite superior to any small personal animosities; and the recent news over the death of Lieutenent Borden speaks strongly in the same direction. The manner in which the ministeral head of the Militia Department treated General Hutton is well known, and yet, according to recent African despatches, the man who took occasion twice to report Lieutenant Borden to the commander-in-Chief for gallant conduct in the field, was the same man who Lieutenant Borden's father did his best to drive out of Canada. It is the duty of every journal in Canada to report General Hutton for magnanimous and manly conduct.

Don't Be Afraid of Socialists.

There is no reason on earth why socialism should be a bugaboo word. Bismarck, seemed to regard it with terror during the days of his supremacy in Germany, and his repressive measures had the effect of finally giving the socialists a large number of seats than any other parts in the Reichstag. Instead of proceeding to tear up the German Empire, they have pegged along very much like other political parties when entrusted with a measure of responsibolity. In England, the socialistic movement is very much like that of America except the English municipalities are making more rapid strides in acquiring control of all public utilities than are those of America. Socialism is entirely a question of political economy. There is nothing in it to suggest dynamite bombs or Empire terror in any form.

LAKEFIELD CEMENT WORKS

All Objectionable Conditions Removed by G. T. R.—Works Can Now Proceed

As published in the Morning Times of July 31st on that date the Cement company's operations in Lakefield were at a standstill owing to a difficulty that had arisen over the Grand Trunk Railway Company's land upon which it was proposed to erect the necessary buildings. As explained hitherto the G. T. R., had inserted conditions in the deed which were entirely unsatisfactory both to the Cement company and the village. And the former at once began to figure on the property. However, we are now informed by Mr. Kilgour that all objectionable conditions have been erased by the G.T.R. and the Cement company's operations may now go on.

The People Say So.

The public verdict is still in favor of Paine's Celery Compound. It is the great family medicine of the present day and never fails to do what it promises. Paine's Celery Compound will banish and permanently cure kidney disease, liver complaint, ills resulting from impure blood, heart trouble and dyspepsia. Come to us for the genuine—the kind that cures. Ormond & Walsh, Druggists, Peterborough, Ont.

The Umbrella.

Jack—I made two calls this afternoon, and I must have left my umbrella at the last place I called.

Tom—How do you know but that you left it at the first place?

Jack—Because there's where I got it.—Chicago News.

"Example is Better Than Precept."

It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story. Thousands of testimonials are examples of what Hood's has done for others, and what it will do for you.

Dyspepsia – "I was weak and had fainting spells. Dyspepsia and indigestion in severe form troubled me. Five bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla made me well and strong." Mrs. William Vanvalkenburgh, Whitby, Ont.

A Good Medicine – "We have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla in our family as a spring medicine and used Hood's Pills for biliousness and found both medicines very effective. For impure blood we know Hood's Sarsaparilla is a good medicine." R. S. Pelton, publisher Bee, Atwood, Ont.

A MINERAL SPRING

Possessing Wonderful and Startling Curative Properties.

Chat-ham, Ont., Aug. 4.—A phenomenal mineral spring was struck today on the McGregor farm at about 1,000 feet. The hole is 443 inches in diameter, and the stream goes to a height of eight feet over the surface. A company having in view the establishing of a sanitarium has been formed. The water is found to contain properties identical with the water at Mt. Clemens, Mich. A railroad man named Jas. Stryker, who some years ago received an injury to his hand, resulting in a stiffened thumb, to-day bathed his disabled member in this water, and in three hours regained the use of it. The healing properties of the water have become known, and hundreds of people visited the well to-day and carried off quantities of the water to use for various ailments. It is a remarkable thing that 25 years ago a syndicate, after spending something like $10,000, gave up the scheme as a failure. The present syndicate operated on the same property. Much excitement has resulted from "the strike."

THE PRODUCT OF EDUCATION.

Helvetius says. "Man is the product of his education." The properly educated, trained and qualified druggist if he is acquainted with true business principles, must win the confidence of his townspeople. The liberal patronage bestowed on us up to the present, is ample proof that our efforts to please the piblic are appreciated. Family dispensing is our special forte.

Sure and Unfailing.

Under all circumstances of sickness and disease Paine's Celery Compound is safe, sure and unfailing in its effects for all ages and conditions of people. Paine's Celery Compound saves life when other medicines fail, and its cures are permanent. H. S. MacDonald, Druggist, Peterborough Ont.

THE ALLIED FORCES ARE NOW ADVANCING

And are Reported to have Suffered a Check—Ministers Safe on July 30th.

RUSSIANS AND JAPANESE LOSE MANY TROOPS

Li Hung Chang has Spoken. He is Reported as Cabling a New York Paper to the Effect that the Action of the Allies is Unnecessary as Ministers are in a Safe Place

St Petersburg Aug. 6.

A telegram from Khabarovsk says about 6000persons, railwayofficials, and their families have arrived here from Churbin. Among them are 44 wounded and 33 on the invalidl ist. The Chinese Railway Company has given 5000 Rombies for ambulance purpose and for the construction of quarters for other refugees.

London, Aug. 7.

The advance of the allied forces commenced to-day. "Cables the British con sul at Tien Tsin under date of Aug. 4, this is the first official information received here that the attempt to relieve Pekin was begun, it is accepted as correct. The British consul does not mention any fighting, but the Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Mail telegraphing Sunday says, the Pekin relief column is reported to have suffered a check.

The Chinese are said to have adopted Guerilla tactics and after several hours of fighting, to have retreated. This is the only message received in London this morning, bearing on the reports of Admiral Remey and commander Taussig regarding an engagement at Peitsand the fact that the advance did not begin until Saturday is taken to strengthen the accounts of a battle Sunday, especially when it is said to have occurred so near Pekin as Peitsand. In the same cablegram which was read in the House of Commons the consul at Tien Tsin says says that news from the Japanese elgations has been received up to Aug. 1. therefore the edicts announcing the safety of the ministers on that date are confirmed.

Yesterday the Chinese Minister Sir Chi Chin Lu Peng, Luh communicated to Lord Salisbury a message from the Tsung Li Yamen dated July 30 reiterating the statment that the ministers were safe on that day and recounting the friendly relations existing between them and the Yamen as well as reporting the sending of supplies t othe legation by Yamen. The message contains this important statement, a successful termination of the conference with the ministers for their conveyance under escort to Tien Tsin is expected, but on account of the recommencement of hostilities at Tien Tsin, Code telegrams for transmission to the representatives are considered undescribed, this appears to confirm the statement that the Chinese Government will endeavor to stop the march to Pekin by using the ministers as hostages. The Lokal Anziezer of Berlin publishing an interview with Li Hung Chang, quotes him as saying emphatically that China must not in any circumstances cede any more territory to any power. In reply to a question why the rebellion was noto put down Earl Li is prepresented as having said I blame Prince Tuan the Empress Dowager and the whole Pekin Government for theirl ack of energy the situation would never have become serious.

Fierce Engagement.

Washington, Aug. 6. — The following telegrams have been received at the Navy Department:

Cheefoo, Aug. 6 — Bureau Navigation, Washington, — British war despatch briefly reports, unofficial. Engagement at Peitsang, Sunday morning ,3 to 10.30. Allies loss, killed and wounded, 1,600, chiefly Russians and Japanese. Chinese retreating. Signed, Tansing.

Heavy Losses.

Cheefoo, Auf. 6. — Bereau Navigation, Washington,— No official report. Believed reliable. About 1600 allies heavily engaged Chinese at Peitsang, daylight of the 5th. Signed Remay.

Peitsang is the first railway station, about 8 miles noirthwest of Tien Tsin, en route to Pekin.

Consuls Leaving.

Paris, August 6.— The French consul at Ching King telegraphs under date of Aug. 3rd, that the situation is becoming more serious in the upper Yang Tientsang. The English consul, he says, has left the custom house staff, and the French consul intends t oleave with his Japanese colleague. The mail service has been stopped.

Li Hung Chang.

London, Aug. 6.— The anti-foreign party has again the upper hand at Pekin, according to reports announcing Li Hung Chang's lodging at Shanghai. His baggage is packed prepertory to his departure for Pekin, but it is added that he has appealed to the Throne for 20 days sick leave. Chang claims that his representations to the Yang Tse Viceroys and Tartar Sheng will be denounced by Li Ping Keng, because they are friendly to the foreigners.

More Murder.

A news agency despatch from Shanghai, dated to-day, says it is rumoured that the powerful viceroy Yuman Shaki Governor of Shang Tung, who disapproved of Prince Tuan, has been killed.

The Solution

New York, Aug. 6. — The Evening Word in an early edition to-day says that it cabled Saturday to Li Hung Chang for the latest official information of the Chinese situation. To-day the paper prints under copyright head the following response.

"The Imperial decree just issued, authorizing the escort of the diplomatic corps to a place of safety, renders action of the allied forces unnecessary. It is the first step forward to the solution of the situation. Signed, Li Hung Chang."

FOR SHANGHAI'S DEFENCE

Admiral Seymour is Landing Three Thousand Troops for Defence of Shanghai.

New York, Aug. 6.—In a cable despatch to this morning's Tribune, filed at 1 a.m., Mr. Isaac N. Ford reviews the Chinese news received up to that hour, and comments upon it as follows.—

"The only official news given out yesterday relating to China was Admiral Seymour's account of his conference with the Viceroy of Nankin, who had consented to the landing of three thousand troops for the defence of Shanghai. This safeguard is required because the Empress may order a general massacre of the foreigners in Pekin when the allied army advances from Tien Tsin, and this movement may extend to the southern cities and the Yang—tse valley. The presence of three thousand troops will keep Shanghai quite in an emergency, but defencive measures on a large scale are needed in the Yang-tse valley.

"Shanghai's Taotai has objected to to measures taken by the Consuls for the defence of foreign settlements, including the enrolment of volunteers and the presence of so many foreign warships in the river, and he asked for a suspension of these operations. The British Consul-General, M. Pelham Warren, in reply, wrote a despatch setting forth that the measures were only intended to strengthen the hands of the lawful Chinese authorities against disorder."

ANOTHER GREAT VICTORY 10—1

Peterborough's Fine Nine Once More to be Congratulated on their Ball Playing.

One of the most exciting games of the season, was witnessed by a very large and orderly crowd,and not as our "dead" neighboring town Lindsay proclaimed them. The Night Owls are supposed to be ball players, but they must have been huning young chickens, previous to their arrival here. they ran up against the real thing when they tried to touch those invisible balls, as you may call them that our "old reliable Danny" had in store for them. It is hardly fair to mention any particular players, but the exceedingly fine work of our 3rd baseman Scott, who we surely owe a congratulation, putting seven out and assisting four, also the home runs of Parnell and the "always over the fence Earls", who has a number of home hits to his credit this season while Chris also is to be congratulated on his playing.

Mr. R. Hay, umpired the game, most satisfactory to all.

The score is as follows.

Peterboro — 1 0 3 3 0 0 2 *—10
Toronto — 0 1 2 0 0 0 2 0— 6

THE BOERS ARE USING SOFT-NOSED BULLETS

Lord Lennox and 40 Men Taken Prisoners Subsequently Released —Oliver Declines to be Bound by Prinsloo's Agreement to Surrender.

The War Office has received the following despatch from Lord Roberts.—

"Pretoria, Aug. 3.—Ian Hamilton continued his movement to Rustenburg. He drove the Boers off the Magaliesberg range, killing two and wounded three. The Boer prisoners were found to be armed with Lee-Metford rifles belonging to the Lincolnshires, and with sporting rifles and soft-nosed cartridges of a kind not used by our army. Our wounded were Col. Rhodes and thirtynine men.

"Hunter reports that 3,348 men, 3,046 horses, and three guns have now been surrendered.

"Yesterday evening a train was attacked and derailed twenty miles south of Kroonstad. We had four killed and three wounded. Lord Aldernon Lennox and forty men who were taken prisoners were liberated at the request of Stowe, the American Consul at Cape Town, who was travelling on the train.

"Lord Roberts yesterday released Lord Lennox and kept as prisoners only two officers. The mounted infantry followed the train-wreckers to Halfontein, killing three and wounded several.

"Olivier, who managed to escape from Bethlehem with 1,500 men, has informed Bruce Hamilton that he does not consider himself bound by Prinsloo's offer to surrender his whole force, and that he intends to continue the war. He has taken up a position between Harrismith and the Newmarket road. Rundle is following him.

"Prisoners captured on Aug. 2 state that only soft-nosed cartridges were served out to them. The wounds of our men are consequently very serious. I am making representations to Botha about this matter."

A Cape Town despatch to The Mail and Empire on July 28 stated that Mr. Stowe had left there to go to Pretoria, and afterwards visit President Kruger. The object of his visit to the Boer President was not known.

Consul Stowe Wounded.

Pretoria, Aug. 5.—Consul-General Stowe was slightly wounded in the engagement which resulted in the capture of the train on which he was travelling. His escort gallantly defended the train, but they were overpowered. Mounted infantry arrived just too late to be of any service in capturing the Boers. They pursued them, however, and killed six of them.

MILLIONAIRE ONCE A POOR MAN NOW.

A Man Who Once Had a Great Fortune Joins Marine Corps.

A SHORT SKETCH OF HIS LIFE

Harrisburg, Aug. 6.—Edward Leonard Dwyer, of Terrington, Conn., who claims to have been a millionaire speculator a few years ago, enlisted here to-day in the United States marine service as a private and together with several other recruits was taken this evening to League Island Navy Yard, Philadelphia.

Dwyer's life is replete with romance. On January 29, 1896, he was married at the Hotel Indian River at Rock Ledge, Fla., to the widow of the Duke de Castellucia, who was formerly Miss Jennie A. Tomigo, of Brooklyn, and who upon the death of the Duke succeeded to an estate valued at $7,000,000. The wedding in Florida, it is said, was attended by Richard Croker, the chief of Tammany Hall, and a few friends of Croker, who were at that time visiting in the South.

When Mrs. Dwyer died a few years ago she left the main part of her fortune to her two children, but Dwyer received $350,000 and the title to Dix Island, off the coast of Maine.

Dwyer speculated extensively. He promoted silver mines and railroad deals near Neiner, Mexico, but failed and on May 1899, filed a petition in bankruptcy, the liabilities aggregating $250,000, with no assets.

After an aimless career in the West Dwyer about a week ago, friendless and without money, drifted to Harrisburg, where he secured employment as a laborer. Yesterday, however, in passing the recruiting office of the marine corps he decided to enter the service and his enlistment followed. He said he was 34 years of age, although he has the appearance of a man more advanced in years.

SUES ARMY OFFICER FOR $50,000

A Washington Woman Alleged Breach of Promise Against Major George A. Armes.

Washington, Aug. 6.—Miss Ella M. Platt, an artist of this city, to-day instituted a suit at law in the District Supreme Court for $50,000 damages for breach of promise against Major George A. Armes, a retired United States Army officer. The defendant has gained some National notoriety in several ways, once by tweaking the nose of Gen. Beaver, then Governor of Pennsylvania, and another time by a controversy with War Department officials.

The suit alleges breach of promise to marry, practice of deception ,and the commission of personal assault on the plaintiff. Among other things it alleges that he deceived her in making her believe that the signing of an agreement reciting that "They hereby became man and wife" constituted a valid marriage. She avers that after she discovered the alleged deception he refused to marry her.

GALLEY BROKE HIS LEG.

Through an Accident at Pontypool Saturday Evening.

Through an accident at Pontypool Saturday evening. Mr. Will Galley met with a rather serious accident on Saturday night. He was on his way home from Galt, where he had been playing lacrosse with the Brantford team, and intended getting off the express at Pontypool station ,but before reaching that point, he in some manner fell from the rear end of the train, breaking his left leg and receiving other injuries. He was picked up and taken to his father-in-law's home at Pontypool, where his injuries were attended to by a local physician. He was then brought to town on the 11.27 train yesterday morning, and conveyed to the Nicholls Hospital.

He is being attended to by Mr. Bradd.

INSULTED BRITISH UNIFORM

Recently the Kingston Whig contained an interesting account of an interview with Pte John R. Rae of the First Canadian contingent just invalided home from South Africa. Notwithstanding sundry accounts of the entusiastic loyalty to the British Empire of French Canadians the story told to the Kingston Whig by this returned soldier throws a light on this loyalty which makes apparent the fact that the words of Tarte, Bourassa, Monet, Bernier et al are evidently bearing fruit of the bitterest variety. Speaking of his reception on his return to the city of Quebec, this Canadian soldier is reported to have said that "he thinks the people of Washington, D.C.are more loyal to Great Britain than are some of the people of ancient Quebec, on the streets of which he was repeatedly insulted and jeered at because he wore the Quen's uniform and had fought on the side of the British against the Boers".

A BIG BLACK SNAKE IN A FLOUR BIN.

Tried to Get Away. But Mrs. Jones Killed It With a Club.

Sharon, U.S., Aug. 6.—Mrs. Isaac Jones was making bread in her kitchen to-day and when she lifted the cover from her flour bin a blacksnake, a yard long, jump-into her face.

The reptile crawled around the floor trying to make its escape, but Mrs. Jones secured a club and killed it after a fierce fight.

Stealing a Mica Mine.

There are men who would run off with a mica mine if given time. The other day a gang of miners was sent to operate in the mine owned by Messrs. Fulford and MacLaren on the shores of Sand Lake, in the Rideau chain. On arriving at the mouth of the mine, the men were surprised on looking in, that other chaps had preceded them, and were banging away, knocking off the mica in chunks They made a hurried exit, and escaped, though a hat and other articles of clothing were left behind. On examination, a well beaten path was found to a boat landing, and no doubt a considerable quantity of mica has been carried off.

A Belleville Yarn.

In a town down east a good-looking, well-to-do Oddfellow was being chaffed by several Rebekahs for not being married. He retorted by saying.—"I will marry the one of you, who on a secret vote, you may elect to be my wife. There were nine Rebekahs present, and all agreed to the proposition. Each one took great caution in preparing her ballot, and disguised her handwriting. There were nine ballots cast, each Rebekiah received one vote. As a result the brother remained a bachelor, the Rebekiahs do not speak as they pass by, and they are united in the determination that they will never speak to the horrid brother again.—Intelligence.

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT REPORT.

Ald. Dawson presented the following—

Gentlemen,—Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report and recommend that no action be taken on John McFarlane's application for holidays, and that the drivers in the fire hall take the outside work alternately every two weeks, John McFarlane to take the outside work to-morrow, Tuesday.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

FIRE TEAMSTERS IN TROUBLE.

Ald Dawson here remarked that he could not move the adoption of the Fire Water and Light report on account of the action of driver Montgomery in trying to boss this council. For some time past he had positively refused to abide by the decision of the council and the committee, and it was now 'time for a change."

Chief Rutherford here, was heard and said that during the last year, affairs in the fire hall had been in a very unsatisfactory condition. The drivers evidently want to rule the town.

He thought it time that council took some definite action in the matter.

Ald Dawson, at this junctive move that both drivers, Montgomery and MacFarlane, be requested to hand in their resignations, and the town advertise for two competent teamsters, as things would

IS ENGLAND INVULNERABLE?

Lord Roseberry Demands the Presence of Lord Wolseley, the Commander-in-Chief.

London, August 4. — Another breeze blew up in the House of Lords yesterday as the outcome of the debate on Friday last regarding the allegation that England was not invulnerable against an attempted invasion. Lord Rosebery somewhat testily resented the secretary of state for war, the Marquis of Lansdowne, taking him to task for suggesting that the commander of the forces, Lord Wolseley, ought to come to the House and give his authority to the Government's military plans. Lord Rosebery said he did not propose to be snubbed in the discharge of what he considered a public duty. The Marquis of Lansdowne he said, must be disabused of the idea that there existed in the country a blind, venerating condidence in the War Office.

The Marquis of Lansdowne, replying, said the War secretary was responsible to Parliament and the Commander-in Chief was responsible to the War Secretary.

Other peers having spoken, Lord Salisbury arose and said he understood Lord Wolseley would come to the House and express his approval of Lord Lansdowne's plan. It was obvious that if Lord Wolseley could be called upon to do that, he was also entitled to express disapproval. Lord Salisbury said he could not see how that was possible. There was much force in what Lord Rosebery had said, but it was of an abstract kind. The subject was then dropped.

THE CHINESE SITUATION.

The news from Pekin will intensify the interest in the Chinese situation. If the members of the foreign legations should after all come out alive what wonderfully exciting stories they will have to tell. But taking the most hopeful view of the situation while it is possible that all the Ministers except the German Ambassadors are still alive, it is certain that a number of those attached to the embassies have been killed and wounded and there will be much anxiety to know who the victims are. The threat that the Ministers would be put to death if the foreign forces advanced on Pekin seems more cruel and barbarous now that the Ministers are believed to be alive than when they were supposed to be dead. The deliberate murder of the foreign Ministers and those with them would be more cold-blooded and horrible than their massacre by a wild mob of Boxers. It will be more difficult than ever for the powers to know how to act under the circumstances.

SOUTH AFRICAN TRADE.

The Minister of Trade and Commerce has received a report from Thomas Moffat Dominion Trade Commissioner in South Africa, in which he points out that British and foreign manufacturers are ready to swoop down on the whole country as soon as possible and that the first in the field will reap a rich harvest of orders. Britain and her colonies made great sacrifices of money and precious lives to preserve the country from barbarism, and foreign nations that looked on and hoped for British defeat when things were looking worst, are now ready to step in and share the profits on equal terms with the people of the British Empire. If a wise policy of imperial preferential trade were in force the manufacturers of the Empire would have a decided advantage over foreigners in competing for the trade of that country. That the trade is worth striving for is evident from the figures given by Mr. Moffat showing that the imports of Cape Colony and Natal for the year 1899 were valued at about $130,000,000 without including British war materials, and of the $16,000,000 of imports through Delagoa Bay the greatest part was for the Transvaal. It may be expected that when peace is fully restored imports will largely increase.

YANKEE SYMPATHY.

If the language of party platform means anything, England must now understand that American public opinion in both great political parties alike both explicitly disapproves of England's proposition to deprive the two Boer republics of their status as separate and independent nations.—American Monthly Review of Reviews.

However much it is to be regretted that the sympathy of "both great political parties" in the United States is so misdirected, this circumstance cannot affect the policy that England is bound to pursue in South Africa. On different occasions England came to the assistance of the Boers in their difficulties, and granted or confirmed them in their independence—almost invariably to be rewarded with broken treaty obligations, and an abrogation of the commonest rights and privileges of British settlers within the Transvaal territory. To concede to the Boer's independence again in the face of this record, and after all the present conflict has cost England in blood and treasure, would be an act of folly and supineness of which at least the United States would never, under similar circumstances, be guilty. As has been irrefutably established, the Boers deliberately prepared for this war and finally precipitated it with the purpose and expectation of overwhelming Natal and Cape Colony, and finally annexing these provinces to their own territory, and though the result is altogether different from what was expected, and the aggressors and would-be conquerors have themselves been beaten and driven almost to their last ditch, this does not make the case one whit the better—in fact it renders it all the worse as it shows that the end has failed to justify the means—nor does it lessen the obligation of the British authorities to restore and maintain order and equal rights in the acquired territory. England may deplore the absence of the sympathy of the great political parties in the neighboring republic, but she has had to do without this sympathy on many occasions in the past, and she must try to wriggle along without in the future. Meantime she will follow with interest the progress of the subjection of the Filipinos and watch for the development of the scheme which is to be employed to engraft Cuba into the Union.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

It may be truly said of King Humbert that the worst report ever heard about him was that of the assassin's revolver.

* * *

While they appear to be winding up the Boer war, at any moment Lord Roberts' line is still liable to be tangled up.

* * *

Li Hung Chang's yellow jacket has not been much in evidence in this crisis. Perhaps he's really taken it off to work all the harder for a solution of the difficulty.

* * *

Great Britain is once more demonstrating to the world the ability of her navy ashore as well as afloat. The allimportant service rendered by the naval brigade with three mammoth guns from H.M.S. Trible in the memorable and victorious defence of Ladysmith, taught the world a lesson in military manoeuvers. And now we find these same guns doing similar service in China; in fact they, under the manipulation of their magnificent brigade, prevented the yellow army from capturing the foreign concessions at Tien Tsin, by their brilliant defence of the Railway station.

* * *

The Japanese legation at Pekin seems to have been fighting its own little fight by itself, supported by no "foreign devils."

* * *

While the Shah of Persia may be sadly deficient in European table manners, he has demonstrated to the world that he is no coward. He and his Grand Vizier themselves disarmed the monarch's would-be assassin, and on the arrival of the police were engaged in tying him in a knot. It is just possible that were anarchists to extend their operations to the more vigorous bred monarchs of the East, they would have meted out to them a punishment "fit" the crime.

* * *

The Chinese, according to most reliable reports, are slaughtering one another at Pekin. If this sort of thing continues, the task before the allied forces will be considerably lightened.

* * *

When the British paper makers were here they seemed to be well acquainted with the fact that the paper mills of the United States are dependent upon Canada for supplies of wood pulp. Indeed, even before the recent visit to Canada they urged the Canadian Government to put an export duty on pulp wood going to the United States. Notwithstanding this, Mr. Philipps, the editor of the British Paper Journal who accompanied the British paper makers on their trip through Canada and the United States, is credited in the Chicago Record with saying on his return to England—"American methods of manufacturing paper are a little superior to ours, but they have a great advantage over us in the matter of unexcelled water power, abundant supplies of wood pulp and other raw materials close at hand." If Mr. Philipps has been correctly reported he must have got Canada and its neighboring territory mixed in his travels. Fortunately it is Canada which enjoys unexcelled water power and an abundant supply of wood pulp and other raw material.

Advising the Bachelors.

"Why do you not tell the bachelors how to choose wives?" asked one of them, after reading the professor's advice to the girls on the question of choosing husbands. This query is easily answered. In the first place, to label the girls who would make the best wives would be to give away state secrets. One may laugh at the follies and foibles of the sex, when, by pointing out the same, good may be done; but it would be unpardonable to give the man inside information about the sisterhood of such a grave character as that requested. A man contemplating marriage should be able to settle the question for himself. One who cannot distinguish the difference between the false and the true should remain a bachelor. Boys should not marry.

His Terrible Cough.

Few things are so depressing and weakening as a constant cough. Few things are as discouraging as a cough that will not yield to treatment. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures coughs when all other medicines fail, because it is more than a cough medicine. The cough is but a symptom. "Discovery" makes new and pure blood, heals the lacerated tissues, and gives the body the needed strength to throw off disease. It cures the cough by curing the cause of the cough. There is no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine, nor other narcotic in the "Discovery."

"I had a terrible cough something over a year ago and could find nothing to stop it, or even to do me a particle of good," writes Mr. J. M. Bair, of Cameron, Screven Co., Ga. "I chanced to see an advertisement of yours, and forthwith bought a bottle of your invaluable 'Golden Medical Discovery.' Before I had taken half a bottle I was entirely well."

SOME CURIOUS VOWS

That are Made on the Eve of Battle by Men Who are to Take Part.

If I come out of the big fight to-morrow safe and sound I shall never touch another drop of spirits as long as I live.

Such was the vow uttered by a private on the eve of the battle of Ulundi during the famous Zulu war some eighteen years since. The man had been the toper of the regiment—notorious for his devotion to the joys of Bacchus—but on the night before the battle he received a letter from home saying that his father had died in a home for dipsomaniacs. Impressed by the awfulness of this incident, he recorded the vow related above—though with what precision it was kept the present chronicler is unable to state.

Rather curious was the vow registered by a French soldier who took part in the Franco-German war of 1870171. A very dear comrade of his having been killed in action, he swore an oath on the eve of a certain battle that with his own hands he would kill no fewer than a dozen Prussians, or, failing this, would perish by his own hand. Sure enough, be kept his word most faithfully—for when the time came, he shot twelve of the enemy in succession, narrowly escaping with his own life after the abnormal feat in question.

During the war between North and South a Confederate officer named Hudson vowed that if he came uninjured out of the campaign he would marry the first woman he met on returning to his native town, providing that she was single and willing to accept him. The gallant but eccentric officer was spared by shot and shell to so great an extent that he emerged scatheless from the war, but the vow was never consummated, for by a strange freak of fate, the first woman whom he encountered upon his return was his own sister, so that naturally nothing came of the extraordinary oath.

In ancient days vows upon the eve of battle were far more common than is the case in modern times. Before the battle of Cressy we are informed that no fewer than six archers, serving under the English banner, registered solemn oaths that, in the event of the battle going against them, they would thrust their own arrows down their throats rather than be taken prisoners by the French soldiery.

On the night before the world-famous battle of Alma a Cossack soldier vowed that if he were fortunate enough to be spared during the fight he would consume ten gallons of ale at one sitting, directly an opportunity was afforded him of so doing. The oath, however, proved a tragic one, for the Cossack, as his companions, arguing from the utterance of it that he was possessed of considerable money, fell upon him and stripped him of the pouch containing all his worldly possessions, and in the struggle to regain his property he fell, stabbed to the heart by a treacherous comrade.

Most readers of history will remember the famous Seven Years' war, in which Frederick the Great of Prussia played so important a part. During the progress of that memorable and prolonged campaign a Bavarian corporal rejoicing in the name of Keller swore an oath that he would not cut his finger nails until the war was over. The worthy corporal's oath would doubtless have been faithfully observed had not gossip concerning it came to the ears of his commanding officer, who sent for the man, reprimanded him severely and ordered him to have his nails cut in the ordinary course—in accordance with the laws of decency.

Seeing that the campaign in question endured for six years after the registering of this remarkable vow, the action of the commandent was a useful one, for it would be hardly pleasant to ponder upon the condition of finger nails innocent of the scissors for the space of seventy-two months.

Perhaps, however, one of the most curious vows ever uttered on a battlefield was he oath recorded by an Italian soldier serving under the banner of the heroic Garibaldi. He swore that in the event of his issuing from the campaign a sound man he would at once abandon the army and take priestly orders. He kept his word, for on the close of the campaign he assumed the clerical robe and died some six years later in an odor of sanctity.

A HOUSEHOLD ECONOMY.

Mrs. South Orange Develops Unexpected Ability as Mistress of Finance.

"I have discovered a way of saving money," said Mrs. South Orange the other day, with pride. "It doesn't save much at once, but it is the little savings, made continually, that tell.

Mr. South Orange looked interested. Mrs. Orange as a financier, and especially as an economizer, was wholly new, and the prospect of having to pay for her economies in some unsuspected way was almost as exciting as a roulette game. So he said with careful pronunciation: "Well?"

"Well," said Mrs. South Orange, drawing a long breath. "You know I keep an account in town here." Mr. Orange nodded and sighed to himself. His wife went on: "The other day I heard from a little tailor in the city—I mean New York, of course—that he had had to pay ten cents to get a two-dollar check cashed that I had sent him.'

"Yes," said Mr. South Orange, "country checks have to pay that now——"

"But we don't live in the country!" cried Mrs. South Orange, indignantly. "You told me only the other day that this was a city now.' '

"Yes, it is a city," said South Orange. "But country checks' is merely the name for checks coming from out of town. For some months past the city people presenting such checks have had to pay ten cents for getting them cashed. You see——"

"So they don't get all that we think they're going to get?" demanded Mrs. South Orange. "and I am banking on that. Banking is right, isn't it? I thought so. Well, I have decided hereafter, so long as they don't get all that we think they're going to get to just take ten cents off the checks that I send them. You see, that tailor wanted $2 and only got $1.90. I had to pay ten cents that didn't do him any good. So henceforth I shall only pay them what they're going to get. Thus, you see, I'll save ten cents, and they'll get all they would have got if I had paid 'em all they ought to have got."

She stopped breathless, and Mr. South Orange looked up without a word. Finally he asked, gently: "Have you begun on this yet?"

"Only thought of it last night, while I was waiting for you to come back from your bowling club."

"You wait about putting it into action until I have laid the plan before——No! You'd better see the President of the bank yourself, and take his advice. Good-by; I must run!"

South Orange thought he had rid himself of the job of explaining matters, but he hadn't. Mrs. Orange returned to the plan at dinner.

"The President said he did not approve of my plan," she said, sadly. "He said it was all right in theory, but would militate against banking customs, and that I had hardly the legal or moral right to lead an attack against those customs alone, as it would take up much of my time and might prove labor in vain. He said that his advice, as he was President of a bank, might seem prejudiced, and said that your advice was more likely to be quite disinterested than his own. So he referred me back to you."

South Orange's jaw dropped.

"Look here," he began; "I'll get you Mill's book on political economy to-morrow—the dismal science some one calls it. Meantime, it's full moon—let's go for a drive."

Col. Verry's Strategic.

Col. Horace B. Verry has a cat which is the terror of dogs passing the Verry domicile on Cedar street. There is a particular stone post at the gateway on which the cat likes to sit, waiting for a victim. If the dog approaches the post, as dogs sometimes will on business intent, the cat promptly drops on his back and gets a firm grip on hair or hide as the case may be. The dog jets out up the street or down the street, whichever way he was headed, or the shortest way home, as if the devil himself had got him, instead of a plain cat of feminine gender. She seems to enjoy the free ride, and finally drops off, the dog never stopping to say good day.

A Real Good Time.

First Matinee Girl—Did you enjoy the play this afternoon?

Second Matinee Girl—I never enjoyed anything half so much. Why, there wasn't a minute I wasn't crying my eyes out.

"Oh the perfidy of mankind," sighed the little Miss Dresden. "Here Mr. Timmidy has sent me a valentine with a verse beginning, 'Oh, the earth has no treasures too costly for thee,' and when I took it to the store to see what it cost they told me it was twenty cents last season, but marked down to eleven."

THE SECRET OF EXPRESSION

Various Things That Help to Make a Woman's Face Attractive.

Many of the most fascinating women of history have been without a single beauty of feature. Therefore their attraction must have depended on expression, either inborn or acquired. Its subtleties depend as much on temperament as on education. A perfectly irregular face is sometimes magnetic by reason of its animation and earnestness.

Irregularity of that kind is preferable to a beautiful and immobile countenance that smiles perpetually like an everlasting blue sky. There is only a hair line between repose and stagnation and one is as pleasing as the other is dull.

It is the quality, rather than the quantity of the mind that affects expression. Excessive brain work is detrimental—it strains and contorts the features, tightens the lips, wrinkles the forehead and dulls the eyes, but on the other hand where beauty is absent a certain amount of brain work will add it to the face for the eyes gain depth and earnestness, the nose becomes determined, and the shapeless lips and jaws grow powerful. Expression to be really beautiful must correspond with and enhance the individuality already expressed.

Violet temper renders the eyes dry and staring, making them devoid of that clear serenity which is so charming. Concentrated thought and pessimism, jealousy or discontent, deprive the mouth of its mobility and compress the lips to a thin line in time. Cynicism has a lasting effect on the corners of the mouth.

No matter how ugly a face is, it may come to possess rugged grandeur and homely sweetness, but neither of these is to be obtained by those who frivol, vacillate or have no appreciation for the higher things of life and the larger emotions. A pretty expression, a poor mind and a shallow heart cannot add to the expression of a face. —Chicago News.

A True American.

He was one of the most peculiar characters of the many who lived in the woods of the Northwest, was John Bordine, and most of all he was a squaw man. His wife was an old Pottawatomie squaw, and it was very hard to believe that a man like Bordine, with a college education and the refinement of a good family, could live with such a person, but he did live with her until he died, and they seemed to be much more contented than many apparently more congenial married couples. John Bordine was a foreigner, but he had adopted America first as his home and then as his own country.

There were plenty of persons who said that he laid claim to being an American because he believed that as an American he could sell more skins and could more easily collect bounties paid for wolves, etc.

It was in the spring of 1880 that sentiment against John Bordine, the squaw man, changed. There was away north of the Menominee reservation a soldier buried. Above this grave John Bordine planted an American flag, a very curious emblem, but it was the nearest approach to the Stars and Stripes that Bordine's limited wardrobe and that of his squaw wife could furnish. Bordine had taken a part of his squaw's old, faded blue gingham skirt. This he made into his flag, as the field of stars, and the stripes were alternate stripes of white linen and red flannel.

A hunter found the flag floating over the grave, and it was Bordine's squaw who told him how it was placed there and how Bordine had fired his gun three times over the grave, and then the hunter knew that the squaw man had remembered what he had forgotten, Memorial Day. Bordine refused to take any credit for his act of patriotism, and to the day he died longed for a chance to fight for his new country. He is dead now, and on a plain headstone is written, "Here lies John Bordine, a patriotic American."

Bees Leave Town by Train.

A great swarm of bees made their appearance one morning on Canal street and for a time practically took possession of the "starter's stand" at the corner of Bourbon and Canal streets. Starter Hodge is unable to say from what direction they came, but volunteers the statement that they made themselves perfectly at home while his guests. For a time he was apprehensive lest he might be compelled to "shut up shop," but it soon developed that the mission of the little insects, whatever else it might be, lay not in the direction of harm; so that Mr. Hodge's attention to business was uninterrupted, and the bees, while attracting a great deal of attention, were not molested. Indeed, they commanded the perfect respect of everyone.

Later the honey-gatherers boarded the West End train in a body and went to the lake, where they probably colonized. For a time their presence on the cars made the passengers somewhat nervous; but when it was explained by the conductor that the bees were harmless unless attacked, conditions improved and confidence was restored.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Wire Nails and Old Nails.

Careful experiments made at Cornell University are said to show that: "First, cut nails are superior to wire nails in all positions; second, the main advantage of the wire nail is due to its possessing a sharp point; third, if cut nails were pointed they would be thirty per cent. more efficient in direct tension; fourth, wire nails without points have but one-half their ordinary holding power; fifth, the surface of the nail should be slightly rough, but not barbed—barbing decreases the efficiency of cut nails about thirty-two per cent." The pointed end enables the nail to enter wood without breaking its fibre excessively, thus preserving its grip. A serious defect of wire nails is their readiness to rust. They are made generally of a sort of soft steel, and steel rusts more readily than some other forms of iron. In some parts of the country, it is said, shingles put on with wire nails drop off after six or eight years.—Baltimore Sun.

SOME CURIOUS VOWS

That are Made on the Eve of Battle by Men Who are to Take Part.

If I come out of the big fight to-morrow safe and sound I shall never touch another drop of spirits as long as I live.

Such was the vow uttered by a private on the eve of the battle of Ulundi during the famous Zulu war some eighteen years since. The man had been the toper of the regiment—notorious for his devotion to the joys of Bacchus—but on the night before the battle he received a letter from home saying that his father had died in a home for dipsomaniacs. Impressed by the awfulness of this incident, he recorded the vow related above—though with what precision it was kept the present chronicler is unable to state.

Rather curious was the vow registered by a French soldier who took part in the Franco-German war of 1870171. A very dear comrade of his having been killed in action, he swore an oath on the eve of a certain battle that with his own hands he would kill no fewer than a dozen Prussians, or, failing this, would perish by his own hand. Sure enough, he kept his word most faithfully—for when the time came, he shot twelve of the enemy in succession, narrowly escaping with his own life after the abnormal feat in question.

During the war between North and South a Confederate officer named Hudson vowed that if he came uninjured out of the campaign he would marry the first woman he met on returning to his native town, providing that she was single and willing to accept him. The gallant but eccentric officer was spared by shot and shell to so great an extent that he emerged scatheless from the war, but the vow was never consummated, for by a strange freak of fate, the first woman whom he encountered upon his return was his own sister, so that naturally nothing came of the extraordinary oath.

In ancient days vows upon the eve of battle were far more common than is the case in modern times. Before the battle of Cressy we are informed that no fewer than six archers, serving under the English banner, registered solemn oaths that, in the event of the battle going against them, they would thrust their own arrows down their throats rather than be taken prisoners by the French soldiery.

On the night before the world-famous battle of Alma a Cossack soldier vowed that if he were fortunate enough to be spared during the fight he would consume ten gallons of ale at one sitting, directly an opportunity was afforded him of so doing. The oath, however, proved a tragic one, for the Cossack, as his companions, arguing from the utterance of it that he was possessed of considerable money fell upon him and stripped him of the pouch containing all his worldly possessions, and in the struggle to regain his property he fell, stabbed to the heart by a treacherous comrade.

Most readers of history will remember the famous Seven Years' war, in which Frederick the Great of Prussia played so important a part. During the progress of that memorable and prolonged campaign a Bavarian corporal rejoicing in the name of Keller swore an oath that he would not cut his finger nails until the war was over. The worthy corporal's oath would doubtless have been faithfully observed had not gossip concerning it came to the ears of his commanding officer, who sent for the man, reprimanded him severely and ordered him to have his nails cut in the ordinary course—in accordance with the laws of decency.

Seeing that the campaign in question endured for six years after the registering of this remarkable vow, the action of the commandent was a useful one, for it would be hardly pleasant to ponder upon the condition of finger nails innocent of the scissors for the space of seventy-two months.

Perhaps, however, one of the most curious vows ever uttered on a battlefield was he oath recorded by an Italian soldier serving under the banner of the heroic Garibaldi. He swore that in the event of his issuing from the campaign a sound man he would at once abandon the army and take priestly orders. He kept his word, for on the close of the campaign he assumed the clerical robe and died some six years later in an odor of sanctity.

If the dog approaches the post, as dogs sometimes will on business intent, the cat promptly drops on his back and gets a firm grip on hair or hide as the case may be. The dog lets out up the street or down the street, whichever way he was headed, or the shortest way home, as if the devil himself had got him, instead of a plain cat of feminine gender. She seems to enjoy the free ride, and finally drops off, the dog never stopping to say good day.

A Real Good Time.

First Matinee Girl—Did you enjoy the play this afternoon?

Second Matinee Girl—I never enjoyed anything half so much. Why, there wasn't a minute I wasn't crying my eyes out.

"Oh the perfidy of mankind," sighed the little Miss Dresden. "Here Mr. Timmidy has sent me a valentine with a verse beginning, 'Oh, the earth has no treasures too costly for thee,' and when I took it to the store to see what it cost they told me it was twenty cents last season, but marked down to eleven."

THE SECRET OF EXPRESSION

Various Things That Help to Make a Woman's Face Attractive.

Many of the most fascinating women of history have been without a single beauty of feature. Therefore their attraction must have depended on expression, either inborn or acquired. Its subtleties depend as much on temperament as on education. A perfectly irregular face is sometimes magnetic by reason of its animation and earnestness.

Irregularity of that kind is preferable to a beautiful and immobile countenance that smiles perpetually like an everlasting blue sky. There is only a hair line between repose and stagnation and one is as pleasing as the other is dull.

It is the quality, rather than the quantity of the mind that affects expression. Excessive brain work is detrimental—it strains and contorts the features, tightens the lips, wrinkles the forehead and dulls the eyes, but on the other hand where beauty is absent a certain amount of brain work will add it to the face for the eyes gain depth and earnestness, the nose becomes determined, and the shapeless lips and jaws grow powerful. Expression to be really beautiful must correspond with and enhance the individuality already expressed.

Violet temper renders the eyes dry and staring, making them devoid of that clear serenity which is so charming. Concentrated thought and pessimism, jealousy or discontent, deprive the mouth of its mobility and compress the lips to a thin line in time. Cynicism has a lasting effect on the corners of the mouth.

No matter how ugly a face is, it may come to possess rugged grandeur and homely sweetness, but neither of these is to be obtained by those who frivol, vacillate or have no appreciation for the higher things of life and the larger emotions. A pretty expression, a poor mind and a shallow heart cannot add to the expression of a face. —Chicago News.

A True American.

He was one of the most peculiar characters of the many who lived in the woods of the Northwest, was John Bordine, and most of all he was a squaw man. His wife was an old Pottawatomie squaw, and it was very hard to believe that a man like Bordine, with a college education and the refinement of a good family, could live with such a person, but he did live with her until he died, and they seemed to be much more contented than many apparently more congenial married couples. John Bordine was a foreigner, but he had adopted America first as his home and then as his own country.

There were plenty of persons who said that he laid claim to being an American because he believed that as an American he could sell more skins and could more easily collect bounties paid for wolves, etc.

It was in the spring of 1880 that sentiment against John Bordine, the squaw man, changed. There was away north of the Menominee reservation a soldier buried. Above this grave John Bordine planted an American flag, a very curious emblem, but it was the nearest approach to the Stars and Stripes that Bordine's limited wardrobe and that of his squaw wife could furnish. Bordine had taken a part of his squaw's old, faded blue gingham skirt. This he made into his flag, as the field of stars, and the stripes were alternate stripes of white linen and red flannel.

A hunter found the flag floating over the grave, and it was Bordine's squaw who told him how it was placed there and how Bordine had fired his gun three times over the grave, and then the hunter knew that the squaw man had remembered what he had forgotten, Memorial Day. Bordine refused to take any credit for his act of patriotism, and to the day he died longed for a chance to fight for his new country. He is dead now, and on a plain headstone is written, "Here lies John Bordine, a patriotic American."

Bees Leave Town by Train.

A great swarm of bees made their appearance one morning on Canal street and for a time practically took possession of the "starter's stand" at the corner of Bourbon and Canal streets. Starter Hodge is unable to say from what direction they came, but volunteers the statement that they made themselves perfectly at home while his guests. For a time he was apprehensive lest he might be compelled to "shut up shop," but it soon developed that the mission of the little insects, whatever else it might be, lay not in the direction of harm; so that Mr. Hodge's attention to business was uninterrupted, and the bees, while attracting a great deal of attention, were not molested. Indeed, they commanded the perfect respect of everyone.

Later the honey-gatherers boarded the West End train in a body and went to the lake, where they probably colonized. For a time their presence on the cars made the passengers somewhat nervous; but when it was explained by the conductor that the bees were harmless unless attacked, conditions improved and confidence was restored.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Wire Nails and Old Nails.

Careful experiments made at Cornell University are said to show that: "First, cut nails are superior to wire nails in all positions; second, the main advantage of the wire nail is due to its possessing a sharp point; third, if cut nails were pointed they would be thirty per cent. more efficient in direct tension; fourth, wire nails without points have but one-half their ordinary holding power; fifth, the surface of the nail should be slightly rough, but not barbed—barbing decreases the efficiency of cut nails about thirty-two per cent." The pointed end enables the nail to enter wood without breaking its fibre excessively, thus preserving its grip. A serious defect of wire nails is their readiness to rust. They are made generally of a sort of soft steel, and steel rusts more readily than some other forms of iron. In some parts of the country, it is said, shingles put on with wire nails drop off after six or eight years.—Baltimore Sun.

The Hastings' Dam.

The Hastings Star says. Mr. C. Gordon, foreman on the Trent Valley Canal, arrived in town on Monday, and as soon as timber can be provided, begins work on the dam, which, with several sluiceways, will be extended to the north side. When completed it will perfect control of the water in spring. The two new gates for the locks built last winter, will also be put in their places.

Shooting Ducks Out of Season.

Strong complaint is made by local sportsmen, says the Review that considerable shooting of ducks is going on down the river by parties who ostensibly go out fishing, but who carry a gun in the canoe to take a crack at the ducks on the sly. A week ago Sunday two men were seen shooting at ducks a little distance up one of the creeks running into the river, and very early last Thursday morning others were at it a short distance above Hale's bridge. As the season does not open until the middle of next month, this shooting is illegal and those doing it are liable. A stop should be put to such work, and all sportsmen are urged to see that information be given, if in their knowledge, that will lead to the punishment of those who disregard the law. Ducks are plentiful this year, and good sport is promised in the fall if they are let alone.

He offers to fill another term—for one year, it is presumed—for a salary of $250. The man is cheap at double the money, if the average of stray cows keeps up anywhere near the record. never be satisfactory while the hall was under the care of Montgomery and MacFarlane.

Ald Oke agreed with Ald Dawson, and took much pleasure in seconding the resolution.

Ald Sawers thought that Ald Dawson had shown animosity against driver Montgomery and had on this as well as on previous occasions, brought Chief Rutherford to his assistance in order to secure his aims.

Ald Dawson denied this allegation and stood on his dignity. Ald Sawers—"Very well, we will leave it at that, but I think Montgomery is so thoroughly an honest man that the town should endeavor to retain him by all means.

Ald. Dawson replied that he believed Montgomery to be thoroughly honest, but if he will not do what is required of him by the council, he must be relieved.

The mayor concurred with Ald Dawson's, remarks, whose resolution being put to vote. Carried.

Ald. Sawers insisted on the Ayes and Nays being taken which resulted as follows:—

Ayes—Ald. Dawson, Robertson, Denne Roger and Oke.

Nays—Ald. Corkery, Clinkscale, Sawers and Weir.

ADDITIONAL SIDEWALK.

Mr. A. Gough here petitioned council to have an additional piece of sidewalk on Belmont avenue added to the contract let to Messrs. Evans and Longford.

The matter was referred to the Board of Works with power to act.

NEW HYDRANTS.

A question of placing hydrants on several outlying streets was referred to, the Board of Works.

SIDEWALK BY-LAW.

A by-law to authorize the execution of a contract with Evans & Langford, for the construction of granolithic sidewalks, came up for reading.

At this juncture, Ald Sawers objected to the by-law being passed on the ground that these specifications as let to Evans & Langford called for an inferior sidewalk at a saving of but seven eighths of a cent per foot cheaper than the first class sidewalk tendered on by Mr. Hayes last month, which means, he saw a loss to the town of $974.07 on this work by reason of the extraordinary reduction in the quality of the walk called for by the present specifications.

Ald Dawson thought that Ald Sawers had a big engine behind him driving him onward.

Ald Weir agreed with Ald Sawers. He had been given to understand we should save from three to four cents per foot by reducing the quantity and quality of the ingredients, but now he finds the saving to be only seven-eights of a cent and that for a third rate walk.

The mayor here said he was prepared to prove by the highest authority that the sidewalk to be let to-night will a far superior those called for in previous specifications. Touching the sidewalk on Water street, the same could have been built for eleven cents a foot by running it on the boulevard, which would have done away with the necessity of constructing a curb. The contract about to be let, he argued, is too expensive for outside streets. Why do we want to put a more expensive sidewalk where there is very little traffic. Now he, like Ald. Weir and Sawers knew nothing of granolithic sidewalks, but took his stand on the authority of an expert at present downstairs, and he maintained that no alderman had a right to come here with the figures unless backed by competent authority. He, like all others in the council, was simply actuated by a desire to save expenditure, and he claimed we have better walks in Peterborough than they have in Toronto.

Ald Sawers' motion to refer by-law was here vote on, and lost. The by-law then passed its several readings.

Ald Rogers here remarked that the discussion on this matter had brought to light the fact that all sidewalks built outside the trees cost one third more than those constructed inside the trees He thought it a pity the public did not more generally understand this fact, as many petitions were being received for walks outside the trees, which necessitated the construction of a curb, thus adding one-third to the expenditure of the work

The mayor agreed with Ald Rogers and reiterated his claim that we are now getting a better sidewalk built at less expenditure than last year. He claimed that additional cement did not of necessity strengthen the walk.

STREET REPAIRS.

The chairman of the Board of works was authorized to arrange for having repaired the stop holes on Aylmer and King street and the dangerous condition of roads on Conger and Reid streets.

ALD. OKE'S FAREWELL

Ald. Oke here in a few well chosen words thanked the Council for granting him leaf of absence for three months during his trip to Glasgow as inspector of Canadian fruit.

Ald Rogers thought the appointment received by Ald Oke reflected great credit not only on the Council, but on the town. He also felt sure the Government would be well served by their departing colleague.

The Mayor, Ald Dawson and Denne, also compliment Ald. Oke on the honor conferred upon him and eulogised him as a very painstaking and capable alderman, whom the town would miss

The Council then adjourned.

A Runaway.

One of Mr. Robert Leary's horses, driven by a young son of Mr. Earnest Lawrence took fright at the steam roller yesterday afternoon, on Water street, and bolted. In its career it collided with Miss Walton's phaeton, in front of the post office, with the result that the phaeton was badly smashed. Fortunately no one was in it at the time. The small boy escaped unhurt.

The Price of Bread.

Editor Morning Times.

Dear Sir.—I notice in your issue of Saturday, a letter under the above heading, signed by a "Town Baker," in which I am evidently aimed at, because I handle Toronto bread. If I am the person meant, the insinuation that the people of Peterborough are being deceived in the idea that they are getting cheaper bread is unfound. The facts are these. I have been regularly appointed sole agent in Peterborough for the bread made at Weston's "Model Bakery," Toronto. This manufactures eight varieties of fancy bread, and I handle all of them. There can, be no deception of the customer, who knows that he or she is buying fancy bread, because the name of the baker, the name of the bread, and the exact weight of the bread, are marked on each loaf, and the customer knows exactly what weight of loaf he is buying. "Town Baker' in his letter, is hardly fair, for he compares an ordinary Peterborough four-pound loaf with the fancy loaves I sell. He must know as fact that the fancy bread loaves made in Peterborough are not of the weight of four pounds. It could not be expected that with extra ingredients the market could sell a fancy loaf of the same weight as an ordinary loaf, for the same price. I simply drop you this line to protect myself from misrepresentation, and should be obliged if you will be so good to insert it as a reply to the letter of "Town Baker."

Japanese Bid for a Husband.

This is the form in which a young woman advertises in a Japanese paper for a husband—"I, the undersigned, am a pretty girl, with abundant hair, flowerlike face, perfect eyebrows and a good figure. I have money enough to take life easy and to enable me to spend my years with some beloved man who will ever be my companion, and who can admire the flowers with me by day and the moon by night. If any clever, accomplished, handsome and fastidious gentleman is disposed to accept this offer I can assure him that I will be true to him for life, and that after life is over I will be ready to be buried with him in one grave."

KRUGER WILLING TO SURRENDER

If Promised Careful Treatment-Heavy Fighting on Elands River Commenced on Sunday.

THE CANADIAN TROOPS JOIN GEN. KITCHENER

Who has a Force South of the Vaal River—Boers Attack the Garrison at Eland's River—Harrissmith has Surrendered.

Kroonstad, Aug. 7.

Commandant Theron who commanded the Boer flying patrol that derailed and burned last week near Honing Spruit The train carrying United States Consul Stowe and flying the stars and stripes has suffered a loss of three killed and 10 severely wounded. In a rear guard action near Kroonstad with the Mounted Infantry the British sustained no losses.

London, Aug. 7.—Lord Roberts reports to the War Office, under date of Pretoria, Aug. 6, as follows;

"Harrismith surrendered on August 4. The neighboring country seems to be quiet. Kitchener is with the force south of the Vaal river. He was joined yesterday by a strong detachment of Brabant's Horse and the Canadian Regiment.

"The Boers attacked the garrison at Eland's river on the morning of August 4. Information was sent to Carrington, who was on his way to Eland's River. Ian Hamilton, who reached Rustenburg yesterday, reported hearing heavy firing in the direction of Eland's river. To-day the firing seems more distant, which looks as if the Eland's river garrison had been relieved and was retiring towards Zeerust."

It is stated positively at Pretoria that President Kruger is willing and anxious to surrender, provided a satisfactory promise is given as to his ultimate destination.

Railway communication with Natal has been re-established by Gen. Macdonald's capture of Harrismith.

On a Special Mission.

Cape Town, Aug. 7.—The United States consulate here has received no direct communication regarding the Boer attack upon the train carrying United States Consul Stowe, but Sir Alfred Milner, the British High Commissioner has been informed that those who were captured by the Boers were released at the request of Mr. Stowe, who it is stated, is proceeding to Pretoria on a special mission of a political character.

Their Days Numbered.

London, Aug. 7.—A special despatch from Pretoria says; General Lord Kitchener has narrowed the circle around De Wet and Steyn by driving out the enemy from one of the flank positions which he held.

Cape Town, Aug. 7.—Railway communication with Natal has been re-established by General MacDonald's capture of Harrismith.

Heavy fighting at Eland's river commenced on Sunday and continued Monday, No details are obtainable, but it is believed that General Carrington and General Ian Hamilton relieved the garrison at Rustenberg, which is retiring to Seerust.

OUT OF SIGHT FOR YEARS

A Famous Fenian Returns to the Surface-The Slayer of Informer Talbot.

New York, Aug. 7.—Bellevue Hospital's patient, "Michael Dunn," who has been identified as Robert Kelly, *the Fenian who dropped mysteriously from sight in 1880, when he was pardoned after having served nine years of his sentence of fifteen years for shooting Thomas Talbot, an English secret service officer, yesterday related the story of his crime, says the New York World. He says.—

"I belonged to the Dublin Circle of the Irish Revolutionary Brotherhood. Talbot came in 1869, and soon won a place in the upper councils. Not until 1871 was any suspicion directed against him. Yet every movement planned by the order had been mysteriously balked by the English Government. When suspicion was directed against Talbot he was shadowed day and night. The evidence against him was convincing, and it was decided to do away with him.

"We drew lots, I saw a mark under my name. I knew what it meant. The next day I watched at the Government building near Hardwick park. Talbot came up with two constables. I dodged into a doorway in Temple street, fired and ran. Talbot dropped. His companions chased me. I shot one, William Sherwood, but they caught me.

"I was freed from the charge of murder because William H. O'Leary, a medical expert, proved to the jury that my bullet had not caused death, but that the surgeon in Hardwick Hospital, in probing for the bullet, had severed an artery and thus killed Talbot. I got fifteen years, but was pardoned in 1880. I came to New York in 1882, and hope to end my days peacefully here. But before I die I hope to see Ireland free."

A SUDDEN CALL.

Mr. John J. Hall, Collector of Inland Revenue, died Very Unexpectedly Yesterday.

Yesterday at one o'clock the public were greatly shocked to hear that one of our most highly esteemed and respected citizens Mr. John J. Hall, was found dead on the floor of his office in the Custom House by Mr. Rudkins, on his return from dinner. The deceased gentleman came down town as usual in the morning, but complained to Mr Rudkins, Deputy Collector of Inland Revenue of not feeling in his customary health, and remarked that owing to the excessive heat he would take things easy. The two worked side by side until nearly noon when Mr. Rudkins left for dinner, little thinking that his esteemed chief was so near his last hour. On his return Mr. Rudkins had intended to have Mr. Hall driven home, which he had frequently done on previous occasions, under similar conditions he was startled however on entering the office to find Mr Hall lying on the floor, in an apparently lifeless condition, having evidently fallen from the high stool upon which he had been sitting, for the stool was found overturned.

Dr Young was at once called, and Coroner Gray notified. The death was pronounced to be due to heart failure, accelerated perhaps by the excessive heat prevailing for the last two days.

The members of the deceased's family who were at home, were immediately notified by Dr Young of the sad occurrence and the body removed to the family residence.

John J. Hall, Collector of Inland Revenue, was a son of the late John Hall, the oldest pioneer in the county of Peterborough, who settled near Buckhorn in 1820 having come to Canada from Cootehill County Cavan, Ireland. He was also a brother of the late Judge Geo. B. Hall. The deceased was born in Brooklyn, N. Y., but was educated chiefly in the district school. Peterborough, subsequently he was for five years employed in a large New York importing house, but returning to Peterborough in 1847, entered business here and was appointed Division Court Clerk. In 1854 he resigned this position and went back to New York, but three years later he again returned to Peterborough, and once more received his old appointment of Division Court Clerk. This he held until 1876, when he was appointed to the position of Collector of Inland Revenue. For many years Mr. Hall was an officer of the militia—his first commission bearing the signature of the Earl of Elgin, then the Governor-General. His wife, who was a daughter of the late Abraham Parsons of New York, predeceased him some years ago. Four children survive, viz., Mr. Kelsey Hall, who is at present away on a trip to the Eastern Provinces, and Misses Amelia, Dorothy and Adelaide, all of whom reside at home.

The deceased gentleman was exceedingly courteous and affable in all business transactions, and leaves behind him a large circle of friends and acquaintances, who well extend their sincerest sympathy to the bereaved family in their sad and sudden affliction.

WEATHER NOTES

The heat wave now prevails over the greater part of Ontario, while in the other provinces the temperature is quite moderate. The weather is comparatively cool and showery in Algoma and the Ottawa Valley; 90 was recorded Monday at Toronto, 92 at Detroit, and 90 at Parry Sound, 94 at Peterboro

Light to moderate winds, mostly fine and very warm, with thunderstorms in a few localities.

AN IRISH M. P. MISSING AT NEW YORK

Hon. James Boothby Burke Roche Left his Hotel in New York Three Days ago and Cannot be Found.

New York, Aug. 7.—While of course there may be a reasonable explanation for it, the Hon. James Boothby Burke Roche, member of Parliament has apparently disappeared. For almost three months his friends in the city have not heard from him, and no word from him has reached his hotel. While in this city, and in fact while in this country, he always stays at and makes his headquarters at the Holland house. This year he arrived in America in April, and took rooms as usual at the Holland House. About the middle of May, Mr Roche casually said to the clerk at the desk that he was going out of town for two or three days, but that his room was not to be disturbed or changed. From the time of Mr Roche's disappearance up to today the hotel people had received no word, either direct or indirect, from the missing man. They are seriously alarmed over his absence, and fear that he may have met foul play or that some harm has befallen him. Among Mr Roche's interests in this country was a charter from the Canadian Government to erect a telegraph line from a point on the Canadian Pacific Railway through to Dawson City, or some other point in the Klondike gold region. He paid frequent visits to Washington while here, it was supposed for the purpose of securing Governmental authority to extend his line into Alaska.

Hon. James Boothby Burke Roche is the second son of the first Baron Fermoy. He was born on July 28, 1850, and since his brother, the present Baron Fermoy, is childless, in the course of time either he or his eldest son will probably succeed to the Barony. Mr. Roche is very well known in this country, having lived here off and on for many years. In company with Morton Frewen and John Leslie he punched cattle for a while in the seventies in Wyoming. Burke Roche married on September 22, 1880, Frances, daughter of Mr. Frank Work of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Roche lived together for some years, but finally separated, it was said, by mutual consent. In 1891, the Superior Court at Wilmington, Del., granted Mrs. Roche a divorce on her petition. The children are Cynthia Burke, born April 10, 1884, and Edmund Maurice and Francis George "twins", born on May 10 1885. Edmund Maurice will some day in all probability be Baron Fermoy. Burke Roche was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge, where he took the degree of B. A. in 1873 and M. A. in 1876. He has sat as member of Parliament for Kerry County, East Kerry Division "N", since March, 1896. Mr. Roche is a good-looking man. He is tall, standing 6 feet 2 inches, has clearly cut, finely chiselled features and prominent Irish blue eyes. He wears a long, sweeping moustache. He does not look unlike the pictures of the Marquis de Gallifet, until recently the French Minister of War.

How They Killed Two Canadians and Wounded Three--Bravery of Rocky Mountain Boys in Keeping Boers at Bay.

London, Aug. 7.—A party of Boers near Standerton, notified the English officers commanding at Watervaal, of their willingness to surrender. Fifteen of the Strathcona Horse sent to accept the submission of the officer in charge. When the Strathconas approached the rendezous, in extended order, the Boers opened fire. A sergeant, who had raised a troop in Canada, rallied his men. Doing so he rode among the Boers, who demanded his surrender.

"Never!" cried the sergeant who, while turning his horse, was shot dead. The Canadians lost two dead and three wounded out of a party of twenty-two

HUNGARIAN FARMERS COMING

Have Preference for Ontario if Land Can be Secured at Reasonable Price-

Three distinguished looking gentlemen called to see Hon. G. W. Ross, and Hon. E. J. Davis this morning about New Ontario. They were Otto Thorning, secretary of the Austro-Hungarian Consul-General, Montreal; Nicolas de Struve Consul Imperial de Russia au Canada, and Alajos Pelkert, Royal Hungarian Agricultural Commissioner at Washington.

They found neither Mr. Ross nor Mr. Davis in, and they explained their intentions to Mr Gibson acting Deputy Commissioner of Crown Lands. They said that a large number of Hungarian farmers are desirous of coming to Canada, and have a preference for Ontario if land can be secured at a reasonable price. Mr. Gibson furnished the deputation with particulars about New Ontario.

HARD TO BELIEVE.

Canadians Reported to be Sent to Prison For Treason.

Ottawa, Aug. 6.—A terrible story affecting the honour of the men of the 1st Battalion Canadian Mounted Rifles, is told in a letter received by an Ottawa gentleman to-day from his son, who is a trooper in the regiment. The letter is dated Pretoria, July 6th

It states that two men of the Canadian Mounted Rifles, originally drafted from the Royal Canadian Dragoons, have each been sentenced to ten years' imprisonment for one of the worst offences known in warfare.

It is said that they forged Lord Roberts' name to a commanding order which they executed upon a number of Boer farmers. As a result they secured arms and a large quantity of supplies, and the story goes that they then sold them to Boers in the field.

HE'LL TRY TO LIVE ON FIFTEEN CTS. A DAY

President of the University of Chicago Will Make an Experiment on Living Like a Chinamen.

Chicago. Aug. 7.—President Harper, of the University of Chicago, is going to see whether it is possible, as has been claimed, that students of the university can live well on 15 cents worth of food a day; He has been greatly interested in the discussion regarding the possibility of living and paying all university expenses on $300 a year.

The other day he remarked to a party of friends that he was determined to try for one week to see if he could provide his family table at an expense of 15 cents a day for each member, according to schedule.

THE ALLIES LOST FOUR HUNDRED

65 Were British--The Japanese Artillery did Splendid Service.

THEY PAID HEAVY PRICE FOR THE VICTORY

Attack Made at Daylight on Sunday and the Fighting was Fierce—The Allies Advance in the Face of a Hot Fire.

Shanghai. Aug. 7.

The Japanese Consuls received by wire today a message to the effect that the foreign ministers at Pekin were safe Aug 1, but that they expected a renewal of the attack by the Chinese at any moment. It was added that only twenty five cartridges each and six days provisions were left. It was also said that the Japanese secretary had died of his wounds.

The Chinese Forced to Retreat

London, Aug. 7th.

A special despatch from Shanghai dated to-day says it is reported that heavy fighting took place last Sunday east of Peitang the allies losing 400 of whom 65 were British. The Japanese artillery did splendid service in the face of a galling Chinese cross-fire under which they lost heavily. The Chinese were forced to retreat but saved their guns Their rear guard was attacked and practically destroyed.

125,000 Additional Troops

London.—The Chinese Minister at London Sir Sheck Chen Fen Lah says he has received a telegram from China, announcing that a long Imperial Edict issued on Aug. 2 authorising immediate and safe conveyance of all Europeans in Pekin to Tien Tsin several despatches are printed giving hearsay accounts of Sundays battle. The Daily Mails correspondent at Chefoo telegraphing Monday says. The fighting lasted several hours and the allies when my report left, were pursuing the Chinese, but owing to the floods traveling was difficult, thus the Chinese will have time to reform and to recover from the effects of battle. Only a small garrison with fourteen guns remains at Tien Tsin were some anxiety is felt because of a report that 15,000 Chinese are said to be moving to-days march to the southeast. All the correspondents agree in praising the bravery andorganization of the Japanese but none of them bring the story much beyond Gen. Shafoo's report. The Shanghai correspondent of the Daily Mail confirming the massacre of missionaries at Chuchow Fu says that two American women were among the victories. The Sebastopol correspondent of the Daily Graphic asserts that the Russian Government will send 125,000 additional troops from Odessa to the far east before the end of this year.

Another Conger Message.

New York, Aug. 7.—The Journal and Advertiser prints under Shanghai date a despatch purporting to give the wording of a message from Minister Conger, received by Colonel Meade of the Marine Corps from a native runner. It reads.—

"Help at once, if at all. Besieged in British Legation. No Government in Pekin except military chiefs, who are determined on the destruction of foreigners."

Though the message is undated it is believed to have left Pekin within a few days, as its reference to the military chiefs being the only government tallies with the late reports of the ascendancy of Li Ping Heng and Prince Tuan and their slaughter of two-pro-foreign members of the Tsung Li Yamen.

In the papers of the Viceroy at Tien Tsin there was found a receipt for 100 taels paid to the Boxers for the head of Major Waller, of the United States marines, who was killed at the first battle of Tien Tsin.

CHINESE NEWSPAPERS.

Pekin Gazette Probably Oldest Paper in the World—100 Years Old—Most of Them Have Foreign Editors.

Journalism, as we understand it, is not as extensively carried on in China as with us, but it appears that the press has already become a power to be reckoned with.

The oldest paper in China, and probably in the world, is the Peking Gazette. It publishes official notices and gives some news, but without comment. It dates at least seven hundred years back. A study of its columns reveals better than anything else the official corruption of China, for the publishment of corrupt mandarins, as related in the news columns, is ridiculously inadequate. All other Chinese newspapers are published in the treaty ports. The reason is obvious. Under the protection of foreigners the publishers and editors are secure from prosecution. Many of these papers have foreign contributors, and some have foreigners as "dummy" editors, to prevent interference. The Shencombats corruption and abuses of all sorts and is very influential. More than once it has caused unjust decrees to be declared null and void, and it has done much to lessen the application of the torture in Chinese courts. Its collections for famine sufferers, etc., are always successful. More than once the viceroys have tried to suppress it. The viceroy of Cheh-Kiang, whom the paper once attacked, complained to the Tsung-Li-Yamen. But the Foreign Office consed to supress it. The viceroy of "Moreover," said Prince Kung, "it is very interesting. We read it ourselves here in Peking." Even the Empress is reported to taste of this forbidden fruit.

Advertising is carried on to a great extent in the Chinese papers, for the Chinese have not been slow in discovering the value of this method of improving business. The foreign news is meager. The "answers to correspondents" are important and very interesting, and the local news is extensive.

Some of the Chinese papers are very decided jingoes, and the present troubles are doubtless in part due to their efforts. They teach their readers to regard everything Chinese as the best, and to look upon everything foreign as inferior. During the Franco-Chinese war these jingoes were in their element. They described battles which had never taken place, and invented Chinese victories and deeds of powers. The barbarians" and "foreign devils" were, of course, always beaten. Nobody showed real courage except Chinamen. To increase their influence and circulat'on the Chinese editors do not scruple to pander to the overweening selfesteem of their readers. On the other hand they managed to obtain liberal contributions from their subscribers, those resident in foreign countries being most willing to assist the Government with funds.

A WOMEN'S STORY OF RUSSIAN BRUTALITY

Wife of British Commissioner of Customs at Tien Tsin Tells a Thrilling Tale.

San Francisco, Aug. 7.—A story of Russian brutality in China is told by Mrs. E. B. Drew, wife of the British Commissioner of Customs at Tien Tsin, who arrived from the Orient on the transport Logan. She says.—

"During the bombardment we lived most of the time in the cellar of our house. Our house was partially wrecked by big shells. Sleep was out of the question most of the time, and so unstrung were we that but little food satisfied us. There was ever present the haunting fear of the Chinese triumphing and slaughtering every foreigner and convert.

"Some, probably all of the women, were prepared to act in case the Chinese effected an entrance. But it appears the allied officers also were prepared to act. I did not know it at the time, but I learned later that ten or twenty men had been detailed to kill all the foreign women in case the Chinese were the victors."

Mrs. Drew, with much indignation, then spoke of atrocities committed by Russian troops, saying.

"They pillaged, looted, tortured and murdered right and left. There were many infants and children killed by bayonet thrusts. And many were tossed from bayonet points, only to be caught and again tossed time and time again. There is ample evidence of these unspeakable occurrances.

"Out from Tien Tsin, along the Pei Ho and Yellow River are numerous little villages. The Russians swept through the villages destroying life and property. The Russians also drove women and children into the Pei Ho and Yellow Rivers, where they were drowned.

"There was no attempt at concealing any of the remarkably barbarous conduct. I do not pretend to say how many women and children were butchered by the Russians. I never heard the number estimated save that a great many had been bayonetted and some shot.
